This is a turn of events. Further, the teacher or the parent is upset that the child has been suspended. The parent is upset because the child’s academic performance has been declining, and the child has been displaying behavior problems in class. The child was suspended for "merely" yelling in the classroom. The parent believes that the school officials have shown bias and have not followed proper procedures.

HOWE NAMED UCR POLICE CHIEF

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 10--William Youngblood, who was named to a similar post at UC Santa Barbara last year, has been selected for the position of Director of Public Safety at the University of California at Riverside.

He came to the campus as the top candidate in a field of more than 100 applicants who came forward from a nationwide search. The search process sought a replacement for former Director of Public Safety, the late Capt. Ray L. Osborn.

RIVERSIDE: When William J. Marshall retired from the Air Force as a Master Sergeant, he began a job, and a new life, because of his background in security and law enforcement he located at the field of Industrial Security.

His life took a turn for the better when he began working for his friend and former Air Force co-worker, General Manager.

Marshall explains that his job at the Air Force was to train fellow flight crews to be successful in their careers.

He drives a car and has a degree in business administration and he is still employed as a recruiter for the company.

The following questions or comments are directed to Imam Wajahat Muhammad (leader of the Islamic Association of Los Angeles). We have agreed that the answers provided will not serve to educate the public on the religion of Islam in general.

Q: What is the Muslim view of funerals as regards to buying flowers or headstones? How do we proceed in the event of a funeral in a non-Muslim family member?

A: As Muslims, we have our own burial procedures, and I would simply say that the Imam in charge can give the details of that when necessary. And the Muslims should inform the funeral arrangers for Muslims, so I don’t think Muslims give much attention to that aspect. Muslims really do not have any problem in the arrangements in the funeral, and we proceed as we do doing the religious rites or procedures, and we carry out the official requirements and make a prayer, a prayer at the end and return home.

In our relationship with non-Muslims, especially our relatives, we think that we are an obligation as Muslims to help them in their affairs and to do it as much as we can to respect their sentiments without breaking or violating any rule of our religion. I find nothing wrong with giving flowers and attending the funeral arrangements by Christians. If the relative is Muslim, we should proceed to the burial grounds, we should proceed to the gravesite where. From Rev. 21:1-2. The message was, as a member of the congregation, “Jesus Is A Problem Solver,” “I Didn’t Think It Could Be Until It Happened To Me,” “I Expect A Miracle,” “God Is,” “There’s A Bright Side Somewhere.” Pastor Gray spoke on “Your Resolution For The Glory of God.” Dr. Leonora Gray took us back to Luke 13:6-9. You will not have any excuse for not obeying God’s law.

The New Year at Bibleway started out in good spirits. Worship meeting, was Holy Ghost filled, and included. There was a preaching, good music and good natured people. Rev. Harper and Harper preached a dynamic message. The same high spirits continued on into our Sunday morning worship service. The choir sang some wonderful spirituals among them, "Why can't I wait on the Lord" I Don't Believe He Bought Me This Far To Leave Me. "The Lord is Coming Back Again," "Who Shall Abide In Thy Tabernacle," Pastor Harper song, "I'm Sundip Oyib Stop." Pastor Harper also received a powerful message from Proverbs 4:16-18 describing in which self-discipline will be able to save anyone from trouble because we have faced and tasted with this. RIVERSIDE. Some years ago Park Avenue was a lane of robust Black business filled with activity and dancing activity. The surrounding prominent- ly Black neighborhood used to pay homage to its storefront churches of minstrels musicians and patronage it's soul and bar restaurants where they would queue themselves on the best New Orleans style gumbos and spaghetti 2-hour to town.

However a gradual shift in the economy caused many merchants to either get out of business or relocate with new plants of growth and success. The once busy Park Avenue eventually transformed Park Avenue into a waste land. The area became a depressed area characterized by vacant lots, garbages, liquor stores and gambling dens.

With the present intense revivals and the high depression unemployment rate, it is difficult to convince an attempt to revitalize Riverside's Black business area. Now, several Black business owners have been chosen to open-up shops in the Avenue. In renovating the Ave-

Yolanda Moses to be Speaker for Martin Luther King Day

By Art Cook

Yolanda Moses will be guest speaker at the annual Martin Luther King Jr commemorative celebration, sponsored by the Perris Elementary School Calif., on January 16 at 7:30 p.m.

