SHUTTING DOWN
No million dollar ad campaigns here. No high-powered meetings, no high tech. Just citizens marching down to their friendly, neighborhood convenience stores to say, "If you sell cigarettes to our kids, we'll take our business elsewhere." It's a new tack, a grassroots effort sprung straight from the research of CSUSB psychology professor Liz Klonoff and two associates. Two years ago some of the work was published in The Journal of the American Medical Association, and Klonoff was one of several selected to appear at a national news conference recognizing the 30th anniversary of the surgeon general's caveat on smoking. In the spring of 1994, she turned loose 36 children on 72 San Bernardino County convenience stores to make more than 2,500 tobacco buys—incognito. They were 10, 14 and 16, Black, Brown and White, non-smokers trained to buy cigarettes as though they were smokers, specially educated on the hazards of smoking and, in a roundabout way, the hazards of believing in Joe Camel and Madonna, heroes of cigarette chic for the young and the breathless. One would guess most youth score their smokes from home. But the right guess is they head for gas stations, small stores and big stores, which experts have said sell to minors chiefly to make profits. Klonoff's data, however, says not so
Sixteen and ten at the time of the study, Manu and Antonio learned a few things firsthand.

Fast. If money’s the motive, she asks, why did her research show that clerks sold more cigarettes to girls than to boys? Why more to African-Americans than to Caucasians or Latinos? Why older children more than to younger? You want profits, you sell to everyone. Not just girls because they look mature or more responsible; not to African-Americans “just because they ask.” So Klonoff and her crew are trying to convince communities to put kids’ health first—all kids’ health. Ask a kid for her age or I.D. and sales drop drastically. Don’t ask and kids succeed eight percent of the time at buying single cigarettes, at least in Klonoff’s study, and 22 percent of the time at packs. Laugh when a kid asks to buy cigarettes and sales drop then, too. Customers in a store can make a difference that way. But in two-thirds of the attempts made by the children, customers said nothing. They didn’t want to get involved, perhaps. Except to say that a few offered their own cigarettes. As did a female clerk, whose law-abiding senses managed to kick in when one boy asked for a single, at which point she lifted her freshly lit cigarette from an ashtray and handed it to him, careful to observe as she did the letter of the law, while effectively dumping its spirit. Though she may not have had to worry about the law. Out in Marlboro Country, where police have little time to roam, minors have been buying 1 billion packs of cigarettes every year since 1975, when it became illegal to sell to them. In those 20 years, less than 40 violations have been enforced. Licensing stores to sell tobacco is still only an idea right now. And that’s where the old principle comes in—money talks when money walks—applied here not by force of fines but by pressure from parents armed with buttons and posters and the thought of too much to lose. Their children.

Manu:
“If they (convenience stores) can get a kid at a young age to start smoking, then they can get others to start... They don’t care who they hurt.”

Antonio:
UNIVERSITY EMBARKS UPON STRATEGIC PLANNING

Aiming to develop a new approach to university planning, Cal State has created a Strategic Planning Steering Council that will lead the campus in this effort. The council will serve as a standing advisory panel to the president with regard to planning and budgeting issues, notes Vice President Louis Fernandez, chair (Academic Affairs).

The council has developed several categories that it is studying: Diversity, information support, student life, assessment, enrollment management, academic mission/culture, resource management and external interaction.

Each of these areas is being examined for current and future needs with regard to technology, physical support, human resources, organizational structure/governance, fiscal support and vision/mission.

The council and the university seek widespread input into this planning process from leaders and concerned citizens in the community. More information on involvement opportunities is available from Dr. Joseph Lovett, assistant to the vice president for academic affairs for strategic planning, at (909) 880-5037.

ENROLLMENT SWINGS UPWARD, REVERSES TREND

After three years of downturn, Cal State’s student enrollment has reversed its trend. The fall ’95 enrollment is calibrated at 11,984 students which compares to last year’s headcount of 11,866. The full-time student equivalency figures, upon which the university’s budget is based, will exceed the campus’s annual goal by two points as well.

Students also are taking a record number of courses, averaging 11.7 units.

