Veterans to Receive In-state Tuition

Veterans throughout the nation will soon be eligible for in-state tuition rates because of a little-known provision in a $16 billion federal law signed by President Obama. The effective date for the implementation of the Veterans' Access, Choice, and Accountability Act (VACAA) is July 1, 2015. Aimed primarily at improving veterans' access to health care, the law allows any veteran who has served at least 90 days of active service to pay resident tuition rates in any state within three years of leaving the military. Spouses and children using transferred entitlement under the Post

9/11 GI Bill and Montgomery GI Bill are also considered "covered individuals." The law would apply to any public college or university receiving federal funding through the Post-9/11 GI Bill. Schools that don't comply with the new change would lose federal funding (Title 38 funds).

According to Student Veterans of America, "twenty-six (26) states have state laws providing a residency exemption to student veterans for in-state tuition. Nine states have a school or school systems that provide a residency exemption to student veterans for in-state tuition. Seven states have legislation pending."

California's legislation only extends in-state tuition to a service member stationed in California, for a minimum of a year, if they enroll within one year from their departure from the military. Assemblyman Rocky Chávez, R-Oceanside, has revived and amended legislation (Assembly Bill 13) requiring the California higher education system to grant veterans in-state tuition. Obviously, changing state law could take more time than the July 1, 2015, implementation deadline. This is a positive step for those that wished to immediately continue their education, but waited a year to establish residency.

Darcie Tossetti

The Woman Behind the Scenes

Darcie with her son, Chief Petty Officer Tossetti

First let me introduce myself: Darcie Tossetti is my name and volunteering is my game.

About two years ago, I found myself a very bored SBCUSD retiree. A friend of mine who worked closely with the military recruiters at the time told me about the newly opened Veterans Success Center here at CSUSB. I had no clue what I could do at the center, but I decided to go and see if they needed any help.

When I first met with the center director, Marci Daniels, she shared with me a vision she had for a quilt made with quilt squares created by graduating vets. As a quilter, I jumped at the idea of making this quilt come to life. So with thinking this was all I was going to do for the center, I went on my merry way. Not quite....before I knew, I was cutting yellow ribbons for the campus wide Yellow Ribbon Campaign, followed by making flower bouquets for the graves at Riverside National Cemetery on Memorial Day. And that was just in the first month.

Helping plan the many events that the center hosts has been such a blessing to me. Ten years ago I had surgery to remove a meningioma brain tumor from my left frontal lobe. The surgery and the issues that followed over the next few years really robbed me of the confidence I once had. Since volunteering at the center, I've found that confidence again and so much more.

It has been an honor to be able to work beside our American heroes—our vets. Thank you all for letting me be a part of all this fun.

How Did You Spend the Holidays?

Eduardo Verdugo

For just about everyone the holidays are about family, friends, great food, and great fun, and that was exactly what they mean to me too. My holidays were spent with those closest to my heart, my family and dear friends. Being of Mexican American descent my holiday season was jam packed full of parties, social gatherings, and religious events. As is tradition in my heritage, we ate typical holiday foods such as tamales, churros, champurado, rosca de reyes and many others, and alongside that some other foods my family has adopted into our holiday meals like ham, turkey, eggnog, and fruitcake to name a few. During these gatherings, we sang karaoke, danced, laughed, talked and enjoyed each other's company. Overall my holidays were spent as anyone's should be with friends and family.

Luca Daley

VSC Student Assistant, Junior

I spent my break working and went home to Oceanside on the 24th. It was great to be able to spend time with my family and help my dad with projects around the house. It was also great to be back in my home town as I haven't even been in the ocean for over a month and was having withdrawals. One of the highlights of my break was when I was told by my OSO, Capt. Roberts, that I've been selected to attend USMC OCS in the summer. If all goes according to plan, I will be shipping out June 1st to Quantico, Va., for an opportunity to earn the title of a Marine Corps officer. All in all I would say it was a productive winter break.

Mike having a good time

Wow, break was awesome! So awesome that I didn't want to come back to school (Haha). But, whenever I gain the opportunity to spend quality time with my love ones and take time to reflect on the things I have and don't have, it's always a GOOD TIME! As I look back on all the fun and joy I had last year during break, I can't seem to get over the fact how excited I am to embark on this upcoming school year as a COYOTE! It gives me great happiness to know that there is another year to live, love and enjoy life! Here's to a wonderful 2015!!!

Jennifer Iacolino

U.S. Army Veteran, Alumni

Jennifer with her daughters

I brought in the New Year with close family. My resolution includes applying for the fall 2015 credential course and if possible the MFA program. I also recently took my CBEST and CSET for English. I realized in 2006 after I returned from Iraq that I wanted to go back to school...it took a lot of courage... and discipline... and I had to put college first with so many absurdities in my life. I know I may no longer be an expert shooter or a physically fit soldier, but I am glad I am me and that I chose English as my special skill. I may need more discipline in this field but it feels good to know I passed my grammar state test without a problem and I am improved literally! It was a very relaxing break and I hope 2015 is adventurous and giving!
