College to Offer Extension Classes

Extension classes will be offered during the winter quarter beginning Jan. 5. A brochure describing the program will be available from Dr. Roach's office by Dec. 15.

The initial offerings will be directed to the real issues and the needs of the community today, said Roach. They will range from topics such as teaching English as a second language and counseling minority students to “cleaning the environment,” as taught by two chemists.

The first offering will be “In moving into an extension program,” a long-sought goal of the college board of trustees.

In addition, Regan has appointed four regents who favor tuition. They are W. Glenn Campbell, Robert O. Reynolds, Dean A. Watkins and William French Smith.

Fees Increased

Effective here next quarter the cost of the material and services fees will be raised from $40.50 to $43.00, an increase per year of $2.50 and for the college about $4,300. Where will this money go?

The only concrete information the district gave was that the $50 of the $2.50 increase will go to the Health Center. This was stipulated by the California State College Board of Trustees.

This week the district director of public information said he was searching through press releases from the Trustees, concluded that the money increase will go to the Dean of Students office to make up for the amount that has been withdrawn from that office.

Cal State Chorus and Madrigal Singers Present Christmas Concert Tonight

A concert of Christmas music will be presented at 8:15 p.m. this evening in P.S. 10 by the College Chorus and Madrigal Singers.

Joining the students in the concert will be professional instrumentalist Jane Meagher of San Bernardino and Luci Buchanen, Claremont High School student who is an accomplished harpist.

The chorus and singers are under the direction of Michael Andrews, instructor in the CSCSB music department.

The Madrigal Singers will be heard in “O Magnum Mysteriorum” by two composers, a motet by Tomas de Victoria, 16th century Spanish chorister, and carols by the contemporary English composer Peter Maxwell Davies.

Miss Buchanen will join the women’s chorus in “A Ceremony of Christmas Carols” by Benjamin Britten. Soliists will include Gail C. Buell, Doris Drake, and Jackie Thompson.

Junior music major Ellis Potter will direct the chorus in six Christmas carols representing different countries. Miss Drake, a freshman, will save the carols for soprano soloist. Accompanied for this portion of the program will be Dennis Dodds, a senior music major.

Excerpts from “The Childhood of Jesus,” composed by the French composer Hector Berlioz, will conclude the program. Mrs. Meagher is the organist pianist, organist and pianist who has done considerable work with the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera and will appear with the chorus in this concert.

Students in solo roles will include: Beritza Massay as Mary; Mary Brackett as Joseph; Burton Chowning as Joseph; and Joseph McKee as the father of a family.

The campus will present Saturday evening “Soul of the Black Man: Expression Through Music,” a concert-dance program in P.S. 10.

The presentation, a follow-up to the November inter-collegiate black conference, is a feature music by The United Soulful Caravan, Eddie Wilson and the East-West African Rhythm Group, the Sex Machine Orchestra, Incomparable Little Machine, Incomparable Little Machine and two gospel music choirs.

The last numbers are on sale for $1.50 in L-116 and will be sold at the door. General admission is $2.

The dance will be followed by a social hour, which will be forward to the educational opportunities program scholarship fund which aids minority students from economically deprived backgrounds.
S.F. Mime Troope Runs Vacation Workshop

The San Francisco Mime Troupe, long time thorn in the flesh of California College administrators, has announced a two-week "Radical Theater Workshop" to be held at San Jose State's Experimental College over the Christmas holidays. The full-time open enrollment course, which will run December 22-January 3, with Christmas and New Year's off, will cover both theory and practice of radical theater, including according to the announcement, "constant struggle with the question, how should art be political; six hours daily of classes in acting, mime, acrobatics, people's music, street theater forms, and short notice creations: outdoor experiments and original inventions."

The Troup hopes to attract students actively interested in both theater and politics, who will start (if they haven't already) "guerrilla theaters" on their own campuses. Registration fee is $40; living accommodations are available. Applicants should write: Doreen Bauman, Director, Experimental College, San Jose State College, San Jose, California, 95114.

Christmas Dance Scheduled During Dec. Vacation

A Christmas dance, sponsored by the Activities Committee and the Alpha Phi Omega Club, will be held during the Christmas vacation in the campus gymnasium. Featuring the music of a Los Angeles group, the Salvador Band, the dance will take place, December 19, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Admission is free to CSCEB students who show identification and to others for $7.50, $1.25 percouple. Refreshments will be served.

State College Application Fee Increased $10

A $10 increase in application fees for students seeking to enroll in The California State Colleges will go into effect February 1, 1970, according to David Kagan, state-wide coordinator of admissions services. The increase, which brings the fee to $20, is necessary due to increased cost in the processing of applications, and the scarcity of appropriated funds, Kagan said.

