FINANCIAL AID CAL GRANT DEADLINE IS TOMORROW

Students qualifying for Calif. Student Aid Commission grants can expect a little more money next year, and there will be more awards available if financial aid increases proposed in Gov. Deukmejian's 84-85 budget are approved by the State Legislature. This should be an incentive for students to meet the financial aid application deadline which is just days away—February 9.

Financial aid offered by the Calif. Student Aid Commission includes Cal Grants, Bilingual Teacher Grants, and State Graduate Fellowships. Cal Grants provide tuition/fee assistance to lower and middle income under-graduate students, and a living allowance for disadvantaged undergraduates. Bilingual Teacher Grants aid students enrolled in approved bilingual teacher training programs. Graduate Fellowships provide assistance for full-time graduate or professional study at either a public or an independent university in California. For any of these grants, students must qualify on the basis of financial need.

The 1984-85 Cal Grant tuition/fee awards, under the Governor's budget, would pay a maximum of $305 at the Calif. State Univ., $572 at the University of Calif., and $3,740 at independent colleges, a 10% increase over the present awards. The Cal Grant B living allowance would be raised from $1,100 to $1,210.

The maximum Bilingual Teacher Grant would be $3,816 and the maximum Graduate Fellowship, $5,830, a 6% increase over the 83-84 awards. The number of new Commission grant awards would increase from

by Dennis Hatcher

Severe Santa Ana winds took their toll on all of Southern California last week, and CSCSB got its share of damage. According to Campus Police, winds ripped several camper shells from trucks in the school parking lots. Other damage occurred to cars parked at the Physical Plant, where huge sections of roof were torn off by the wind's fury. Windshields were broken and car bodies damaged as gravel and tarpaper, driven with shotgun blast force, rained upon the cars from above.

At Pfau Library, a large window panel was blown in on the Northwest corner, and several more windows were cracked. No one was injured by the flying glass, and maintenance crews quickly covered the gaping, ground floor hole with plywood sheets. Bob Lohnes, Assistant Administrative Affairs officer, said the heavy walnut doors at that end of the library were damaged by the flying debris and would have to be replaced. Lohnes estimates the cost of wind damage on campus at $35,000. He said the school was not liable for damage to privately-owned cars, which he estimated to number around 20.

Dr. Ted McDowell, head of the Geography department, regularly keeps record of weather conditions, including wind velocities. He stated that the highest wind velocity recorded at CSCSB was 70-74 mph, with winds typically gusting 30-60 mph.

Major Balsterholt, from the Norton AFB weather station, explained what caused the high Santa Ana winds. "There was a large mass of cold air in the Great Basin, up around Idaho and Nevada. This cold air was at a very high pressure mass. We had here, in the South, an area of unusually low pressure. The air pressure has to equalize, so the high-pressure air was funneled through the mountain pass, creating the Santa Ana condition."

While the highest recorded wind speed at Norton was 45 mph, Balsterholt said it is common for areas near the pass to experience much higher velocities. Unofficial wind speeds of 90 mph had been reported in the San Bernardino area, but could not be confirmed.

Cindy Rahal and a friend fight against last week's high winds while walking to their classes.

Conquer Stress Before It Conquers You

by Carol Leish

You realize that you have a test tomorrow in English Lit. and you are wide awake in order to study. You get caffeine from coffee or you may smoke in order to retain your energy.

How can you manage in order to handle school, home, and the rest of your life without going crazy?

Stress management is for you. Conquer stress instead of letting stress conquer you!

On February 1 at noon and 8 p.m. in the Student Union, Steve Coffee and Veda Hunn, Psychology interns in the Cal State Counseling Center, gave a talk on "Stress Management." The talk discussed the symptoms of stress, a holistic approach to stress management, ways to cope with stress, and thoughts about different stress personality levels.

Steve Coffee said that stress is a normal human response, necessary for life threatening situations, such as being in the street as a sports fan and being shot at.

"If you don't like your attitude if necessary, planning some free time and repeating statements, such as "I like you," or "I'm glad to be me,"" he said.

