Nominations Sought For Alumni Awards

Outstanding achievements by Cal State, San Bernardino graduates will be recognized again this year at an Alumni Awards Brunch, to be held April 26, 1981, in conjunction with the college Open House.

Because of the success of last year's 15th anniversary celebration and the first alumni awards brunch, the events will be repeated again next spring. A college committee, including the Alumni Association president, Lawrence Daniels, is at work planning the activities.

Nominations are now being sought by the Alumni Association for the Distinguished Alumni Awards and the Alumnus of the Year honor. Individuals may be nominated for outstanding achievement, service to the community, success in their field or a combination of these factors, Daniels said. The Board of Directors will make the selection.

The deadline for submitting nominations is March 15, 1981. Forms for making these recommendations are available from the Alumni Office in the Dean of Students Office at the college.

The honorees will be revealed at the Alumni Brunch, which will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. in the College Commons. Alumni and their families are encouraged to attend the brunch and remain for the open house activities which will continue throughout the campus during the afternoon, Daniels said.

Last year an estimated 3000 people attended the college's first major open house event. Many of the most popular programs from that day will be scheduled again this year.

- ★ $100, single life membership;
- ★ $150, life membership for two graduates in the same family;
- ★ $250 or more, endowment member.

Renewals at the old rates were accepted through December 31.

Eligible for membership in the Alumni Association are:

- (1) CSCSB graduates,
- (2) individuals who have received credentials from CSCSB,
- (3) CSCSB seniors, and
- (4) classified graduate students at the college.

ALUMNI PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Thanks to you, the membership, we have accomplished the following in 1980:

1. alumni membership in excess of 400;
2. a certificate savings account totaling over $6000 with only the interest income used for scholarships;
3. an annual awards program for our graduates;
4. publication of the Panorama, our alumni newsletter, on a regular basis by Public Affairs.

In order for us to continue to be a viable organization, we must set new, ambitious goals in 1981. First, we must start alumni chapters. We are working with the School of Education in this regard.

The Board of Directors of the Association plans to meet with President Pfau to discuss establishing a permanent place on campus — such as an alumni walk.

Our real purpose is to have traditions and permanence on campus.

The role of the Association also must be one of service to the college. The recent fire in San Bernardino County devastated many homes. Among them were some of faculty, staff and students of CSCSB. The college established a fund to assist these persons. The Association has made a $200 contribution.

Growth in our membership must translate into more support for our alums and the college.

Campus Receives $550,000 Damage In Spectacular November Fire

Virtually ringed by a wall of flames, the Cal State, San Bernardino campus sustained losses of approximately $550,000 in the disastrous Panorama fire which swept through San Bernardino Nov. 25.

Damage would have been greater had it not been for the lawns and sprinkler system. Winds up to 70-80 miles an hour sent embers flying across campus, igniting chaparral and dry grasses.

The Shipping and Receiving Building and the air conditioning towers were the two major casualties. The building and its contents were a total loss, as was one of the cooling towers on the Heating and Air-conditioning Building. The other cooling tower was damaged sufficiently to be put out of commission. In addition, a substantial amount of equipment and tools — including six electric carts — was destroyed in the yard at the Physical Plant.

The olive grove east of the campus, site of picnics and college festivities in the early days, was spared by the flames which denuded the hills surrounding the campus.

In addition to the damage at the college, the fire destroyed more than 250 homes in northern San Bernardino including about a dozen belonging to faculty, staff and students. Faculty and staff who were burned out include: Alice Coble, Computer Center; Carolyn Duffy, Campus Police; Sue Ellis, Library; Dr. John Hatton, Counseling and Testing Center; Dr. Dorothy Johnson, Nursing Department; Dr. Lee Kalbus, Chemistry and Academic Planning; and Dr. Ralph Petrucci, Academic Planning and Chemistry.

Michael O'Gara, retired head of the Physical Education Department; and students Gordon Eckstrom, Heather Levy, Michelle Profant, Dianne Briley and Sandra J. Warren also lost their homes.

A fund to help the fire victims meet immediate needs was established on campus by President Pfau with a $400 donation from the President's Club. Approximately $2800 was distributed a week later, with additional funds still being received for a later distribution. Members of the campus community also donated clothing and furniture and assisted with cleaning and sandbagging operations.

The Panorama fire, reportedly set by an arsonist, began in the Waterman Canyon about 11 a.m., Nov. 25. The gusting winds fanned the fire into walls of flame several stories tall. Smoke began rolling over the hills behind the campus late in the morning, foreshadowing the destruction which was to come. Employees and students watched singly or in small groups from many vantage points as the flames followed the smoke over the hills. By day's end, the hills on three sides of the campus were aflame.

At 1:45 p.m., President Pfau passed the evacuation order and faculty and staff left their offices, students and their instructors abandoned classrooms and residence hall students began loading their cars with their belongings. The National Orange Show grounds became a temporary home for some.

Once the fire had burned beyond the campus, efforts began to return to a normal life and to help members of the campus community who sustained a loss. Classes were resumed Nov. 27 and students came back to the dorms. Clean-up and restoration continued after the Thanksgiving recess.

