"BRITISH ART TODAY"
FEATURED IN TALK
BY VISITING PROFESSOR

Roy Slade, visiting Fulbright scholar and exchange professor in painting at the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D.C., will present an illustrated lecture on "British Art Today", at the first Spring Term Noon Series.

His lecture will attempt to explain and clarify his attitude toward his own painting, toward teaching and recent developments in art, particularly in Britain today.

The program will be presented Tuesday, April 2, at 11:30 in the PS Lecture Hall.

Professor Slade has had wide experience in lecturing and his talks are always visually stimulating and often controversial. He has many skills which he uses fully to illustrate his talk.

Admission is free, and open to the public as well as the entire College community.

STUDENT'S CAR FLIPS
ON ROAD TO P.E. AREA

Student Janice Sandahl suffered bruises, but escaped serious injury, when her convertible flipped over on the access road to the Physical Education area about 5 p.m. Wednesday. She swerved to avoid hitting a rabbit.

Four faculty members who were playing tennis helped Security Officer James Weir lift the car off the student, who was pinned underneath. The faculty members were Charles Clifton, Paul Johnson, Peter Schroeder and Ed White.

"The accident should serve as a warning to everyone who uses our narrow access roads," commented Carl Johnson, Chief of Campus Police.