AFFORDABLE CONFIDENTIAL COUNSELING OFFERED

If you’re anxious or depressed, if you’re struggling with a relationship or issues of self-esteem, now you can receive affordable, confidential and qualified care through the Community Counseling Center at Cal State.

Each 50-minute session costs $10; sliding scale rates also are offered. Counseling is conducted by Cal State graduate students under the supervision of Psychology Department faculty. More information is available at (909) 880-5569.

PRE-DOCTORAL STUDENTS BOLSTERED BY GRANT

Twenty-five pre-doctoral students at CSUSB will receive financial boosts from an $800,000, four-year Ronald E. McNair Postbaccalaureate Achievement Program grant.

The new program, which is being coordinated by the Graduate Studies Office, will target low-income African-American and Latino students. Students will be selected from a pool of juniors and seniors currently enrolled at Cal State and from juniors who are transferring from one of the four, local community colleges.

“African-Americans and Latinos are severely underrepresented in careers where a doctorate is a prerequisite,” states the grant proposal submitted by Cal State.

The California State University system has many doctoral incentive programs in place, but still more resources are needed to increase the number of Ph.D.-minded students in the CSU. System experts believe the shortage will reach into coming decades.

Activities planned for the project include seminars spread throughout the year that will tackle issues faced by prospective doctoral students. The program also will offer tutoring, academic counseling, faculty mentoring, special trips and a summer research internship.

YOUNG SCHOLARS TOUR CAMPUS

Fifty regional National Science Foundation “Young Scholars” toured Cal State, San Bernardino’s facilities and engaged in workshops on Oct. 7. Among the presentations that these top high school scholars were exposed to was a debate on ethics in science featuring Richard Fehn, acting chair (Biology) and Susan Finsen, chair (Philosophy).

The event distinguished CSUSB as the first CSU campus to be invited to sponsor the NSF honorary event, which typically is held at a private university.

WINDSWEPT WILDFIRE—Cal State made national news with the wildfire that threatened campus facilities and personnel on Nov. 27. With many buildings made of noncombustible surfaces campus facilities were virtually untouched. The greatest hazard was to the wellbeing of students and employees due to smoke and flying embers, so the campus was closed for a day.
Lee Hanson (Management) has received a faculty professional development grant from CSUSB to fund his work on “Company Ownership of Outlets in Franchise Chains: Identifying Profit, Internal Organization, Market Structure & Industry Determinants.”

Lynn Judd (Marketing) will continue his research in “The Increased Usage of Part-time Employees & Temporary Workers in the Retail Industry” with a professional development grant from the university.

Frank Lin (Information & Decision Sciences) is researching “The Hidden Cost of Distributed PC-Based End-user Computing” through a professional development grant from Cal State.

Nabil Razzouk (Marketing) is serving as a consultant to the San Bernardino Area Chamber of Commerce regarding strategic planning and the image of San Bernardino. He is working to involve City Hall in these efforts, too.

Ernesto Reza (Management) and Harold Dyck

Ernesto Reza (Information & Decision Sciences) presented the paper “A Framework for Understanding the Adaptive Functions of Organizational Linkages and the Transformation of Organizational Configurations in the NAFTA Regime” to the Association of Borderlands Scholars annual conference.

Kenneth Thygerson (Accounting and Finance) presented the paper “Privatization of Centralized Economies: A Case Study” at the Global Finance Association Conference. He also co-authored the paper “A Product Line Performance Appraisal System for Financial Intermediaries,” which was presented to the Midwest Finance Association.

In August, Brian Watts (Public Administration) presented lectures in Finland to the National Police School, National Bureau of Investigation, Central Criminal Police and Community Policing Office of the Department of Police, Ministry of the Interior, as well as to the National Research Institute for Legal Policy. Currently he is serving as the president of the Inland Empire Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration.

Mo Vaziri (Accounting and Finance) spent part of his summer working in the Sticks Trading Room of the Stock Exchange in Paris to study the liquidity of French securities. His visit was by the invitation of the Institute Superior D’Etudes Financieres et D’Ingenierie (ISEFI) and the Centre Serveur de l’information Bousiere of France (CEIB). He also spent time reviewing and enhancing ISEFI’s graduate program in business.

