CAL-POLY ON ITS OWN

LOS ANGELES--The 18th California State College was officially established Thursday (October 27) by the State College Board of Trustees.

The Trustees split the campuses of historic California State Polytechnic College into two separate colleges located at San Luis Obispo and Pomona.

The separation was authorized by the State Legislature at its last session. The trustees acted Thursday on the recommendation of State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke.

Official names for the two colleges are California State Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo and California State Polytechnic College, Kellogg Voorhis. The Pomona campus was deeded to the college in 1938 as a gift from Charles B. Voorhis and Jerry Voorhis and expanded in 1949 by a gift from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

Cal Poly was established in 1903 at San Luis Obispo as a statewide college specializing in agriculture and engineering. Dr. Julian H. McPhee, its long-time president, retired last July.

The San Luis Obispo state college has an enrollment of more than 7,700 students. The Pomona college has about 5,500.

In another action, the trustees, concluding a two-day meeting at their Los Angeles headquarters, raised the material and services fee for the system's 170 thousand students from $76 to $90 a year. The raise is effective with the 1967-68 academic year.

There is no tuition (instruction) charge in the State Colleges for California residents attending regular sessions. The material and services fee covers the cost of such services as counseling, testing, activities, health services and administration of student aid programs. State College officials said that the fee was raised to meet an expected deficit of nearly million dollars next year.

The trustees also approved a preliminary master plan for the initial buildings at the 350-acre campus of Cal State, Dominguez Hills.

The initial complex designed for an enrollment of 100 full-time students, to include classrooms, administration area, and other facilities, is expected to be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1967. The college is currently operating in rented quarters adjacent to the permanent campus.

SENIOR OF THE WEEK

BY ROSIE McCLURE

People have different reasons for going to college. Some go to find their place in society, or their vocation, other go to solve their own problems. I would honestly have to say that I'm going to serve God," commented Senior-of-the-Week Mark Mollet recently.

Mark, Senior Class president and a graduate of Riverside City College, has very definite opinions about the current trend toward agnosticism in most schools. He noted that a complete disregard of God is not evident at CSCSB. The attention of humanities discussion and organizations such as the Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship and the Newman Foundation bring opportunities for meaningful dialogue to the student. CSCSB is gaining an atmosphere where a lot of things can be discussed in a mature environment.

Some people think there is a great division between studies and God, when actually both are part of the whole. The trend of some to attend school with a complete lack of purpose, avoiding the real questions of life is unrealistic. Each person should make their own decision, not one made merely by default, either to go it alone or with God.

A History major, Mark feels that College should have an atmosphere of real questioning, a time when everything is relevant in its own perspective. Most people should rearrange their ideas and change many of their opinions.

Presently working as a playground supervisor in Redlands, Mark spends much time participating in student government. Commenting on the current controversy involving the joint meetings of the Executive Cabinet and the Student Senate, he stated, "Mr. John Kirwan seems to think that these joint meetings have no definite purpose. In the joint sessions, we are only discussing, not legislating. If more people would show up to observe these meetings, especially members of the student press, perhaps we would hear comments that are valid."

VOTE YES ON PROP. 2

LOS ANGELES - Thousands of students face the prospect of being denied admission to college unless Proposition 2, the higher-education bond issue, is approved by the voters November 8th.

This was the warning today from Victor H. Palmieri, Los Angeles business executive and California State College trustee who heads construction and site acquisition in the college system. (cont. p. 2 col. 2)

Let us vote no on dances at CSCSB. The students of CSCSB might as well vote to have no dances on this campus. The same thing is accomplished when you do not attend the dances presented on campus. On October 21st, Theta Mu Omega, a men's social service club, spent more than $100 on decorations, refreshments, and a professional band for a dance. The Club members worked approximately 100 hours and faculty sponsors contributed nearly 20 hours. Physical plant men worked many hours to set the stage and to clean up afterwards. In addition, people who had no affiliations with the college lent a punch bowl and soft lights to the dance.