According to Steve Coffee, "Chronic stress means stress is caused from things, such as school and midterms." In stressful situations, Steve Coffee said that the pupils dilate and that the muscles tense up. Adrenalin gives the body more energy.

"Sugar and coffee keeps the energy level artificially high," and continued, "If you don't like what you are doing, you get stress."

A holistic approach to stress is encouraged by Steve Coffee and Veda Hunn. This includes: a balanced diet, relaxation, psychological awareness, exercise and time management. By taking this approach, you will have the skills needed to take personal responsibility and control over how events in life affect you emotionally and physically.

Other ways to cope with stress were also mentioned. Establishing a good support system of friends and family members, accepting what you cannot change; changing your attitude if necessary, planning some free time every day and repeating statements, such as "I like you," or "I'm glad to be me." Following these guidelines will help you put you on your way to conquering and dealing with stress.

How does one reconcile human brotherhood must be necessary for life threatening situations, sue!

Chronic stress means stress is an instinctive reaction in order to get out of that predicament to safety.

Are you a night student going crazy?

You may smoke in order to relax. You may also smoke in order to handle school, home, and the rest of your life without going crazy.

Conquer stress instead of letting stress conquer you!

Winter Enrollment Up On the Same Term in 1983

As of the winter quarter census date, 5,144 students were enrolled in the college, which is a 5.37% increase over the same term a year earlier. The winter quarter enrollment was 306 from last fall, is the second highest enrollment in the college. The college enrollment exactly by fall 1983 when a new high of 5,450 students was reached.

The additional enrollment drops off during the year from the fall quarter high.

The full-time equivalent (FTE) for winter quarter stands at 3,919.9 students. The FTE is important for budgetary reasons, as the institution's allocation each year is based upon its FTE figures. The winter FTE count is 5.86% higher than winter 1983, although it is 4.94% below the all-time high of 4,123.7 set in the fall 1983 term.

Country Theme Set For Winterfest

There will be an all day party in the Student Union on Thursday, Feb. 8, in celebration of the Annual Winterfest. The theme for this year's winterfest is "Country Jamboree," and it's bound to be a rootin', tootin', hoedown.

Behind this year's winterfest are: Sherri Deutchman, Student Union Co-coordinator; Clare Sharafinski, Activities Advisor; and Dexter Wash, A.S. Activities Director. They have worked with the clubs and A.S. to make this year's winterfest one of the best ever. The entire Student Union has been booked for the occasion and there will be many exciting things going on. "We wanted a theme that everyone could really get into," said Dexter Wash. "Quite a few clubs have already shown their participation by signing up for booths to sell all kinds of foods and goodies."

There will be plenty of activities at winterfest as well. There will be a jail where you can pay to have a friend (or enemy) put behind bars by the winterfest sheriff. There will also be a marriage booth, country store and as an extra added attraction, A.S. is planning on having hay rides.

This year's winterfest is also a celebration of our Student Union's 6th birthday. Sherri Deutchman is planning on having lots of goodies including an 8 foot sandwich to help celebrate.

A.S. invites all campus clubs to participate in the winterfest and birthday celebration. Prizes will be awarded to those club booths which most closely follow the continued on page 9

CSMA Takes to the Road

by Greg Timpany

The ultimate goal of most college students is to get a respectable, well paying job after graduation. Members of the Cal State Marketing Association are no different. Over the weekend of Jan. 26-28 a contingent of seven CSMA members attended the Western Region Student Careers Conference, sponsored by the American Marketing Association (AMA). The conference was held at the Anaheim Marriott, and was hosted by the Cal State Marketing Club members who donated their time and efforts to insure all would go well by "hawking" the wares of the club members who donated their time and efforts to insure all would go well by "hawking" the wares of the club, the aroma of cooking hot dogs and chili, or the "hungry" being the primary ingredients for the sale going so well.

HEALTH CORNER

Home Remedies

What are some things I can do to help myself if I become ill when no medical help is available or I can't get a doctor's appointment immediately?