Estimating risk on the Brussels Stock Exchange led to the publication of some findings in the Global Financial Journal for Francisca Beer (Accounting & Finance). A Belgian citizen, Beer wanted to gauge the current estimating formulae’s ability to predict in a “thin market,” such as the Belgian market. Although virtually every European country has its own stock market, new markets are forming in eastern European countries, Beer says, “These emerging stock markets are characterized by light volume...and very thin market capitalization,” she adds. Noting the dynamics of the Belgian market, Beer was able to suggest that current estimating techniques could be improved upon and effect a change in the price adjustment process.
ADVANCED STUDIES, ELEMENTARY/BILINGUAL EDUCATION, SECONDARY/VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Billie Blair (Elementary/Bilingual) and Cheryl Fischer (Advanced Studies) have coauthored the book, Curriculum: The Strategic Key to Schooling, published by Kendall/Hunt.

Lynne Diaz-Rico (Elementary/Bilingual) is developing a “Computer Support for Beginning Teacher Support & Assessment Program” with the help of a mini-grant from the university.

Rosalie Giacchino-Baker (Secondary/Vocational) has received a professional development grant from the university to study the “International Student Teaching Program in Mexicali, Mexico.”

Rowena Santiago (Elementary/Bilingual) has received funding from the university to pursue “A Study of the Effects of Technology Integration on Writing Attitudes of ESL Learners.”

Dwight Sweeney (Advanced Studies) and Kim Clark (Health Sciences & Human Ecology) coauthored with a CSUSB graduate student, D. Silva, the paper, “Meeting the Challenge of HIV/AIDS Prevention Education for Special Education Populations,” which was presented at the 73rd Annual Convention of the Council for Exceptional Children.

Arthur Townley and Dwight Sweeney (Advanced Studies) coauthored with a graduate student, K. Toy, the paper, “Administrators’ Perceived Obstacles to the Full Inclusion of Students with Emotional or Behavioral Disorders,” which was presented at the convention of the Council for Exceptional Children.

Mildred Henry (Advanced Studies) presented her paper “Balancing Theory, Community-based Practice, Cultural Heritage and Survival at a Predominantly White University” at the 20th Annual National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education.

Rowena Santiago (Elementary/Bilingual) is headed toward a master's degree in educational counseling at Cal State with the assistance of a Graduate Equity Fellows grant from Cal State. He plans to go on for a Ph.D. and conduct research on cross-cultural issues. He is particularly interested in the developmental effects of foster care upon children who are separated from their nuclear families due to political upheaval and the achievements of displaced children.

East African native Araya Hiyabu is headed toward a master's degree in educational counseling at Cal State with the assistance of a Graduate Equity Fellows grant from Cal State. He plans to go on for a Ph.D. and conduct research on cross-cultural issues. He is particularly interested in the developmental effects of foster care upon children who are separated from their nuclear families due to political upheaval and the achievements of displaced children.

Sounds a lot like his life. “My large family (13 siblings was decimated when soldiers from the Russian and Ethiopian government herded most of our village into the church, which then bombarded and set on fire,” he reports. He fled Keren, Eritrea to the Sudan, where he lived in a refugee camp for six years. One of the fortunate few to qualify for an education and attend high school in Khartoum, he later was granted political asylum in the U.S. Befriended by a counselor and professor, Christine Flores, at Chaffey College, he earned a degree there and a degree in psychology at CSUSB.

Life Experience Drives Quest

SPRING 94-95
Rafael Correa (Foreign Languages) presented the paper “La iteracion en el espacio literario de Jose Luis Gonzalez” at the Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese.

A CSUSB mini-grant has been awarded to Rong Chen (English) for the project, “Offering in Chinese & Linguistic Politeness.”

Risa Dickson (Communication Studies) presented “Perceived Differences Between Public and Private Explanations for Two Compliance Failures” to the International Communication Association Convention.

Bruce Golden (English) will research “Critics & Their Canon: T.S. Eliot & Northrop Frye” with the help of a mini-grant from the university.