Ms. Moses graduated from Perris Union High, the same school that her father attended, and she is a 1973 graduate from San Bernardino Valley College, San Jose State University, and California State College, San Bernardino, where she earned Bachelor of Arts degree. She received a Master of Science degree from the University of California at Riverside. Ms. Moses is presently Executive Director of the Good Hope Community Improvement Association.

This is a time of your year when people make resolutions for the coming year. Following are some resolutions that we can all make in our efforts to live a better life. Some of these items pertain to how we will not identify them. You'll have to understand that you cannot get away with them.

2. Do you lack confidence? If so, examine your assets and liabilities, then use your assets to help you overcome your liabilities. We all have assets and liabilities. Are you ready to proceed with positive directions for your life?

3. Are you without friends? Start saying hello to your fellow workers and neighbors. They are probably waiting for you to speak. They probably want you to be a friend. We need all of the friends we can make!

4. Would you like to learn more? Don't wait, enroll in one of the excellent schools in this area. Proper Education is the key that will open many doors.

5. Are you thinking of illegal drugs? Get into another business or move to another area. We must work together as a community against drug abuse above all to do everything we can to STOP OUR BUSINESS.

6. Are you hooked on drugs or alcohol? Seek help! Recognize the fact that you have a problem and then do something about it.

7. Have you been mistreated or had your integrity questioned?

8. What? Join the team. Are there someone you have rapidly going down hill in regards to acceptable social behavior? Pray for them, then, let us answer to all problems. It is true in Jesus Christ.

9. Do you need someone to lean on? Or do you need someone to listen to you? Well, you and I can make that happen.

In the coming months, there will be many initiatives to restructure the Social Security System, both to help reduce the federal deficit and to make the system more secure. There are many different options as to whether reasons are necessary.

Some people say the federal government should play an increased role in reducing poverty. Others say the federal government should play a decreased role. There are many different options as to whether reasons are necessary.

The federal government has a legitimate role in reducing poverty. It is simply a matter of how and when the government provides assistance.

1. The federal government has a legitimate role in reducing poverty. How should it play this role?

a. Implement great programs that provide necessary services to the needy
b. Provide training and re-training of unemployed workers

c. Provide aid to abjectly poor citizens to improve their lives

2. Support major tax increases on the Social Security system for current beneficiaries? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

3. Support major tax increases on the Social Security system for future beneficiaries? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

4. If you feel that some changes might be necessary, would you support or oppose the following suggested revisions?

a. Gradually raise the retirement age from 65 to 68 be phased in over a period of ten years

b. Subject benefits to federal income tax (this would exempt veterans who have been disabled because of service)

3. Support the automatic cost-of-living adjustment for a one-year period?

4. Minor increases in Social Security benefits be provided? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

The combination of the large federal deficit and the great issue to balance the federal budget may result in initiatives to reduce Social Security benefits. There are many possible options for each state to do this.

5. Do you believe we need to increase taxes to reduce the deficit? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

6. Regardless of whether you favor increasing taxes, if taxes are increased, would you support or oppose the following legislation?

a. Increasing income tax rates (this would exempt veterans who have been disabled because of service)

b. Subject benefits to federal income tax (this would exempt veterans who have been disabled because of service)

7. Support annual increases in Social Security benefits? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

In answering the question, you can refer to the specific initiatives that the government has taken to reduce the federal budget.

Federal initiatives are taking an unwarranted amount of time, being spent to campaign advertising, both negative and positive. Many believe the election process itself is a major cause of the increase in special interest groups, which claim they are lobbying for the good of the nation.

8. Do you support the defense budget? If so, what is the major cause of the increase in special interest groups? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

9. In your opinion, what is the major issue facing the federal government? (A) yes (B) no (C) don't know

2. Do you need someone to lean on? Or do you need someone to listen to you? Well, you and I can make that happen.

COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY

The impact of computers on our lives today is only beginning. Computers are a multibillion dollar industry. No longer the exclusive domain of technical wizards, they are found in homes, businesses, and schools. For the first time since the smaller, less expensive, more powerful and more versatile than previous giant models that sometimes filled an entire room. Today, they may be smaller than a transistor radio, or the size of a telephone book.

