Will Spring Quarter See S.E.T. in Effect?

"Hopefully by the spring quarter we will be able to implement at least an experimental student evaluation of teaching plan. "I really don't see any real problems blocking it, either from the faculty or from the students. These sentiments were voiced by Dr. Jesse Hirsako, chairman of the humanities division, who spoke to the student and faculty participants in the panel discussions on the feasibility of instituting such a program. The panel was held on November 25th.

The event, which drew an overflow crowd to the student lounge, aired the aims of an entertainment forum. The program was designed to determine the feasibility of instituting such a program. The panel was held on November 25th.

"Primarily the panel, composed of Prof. Elliot Barkan, Sergio Elizondo, and James Crum, and students, Jerry Rohde, Mike Lippert, Sam Houston, and Dodd Hessey, concerned itself with the structuring of a student evaluation of teaching proposal. Whether or not one sees the need for such a proposal was the main issue. It was assumed that a plan was devised by both the students and faculty.

At present there are two proposals that were, at least, partially on the table for discussion. The first is a proposal that is evolving out of the faculty's "Improvement of Instruction." This committee is made up of Prof. Robert Lee, Fernando Penalosa, Dennis Ekeberry, Elliot Barkan, Lee Kalbus, and vice-president for academic affairs, Gerald Scherba. The plan, being worked on is composed of five parts: instructor's classroom behavior, strengths and weaknesses of the course, background of the student, test-exam-visual material, assignments-grading. The student using this system would assess the class and the instructor according to these five categories. Each category would contain a number of questions each answerable in a number of ways (i.e., good, bad, poor, very poor, average, etc.)

According to committee member Elliot Barkan, assistant professor of history, "We hope to have our proposal ready in the near future. Our intention then, is to have a meeting and consult the students that appeared on the panel. Hopefully we would gain suggestions for further improvement from them."

The second proposal for a student evaluation of teaching was being worked on in the joint effort of Prof. Jesse Hirsako and student Sandy Bertrand.

"We would like to put on a panel every quarter," Dr. Hirsako stated. "It is hoped and expected that out of these Student-Faculty forums some concrete proposals would be forthcoming," he added.

"Topics for panel discussions to be held in the future might be the feasibility of an experimental college, the possibility of earning credit for the pre-existing arts or community work, an examination of grading systems, or, finally, the student portion of the Student Union Committee.""}

The Student Union Project is no longer a corpse. With the reorganization of the Student Union Committee last month, the project was resurrected.

ASB President Jerry Rohde now believes that a second "student fees election" will be held sometime during the winter quarter, depending upon the extent of "adverse student reaction." Offered to students a second time, Rohde feels that the proposal will be passed.

In a recent interview the ASB President said that the proposal presented earlier this year failed primarily "because many of its details were not clear." Rohde also cited the "way in which the election was handled" as a factor contributing to its defeat.

"A lack of information, and a poor Student Government" did not help to endanger the project to many students, he noted.

Rohde was explicit: "We have attempted to restructure the student portion of the Student Union Committee so that a wider range of individual students and student interest groups are represented." "Dennis Kaping, Lynn Bronahan, and John Hagy represent the opposition, while Sam Houston and Mike Ross represent the students favoring the proposal. Each is a voting member," he observed.

According to Rohde, there "is no one on this committee who serves as a representative of Student Government." He stated that the "only tie this committee has with Student Government is through myself as Co-Chairman, and through Barry Thompson." Rohde also said that the reorganized Student Union Committee will discuss, "What do students want in a Student Union?"

He added that the "only tie this committee has with Student Government is through myself as Co-Chairman, and through Barry Thompson." Rohde also said that the reorganized Student Union Committee will discuss, "What do students want in a Student Union?"

"What do students want in a Student Union?" Rohde added, "What is the passage or defeat of the proposal affect each class and each campus student body to be united if the Student Union wither?" Rohde said that the reorganized Student Union Committee will be "equally satisfactory to both pro and con groups."

Commented Rohde, "The Committee will attempt to develop a proposal which will be equally satisfactory to both pro and con groups."

He added, however, that "the will of the majority will predominate if attempts at reconciliation fail." Rohde added, "We hope for unanimous committee-member agreement if possible. We are working for that goal. Indeed, we can't expect the student body to be united if the Committee isn't?"

Rohde observed, "What do students want in a Student Union?" Rohde added, "What is the passage or defeat of the proposal affect each class and each campus organization? With or without the Student Union, what will be the situation on campus be like?" These are questions which the Student Union Committee will discuss, he asserted.