If the students of CSCSB are unwilling to participate in the campus activities, then the faculty, physical plant men, and student organizations cannot be expected to donate their time and money for activities.

Support the activities on campus. Let's have some school spirit.

The October 21st issue invited comments on the College Reading Program. I agree with what has been said-- that the program adds to a burden, which, and I am sure that every student will agree, is already heavy. I laugh when I hear that one of the main reasons for the program is to promote general interest among the students. But the only interest I have heard expressed seems to be a general dislike for the programs. If a plan to promote fellowship is a primary aim of the program, then the administration should select some other activity that would give the students a change of pace from reading.

CAMPUS JOBS STILL OPEN

A large number of part time jobs under the U.S. College Work Study Program are still open, according to Doyle J. Stansel, director of placement and financial aid. CWSP is a program designed to help students with genuine need for aid to meet college expenses. It is supported by state and federal funds.

At this time, only five students are employed on campus and three students are working at an off-campus agency. Positions are available in nearly every department on campus.

To qualify for employment under CWSP, a student must be enrolled in at least 15 units, be in need of assistance either because the parental income is below average or the student is clearly independent of parental help. Married students are eligible if their resources are insufficient to cover normal costs of college and related living expenses. Employees can work up to 15 hours per week during the quarter. Vacation work up to 40 hours per week is also authorized for eligible students.

Interested students are invited to discuss eligibility guidelines with Mr. Stansel in the Placement and Financial Aid Center, in A 148.

In the State Colleges alone," said Palmieri, "these funds will provide classrooms for 20,000 additional students on our already overcrowded campuses. If the voters reject Proposition 2, I can see no choice but to turn away thousands of students since our construction program would come to a virtual halt.

Bond issue funds earmarked for Southland state college campuses includes $56 million to San Bernardino State and appropriate amounts to the other Southern California campuses.

We are counting heavily on nearly $30 million in Federal funds to build additional classrooms," explained Palmieri. "However, these federal grants hinge on matching funds from the State Colleges. If Proposition 2 fails, we also stand to lose this federal support because the State Colleges will not be able to put up their share. There are several college projects in the Southland that would be financed originally from federal funds including San Bernardino-- $901,000.

In addition, Proposition 2 includes the acquisition of three new campuses in the counties of Ventura, Contra Costa, and San Mateo Santa Clara.

SKI CLUB

BY RAY DEVERS

Ski Club elections will be held on Tuesday, November 1st. Last Thursday, Rich Lewis, ski instructor from Snow Valley, conducted the beginners in dry land ski school.

No one as yet has been able to explain the bad weather in recent weeks, but there is hope that a ferocious storm is on its way. It is times such as these that one finds even agnostics with uplifted eyes, sneakily praying for Divine Dandruff (i.e. Snow plus blasphemy).

Someone named John made an anonymous proposal to form an 'After Ski Club,' somewhat of a 'Studentry for the Instigation of Nocturnal Usurpation Society.' Or, perhaps better known as S.I.N.U.S. Well anyway, thanks for the suggestion, John.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER TO SPEAK TUESDAY

Mr. Phil Dreyer, Chairman of the San Bernardino County Democratic Central Committee will speak to the students and faculty of CSCSB on Tuesday, November 1st at 10:30 am in room C-116. Mr. Dreyer's topic is 'Experience Counts.' Mr. Dreyer is considered to be one of the most astute political speakers in our area. He has served as a delegate to national Democratic conventions in the past and as advisor to Presidents and Presidential candidates on California campaigning. Tuesday Mr. Dreyer will be representing Governor Edmund G. Brown and U.S. Congressman Ken W. Dyal. A question and answer period will follow Mr. Dreyer's presentation.

PAWPRINT? What's that?

It's the new name for the student newspaper. The winning selection was chosen by the newspaper staff and presented to the ASB government for official approval.

Rosemarie Gonzalez takes the credit, and the $10 prize, for submitting the winning suggestion.