Our alarm clocks and cars talk to us, automated bank machines do our financial transactions. To a limited extent, computers are diagnosing medical ailments and treating schoolchildren. As one student said, computers are "friendly, patient and never bored." Computers can do our personal chores as well as book keeping, shopping and learning. They're playing computer games, writing books and point to paper wages and tax returns and even storing recipes via computer.

So what's next? The possibilities are limited only by the imagination. Computers that understand English, can talk to us in our native tongue. They can read and write. They can move about and interact with the world of man. Computers will not destroy the work of man, but they will change it. Man will be free from the drudgery of the past and will be able to pursue the activities the computer will do for him.

In the early phase after the onset of symptoms such as pain in neck, chest or weakness, fainting, the victim needs to be kept alive. This can be done by performing a C.P.R., training course in C.P.R., which anyone can be certified, proper technique (almost anyone can be certified), so it is a skill which you cannot get by reading. The method used is started immediately can the victim be kept alive. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation or C.P.R. course will teach you the first vital steps for any unconscious victim. Therefore, most emergencies will be easier to handle, for you will know the important steps for saving a life.

C.P.R. is the only way to keep someone alive when his heart or his breathing or both have stopped. You have to learn it and know the important steps to keep someone alive, otherwise they will die. Therefore, most emergencies will be easier to handle, for you will know the important steps for saving a life.

Dear Editor:

As we prepare for the new year, and as we look forward to what we will bring, I thank you for the coverage that you have given during the past year to help the public understand what is happening in the proper tax field and in the full navigation general. When public interest in taxes continues at a high level, when changes still being made in the way that the provisions of Proposition 13 are to be applied, and when many other changes are taking effect, affecting such pro- perties as time fame developments and mobile homes, it is important that accurate, factual in- formation be made available to the public.

I will be pleased to provide you with the best information I have on taxation matters in 1980. Best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

QUESTION: What is the California Cereal Enrichment Law?

ANSWER: This law provides for the enrichment of white rice that is not contain-ned or corn flour, and foods containing more than 25 percent of these products. What does this mean to you? It means that corn-based foods you buy in the supermarket like crackers, macaroni, macaroni and cheese, white bread, french bread, cans of baked beans, and cake mixes are made with enriched flour. This law What is your opinion not required by law to be enriched in California?

ANSWER: The following is a list of grain products that are not required to be enriched: Corn tortillas. Oriental style noodles, Chinese style noodles and Japanese style noodles. Cereal products at the wholesale level (The California Enrichment Law applies to those bread and cereal products sold at retail.)

QUESTION: How can you tell if a cereal-based food made with enriched or unenriched white flour?

ANSWER: Read the ingredients label. The law in this state requires that enriched ingredients used in the manufacturing of a branded food to be labeled. For example, this package of noodles made with enriched flour. Ingredients enriched white flour, water, eggs, dusted with cornstarch. Look for the term "enriched" in the ingredient label.

Dear Editor:

As we prepare for the new year, and as we look forward to what we will bring, I thank you for the coverage that you have given during the past year to help the public understand what is happening in the proper tax field and in the full navigation general. When public interest in taxes continues at a high level, when changes still being made in the way that the provisions of Proposition 13 are to be applied, and when many other changes are taking effect, affecting such pro- perties as time fame developments and mobile homes, it is important that accurate, factual in- formation be made available to the public. I will be pleased to provide you with the best information I have on taxation matters in 1980. Best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,

Frank C. Seeley, Assessor

QUESTION: What is the California Cereal Enrichment Law?

ANSWER: This law provides for the enrichment of white rice that is not contain-ned or corn flour, and foods containing more than 25 percent of these products. What does this mean to you? It means that corn-based foods you buy in the supermarket like crackers, macaroni, macaroni and cheese, white bread, french bread, cans of baked beans, and cake mixes are made with enriched flour. This law What is your opinion not required by law to be enriched in California?

ANSWER: The following is a list of grain products that are not required to be enriched: Corn tortillas. Oriental style noodles, Chinese style noodles and Japanese style noodles. Cereal products at the wholesale level (The California Enrichment Law applies to those bread and cereal products sold at retail.)

QUESTION: How can you tell if a cereal-based food made with enriched or unenriched white flour?

ANSWER: Read the ingredients label. The law in this state requires that enriched ingredients used in the manufacturing of a branded food to be labeled. For example, this package of noodles made with enriched flour. Ingredients enriched white flour, water, eggs, dusted with cornstarch. Look for the term "enriched" in the ingredient label.