This would vary according to the ailment. There are many over-the-counter and home remedies that will keep you comfortable until medical help is available. For example:

Upset Stomach or Diarrhea. For nausea you of course will need fluids so sipping Seven-Up, Coca Cola, or popsicles (not fruit bars) is a good way to soothe nausea. Also, you can purchase without a prescription a product called Dramamine 50 mg or generically Dimenhydrinate. It works quite well if you are not vomiting severely and can keep it down. For cramping and diarrhea, Donnagel is available over the counter and is a combination of a smooth muscle relaxant and an adsorbent to control cramping and diarrhea. Pepto Bismol is also excellent for most kinds of diarrhea.

For head colds, runny nose, and head cold symptoms you would want to find a good decongestant such as Sinus Alert, Coricidin D, Chlortrimeton D or Drixoral which was just released from the pharma company with an 8-12 hour action, and in most cases does not cause drowsiness. It is also wise to force fluids, especially fruit juices.

For chest congestion you can use steam inhalation being very careful not to get too close and burn yourself, or a steamy shower is another method. Any cough preparation that contains an expectorant and a cough suppressant is helpful. A flat bowl of water in your room will add humidity by evaporation and therefore be helpful. A good home remedy for a cough is lemon juice and honey which can probably be found in the Commons.

Sore throats can be eased by gargling with warm salt water. Any of the anesthetic throat lozenges and sprays that are available over the counter will anesthetize the throat and be soothing. Aspirin or Tylenol (acetaminophen) is also useful for any kind of pain.

Toothaches can be soothed until dental help can be reached by swirling the mouth with warm salt water or a solution of half water and half hydrogen peroxide 3%. There is also a product called Listerine that will numb and adhere to the painful tooth or canker sore in the mouth. Again, aspirin or Tylenol will help relieve pain.

Headaches can often be helped by a warm compress over the eyes. Also helpful would be to take two aspirin or two Tylenol (or three aspirin or three Tylenol which is equivalent to the TYLENOL extra strength or aspirin maximum strength) followed by lying down in a quiet, preferably darkened room for 20 to 30 minutes.

For burns apply ice to the burned area until burning pain ceases or medical help can be obtained. This can prevent blistering.

Sunburn. If you have overdone your sun exposure at the beach or on the ski slopes, a cool, not cold, shower using no soap and vinegar rinse can be very soothing and help take the sting out of sunburn.

Insect stings can be relieved temporarily by icing to prevent swelling. An itchy rash can be soothed by a baking soda and water soak in the tub. Also, any product containing an antihistamine will help such as Chlortrimeton or a prescription.

The health center personnel are aware you as students don't feel you have time to be ill. We hope our self-help suggestions will be useful when we are not available. But it is our goal to help you maintain good health and we are available to administer to your health needs with friendly, kind and supportive medical help.

Have a Heart and Give Blood

by Dorinda Thurman

The Health Center and Cal State's Organization for College Women will co-sponsor a Blood Drive on Wednesday, February 15.

Local Blood Bank staff will be assisting donors in the waiting room of the Health Center from 10:30 a.m.

"Since the purpose of the Blood Drive is to replenish supplies in the campus Blood Reserve Fund, we need your help. This fund was established so that there would always be a supply of blood available for any student, faculty or staff member, and their dependents," said Dr. James Savage.

Donating blood is a very simple process. Anyone who is in good health, who weighs over 110 pounds, and is between the age of 18 and 65, can donate blood. Please do not fast before your donation, and allow about 45 minutes for registration, donating and light refreshments.

Cal State's Organization for College Women will be donating $10 cash prizes to three lucky donors whose names will be drawn after the Blood Drive. You will also see some of their members with special t-shirts on that day. They will be encouraging all of you to stop by the Health Center and donate the gift of life. Also, the Intramural Program will be giving a t-shirt to another lucky donor.

The dorm house that donates the most blood will have their name engraved on the Serrano Village Blood Drive Plaque, as Mojave did last year. The Blood Bank will give each donor a free "cool-can holder." The Blood Bank also provides the most delicious coffee mug to those people who have donated three times since January 1, 1983. Even if you aren't eligible yet for the coffee mug, now's the time to start.