"We hope for unanimous committee-member agreement if possible. We are working for that goal. Indeed, we can't expect the student body to be united if the Committee isn't?"

"What do students want in a Student Union? How is the passage or defeat of the proposal affect each class and each campus student body to be united if the Student Union wither?"

The Committee meets at 10:30 each Thursday in L114.

In this quarter’s initial edition of the Pawprint we stated that, “This year promises to be one of increased student participation in affairs that are normally left in the province of the faculty or the administration.” With plans for the implementation of the Student Evaluation of Teaching proposal rapidly reaching completion, this statement is being, at least, partially borne out.

There is however one glaring incongruity inherent in the manner the S. E. T. is evolving. At present there is only one student (Sandy Bergstrand) actively involved in shaping an S. E. T. proposal. The majority of the work is being done by the faculty. Certainly, we are not chastising the faculty for working on their proposal for the S. E. T. Thank God someone is doing the work! It does seem strange, however, that the faculty is doing the most actively on a STUDENT evaluation of teaching.

In the future it is hoped that the students will take the initiative to formulate proposals to better the atmosphere at this school. If ideas don’t come from the A. S. government or the administration, then “student power” will, indeed, be only an empty phrase. One that is spoken by idiots and signifying nothing.

Charges of apathy fired at students on this campus by the SDS have raised a great deal of printed Complaints but there has been no effort to meet an interested attention. Not only are the students here politically active, they are closely approaching an intellectual apathy. **

The S. D. S. has been the only organization on campus to encourage intellectual consideration of moral and political issues. The students who object to the philosophies of the S. D. S. have made no effort to find a better approach or organize an equally active group. Many of these same students demand complete neutrality to the exclusion of all political opinions. **

Neutrality on campus has no value. It merely discourages formulation of opinion and prevents anyone of valuable dialogue that could exist between opposing viewpoints. It is unrealistic; eventually everyone will be forced to form opinions and judge the political system by personal criterion. Every four years citizens find they must become registered student of CSCSB who are involved in the December 6 meeting. Please join us Friday evening at the Sveden House. Campus No Place For Neutrality

A new club was organized on campus on November 7, 1968, with 12 members present. This newly organized club is the CSCSB Veterans Organization or better known as the Vets. Membership is open to any registered student of CSCSB who has served or is currently in the United States Armed Forces. He must hold an honorable or unHonorable discharge. Active members of the United States Armed Forces who are registered students are invited to become members. This include the gals too. Meetings are scheduled for Tuesday of each week at 10:30 hours in room 102 in the Physical Science Building. The primary objective of the Vets is to be of service to the veteran in such a manner to help him academically achieve his set goal. Secondly to promote and observe good citizenship on campus. Pertinent information from the V. A. concerning the veteran will be distributed to all Vets. The returning veteran who registers at CSCSB will find first time that YOU can do to help, if there is anything you like to do in the way of activities that will help raise money for our class, speak up don’t be afraid.

The meetings are open, go in and see for yourself, be a freshman for the class, not just for yourself.

Frosh Awake

Recently I attended a meeting of the Freshman Class Council because I was asked to come. Before this time I didn’t even realize the Freshman Class had a council. I’m sure there are many of us who don’t even know one council member, yet they meet and plan activities for the entire class with little or no help from the administration.

If these people are willing to give up their time for us, couldn’t we give up a little time for them? Seek out a council member, ask him or her if there is anything THAT YOU can do to help. If there is anything you like to do in the way of activities that will help raise money for our class, talk up—don’t be afraid.

The meetings are open, go in and see for yourself, be a Freshman for the class, not just for yourself.

Space Problems Move ASB, Paper Lounge.

Overcrowding is becoming a very real problem at CSCSB. Next fall, with 1,400 full-time students expected, the A.S. government, student lounge, and Pawprint are going to be moved to make way for added classrooms and cafeteria facilities.

According to Dean of Students Kenton Monroe, "This overcrowding has been foreseen for some time. Under the old Proposal, it had passed, would have met the needs for space in the 70's. It is now obvious, however, that we are going to have space problems.

'Next year,' Monroe continued, 'Due the limiting of enrollment at other state colleges, there will be students diverted to us from other overcrowded campuses. In order to meet our own needs, we are not only going to be forced to use as much space as possible for classrooms, but we are also going to have to diversify class sizes. We may go to 80-100 a.m. classes and more evening and late-afternoon classes. In fact, there is a possibility that there will be no empty classrooms at all during the day.'

