CSUSB
CSUCSPA met here

Editor’s Note: The CSUCSPA meeting occurred shortly after the PawPrint ceased publication last fall. The CSUCSPA has subsequently met in Cal State, Fresno, Dec. 11 and 12. We’re still waiting for a story on that. Since the CSUCSPA has, among other items, a paid, full-time lobbyist in Sacramento representing the student governments of the California State Universities and Colleges System, we’ve decided to run the story, even if it is “old news.” This story was mailed out to student newspapers of the other State Universities and Colleges in California.

By Jim Austin

The California State University and Colleges Student Presidents Association (CSUCSPA or SPA) held its monthly meeting at California State College, San Bernardino Nov. 28 and 29, 1976. The SPA grappled with continuing issues and ever-present crises such as rights of student newspapers to editorially endorse political candidates and ballot issues, limitations of college presidents’ control over student body funds, funding for instructionally related activities (IRA), acquiring and maintaining student majorities on student union boards, increasing the student voice in retention, promotion, and tenure (RPT) of faculty, and the acquisition of temporary buildings on campuses.

The SPA also confronted internal problems to work through funds ($8,068) and the status of a delegation from a non-member state university which up to recently had no student government.

Scott Plotkin, the SPA legislative advocate in Sacramento, said at the meeting, “It should be noted that to my knowledge, all of the student newspapers of the University of California currently do have the ability to endorse political candidates or propositions.” He proposed supporting legislation to allow the same for the student newspapers of the CSUC system. The proposal was narrowly defeated.

The SPA voted to oppose the AB 3039 Task Force recommendation to allow college administration to hold student referendums on increased fees for IRA should state funding for IRA (provided by AB 3116 passed by the California Legislature in 1975) be discontinued. The disbursement of such fees would be controlled by the college administrations.

“I think we’re giving up having the state pay for the IRA activities,” said Kevin Gallagher, student body president at CSC, San Bernardino.

David Ferriss, student body president of CSU, Sacramento, said, “I don’t put anything beyond (college) presidents, Trustees... it would be subject to more power plays.”

AB 3039 was a bill to limit the control of student government funds by college presidents. SPA had previously decided not to lobby for the bill pending efforts to work with the Chancellor’s office. The “3039 Task Force” was organized to find alternative funding of IRA.

On student control of student unions, concern was expressed over the trend away from student control followed by certain college administrations. “I think if the trend continues we’re not going to have any student government,” said Art Robinson, student body vice president from CSU, Northridge.

“If it’s student money, there should be student control, said Don Show, from CSU, Fullerton.

The idea was, however, to pursue the issue through the Chancellor’s office and the CSUC Board of Trustees rather than go through the Legislature as Plotkin warned that the issue might be a “red flag danger type.”

Kevin Gallagher, who represented the SPA before the statewide Academic Senate, reported on his efforts to push for more student input on retention, promotion, tenures (RPT) decisions. “The faculty wants to basically ban anything but RPT. They want it to just dry up and blow away. It’s not going to happen.”

Gallagher pointed out that efforts to increase student input into student affairs were set back by the Roberti Bill which allowed faculty members to see their RPT files, before signing statements submitted by students on the faculty member’s qualifications. Since such statements had to be signed before being considered by any RPT committees, this would allow a faculty member to retaliate against a student for an adverse statement submitted, according to Gallagher.

Another problem discussed was the possibility of making temporary facilities existing. This has had the effect of frustrating various attempts to provide for additional facilities by various student governments. A couple of years ago, CSC, San Bernardino was unable to obtain a grant which was offered for a child care center because of requests for public donations.

ASB committee positions open

There are still vacancies in the A.S.B. government. The following are the committees still requiring bodies.

Student Union Committee: The Student Union Committee is charged by the College President with all and any aspects of the Union project. The project consists of the construction and governance of the $900,000 student union building. The building is to be constructed and maintained exclusively through student funds. The committee is currently deciding such issues as how the facility will be governed, who will occupy space in the facility, and all interior equipment and furnishings.

Openings: One appointed member. Contact Kevin Gallagher.

Sports Committee: The A.S.B. Sports Committee is responsible for establishing sports equipment and purchasing new equipment. The Committee also helps to coordinate the intramural program.

Openings: Ten members and one Chairperson. Contact Kevin Gallagher.

A.S.B. Judicial Board: The A.S.B. government is organized roughly along the same lines as the U.S. Government. The Judicial Board is usually responsible for interpreting the A.S.B. Constitution and By-Laws. The Board is also responsible for resolving conflicts within the A.S.B. government.

Openings: Four positions, including Chairperson. Contact Kevin Gallagher.

Publicity Committee: The Publicity Committee helps promote all A.S.B. activities and services. The Committee works with the A.S.B. Publicity Director.

Openings: Three members. Contact Kevin Gallagher.

ASB President reports

By Kevin Gallagher

A.S.B. President

This article is an attempt to convey the Fall Quarter’s activity of the student government. I will attempt to discuss both the negative and positive aspects of the current administration as objectively as I can. Saving the best for last, initially we shall deal with some of the weaker aspects of the current administration.