"Since the Blood Drive is the day after Valentine's Day, have a heart and share this special gift of blood with others," encouraged Dr. Savage.

SPARING FIVE MINUTES MIGHT SAVE YOUR LIFE

Have you ever wondered what your blood pressure was, but felt you didn't have the time to find out? Or perhaps you just have some basic questions about blood pressure in general? Monday, February 13, is your chance to find out. The Health Center has made it convenient for you by arranging to have registered nurses from on and off-campus to take your blood pressure. They will be located in different areas on campus:

- Cafeteria, 11:30-1:30
- Student Union Lounge: 11:30-2:00
- Student Services Atrium, 2:30-4:30
- South Entrance to Library, 1:30-4:30
- 5th floor Atrium, 1-3:45

About one in four Americans has high blood pressure, and more than half of these have high blood pressure that is very serious. This disease is dangerous because it often leads silently, but directly, to conditions that often kill or cripple: heart attack, stroke, or kidney disease.

High blood pressure is especially dangerous because it has no clear signs. A person can have it and not even know it. That's why it's so important for people to get their blood pressure checked regularly.

The entire campus community is encouraged to take five minutes out of their day to take advantage of this very special service. It may be the most important five minutes you spend that day.
RECORD RACK: KANSAS
by Greg Timpany
Album: Drastic Measures

This album features a streamlined version of Kansas' material. Gone are vocalist/violinist Robbie Steinhardt along with vocalist Steve Walsh. Despite the loss, Kansas has carried on like a wayward son.

John Elefante has taken over the vocal chores. At these tasks he has performed nothing less than excellently. Along with his brother Dino, he has also taken over a good portion of the writing responsibilities. These changes have worked well for the band, except they no longer have those distinctive vocal harmonies present on earlier Kansas compositions.

The one thing I really appreciate about Kansas is their ability to mix spirited vocals with technically superior instrumental passages. Neither aspect receives too much emphasis. Backing the instrumental mix is the powerful duo of Phil Ehart on drums and percussion, and Dave Hope on bass guitar. On top of the rhythm tracks are the guitar lines of Rich Williams and Kerry Livgren. Neither guitarist owns the spotlight, and they have a habit of trading off guitar lines in a very efficient manner. Keyboard lines are provided by Elefante as well as Livgren.

Side one explodes with "Fight Fire With Fire." This is a fast paced song dealing with a man who will just not give up and roll over. The video makes this point even clearer. "Everybody's My Friend" is Elefante's look at the astonishing lack of privacy that an entertainer must deal with. "Mainstream" is an excellent look at the overly commercial tendencies of the Music Industry. The solo on this song is probably the best on the album. The side ends with an amusing number entitled "Andi."

Side two opens with the theme song of the apathetic members of society, "Going Through the Motions" points out just how routine and mundane daily life can be, and "Get Rich" is a perfect description of how the greed of those in power can be. "Don't Take Your Love Away" starts out slow and then picks up a fiery pace. This song is a case in point of how Kansas mixes superior vocals with burning instrumental passages. "End of the Age" is one of Livgren's compositions. The song is religious in nature, but is handled in very good taste. It is interesting to note that several members of Kansas are Born Again Christians. This disproves the fact that all rock musicians are atheistic and hedonistic in nature. The album ends with a moving keyboard number entitled "Incidence on a Bridge."

"...Kansas mixes superior vocals with burning instrumental passages."

A great deal of today's music has very little to say, both musically and lyrically. Kansas music does not fall into this area. They have continually progressed and changed over the years, but they have not sacrificed their musical integrity for a commercial sake.

In Trouble? Counseling Center Ready To Help

by Emily Hanisko

"The students should make use of us. I don't think a lot of them even know we are here," commented Dr. Martha Kazlo on the Counseling Office in the Physical Science Building; Room 227. Dr. Kazlo is a full-time psychologist at the center. For nine years she's worked with the students on this campus in her office that, she commented, "is sometimes called the broom closet because there are no windows." I asked her about the rest of the counselors at the center. John Hattom is the full-time director and counselor while at the same time Associate Dean of Student Development. Ms. Jane Russell is a part-time counselor who not only helps out on campus but has a private practice. Mr. Donald Woods is the International Student Advisor who is also in charge of administering tests like the California Basic Educational Skills Test (CBEST) and the Graduation Record Exam (GRE) among others that the center offers.