Monroe added that the concern will be with finding room for meetings and events. "Hopefully," he added, "there will be some rooms open at some period of time during the day." Because of the space problems the A.S. Government offices will be moved from the Central Utilities Plant. P. S. 19 will become the new Student Lounge. The room makes up approximately 1,000 square feet of space, a decile in the minds of the facilities. The Pawprint will either join the A.S. offices in the Central Utilities Plant or be put into the Student Lounge.

Monroe concluded that there will probably be some relief in 1970 when the new library is opened. That is if some of the new library area was not turned to be excess, as it is supposed to. In 1971 the space problems will be at their peak with the overcrowding of 1972, space will again be at a premium.

State College Student Presidents Stress Unity

By Mark Trenam

Jerry Rohde, A.S.B. president, and A.S.B. Treasurer Barry Thompson, at a meeting of the California State College Board of Trustees and the California State College Presidents' Association last Nov. 24-26, the Trustees, meeting in the California Federal Building, in Los Angeles, were to host the CSCSPA and participate in informal discussions concerning the proposed revision of Title V of the Administrative Code of the State Colleges, which directly affects such areas as power of A.S.B. government and student publications.

Unfortunately, the best laid plans of men and A.S.B. presidents do not always materialize, for Chancellor Dümke and the Trustees went into executive session early Monday, the 25th, and didn't break until late the next day. Consequently, the CSCSPA was unable to meet with the Trustees, and therefore could not formulate any coherent position with regard to the Title V revision.

One state of the CSCSPA's frustration and resulting indecision was the failure, on two brief meetings arranged between us, to exchange and evaluate solutions to the problems of the individual state college campuses. From these discussions emerged two areas which are directly relevant to the development of Cal State San Bernardino: (1) Our involvement in the CSCSPA functioning as a unified voice. (2) Our awareness of specific concerns of the smaller, growing state college campuses.

Out of the mounting dissatisfaction which the CSCSPA felt toward the Trustees arose this proposed course of action: if a system wide convolution of all eighteen state college presidents could be realized, the CSCSPA could draw together divergent needs and views into a unifying, concordant voice. Only the weapon of unity could the CSCSPA hope to combat effectively the bureaucracy and diversity of opinion exhibited by the Board of Trustees. Hopefully, the next meeting of the CSCSPA in January will produce a definite plan to achieve this unity. From that point the major emphasis will then fall on formulating any cohesive position with regard to the Title V revision.

Once the state of the CSCSPA's frustration and resulting indecision was the failure, on two brief meetings arranged between us, to exchange and evaluate solutions to the problems of the individual state college campuses. From these discussions emerged two areas which are directly relevant to the development of Cal State San Bernardino: (1) Our involvement in the CSCSPA functioning as a unified voice. (2) Our awareness of specific concerns of the smaller, growing state college campuses.

Regardless campus problems relevant to the smaller, developing state colleges, Jerry Rohde revealed that most of the A.S.B. emerging which has been brought up who represented these smaller campuses were genuinely concerned with acting on the foresight to prevent problems rather than merely reacting to them as some of the ASBs of larger campuses have done. In exchangeing viewpoints with the ASB presidents from Sonoma State, Stanislaus State, and Dominguez Hills, Rohde stated that the chief interest is in structuring these young colleges in a way so as to prevent the causes of radical student upheaval which has plagued some of the larger campuses. Obviously, Cal State San Bernardino shares this position with the other small state college campuses. "If we don't utilize this opportunity now to establish a framework which is our unity, we increase the possibility of student disruption in the future," Rohde stated.

Though the original purposes of this meeting of the CSCSPA and the Board of Trustees failed to be realized, the value of the conference was to be found in those areas of student government to which all of the A.S.B. presidents could agree. First and foremost was the belief that the CSCSPA could only function as a strong political voice if they could be provided with the unified support of all the state college campuses. With this kind of support, the CSCSPA could then act as a state wide coordinating group which could initiate active programs such as sending speakers and representatives to all the eighteen campuses to inform students of problems confronting the state colleges. Firstly, there was an expressed need for some kind of awareness of the CSCSPA that they must push toward an activist-oriented body, involving constructive programs of distributing information and providing concrete media for deliberation, rather than simply making policy statements in reaction to decisions by the Board of Trustees.

