Covid-19 Ruined My First Year of College

This is a mini diary that expresses my emotions towards Covid-19 and how it affected my first year of college. As soon as I got accepted to Cal State San Bernardino I was so excited to start a new start at a new school. Unfortunately I received a letter from the school stating classes were going to be virtual. I was really looking forward to being on campus and meeting new people and making new friendships and memories. I wanted the full college experience and to be with my other friends that are going to the same school. It hasn't been bad doing virtual classes, I still am learning and meeting new people from zoom. I just wish it was in person. This year hasn't been the best but I am very fortunate for everything, being healthy and happy, surrounded by my family, boyfriend, and friends.