The PAWPRINT was judged the winner because it allowed a liberal application of the St. Bernard theme and provided many opportunities for artwork and mast-head designs.

The selection of a permanent name for the student newspaper is but one of the many steps which will lead the PAWPRINT to the status of a first class college paper.

Hopefully, the PAWPRINT will be printed by an offset process next quarter. Photography and advertising will be utilized to make the PAWPRINT a proper representative of the college.

Many more improvements still have to be instituted. Unfortunately, the process is slow, and the extent of our labors will not be realized in the near future. The task of establishing journalistic traditions is a difficult one. The responsibility of formulating the right policy is realized when we think of the students who will be managing the PAWPRINT in 1976 or 1986.

This is one of the firsts for the paper. The only way we can go is up. All we can do is get better.

WANTED: ENGLISH CLUB

Students who are interested in forming an English Club are invited to a formation meeting Tuesday, November 1st, at 1:30 pm in L 151. Possible activities could include panel discussions about the senior comprehensive examinations and the curriculum offered at CSCSE, guest lectures, and readings of personal works.

I. C. C. MEETING

A closed meeting of the Inter Club Council will be held on Tuesday, November 1st, at 1:30 pm in Room L-118.

Only Club Presidents, and in special cases, their representatives will be permitted to attend.

Transfer of club funds from private banks to an ASB account will be discussed and voted on.

Jim Penman
ICC Chairman

As a Public Service Message, the PAWPRINT urges the students to exercise their right to vote---tomorrow, November 1. Your student government is as effective as you want to make it.

Article IV, Section 1 of the ASB Constitution reads that, the Executive Cabinet shall consist of the following members: ASB President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and the four class presidents.

The proposed amendment would add another office to those mentioned above. This office would be called ASB Judicial Representative and the duties would consist of being the official parliamentarian of the Executive Cabinet, and coordinator of judicial matters pertaining to both houses of the legislature. The representative would have one vote on the Executive Cabinet.

The need to create this special office is obvious. There now exists, in the Executive Cabinet, eight members and the possibility of a tie vote is evident. However, by creating a ninth position, a tie vote would be impossible and would increase the efficiency of the ASB Cabinet.

I urge you to vote yes on this amendment because it will require a two thirds majority of the voting students to pass the measure

Richard J. Bennecke

WANTED

Students interested in working on technical crews for the Players of the Pear Garden production of The Burnt Flower Bed should contact Mr. Barnes in A 174 by Monday October 31st today.

In spite of the Reading Program's efforts on Thursday night to subvert CSCSB's nation wide TV prop-aganda stunt, The Great Pumpkin Dance was a smashing success.

The showing of Lucky Jim Thursday was indeed a clever attempt to distract the student body's attention from the nation wide Great Pumpkin show, featuring Charlie Brown, Lucy, Snoopy, the Red Baron, et al.

The GREAT PUMPKIN DANCE surpassed all expectations; there was a good turnout, and casual estimate has it that 150 or more people attended.

Carnival festivities started around 8:00 pm with Marriage by the Newman Foundation, penny toss by the CSCSB Motor Enthusiasts Club, water balloons by the Ski Club, and food and refreshments by the Women's Service Club.

Everyone had a good time at the Ski Club's booth (except for the targets. Just wait 'til you snow bunnies get on the slopes for the first time!)

Apparently there has been a number of secret romances going on around campus because a great many 'marriages' were performed at the Newman Foundation booth - where else?

Costumes were something else! Originality plus seemed to be the theme. Prizes went for originality, cleverness, etc. Best boys costume went to Bill Wertz the Repairman. Best gal's went to Rose Crist, dressed as a nun. Best couple's went to Mark Schardt and Judy Torkelsen as King and Queen.

A great deal of time and effort went into all the costumes. But we hope that the winners' efforts were justly rewarded by a free pizza from Shakeys, San Bernardino.

On top of the great activities, costumes, and refreshments, went the crowning touch - the 5 for a Dime - led by Chuck Richardson of Valley College. They did an excellent job and made the whole affair click.