The increased application fee was approved November 25 by the college system's Board of Trustees.

Cal State Colleges to Admit 4,500 More Students

The California State Colleges will admit an estimated 4,500 more students during the 1969-70 academic year, provided for in the college system's budget, Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke announced today.

The Chancellor issued the following statement:

"We are pleased to report a review of fall enrollment figures as submitted by the colleges and have determined that, although the college are presently exceeding their budgeted number of students, careful planning by the colleges will permit them to achieve additional increases."

Oscar Jackson Named New Personnel Head

Oscar C. Jackson, Jr., who has been working most recently with the employment of minorities and the disadvantaged, has been named the new personnel officer for California State College, San Bernardino.

He came to the CSCSB from San Diego where he has been with the Citizens Internecial Committee since June. His responsibilities were in negotiations for equal hiring opportunities and in community relations.

Prior to this Jackson spent six months with the Watts Labor Community Action Committee of Los Angeles, working primarily as a counselor in evening diadrgusted and minorities for a training program established by the federally funded committee at Camp Sausalos.

Jackson spent seven years with the Department of Employment, working in the offices in San Diego, San Bernardino briefly, Santa Ana and Los Angeles. He was manager of a unit in San Diego from 1967 to 1968.

An Army veteran, Jackson received his bachelor of science degree in sociology from the University of Utah in 1956.

The personnel officer is responsible for the recruitment and training of non-academic staff for the colleges.

"The Andromeda Strain"

By CORINNE SCHINOR

"The Andromeda Strain" by Michael Crichton (Knopf: $5.95, 1969).

If the criterion for a good science fiction yarn includes a tightly-woven plot which completely absorbs the reader, then "The Andromeda Strain" is a success. However, the author, Michael Crichton, has failed to create characters of more than one dimension, and his book lacks dimension also.

The plot is well-developed. A small desert town, Piedmont, Arizona, population 52, is the landing spot for a space probe returning to Earth after collecting foreign microorganisms. Two men are sent to retrieve the missile and radio contact is ominously cut off between the men and base command. Aerial photographs reveal the grisly fate of Piedmont: population obliterated, bodies sprawled all over the street.

The missile is taken to a Nevada research laboratory, where a team of scientists begins the painstaking and dangerous work of probing into the missile. How they discover the microorganisms Andromeda and how they react to prove their existence, make the story an exciting one.

The problem with the novel, and this may be a prevalent problem in science fiction, is that the characters are black-and-white. Crichton sets them up to make "mistakes" throughout their research which frustrate their attempts to solve the mysteries of Andromeda. The "dark horse" of the science team, a surgeon named Dr. Hall, becomes a white knight or "dark horse" of the science team, a surgeon named Dr. Hall, becomes a white knight or the college opened. While there have been requests for this service in the past, limited faculty and community resources made the program impractical until now," said Roach.

The three-month-old Office of Continuing Education is responsible for extension, summer sessions and community service activities including conferences and workshops.

Extension courses offered by Cal State, San Bernardino will be open to anyone interested in the subjects offered. It is not necessary to be enrolled as a regular student in the college, Dr. Roach stressed.

As contrasted to the usual credit offerings of the college, the extension classes do carry a tuition charge which is set by the Board of Trustees at $12.75 per quarter unit. Both three-unit and five-unit courses are planned for the winter session.

The winter quarter offerings will include both new courses created for extension offerings and courses drawn from the regular curriculum of the college and carrying regular-unit credit.

Present regulations of the college permit the application of a limited number of extension credits drawn from the regular curriculum to be counted toward a bachelor's degree from CSUSB.

Either the Office of Continuing Education or the Admissions Office can clarify details on degree-credit work done under the extension program, Roach said.

Roach, a former newspaper editor and publisher in Iowa, came to CSUSB last September to address the black men's College this fall to launch a continuing education program. A former professor, he had taught at Northern Arizona University after earning his Ph.D. from Claremont Graduate School.

Saga Food Service is wholeheartedly backing Mrs. Atterbury's efforts to respond to student requests, reports Federle Bauccio, district manager, who was on campus last week to study proposals and meet with the college's Cafeteria and Bookstore Committee.

Students responding in the opinion survey requested more hot foods, more filling foods, and different sandwiches. The consensus seemed to favor hotter hamburgers and french fries and better coffee.

In answer to protests about cluttered and unclean tables in the dining areas, the food service is hiring another bus boy for the peak periods.