150 Attend 'The 400 Blows' Frosh Hoot

The increasing attendance to CSCSB's Lectures and Public Affairs' presentations reached its high water mark so far last Nov. 22. Some 150 people showed up in PS 10 to see Francois Truffaut's "The Four Hundred Blows," and at least two-thirds of the audience stayed over for the T. G. I. F., Hootenanny sponsored by the Freshman class.

The L. P. A. Committee began its film series this quarter with Bergman's "Virgin Spring" on Oct. 11, and has followed every other Friday night with Bogart in "Casablanca," Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane," and Truffaut's "Four Hundred Blows." Because the first two events only drew a token audience, the sizable expansion of viewers present at the latter two were a highly welcomed, though anxiously awaited improvement.

Marijuana Debate Becomes Study of the Absurd

By BEN JACQUES

Should marijuana be legalized? 16 people were scattered about P. S. 10 last week to hear this question debated. S. 10 last week to hear this question debated was sponsored by the Students for Legalization. Two opposed it— at least, for most of the debate.

Bill Maddox, chairman of the local Peace and Freedom Party, debated the issue and stated that marijuana was not a social or physical danger to the user— it was not addictive; caused no cell damage; and did not affect the user's ability to vote. New York Mayor's study, with a person's job or his usual behavior pattern.

Maddox countered noting that in a study made of a group of Wallace supporters a majority was using marijuana. He admitted Maddox, but there were valid.

Muner Hanafi, chairman of the campus SDS, opposed Maddox, saying that marijuana has been misused. Hanafi stated that marijuana is dangerous because it is a gateway drug.

Further, economic disaster might not be a bad thing, said Maddox. However, he noted that marijuana use would cause more traffic deaths.

Sex-role identification was the subject of "Conscience of a Child," a film produced by the American Psychological Association and presented by the CSUSB Psychology Club on Nov. 21 at 8:00 p.m. in P. S. — 122.

Shown to an audience of about 50 people, the film stated that each culture sets certain approved ways in which men and women are expected to behave, termed "sex-role standards" for that culture.

The role that the boy will continue this modeling of his, but the girl is the one who is watching. Similarly, the girl learns the woman's role from her mother. Film notes that "both mother and father, through their attitudes toward each other, help the child of either sex to acquire appropriate role."

Sex-role identity is based for the young child on his perception of himself as similar to the same-sex parent, and as capable in adopting the games and doing the things encouraged for his sex," the film said.

When this self-image is incomplete, "sex-role identity is not supposed to be lost, anxiety is often aroused."

According to the film, the parents that the child models themselves after is the one who is nunturant, that is, responsive to the child's needs. This is commonly the mother early in life, the girl can continue this modeling of her, but the boy must shift to his father later on," it explained.

The film also noted that personality, temperament, and attitudes toward work and play can come from either parent, "even for the fully masculine boy or for the fully feminine girl."

"It is our desire," Trenam stressed, "To be able to present as many points of view as possible on any given subject. "We can't effectively do this," he added, "We'll try to present the support of all sectors of the college community."

Book Exchange Outlines Plans

The Book Exchange is now in the process of organizing its Winter Quarter. With over 150 books listed in our files we are hoping to increase the number of books we have for the beginning of Winter Quarter. The Book Exchange provides books for students. It is a way to sell your used books which you are no longer using, to buy other used books at a savings. In order to have a better variety of books available, we request that the students bring in more books before the beginning of Winter Quarter. Starting January 2, the Book Exchange will be placed in the Student Lounge and will be available to all interested. Students are encouraged to participate. For further information, see Mr. Bennecce in A-160.

Write In Happens Tonight

The Prickly Pear do-it-yourself-written show is now scheduled for December 6 at 8:00 p.m. on the campus of CSUSB. Hanafi is generously providing his domicile for a workshop. ALL CUSB students are invited to attend, to join in a little serious and not-so-serious creating.

The Prickly Pear staff wants to see what can come out of a free association, group-therapy type of situation. The session will be taped in order that all the little gems you come up unexpectedly will not be lost. It is the staff's desire that the write-in remain as unstructured as possible. Loaded with marijuana Hanafi is interested in what the participant may produce either during or as a result of the write-in. The tapes will be kept by the Prickly Pear and handled as a submitted manuscript.

With the order that Hanafi's house are available in the Humanities division office, students are encouraged to bring your last chance for some fun before the finals, or after.

The Prickly Pear is trying to locate the author of a series of write-ins submitted approximately one month ago. The only clue on the manuscript is the signature line or initials, "Dw." Would please leave word in the Prickly Pear office and you may be contacted. Thank you.