Sant Khalsa (Art) has had several exhibits on display in recent months. In the summer, her work was included among that of 60 Los Angeles-based artists, working with photographic processes, in the exhibit titled, “PLAN: Photography Los Angeles Now.” Khalsa’s contribution was a sculptural work done in collaboration with Charles Morehead, Cal State’s art gallery designer and preparator. Another collaborative effort with Morehead focusing on water usage and development in southern California was exhibited at the Orange County Center for Contemporary Art. This fall, Khalsa had an entry in the show, “Muses,” at the Armory Center for Art in Pasadena that features the collaborative efforts of nine women artists and nine women writers. In a show that opened in early December, a collaborative installation art work with Morehead was featured in the “Landscape: The Continuum” at The Municipal Art Gallery in Los Angeles.

Philip Page (English) has received a faculty professional development grant to assist him with his work on “Contemporary African American Fiction.”

Funding for Meryl Perlson’s (Communication Studies) project “Backtalk: An Interactive Tour of Harassment in Public Places” has been provided by the university.

Dolores Tanno (Communication Studies) has received funding from Cal State for her membership on the task force and planning committee for a 1996 summer conference in Caracas, Venezuela.

MUSIC SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

Robert Oakes, a sophomore music major, is the first recipient of the Arthur Moorefield Memorial Scholarship and Evan Berry is the first to receive a Joseph K. Thomas Endowed Scholarship.

Oakes is a piano major with extensive experience in composition, reports Loren Filbeck, chair (Music). Before arriving at CSUSB, Oakes studied under alumnus Michael Tacchia, ’76. Already he has earned a distinction as the first freshman to present a full solo recital in the history of Cal State’s Music Department.

Berry is “a fine trumpet player who intends to pursue a career in music education,” Filbeck notes.

Both scholarship recipients impressed the awards committee with their musicianship and dedication to musical achievement.

APPRAISING ARTIFACTS—Cal State’s Friends of the Museum presented an Heirloom Appraisal Day in November, offering professional advice for modest donations. Uncrating an object here are (from left) O.E. Spears; Kat Grosman, ’86; Julius Kaplan and Mrs. Margy Spears.
Kimberly Cousins (Chemistry) presented her paper “Computational Chemistry on a Shoestring” to the fifth national conference of the Council on Undergraduate Research. She also has received a mini-grant from the university to study “Computer Methods for Modeling Organoaluminum Compounds.”

Marilyn Cruz-Alvarez (Biology) received a professional development grant from the university to study “Molecular Mechanisms of the Floral Transition.”

Davida Fischman (Mathematics) presented her work “On Generalized Lie Structure of Associative Algebras” to the AMS Special Session on Hopf Algebras & Quantum Groups.

Jennie Gilbert (Physical Education) presented “Fitness Fraud and Fallacy” to the national meeting of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance. She also introduced several public safety officers to the new Human Performance Lab in the Health and Physical Education Complex in November. She tested the body composition of the CSU police officers and presented a seminar on the relationship of physical activity and improved fitness upon the health and performance of police officers.

Michael Loik (Biology) presented his paper on “Drought Tolerance of Artemisia Tridentata Under a Global Warming Manipulation” to the Desert Research Symposium. He also has received a mini-grant from the university to study “Global Warming & High-temperature Tolerance of Plant Seedlings from the Rocky Mountains.”

David Maynard (Chemistry) presented “Allenes in Organic Synthesis” to the American Chemical Society’s national meeting.

Dave Polcyn (Biology) has received funding from the university to research “The Ecological Role of Heat Shock Proteins in Desert Animals.”

A professional development grant has been awarded to Michael Loik (Biology) to assist his work in “Detailed Anatomical Descriptions of Lower Permian Vertebrate Fossils from Central Europe.”

Timothy Usher (Physics) presented “Effects of Ionizing Radiation Upon Ferroelectric Switching in KDP” to the American Physical Society.

Priceless Fossils Acquired

Thousands of bones from Pleistocene-era (15-40,000 years old) animals are on permanent loan to Cal State from the University of California Los Angeles, which had the fourth largest such collection of its kind in the world, reports Stuart Sumida (Biology). Originally retrieved from the La Brea Tar Pits, the bones include skulls of dire wolves, sabre-tooth cats and remnants from many other prehistoric animals. The array will provide invaluable research experience for students who will assemble the relics, says Sumida, who is curating a collection in vertebrate paleontology. “We have enough bones to reconstruct many animals,” he says, noting that once re-assembled, the artifacts will be priceless. The University of California made the donation to Cal State as part of its process of consolidating collections among the UC campuses.
Frances Berdan (Anthropology) received funding from the university to pursue “Aztec Natural History: Reconciling Science & Symbolism.”