"We are pleased with the response to the survey, which drew an honest feedback from the students," reported Bauccio.

Students appreciated efforts made this year to expedite the serving lines and to all to the student requests as possible within the limitations of space and volume of business, there is one demand for which they just can't guarantee results. It is this plaintive plea:

"Get rid of the bees in the patio."

Patricia Nishizawa, office manager, was on campus last week to study proposals and meet with the college's Cafeteria and Bookstore Committee. She commented the attitude and co-operativeness of the staff.

Students Rap on Coffeehouse

NANCY SAUNDERS

Several students have expressed a sincere interest in the establishment of a community coffeehouse to be located on Mt. Vernon St. in San Bernardino. A building has been acquired and work is currently underway to prepare it for opening. The basic idea is to provide a place for people to congregate in a relaxed, comfortable atmosphere. Students were asked at random if they thought the coffeehouse would be relaxing and a good chance to meet people. It would be nice for new students, especially, to get to know people. Entertainment would be enjoyable, if possible, like guitar and folk singing. I really think it would be a good idea. If there are enough people interested it could work, but otherwise it might fall flat on its face.

JOHN PEREZ, freshman, sociology: "Yes, I think it is worthwhile and I would be willing to go due to the tranquility offered to all within its open doors. In essence it uses a colloquialism with a beautiful

Students Respond to Survey

Walter S. Kadyk, director of the College Police at California State College, San Bernardino, has completed the 10-week intensive training program at the Southern California Peace Officers Academy.

Completion of a peace officer's training program similar to the academy at Riverside is a requirement for employment as a college police officer at CSCSB.

Kadyk is the fifth man in the department to take the training.

The academy, operated by the Riverside County Sheriff's Department and Riverside City College, is open to full-time peace officers from various agencies. In his class of 36 men, Kadyk was the only college police officer. The newest member of the force will enter an academy in January.

The academy program certifies its graduates under the regulations of the State Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training. The 400-hour course requires full-time participation for the 16 weeks.

Kadyk, a graduate of Cal State San Bernardino, has been with the CSCSB police for more than a year and a half, serving as director since last December. He earlier had experience as a reserve deputy with the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department and as a reserve officer with the San Bernardino Police Department.

Mike Ross, under Old Business, explained and read the new changes on the Publications Board Code. Attendence: All Senators were present at the Nov. 2, 1969 meeting. Harper and Mitchell were absent from the December 2, 1969 meeting.
Environmental Problems Is Main Study of U of Wisconsin

by MALCOLM G. SCULLY

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The University of Wisconsin at Green Bay is located on a windy bluff above the bay where, as children, many of its students swam. Now the waters of the bay are too polluted for swimming.

One of the two new campuses authorized by the Wisconsin legislature in 1965, the new university has incorporated four two-year centers — with the main campus located on the site above the bay. Thus far, three buildings have been erected there.

With about 3,000 students and 250 faculty members at all four branches, the university inaugurated an interdisciplinary academic program this fall, organized around the theme, "Man and His Environment."

HAS 4 "THEME" COLLEGES

The university does not have a traditional structure — a college of arts sciences with graduate and professional schools. Instead, it has four "theme" colleges — the college of environmental sciences, the college of community sciences, the college of human biology, and the college of creative communications.

Each college is a composite of the various disciplines that can be applied to its specific set of environmental problems. The area of community sciences, for instance, includes anthropology, economics, geography, political science, psychology, and sociology.

Students do not "major" in one of the traditional disciplines. Instead, they "concentrate" in areas related to environmental problems. In the college of environmental sciences, for instance, concentrations include "environmental control" and "ecosystem analysis.

Thus far, three buildings have been erected there.

Reagan - Students Meet, Discuss Finance Problems

Marlin Brown, ASB

vice-president, recently attended a state-wide meeting of California State College and University of California students interested in student influence on campus decision-making. The students met with Governor Reagan to discuss their and his ideas.

The following is Brown's report:

meeting with Reagan VB.

Last Monday I attended a meeting in Sacramento with a group of interested students who desired to have some decision-making capacity concerning the college-university budget. It was felt by the students that with some or say at least consultation on budgeting matters we would have a more powerful voice in college and political matters.

Other alternatives were discussed such as student representation on the Board of Trustees or on committees, but it was realized that this vote would be token and the budget committee was the best approach.

At four o'clock we met with Governor Reagan and basically discussed the possibility of establishing a student advisory council. The Governor stated that he would firmly support the legislation and continuation of this council. He felt that a direct means of communications was sorely needed and the best approach. He encouraged students to familiarize themselves with the budgeting procedures and offer suggestions which he promised would be respected.

