NEED A BEANIE?

The cold chills bites into the delicate ears in these frosty and heatless mornings of Puson... The best way to keep these poor things warm is to knit yourself a beanie to cover them, since every girl is knitting and purling, how about knitting yourselves and friends one of these things? It's the easiest thing to knit and it will be a swell beginning for those just learning to knit... Here is the directions: Cast on 143 stitches. Knit 1, purl 1, knit 1, purl 1 throughout the line. Knit pattern for 5 inches. Then follow the pattern for 13 stitches, * slip 1 stitch, purl 1, pass slip stitch over, repeat from *, knit according to pattern for 32 stitches, * slip stitch 1, purl 1, pass slip stitch over, repeat *, knit 32 stitches again and continue from first till the end of the row (18 sts. left). Knit next row according to pattern. For 3rd row, do the same as first except leave 30 st. in between. (13 st. left) go back following the pattern. Continue same but leave 28 st. for 5th row, 26 st. for 7th row until there is 79 stiches left on the needle. Pass slip stitch continuously on the next row. Put a string through the loops and pull together. Sew the sides together and make a fluffy ball on the top. Use all the left over yarns and make a colorful beanie. M. Oda

My dearest son—

It is Armistice Day today. Until last year—just last year it had a deep, thankful meaning. . .a significant meaning. But this year—

You may not remember—but on Nov. 12, 1918, late in the afternoon old Mrs. Agostini rushed over the hill behind her house to tell me that the war had ended yesterday. And her Arnold and Louis were coming home. Remember how those big boys and their sisters used to walk by our yard through the corral, carrying their lawn lunch pails, and calling to you? And how you on your wobbly feet toddled out with a small red tobacco can, and they would tease, “go on back little one, and wait till after school.”

I remember when the boys came home, Mrs. Agostini had a leg wound. But Louis, that bitter, bragged that she was lucky all the time. We were all sure that that Armistice ended all wars. All wars! Another one was incredible! Just before evacuation I went over to see them. Mrs. Agostini wept when I told her I must leave. She is getting on in her years, and couldn’t seem to grasp the meaning of this mad swirl of events—I myself cannot, for that matter. Clinging to me she told me over and over that a shining hour as that one, that day in 1918 will arrive—It will arrive—be patient!

I wrote a poem for you the other day. You do want to hear it and dissect it and concoct it into hash don’t you, you little imp?

SOLACE

I’m praying for that Shining Hour,
And you, my dear;
’Til these dreams cease
Soaring aimlessly
And settle.
I’m praying for that Hopeful streak of Light,
Knowing that “It’s always darkest ’Fore the Dawn.”

Taps now. Remember, don’t forget to write me often.
Letters are the most welcome things in any kind of camp.
You know that. Your snaps were wonderful! Your new winter uniform and 2 chevrons—mmm. G’nite, dear.

Your loving Mother

He looked up—out across the lake. Funny how all the lamps surrounding the water’s edge resembled fuzzy dandelions. The leaves of the letter were rustling. No—his lips could not be quivering, nor his hands, and those were not tears that blurred his vision. Abruptly he turned and strode thro’ the shrubs and trees toward his fort.