Gloria Cowan (Psychology) is researching “Attitudes Toward Hate Speech” via a grant from Cal State.

Joan Fryxell (Geological Sciences) is studying the “Kinematic History of the Vincent Thrust, San Gabriel Mountains, CA” with the help of a professional development grant from the university.

Dale Sechrest (Criminal Justice) presented his paper “Treatment vs. Security: The Adversarial Relationship Between Treatment Facilitators and Correctional Officers” at the Pacific Sociological Association. He also has received a professional development grant from the university to pursue “The Effectiveness of a Lifestyles’ Approach in Keeping Youthful Parolees in the Community.”

David Shichor (Criminal Justice) has received funding from the university to study “Investment Fraud: Organization, Operation, Victimization.”

Mayo Toruno (Economics) presented “Power, Ideology and Economic Policy” at the annual meeting for the Association for Institutional Thought.

Elsa Valdez (Sociology) received a grant from the university to study “Identifying Factors of Attrition & Retention for Latino Students.”

Frank Williams (Criminal Justice) presented “Death Penalty Research, Issues and Questions” to the annual meeting of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. He also presented “Some Comments on Death Penalty Issues” at the annual meeting of the Southern Criminal Justice Association.

Jenny Zorn (Geography) presented “Large Lecture Teaching Ideas” to the National Council for Geographic Education. She also has received a professional development grant from the university to study “Metropolitan Area Variations in Gender Wage Gaps in 1990.”

Brij Khare (Political Science) is researching “Comparative Democracy: The Development of Field Instruments” with the assistance of a grant from the university.

Tom Pierce’s (Economics) paper, “Explaining Individuals’ FOMC Voting Behavior: Politics, Personal Attributes, Experience and the State of the Economy,” was presented at the annual meeting of the Western Social Sciences Association.

LEARNING BY DOING

“As a professional exposed to the problems of juvenile delinquents in our community, I believe that it is important to return the knowledge and experience acquired over the years in the form of care, concern and commitment,” says Arthur Clark, who is in his second year of studying for a master’s degree in social work with the help of a Graduate Equity Fellowship grant from Cal State.

Originally from New Orleans, Clark has worked as a volunteer for youth programs in Los Angeles and Riverside County. He expects to begin doctoral work this spring.
HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

OUR TRIBUTE TO THE MANY FRIENDS WHOSE GIFTS AND VOLUNTEERISM SUSTAIN AND ENRICH THE UNIVERSITY’S ACADEMIC, CULTURAL AND RECREATIONAL PROGRAMS.

This Honor Roll of Donors includes only the names of those donors who made gifts between July 1, 1994 and June 30, 1995.
LAUNCHED IN THE SPRING OF 1992, THE PARTNERSHIP 2000 CAMPAIGN FOR CAL STATE, SAN BERNARDINO WAS ESTABLISHED TO ENSURE EDUCATIONAL QUALITY AND OPPORTUNITY, TO BROADEN THE UNIVERSITY'S AREAS OF ACADEMIC DISTINCTION, AND TO EXPAND FURTHER ITS SERVICES TO THE REGION.

THE FIRST MULTI-MILLION-DOLLAR FUND-RAISING EFFORT UNDERTAKEN AT THE UNIVERSITY, PARTNERSHIP 2000 IS FOCUSED ON GENERATING GIFTS AND PLEDGES REQUIRED TO ALLOW THE UNIVERSITY TO MEET THE IMMEDIATE AND GROWING DEMANDS OF ITS STUDENTS, FACULTY, ALUMNI AND THE COMMUNITY. DESIGNED TO MEET CURRENT AND ONGOING NEEDS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS, FACILITIES ENHANCEMENTS, FACULTY DEVELOPMENT AND INSTRUCTIONAL EQUIPMENT, PARTNERSHIP 2000 ALSO PROVIDES A STRUCTURE TO SECURE SUPPORT FOR FUTURE PROGRAM EXPANSION.