"We're paid to help you get through school..."

"We may not even be the ones to help solve your problem," Dr. Kazlo added, "but we can at least steer you in the right direction. We offer a one-to-one basis in problem solving. You might be having a hard time with time management or just too low self-esteem; you know, like the mornings you don't feel like crawling out of bed even though you've just had a full twelve hours sleep (and you know it's not the flu.) We have groups in assertiveness training, stress reduction and management, job interview assertiveness, relaxation techniques and more.

The Counselor Center secretary Shirley Ealy schedules appointments for students with academic or personal questions. Dr. Kazlo summed up the service in a few words, "We're paid to help you get through school and help you let your mind concentrate on your subjects. Concentrate may sound easy but we all know sometimes it's not. 'I've always thought,' she continued, 'that when a person gets through registration and the quarter they should get an 'A' for survival.'"

Help Available for the Procrastinator

by Carol Leish

You realize that your twenty page term paper for English needs to be grammatically correct before you turn it in next week. You desperately need to find someone to help you before you panic.

Dr. Dianne Irwin, director, said, "The Learning Center does offer assistance in most academic areas.

Tapes of lectures, for most large classes, are available. Jim Iwasa, an undeclared student in computer science, says he can usually find a tutor to help me. I like the conducive study environment offered here."

Tutors, who are available according to a posted schedule, have a least a 3.0 overall GPA and at least a 3.0 GPA in the subject that they are tutoring. They also have received recommendations from faculty members.

Besides tutoring, seminars are offered through the Learning Center. Diane Paletir, advisor at the center, offers seminars in: writing research papers, writing awareness and improvement, and understanding and analyzing poetry.

The Learning Center is located in Flue Library 37. It is open Monday through Thursday, 8:30 to 8:30; Friday, 8:30 to 4, and Saturday, 12 to 3. Students can call 887-7612 for more information.

Dr. Irwin said, "After visiting the Learning Center once, students usually come back."

Gretzky's Puppies Prevail

by Al Kadempoulos

In a battle of unbeaten teams Saturday, Gretzky's Puppies prevailed over Holiday on Ice by a score of 3-2.

After a scoreless first period, Holiday's John Toscano took the puck and drove it past Gretzky's goalie Mike Haller to give Holiday a 1-0 lead. Seconds later, Gretzky's Jay Alverson tipped in a deflection to tie the score at 1-1. Alverson scored again just before the end of the second period to give Gretzky's a 2-1 lead.

In the third period, it was Alverson getting the hat trick giving Gretzky's a 3-1 lead. With less than 2 minutes left, Holiday pulled goalie Jim Smolich for an extra attacker. Gretzky's defense remained tenacious and goalie Haller turned away shot after shot. With seconds remaining, Holiday's Bob Johnson scored to bring the final score to 3-2.

Gretzky's remains unbeaten at 34 while Holiday falls to 21.

In a game between the Charleston Chiefs and Manitoba Maulers, it was the Chiefs winning 8-2. Tom Ruvalo scored six times for the Chiefs as well as Paul Savage twice.

The Chiefs are now 2-1 while the Maulers fall to 1-2. The P.E.M.M. Slopshers picked up to forfeit to improve their record to 1-2.

"Privilege" Being Lost to Off-Campus Visitors

With every quarter is necessary for Cal State students to shell out an additional $15 for a parking permit. This sticker is supposed to guarantee adequate parking, and usually it does even if it means waiting a long while.

However, in and out, campus facilities are used by off-campus organizations. When this happens, it is impossible to find a parking space. The student finds himself tempted to park illegally rather than drive around looking for a single empty spot.

It seems unfair that after paying for the "privilege" to park, there are no available spaces due to non-paying visitors.

