Perris area residents heard "the dream live on," in their commemorative services last Sunday evening. The mood of the service centered around unity. The guest speaker of the evening was Dr. Volanda Moses, the chancellor of California Poly University at Pomona. Dr. Moses explained that due to the death of Dr. King, it is important to preserve the greatness of the man. In fifteen to twenty years the history books will rename his role and accomplishments. She ended the past that Dr. King sought for human right through non-violence, led him past the problems of the return and ultimately led to his death. Dr. Moses said of the civil rights movement of the 60's and some of those who were outstanding figures of that era such as Rosa Parks of Birmingham, Alabama. She produced highly textured images of the interactions, relationships of Dr. King and other civil rights "supremes," quizzed her depth knowledge of her subject and eloquence of her presentation. On hand to provide the musical tribute for the program was the Voices of Hope Gospel Choir from March Air Force Base. This choir is a group of people who have not received much attention in the past. I must say for the first time at least since its service and was great.

Riverside Community Groups Honor King

By Charle Liedebitter

Over 200 marchers walked from the Recreation Center to the March Field Chapel. With lightened candles, singing "We Shall Overcome," the group arrived at the Chapel and listened to recorded excerpts of speeches by Dr. King as in celebration of the birth of Martin Luther King Jr. His voice inspired the audience, a picture of Dr. King's projects on the wall of the chapel in keeping with the theme "Let's Feel Welcome." The guest speaker, Marian Talley, Ph.D. reminded us of the responsibility we have to make Dr. King's dream come true. She said, "we have made many advances as a group, however there is a lot more work to be done."

IMA Debate

By H. Yakubu Adamu

To be or not to be a bureaucracy, the debate continues on the merits and demerits which can certainly change the future of the Inland Manpower Association. At issue is the argument in favor of a one-county operation versus the two-county consortium, the debate continues.

The following questions or comments are devoted to Imam Warihuddin Muhammad (leader of the American Muslims) in Brooklyn, N.Y., the general public, the hope that the answers provided by him will serve as a guide in the public on the religion of Islam in America.

QUESTION: What is the meaning of the word "brother" in Islam? How do we address non-Muslims or Muslim brothers and sisters?

IMAM: In reading the Quran, we find many times that the term "brother" in the verses of Quran are addressed as Muslims or as believers, and so forth, but not as Muslims or non-Muslims. The All-Encompassing Lord addresses this question of who should be called brother. In fact, I think there is one very important verse in the Quran where we are addressed as brother.

Muslims do have a habit of calling each other brother now. We say, Brother John, Brother Shabazz, Brother Muhammad: it's almost a habit we have.

But I notice in the Hadith, Prophet Muhammad (S.P.N.B.) hardly ever said brother. He said, "Oh, Elijah or Oh, Omar." He didn't say brother, obviously, "He didn't use brother that often" because it's not in the Hadith, in the reports that he said brother before addressing them.

Najid: I'm not in favor of anyone that don't say you before addressing brother.

We should understand what the Quran says that it is the habit of Al-Islam in referring to the teachings of the Quran in our life that we have come from the savage state of makhe, hatred, strife, and so forth that we had to play down that need to say brother or sister every time we address a person. I wouldn't like to play down a lot of important things like having to take it as a ritual or a law in the religion that you have to address a person like that because obviously the terms of Prophet Muhammad were not bound to go by that way of addressing people.

When we speak of a Muslim as brother, we should understand what the Quran says that if a Muslim has made a brother, he should see him as the friend of truth and brother, not only as a brother.

Najid: We should understand what the Quran says that it is the habit of Al-Islam to refer to the teachings of the Quran in our life that we have come from the savage state of make, hatred, strife, and so forth that we had to play down that need to say brother or sister every time we address a person. We should understand that to be brothers to each other is the highest level of human relations. It is to be considered one of each other, to feel compassion for each other and to want to be respectful of each other.

If we were to call each other brother, we should not call each other brother, we should not call them brother. They might not like it.

The Holy Spirit could be left as the Celestial Choir member singing "The Lord is My Strength and Salvation" and rendering many beautiful songs of praise which included "I've Seen the Lightning Flash", "Peace Be Still" and "Learning To Live on Jesus'.
Prayer was offered and the Scripture Reading was taken from Ephesians 3:12-19 and St. Matthew 2:1-12. Mary Ross Matthews rendered "Even Me" during Meditation and the congregation paused for silent prayer while "Amazing Grace" was played softly on the organ by Mrs. Clara Fuggent in memory of Mr. James Hampton who crossed the River Jordan early morning in 1982.

Mr. Donald Page and Mrs. Clara Fuggent rendered a stirring rendering of "In The End," the theme of our existing minister. Rev. Dennis Williams from Paul Quinn College, Waco, Texas brought the message taking from text from St. Mark 9:29-30 and his theme: 11Jesus Can't Do It! Nobody Can."
The speaker was the man who was powerless by a demon and Jesus came by and cast the demon from the man. His disciples understood why they could not perform the same acts and Jesus told them to pray and receive strength. Isaiah said "they who set on the Lord shall have their strength renewed" Jesus can remove all pain and sorrow. Read more of the article on page 2.