THE FOLLOWING LIST ACKNOWLEDGES ALL DONORS WHO HAVE MADE GIFTS OR MULTI-YEAR PLEDGES TO THE CAMPAIGN SINCE ITS INCEPTION.

Winter 95-96
Thousands of CSUSB alumni, parents and friends support the university’s academic and athletic programs, provide much-needed unrestricted funding, give generously to scholarships, enable us to fund our new museum, and contribute to enlarging the Pfau Library collection. We are grateful for their generosity and are pleased to recognize them in this report.

Many substantial gifts to CSUSB come from corporations, foundations, service clubs, and other organizations. They invest in Cal State knowing that the support they provide today will benefit society and industry tomorrow.
The university thanks the individual donors who took the time to initiate a matching gift, and we salute the following companies whose generous matching contributions encourage their employees to support high-quality education at Cal State. (Matching gifts initiated in 1994-95 but not yet received will appear in next year’s Honor Roll.)

Gifts-In-Kind

Each year Cal State receives gifts of equipment, books, furniture and other physical property. These special items enrich our art collections, our library, and our computer laboratories, enhance faculty research and instruction, and support cultural and recreational activities. We are pleased to recognize these donors of gifts-in-kind during the 1994-95 fiscal year.

California State University, San Bernardino is proud of the interest and support of each individual and organization whose name appears in this Honor Roll of Donors. Every effort has been made to acknowledge accurately all gifts made to the university in 1994-95, but in a listing of this size inadvertent oversights may have occurred. If we have failed to recognize anyone, we apologize and ask you to notify the Office of Development so that we may correct our records. Any corrections to the Honor Roll will appear in the spring issue of CSU magazine.

ARENA DIRECTOR ASSUMES DUTIES

Carol Dixon

With more than a decade of marketing experience in the entertainment industry, Carol Dixon is appointed the director of the James and Aerianthi Coussouls Arena and the Health and Physical Education Complex.

Most recently the director of marketing for Medieval Times Dinner and Tournament in Buena Park, Dixon served in a similar position for Circus Vargas, for which she was responsible for five regional markets. Additionally she was a regional promotional manager for a Mattel Toys outreach program and an advertising administrator for Twentieth Century Fox.

Her responsibilities at Cal State include developing and implementing a marketing plan for Coussouls Arena, which is the largest indoor sports facility in the Inland Empire. The 5,000-seat arena hosts intercollegiate athletics contests and recreational sports events currently. Future plans call for hosting area sports tournaments as well as entertainment events, Dixon says.

“We'll have to walk before we run,” she says, commenting on the first full academic year of the arena’s operation. “We'll start small and grow with the facility.” Noting that she would like to establish a concert series in the arena, Dixon anticipates that could happen by fall 1996.

More information on Coussouls Arena is available from Dixon at (909) 880-7326.

BASKETBALL SEASON TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE

Although basketball season is underway, season tickets still are available for fans who'd like some of the best seats in the house—the theatre-style seating in the new Coussouls Arena.

“The CCAA Conference is the best Division II conference in the nation,” notes Curt Apsey, director of athletic development. “Now that we're into conference play there's even more reason to come out and see the Coyotes and howl with the crowd in Coussouls Arena.”

Season ticket packages are priced at $60 each for the men's and women's games separately, or $80 for the combination. More information is available from Apsey at (909) 880-5049.

DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR APPOINTED

Collette Rocha, formerly the director of development for the USC School of Medicine, is the new executive director of university development for Cal State. Rocha succeeds Stephen Christensen and brings with her 14 years of development experience in higher education. Prior to her seven years of fundraising with USC, she was involved with development activities for the Los Angeles Community College District.

In her position at Cal State, Rocha will oversee development for all university programs including the university’s Partnership 2000 campaign, which is raising money for academic programs, athletics, capital projects, faculty professional development and scholarships.

Rocha resides in Glendale, CA.

TWO EXECUTIVES JOIN ADVISORY BOARD

The CEO of St. Bernardine Medical Center and a Wells Fargo Bank branch manager are the newest executives to be appointed to the University Advisory Board for Cal State, San Bernardino.