Although this is a temporary problem, how long will it be before this becomes a daily occurrence? Every increasing enrollment, as well as Cal State being a community-involved campus, necessitates that some solutions to the problem be considered before it becomes an every-day happening.

January 21 marked the eleventh anniversary of the legalization of abortion by the supreme court. In 1973 just over one million abortions were estimated to have occurred annually. That number has increased half again annually today.

Abortion should be viewed as an alternative, but women should always have the right to choose.

Evidently after eleven years the so-called Right to Life groups and President Reagan have still not accepted this. They seemingly would rather see women who feel they have no other choice, turn to back alleys or self induce their abortions.

Abortion should be viewed as a last alternative, but women should always have the right to choose.

The supreme court recognized this, as well as the inalienable right of choice for women.

Andropov, Soviet Policy and the Succession Crisis: Staying the Course

by P.A. Debiasto

Political Analyst

This is the second half of this series.

The political and strategic gains yielded by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan cut down the risks and costs incurred so far. The 100,000 trained Afghanis represent less than 2% of Soviet Armed Forces strength. The key here is that subjugating this territory is nominal when one considers the Russian geo-strategic interest in Afghanistan for over 150 years.

With a fraction of their Armed Forces, the Soviets have acquired another satellite; expanded further in the Middle East, and after warm water outlet to the Indian Ocean; advanced their capability to project military might to the critical Straits of Hormuz in the Persian Gulf; and developed a new front, along the border of America's staunch ally in South Asia, Pakistan.

Again, Soviet policy toward Poland remains remarkably consistent under Andropov. This is so despite the impression conveyed that every change is a great embarrassment to the Soviet Union and a direct challenge to its authority in East Europe. What Poland illustrates is the increasing Soviet use of influence events in satellite regimes with a minimum of perceptible physical intercession in export of anti-Western influences was not possible, or indirect intervention in the West without provoking a native reaction.

Moscow sought a relaxation of tension in order to obtain needed Western credits, loans, high technology and the correcting of the economic imbalance. The West, on the other hand, had to look to detente and competitive edge in Western Europe.

As a result, the USSR has cumulatively outspent the United States in defense by over 400 billion dollars in the last decade.

We are compelled to ask ourselves what can this consistency in Soviet policy be attributed. In searching for the answer one must always bear in mind that the Soviet leadership, whatever it may comprise, operates within a particular political, ideological, and military tradition. It is this tradition that informs and guides the broader parameters of Soviet national strategy and transmutes changes in leadership. The objectives and goals of Soviet revolutionary policy are not subject to renegotiation. They reflect long term policies, patterns, based on an enduring political-military consensus defined by the highest Communist Party leaders.

We must, therefore, focus our attention in examining possible changes in Soviet leadership. For the time being the West can expect the Soviet Union to "stay the course" irrespective of whether Yuri Andropov or a successor reigns over the USSR. Mr. Andropov's inheritance, in all likelihood, will become his legacy.

"Break the mold and dare to get involved."

by Greg Timpany

This is dedicated to those people who have not taken the time to do something for a good cause for some reason or reasons, I am sure there are several, people today just do not get involved. If it means making a small sacrifice in terms of time, money, or effort they tend to stay away. It is unfortunate because in many cases these people are missing out on opportunities.

Apathetic people are truly a strange bunch of creatures. They have a tendency of hiding behind plastic barriers which allow them to screen out everything which is different from their narrow world view. They search them to live in a rut which deepens over time. Life in a rut is very convenient for the apathetic person for it gives them reason not to think. Everything they say and do is a reaffirmation of their life. Anything which requires little, if any, creative thinking. Apathetic people are completely missed the point as you stated. The point I was trying to make is that in my letter was that there is not just one kind of band which is recommended by the Financial Aid Office. To the contrary, we would suggest that the student save his/her money. Better results can probably be obtained by reading the CSCSB Financial Aid Brochure and spending an afternoon at the library browsing through books on scholarships, loans and work programs.