(1) Activities: During the Fall Quarter our activities program was not satisfactory. The Activities Committee suffered from understaffing. The result was sporadic, insufficient, and ill-publicized events.

(2) Publicity: This year marked, under my direction, the college president’s recognition of A.S.B. Publicity Director. This was an attempt to centralize all of our various publicity budgets and efforts. Publicity was still insufficient due to a number of student tensions in situations and the creation of new channels of communications plagued our public efforts.

(3) Student Services: Student Services during the Fall Quarter suffered from lack of publicity and an extreme shortage of volunteer help, with which the committee simply can’t function.

In an attempt to switch to a new computerized carpooling system we missed the boat entirely for the Fall Quarter. Primarily due to technical and printing delays.

While the aforementioned topics were dealt with by me and negative aspects of my administration I do not feel that in relationship to previous administrations, we are losing any ground. The standards and goals of the current government are, I feel, significantly higher than previous administrations.

On the positive side the Fall Quarter was in most ways extremely productive.

Fiber used uniquely by 13 southern California artists will be shown in an exhibit entitled "Intersections," which opens Friday, Jan. 7, in the Art Gallery at Cal State, San Bernardino.

The public is invited to a reception at 8 p.m. opening day. Weaving, wrapping, felting, coiling, turning, photo silk screening and quilting are among the techniques in the pieces exhibited.

The works are representative of a cross-section of what is happening in the world of fiber today and illustrate the many ways in which fiber can be used to express personal feeling," says Loretta De La Rosa-Griffith, Cal State art faculty member who has assembled the show.

"Many look at fiber as an artsy-craftsy idea, instead of a further means of expressing creativity. Some who work in fiber have only used traditional techniques — weaving placemats and tablecloths — without much concern for real expression, tending to go on patterns you see in books," Ferris said.

"Hopefully they will consider a different attitude toward fiber, a new way of expressing themselves," De La Rosa-Griffith said.

The SPA finally decided to allow one of the delegates to sit in as an ex officio member.

Ferris: "Your previous press release...

A delegation from California State College, Sonoma, at the SPA meeting seeking membership and voting rights. The student government at CSC, Sonoma, was abolished some years back, and now it is reforming, but not as yet elected a president, vice-president, or any other official or obtain official recognition.

The main opponent of seating the Sonoma delegation was Alan Myers, from CSU, Chico, who, amid cries of "fascist!" from Susie Fox from CSC, Bakersfield, and others, warned that "There is going to be a reaction," if delegates are seated without their status. "My position is not one of vindictiveness," he said. David Ferris answered, "In financial considerations, I'm just as much of a fascist as Alan," and then said that the Sonoma delegates should be allowed a vote anyway.

"If you like, I'll donate the $48 in their name so they'll have an interest," said Don Snow.

The SPA finally decided to allow one of the delegates to sit in as an ex officio member.

James Ferguson, SPA councilor and student body president from San Jose State University, reported on the money which was not accounted for. The amount was $8,068. Ferguson referred to an appointment made with a district attorney's office.

SPA Chairperson Randy Speakman, student body president from San Diego State University, said, "I'm more interested in getting our money back." It was decided to postpone the decision to prosecute pending further investigation.

The following exchange took place over the proposal to write a press release on the matter.

Speakman: "Does anyone object to my writing a press release?"

Ferris: "Yes."

Speakman: "You object?"

Ferris: "Yes."

Speakman: "Why?"

Exiled former Prexy interviewed

Flash!!! Deadline: Uppsala
Seven Ace Pawprint reporter Kilian "Scoop" Tarpaï on assignment in Europe during the trecent academic year filed the following with Reuter after an exclusive interview with Raul Ceja when his self-imposed exile in Sweden is about to end.

About a dollar a glass. The largest part of this goes back to the government in the form of a liquor tax. People are tired of paying this.
They are more interested in a more competitive market instead of the current state controlled market.

Scoop: What is your opinion
about the European feelings concerning the upcoming American elections?

Ceja: The European countries are extremely interested in the results of the elections as Jimmy Carter has consistently showed a lead in the polls and Europeans are worried about what his foreign policies may be. Whereas Gerald Ford's policies were quite plainly outlined for the audiences who have turned onto the televised debates and are aware of the admnistrations policies of the past 2 years. In the European countries the forming of independent personalities is more true today than say perhaps 20 years ago (23 Oct 96 in Hungary.) East Germany is building up quite an expansive trade with western countries. The Eastern European countries are pulling away from Russia quite gradually but the satellites still exist.

Scoop: Moving away from the international scene. Have you any comment about socialized medicine? Will the U.S. system evolve towards its Western equivalent? Mr. Ceja.

Ceja: The socialized medicine system is extremely beneficial to many. But the people who are not often sick or are basically healthy are paying their taxes to support these others, so they don't benefit from the services that they continually pay for. The most negative comment about this system is that the bureaucracy involved with it is tremendous. If a person is sick and decides to go to the health center he may not be able to see a doctor unless of an extreme emergency.