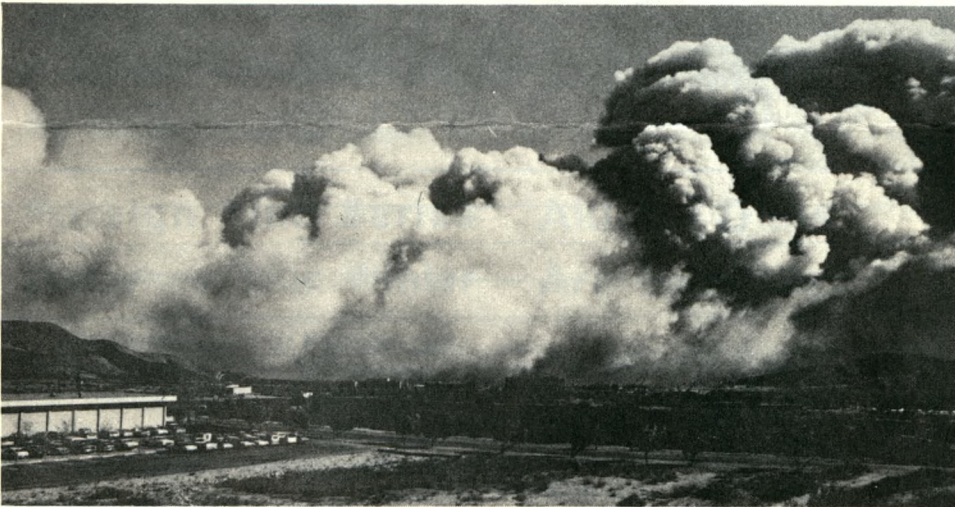

Since the state and the college are self-insured, one of the first problems was securing funding to replace the lost facilities and supplies. An immediate grant of approximately $100,000 was received from the Chancellor's Office. State Assemblyman William Leonard introduced special legislation to appropriate funds to cover the losses.

ROTC COMMISSIONS — Two of Cal State, San Bernardino's June 1980 graduates received commissions in the Army as a result of their participation in the ROTC program at the Claremont Colleges. Lt. David Henson, above, was presented his insignia by his wife, Susan, at left, and his mother, Mrs. William Henson. Henson was assigned to attend Airborne School at Ft. Benning, GA, before being sent to the 21st Replacement Detachment at Ft. Hood, TX in March 1981. Henson's home is in San Bernardino.

DISTINGUISHED GRADUATE — Lt. Charles Marshall, like Lt. Henson, was designated as a distinguished military graduate for finishing in the top third of ROTC graduates this year. Pinning on his insignia are Molly Jo Fies, at left, and his mother, Mrs. Peggy Marshall. Marshall was to report for his basic training at the U.S. Army Signal School in Ft. Gordon, GA. Marshall is a Riverside resident.

SPECTACULAR CLOUDS — The intensity of the fire and the ferocity of the winds sent clouds of smoke high into the sky above campus by early afternoon. The Physical Plant Building is at left.

FLAMES ON CAMPUS — By mid-afternoon, flames were licking at the edge of the parking lot behind the Physical Sciences Building.

New Computer Network To Be Educational Model

By Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke
The California State University and Colleges

A quiet revolution of immense implications in the ways students learn is occurring in The California State University and Colleges as a result of sweeping advances in computer technology.

Within two years some 166,000 students are projected to be in courses supported by computing. This number will represent at least one out of every two students on the 19 campuses, far more than twice the 74,000 who enrolled in such courses in 1976-77.

Academic areas where computer use is a factor have been mainly in the physical sciences, including computing science and engineering. Advances in recent years, however, have brought computing increasingly into such areas as business, management, agriculture and the social sciences.

For some alumni, revelations about the impact of computing as a tool for instruction and administration will be foreign to their memories of the campus scene. Questions arise. How beneficial is this technology? And what about the human element — the teacher standing, lecturing, illustrating and interacting at the front of the classroom?

I believe that modern, interactive computing systems are a valuable learning asset in higher education, as are books in libraries. I believe the role of computers will certainly grow and that the person at the head of the classroom where such systems are involved will be even more the model teaching scholar we all hold in esteem.

Alumni, particularly in business or industry, undoubtedly are aware of starting advances in the use of technology. Certainly the punchcard, as yesterday's symbol, has given way to new and sophisticated approaches to using computing languages, storage and retrieval techniques.

So it should be in higher education. Computing, once thought of in certain disciplines

ENGAGEMENTS

ERIC BERNARD RYDELL, BA 1980, and Laura Lee Chapell are engaged to marry April 25 at St. Francis de Sales Catholic church in Riverside. Eric is an assistant financial representative with Morris Plan of San Bernardino.

CHARLES HARVEY TALMADGE, BA 1977, and Christine Barbuto of Melbourne, Australia, are planning to marry on March 7. Charles is employed by the Running Center in Rialto and is also organist at the First Church of Christ Scientist in San Bernardino.

DIANE C. PRICE, BA 1977, and Gary Odell Jones have announced their engagement but no date has been set for the wedding.

as principally a reinforcement device to learning and more or less a rote activity, now offers versatile dimensions of learning unknown by previous generations of computer users. Even the operation of today's advanced computers is less complicated for students to master than was formerly the case.

The California State University and Colleges in 1980 is beginning a $50 million project to update and enhance computer technology for instruction and administration. The project will require two years to complete and is one of the largest such installations ever undertaken by an academic institution.

What will emerge is an educational network linking the CSUC's widely located campuses by means of new state-of-the-art computers connected with the State University Data Center in Los Angeles County. The contract is with Control Data Corporation of Minneapolis whose chairman, William C. Norris, has described the network as the model for educational computing all over the world . . .

California students will be able to share computing knowledge and applications with more than 40 institutions across the country having similar installations.

The new computer for the San Bernardino campus is expected to be installed late in 1981.