Dear Ms. Yount:

On January 11, 1984 the Financial Aid Office submitted a request to the Cal State Chronicle to advertise financial aid deadlines for the 1984-85 academic year. We asked that this announcement continue to be run until March 11, 1984, the priority date for other aid sources. We were told that our request was too late for the first issue of the Winter Quarter, but that the ad would appear in subsequent issues.

When the announcement ran in the first issue of the Chronicle it had nothing regarding financial aid deadlines. Upon inquiry we were told that the announce- ment had been replaced by a paid advertisement. Quite frankly, we were surprised and disappointed that financial aid information would not receive higher priority by the staff of the Chronicle. Of further disappointment was the manner in which financial aid deadlines were presented. The deadline issue of the Chronicle was critical to many students, I felt an exception should be made to advertise financial aid and a display ad, rather than a news release.

Because financial aid deadlines are critical to many students, I felt an exception should be made to advertise financial aid and a display ad, rather than a news release, would be more appropriate.

However, because the Chronicle requires the support of community advertisers in order to remain operating and enable us to pay our bills, paid ads are understandably given priority.

The information concerning the computer financial aid service was included in the financial aid options article because financial aid information is not an option; it may not be the best option, but it is, nonetheless, one of the options. Omitting options that the newspaper is familiar with would be a disservice to our readers.

The Chronicle will continue to inform students about financial aid deadlines providing that there is space available. However, financial aid deadlines are critical, therefore I am entitled to have my advertisement continue for an additional two issues.

Sincerely,

Ted Krug
Director of Financial Aid

Editor's Response

Dear Mr. Timpany:

Ordinarily the Cal State Chronicle asks campus offices to release information to disseminate information to students through our publication. Because financial aid deadlines are critical to many students, I felt an exception should be made to advertise financial aid and a display ad, rather than a news release.

However, because the Chronicle requires the support of community advertisers in order to remain operating and enable us to pay our bills, paid ads

Greg Timpany and Marcina Correll have both completely missed the point of my letter to the editor.

First of all, Mr. Timpany, nowhere did I state that "the students on campus do not listen to rock and roll music." Rather, my letter should have noted that many students are unaware of my point of view and are missing out on a great opportunity to expand on their musical tastes.

As you stated, the Chronicle is the official voice of the campus. The Chronicle has an obligation to provide the necessary information to its prospective students. The Chronicle is the only source of financial aid information on campus. As of now, only the Financial Aid Office is familiar with this information. Omitting this information is a disservice to our readers.

I do not believe they have to buy albums from me for their personal pleasure. The Chronicle is the official voice of the campus. The Chronicle has an obligation to provide the necessary information to its prospective students. The Chronicle is the only source of financial aid information on campus. As of now, only the Financial Aid Office is familiar with this information. Omitting this information is a disservice to our readers.

I have no desire to become one of the masses so I cast off my shadow of apathy and got involved. Had I not, I would have easily remained one of the ignorant masses, but I wanted to expand out and learn new things. Through working with student organizations I had the opportunity to expand on what I had learned in the classroom. Unless you wish to remain one of the ignorant, apathetic masses, break the mold and dare to get involved.

More Thoughts on the Record Rack Selections

by Greg Timpany

Michael Jackson and Coke Porter hail from there, as well as the fact that many other artists are from the Midwest, including Prince who hails from Minnesota. But, like Greg Timpany, Mr. Correll, you have missed the point of my letter. In reference to the Midwest, I was speaking about "good ol' Midwestern rock and roll" a generalization coined by Greg Timpany not me. More specifically, I was speaking about a prevalent attitude in the Midwest and its representation in Billboard Magazine. It is the music industry's most widespread and respected publication. It contains information on every aspect of popular music, including the best information on who listens to what. Check out the Arbitron radio surveys, which have consistently shown that over 70% of the AOR radio format audience, which is the format that plays the most Heavy Metal, is the white Anglo male. Better yet, look at the popularity charts.

If you feel offended by my use of the W.A.S.P label, I will gladly cease and desist with its use whenever Argo America offers up any of other racial and ethnic groups. Maybe you now know how they feel.

Sincerely yours,

Chris Ellis