His main concern however was one of communications. He spent considerable time discussing the advantages of heading off rumors before they start and offered his office, or himself, if necessary. He distributed budget information in answer to previous questions posed to him in an informal meeting held two weeks ago.

My impression was that the governor was sincere in his effort to open communications with students; however, a lot of questions remain unanswered. Generally, the students were poor and basically ignorant on the issues discussed. Additionally, they were not united among themselves and showed this at the meeting by confirming the students transitory and erratic position in the educational process. Another meeting with Reagan is scheduled for January 3, 2:30, hopefully a more united front can be presented. If there are any students interested in studying the budget information I received and making suggestions please contact me.
Good If Efficient?

Often, benefactors of American pragmatism, we assume something is good if efficient. The draft has been made efficient. Yet, who, listening to the reading of birthdates last Monday night, did not feel the terror of the great machine; who did not see the burning inconsistencies of a government which plays casino games with young lives in order to support a man-power war-capability outside the United States of more than 1.5 million men while sitting heartily at the feasting table saying thanksgiving, peace on earth?

Who would have suspected that the war would have brutalized us so, cause so much dismay among us? The draft must be strongly, consistently and according to every person’s conscience, opposed.

Chemistry teachers to Meet Here

Approximately 50 chemistry teachers from high schools, colleges and universities throughout southern California will meet Saturday (Dec. 6) at California State College, San Bernardino.

The conference is a quarterly meeting of the Southern Section of the California Asn. of Chemistry Teachers.

Two simultaneous sessions will be run during the morning, explained Dr. James Crum, CSGB professor of chemistry and coordinator for the meeting.

New approaches to teaching high school chemistry, now being incorporated in the latest textbooks, will be explained to the secondary teachers by representatives of three major publishing companies. Discussion leaders will represent the points of view of the authors who rewrote the chemistry study programs.

Two technical lectures will occupy the morning for the university and college professors. Dr. Milton Blander from North American Rockwell’s Science Center will discuss the origin of meteorites. A chemistry professor from Cal State, Los Angeles, Dr. T. P. Onak, will lecture on Carboranes, cage compounds of carbon and boron.

Vietnam Already a Bloodbath

To the Editor:

Recently President Nixon went on television to defend his position on Vietnam. Out of this appearance came the administration’s argument against the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops. Perhaps the most essential purpose of the trip and this argument was that the belief that an immediate withdrawal would precipitate a worldwide slaughter on the part of the National Liberation Front. It is rather interesting to note Nixon’s fear of bloodshed when as of now 300,000 American casualties have been recorded since 1961, making this war the third most costly foreign war in our history. Estimates indicate that by April of 1970 our casualty toll will surpass that of World War I. The American losses mention nothing as compared to the Vietnamese— who have lost over 600,000 killed and incalculable numbers wounded as a direct result of our involvement there. May I suggest to President Nixon that that in itself is a slaughter.

We have reports of an atrocity committed in South Vietnam, not by the Viet Cong but by American troops. An American company, operating at half-strength and battle-worn, allegedly entered a Vietnamese village in Viet Cong territory and systematically executed the inhabitants, women and children. This action cannot be justified by any means. It serves as an illustration of the horrors which war brings and an example of why we must end this war. It is like a cancer spreading its tumor throughout Americas; illustrating America’s ills and shortcomings, dividing old and young, and separating emotion from reason. Perhaps it is true, as the extreme radicals would have us believe, maybe we are a nation no better than Hitler’s Germany; a nation suppressing dissent, fighting an illegal and immoral war, and purporting to defend democracy but in actuality supporting dictatorships in the name of anti-communism. Have we forgotten our quest for freedom in a call for patriotic obedience? If so, then God help America.

John Thwing Rides Again

To the Editor:

A small country, 12,000 miles from here bordering China, Laos, Thailand and Cambodia. Its population is 60,000,000 and its economic structure lies primarily in agriculture... Why have four presidents committed some $30 billion dollars of our money and nearly 40,000 of our soldier’s lives defending this country? Why do we, the taxpayers, support this war? This war is not a civil war within South Vietnam that we are interfering in a "civil war" in another country. We are fighting for peace and freedom... Let me ask you, is this what you think of your country?

Yes, it is people like these who are organizing anti-war demonstrations nationwide. It is closing... Let me ask you, is this what you want identified with? Is this what you want for the South Vietnamese? Is this all you think of your country? 40,000 young soldiers have died in Vietnam for freedom. They certainly don’t want us.