This reporter accompanied Mr.
Ceja to a health clinic because he was feeling ill — he was given an appointment for the following week.

Scoop: How long will you stay in exile?

Ceja: According to what I know
now, I should be back in the U.S. by August or September. It is probably not opportune for me to discuss
this at full time but there are rumors back in California working on this right now. I expect to hear from them soon. (It may be that Raul is talking about his student loan money which hasn't arrived yet.)

Ceja: Yes, after having been student in the foreign study program for three months in Sweden I would say that Governor Brown has certainly received positive statements regarding the program organization and its subsequent shortcomings.

Scoop: How long would you live in Sweden?

now, I should be back in the U.S. by August or September. It is probably not opportune for me to discuss
this at full time but there are
rumors back in California working

Scoop: What is your opinion
concerning the upcoming California State College
system international programs?

Ceja: According to what I know
now, I should be back in the U.S. by August or September. It is probably not opportune for me to discuss
this at full time but there are
rumors back in California working
on this right now. I expect

shortcomings.

Scoop: What role are you playing in the California State College system?

Ceja: I don't actually have any role in the California State College system.

Scoop: Have you anything to say about the California State College
system international programs?

Ceja: I don't actually have any

Nancy Lambrecht created a two-foot by four-foot weaving entitled "Lattice Work." "My felt constructions are an attempt to take an ancient utilitarian fiber-making technique and apply it to contemporary issues in art... My current work deals with creating an object that rides the fine line between painting and sculpture," said Lambrecht.

Steve Boder (second from right) was last Fall's winner of the 1976 CSCSB Turkey Trot and San Bernardino Marathon.

IM roundup

By Lara Deiffenbach

The quarter began on a "fattening" note as the first event was the pie-eating contest.

The winners were Dennis Harper (retaining his title) as one of the biggest mouths on campus and Connie Myers.

As in the pie-eating contest, there was more overall participation than in past years, especially by women, and all persons in individual sports.

"The weekly PawPrint," said Lambrecht.

Dennis McGinnis took honors. Ed Vickers stole the handball title, while the "unbeatable" Mike Locklin took the tennis singles.

Stuart Boden and Marie Albert outran everyone in the race of turkeys. (Oops!) I mean for the turkey.

Hector Guzman and J. C. Wright won the free throw contest.

In "B" league, the "A" league and the "B" league's "A" leaguers, the Missfits, walked away with the honors (very dubious). The Missfit's one bright spot, Diane Bloecher, played well.

De La Rosa-Griffith's works are of raffia, bamboo, silk and canvas. The grasses represent the planet's character or physical energy and the silk represents pure energy impacting the planet. As the two energies come together properly, an alignment is made.

"As I complete each piece it adds to a better understanding of myself, my environment and my own thoughts taking physical form," she said.

The other artists whose work will appear include Holly Burgin, Barbara Nelson, Pamela Atkinson, Doris L. Fox, Margaret Welty and Cindy Miracle.

The show continues until Jan. 27 and may been during the week from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p.m.

PawPrint Survey

This survey is an attempt to find areas where The Weekly PawPrint can be improved.

Students are asked to cut one out, circle the appropriate letters and make desired comments and drop into the ballot box which will be on the ASB table during registration and then on the ASB Book Co-op table in the Upper Commons until Jan. 11.

The results will be reported in the Jan. 18 PawPrint when regular publication resumes.

1. How often is the PawPrint read?
   a. I eagerly await each publication of the PawPrint.
   b. I pick one up each week in hopes of finding something good.
   c. I've glanced at the PawPrint a few times last quarter.
   d. I don't read that shit!
2. What do you think of the quality?
   a. Consistently outstanding.
   b. Ought to be changed. (Any suggestions?)
   c. I'm still waiting to find a decent article.
3. The PawPrint should have more... (multiple responses OK)
   b. Features, human interest, reviews, etc.
   c. Opinion articles.
   d. Announcements of campus activities.
   e. Investigative reporting.
   f. Photo stories.
   g. Interviews.
4. The PawPrint should cover... (Multiple responses OK)
   a. Student events.
   b. State and national news which affects students.
   c. Staff and faculty happenings.
   d. The administration.
   e. The outside community.
   f. State and national news.
   g. Interviews.
   h. The name, "The Weekly PawPrint," is...
   a. adequate
   b. Ought to be changed! (Any suggestions?)

we've got what it takes

for you

HI! My name is Lee Ebert and this year I am your ASB publicity director. My job is to make sure that you are informed well in advance of any school activities. In order to do this well I will need the cooperation of all organizations who are planning activities. Please let me know so that I can help you with your publicity.

Again one of my jobs is to help all the students to get better accepted with their elected representatives. Part of this is being accomplished by giving each ASB officer a badge with the above words on it. Look for this sign as you are walking in it is concerned when you put any problem you may have, stop them and talk to them: they have what it takes to help you.

Please feel free to call my office at any time except on Saturday so I can get informed of activities, how to get in tuch with officers and faculty, and it many other ways.

I have to meet every morning.