They are Gregory Adams, president and chief executive officer for St. Bernardine Medical Center since 1990, and James White, who has been with Wells Fargo since 1994.

Adams oversees the 449 bed medical center that generates annual revenues of $215 million.

White is responsible for sales and customer service at a Wells Fargo branch in San Bernardino.

Appointments to the Advisory Board are made by Cal State President Anthony Evans. Terms are for four years. Members of the board provide counsel to the university’s senior management regarding growth and development at the university. The board has 24 members.

Scholarship Endowment Established for Golf

Bruce Varner, of Gresham, Varner, Savage, Nolan & Tilden, and Alice Aslanian Robbins have established the Bill Leesburg Golf Scholarship Endowment in memory of the late Bill Leesburg.

Bill, a resident of San Bernardino from 1967 until his death in March, 1998, was a PGA Class A golf professional for 10 years. In addition to golf pro duties at Arrowhead Country Club, Bill was active in conducting junior golf clinics, mentoring junior golfers, donating time and materials to high school golf teams, and conducting clinics for the elderly. He later enjoyed a career as a licensed contractor specializing in commercial property.

Two $500 golf scholarships were made available for the 1995-96 academic year; future gifts will go to the endowment. Individuals or organizations wishing to donate to the endowment should direct their gift to The CSUSB Foundation, c/o The Bill Leesburg Golf Scholarship Endowment, 5500 University Parkway, San Bernardino, CA 92407-2397.

Assistive Devices Afforded by Gannett Grant

A $2500 grant from the Gannett Foundation/The San Bernardino County Sun has provided funding for assistive listening devices in Jack H. Brown Hall, University Hall and the Creative Arts Recital Hall. This equipment is part of the university’s ongoing program to meet the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act. The university’s goal is to have such devices in all lecture halls and performance areas.

Cal State magazine will not be published in the Spring of ’96. Look for news about Cal State in your school Newsletters.

FAVORITE CSUSB CLASS:
“My first class at Cal State—Accounting 312 taught by Professor Elaine Everson. Before coming to CSUSB, I had serious doubts about my ability to succeed at the university level. Professor Everson helped me to realize I could accomplish anything I put my mind to.”

ADVICE FOR TODAY’S STUDENTS:
“Join a student organization—even if you work and attend school full-time. That’s where you’ll learn the skills that will set you apart and give you an edge in the workforce.”

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS:
“Raising my 21-month-old daughter, Alexandria; volleyball; racquetball; church; good movies; volunteerism.”

WORDS TO LIVE BY:
“Querer es poder.” (To want to is to be able to.)

REASON FOR BEING AN ACTIVE ALUM:
“I’m grateful to Cal State—the professors, staff and administrators—for preparing me well for my career and life, and I’m proud of my CSUSB degree. I want to do everything I can to make sure that my degree retains its value and grows in prestige.”
Distinguished Alumni Award Nominations Sought

Do you know a Cal State graduate who has “made it” in his or her chosen career? Has this alum demonstrated outstanding service to the community; to the university? Then we urge you to nominate him or her for the 1996 Distinguished Alumni Award. The honor is bestowed each year at Commencement to an outstanding alumnus or alumna. Please contact the Alumni Office for nomination materials at (909) 880-5008 or alumni@wiley.csusb.edu.

RINGING IN THE YEAR OF THE ALUMNI
ALUMNI! 1996 IS YOUR YEAR!

Declared officially the “Year of the Alumni” by the CSU Board of Trustees, it’s a systemwide celebration honoring our greatest asset—Alumni.

To CSUSB’s 30,000 alumni, we wish you continued successes and fulfilling lives, and we thank you for your many contributions to the campus community. See page 21 for the first of many alumni events in 1996.

MARCH 2

Alumni Appreciation Night and Homecoming brings together former classmates and favorite professors for a 4:30 p.m. barbecue and a 7:30 p.m. men’s basketball game against UC Riverside.
FEARSOME FIRE—Haunting memories of the 1980 Panorama fire that claimed some university facilities were recalled by campus employees and local citizens when a wildfire, fanned by winds, threatened Cal State, forcing it to close for the day Nov. 27. Campus facilities sustained no damage, but nearly 70 acres of chaparral, including Badger Hill, on the northern perimeter were burned.
