COUNTY MUSEUM NEEDS VOLUNTEERS ONE-HALF DAY A WEEK

Every year thousands of school children visit the San Bernardino County Museum with their classes. The museum's aim is to convey to them the importance of learning more about their own locality in all aspects, such as history, natural history, earth science, ornithology, and the ever-fascinating world of Indians.

Volunteer instructors speak to these classes, usually on a regular schedule of 1/2 day a week (from about 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon). Junior Museum Guides help in conducting the tours and are trained to give additional information about exhibits.

Other projects may interest volunteers, such as creating displays or dioramas, historical and technical writing, or even assisting with the Calico Mountain Expedition (Early Man Site).

Since most of our faculty is new to the San Bernardino area this may be a fine opportunity for faculty wives to acquaint themselves with its history and color and at the same time serve the community.

Anyone interested please call Mr. Gerald Smith 877-2272.

ACADEMIC SENATE SUBMITS PROPOSAL TO SPEED UP CONVERSION TO YEAR-ROUND OPERATION

A proposal to speed up conversion to year-round operation on the 18 campuses of the California State College system was made Thursday, January 20, by the colleges' statewide Academic Senate.

In two resolutions which were presented to the Board of Trustees by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke at the meeting, the senate proposed (1) that the State College continue their already established pilot project approach to conversion to the quarter system method of year-round operation by 1975 and (2) that in the interim, starting in 1968, all of the colleges not already converted be put on a schedule of two 18-week and one 12-week terms in the academic year. All three terms would be state supported, while at present summer terms of the colleges are supported by student fees.

The resolutions were in response to a recent recommendation by the Coordinating Council for Higher Education that the colleges accelerate their conversion schedule from 1975 to 1971. In effect, the proposal of the senate, which represents some 8000 faculty members, would achieve year-round operation three years earlier than called for by the Council-- only under a different academic year calendar.

It is hoped the meeting will encourage more international involvements as an integral part of the curriculum and educational activities of each college.

FACULTY MEETING TOMORROW

There will be a general faculty meeting, Tuesday, January 25th at 10:30 a.m.

John C. Livingston, chairman of the faculty group, made it clear that the introduction of the 12-week summer term would not slow down conversion to the quarter system academic year calendar which has been adopted by the Council and the Board of Trustees. He said the senate strongly endorses the Trustees pilot-program approach to conversion to year-round operation.

According to Livingston, the benefit of the 12-week summer term would be almost immediate maximum utilization of classrooms while the complex problems presented by the quarter system method of operation are being worked out through the pilot-project approach. He said the introduction of the summer term would not involve the massive overhaul of course offerings and the significant increase in faculty required by the quarter system.

Chancellor Dumke said the presidents of the colleges joined him in recommending the resolutions to the Trustees for careful study and they referred the resolutions to the educational policy committee.

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION BEGINS CONTINUING RESEARCH GRANTS APRIL 1ST

In order to provide reasonable assurance of longer term research support and to simplify the administration of such support, the National Science Foundation will begin awarding Continuing Research Grants on April 1, 1966. Long term research projects of high scientific merit involving scientists with a record of outstanding research accomplishment will be considered for scientific approval for periods up to a maximum of five years. Selected projects will be funded initially for a two-year (approximate) period, and thereafter on an annual basis for the approved full-term of the grant. Normally no new research proposal will be required over the term of a Continuing Research Grant. Support beyond the first two year period will be contingent on the availability of funds and the scientific progress of the research project.
