A group of friends are sponsoring a "despedida" or farewell reception for Lino and Elisa Diaz, long time educators and community persons, who are re-establishing their home in San Antonio after a 42 year residency in the Inland Empire.

"We are paying tribute to a wonderful couple who have significantly impacted our community, especially in the advancement of education and their contribution of time and energies to better our community," stated Richard Gonzalez, a close friend.

The open reception for the Diaz' will be held on Saturday, June 29th, at the Radisson Hotel, 295 N. "E" Street, San Bernardino, with a no-host beginning at 6:00 PM. For additional information call at (909) 824-1524 for (909) 687-6190.

In 1954, the Diaz' arrived in San Bernardino from El Paso, Texas, to continue their teaching careers and raise their family.

Eliza Diaz was an elementary school teacher in the San Bernardino School District for 23 years. During her teaching career in the District, Diaz was involved in a number of educational and community organizations, including the National Education Association, California Teachers Association, Association of Mexican-American Educators, American Association of University Women, Sister City Committee, American Association of Business Women, Somos Hermanas Unidas and San Bernardino County School Boards' Association.

In 1981, Diaz was elected to the San

Quevedo, who serves as Edison's Director of Equal Opportunity, manages the company's programs focused on equal opportunity employment, supplier diversity and Edison's workplace initiatives for employees.

"Frank Quevedo has extensive experience in equal opportunity and employee programs at Edison and other business institutions," said John E. Bryson, Edison's chairman and CEO. Cal-State, San Bernardino President Anthony Evans, in a press release, has indicated his strong support for the forthcoming Mariachi Concert to be presented by the Sinfonia Mexicana Society at Cal-State, San Bernardino's Coussoulis Arena on September 28th, 1996.

Evans stated, "I am delighted that Cal-State, San Bernardino will be the site for the Mariachi/Vicki Carr Concert on September 28th. Our University looks for opportunities to help promote the cultural diversity and richness of this region, but few, if any, activities offer as much artistic enjoyment as the Annual Mariachi Concert in San Bernardino."

"My own appreciation of mariachi music has developed over the past 20 years as my wife and I have taken eight extended trips throughout Mexico, from the Chiapas to Michoacan, from the Yucatan to Oaxaca and Guanajuato. The music of Mexico was always unforgettable and helped bring us back to Mexico again and again. Thus, we look forward with keenest anticipation to the September 28th Mariachi Concert."

The Mariachi Concert is a collaborative effort by the Sinfonia Mexicana Society and Cal-State, San Bernardino. The newly constructed Coussoulis Arena has a capacity of 5,000 persons; however, according to Esther Mata, president of the Sinfonia Mexicana Society, only 4,200 tickets will be sold.

Mexican Author Carlos Fuentes Lectures at Kennedy Center

New Chapter for Hispanic and Latin American Writers

Renowned Mexican author Carlos Fuentes was honored by the American Council for the Arts (ACA) recently, having been selected as this year’s Nancy Hanks Lecturer at The Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. The growing interest in Latin American and U.S. Latino writers is best illustrated by the recent appearance of Fuentes at the Kennedy Center. Fuentes is the first Hispanic selected by the ACA to receive the distinguished honor. Previous Nancy Hanks Lecturers include historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., poet Maya Angelou and the late Congresswoman Barbara Jordan. "Public support for the arts and humanities is a necessity in today’s highly integrated global community," said Fuentes, who received Spain’s prestigious Miguel Cervantes prize, the top literary award for writers in the Spanish language. "The he or she will receive more education and essayist, is best known for his 24 books, including Old Gringo, a fictional account about American writer Ambrose Bierce, and The Buried Mirror, a non-fictional book about the Hispanic world. "There is a strong relationship between the arts and public policy," said Francisco D. Gómez, director of public programs, Philip Morris Companies Inc. "By promoting the arts and culture, we stimulate the most important resource we have—human capital." Philip Morris Companies Inc., which has underwritten the Nancy Hanks Lecture for the past six years, is a major patron of the arts, supporting a broad spectrum of visual and performing arts.

Several diplomats and celebrities were present to hear Fuentes speak, including Mexico’s Ambassador to the United States, Jesús Silva-Herzog and actor Enés Morales.

Senator Polanco Meets With Latino Media

In the heat of state budget negotiations, Senator Richard Polanco came to the southland for a breakfast meeting with Latino press representatives to discuss important issues which affect the Latino community. Among the issues discussed were progress toward writing a state budget, prison costs, affirmative action, handgun control and raising the minimum wage. Polanco expressed his opposition to the governor Wilson’s multi-billion dollar tax cut proposal which is currently stalling budget negotiations. Also stalling budget negotiations is the recent announcement that the governor wants the state to build 12 new prisons. Senator Polanco warned that spending more money on building new prisons would jeopardize funding for higher education. "If the money comes out of the state budget to build these new prisons, it won’t be available to bolster our state colleges and universities to make sure that attending college is an affordable option for our Latino youth," said Polanco.

On the issue of Affirmative Action, Polanco stressed that support for Affirmative Action programs is not the same as supporting quotas or preferences. "The program which have diversified the state’s work force in the last decade have been good for California businesses," said Polanco. "There is a large pool of highly qualified minority and women applicants for jobs, contract opportunities and college admission. Affirmative action efforts ensure that people in this pool still have a chance of being selected."

Polanco also discussed gun control legislation and the need to keep dangerous weapons off the streets. Polanco authored landmark legislation, killed by Assembly Republicans, which would have banned the manufacture, sale and possession on Saturday Night Specials - small, cheap, handguns which are responsible for many of the violent crimes committed in California. "Six California companies produce 80 percent of all the Saturday Night Specials in this country. We can have a significant impact on violent crime if we stop producing all these guns," said Polanco.

Statewide public opinion polls show that Californians support increasing the minimum wage to $5.75. The minimum wage has not been raised in eight years and many of the lowest wage earners in the state are Latino. "Latinas constitute the greatest number of minority women working at low wages," said Polanco. "This increase would help these and other heads of family better provide for their families."

Michelle Negrete's graduation is an extraordinary tribute to faith

One of the highlights of Michelle Negrete's life was graduating from San Bernardino High School in June, 1996 with a 3.0 grade point average in spite of tremendous barriers that this brave young person has encountered for many years.

A large number of students have admired what Michelle Negrete's has accomplished in her life.

After Michelle's eleventh birthday, she was diagnosed with a brain tumor and was operated on, which resulted in her becoming blind and unable to walk. She had to relearn simple tasks, including: reading, speaking, and walking during the last seven years of her life. Since then, Michelle has regained the use of her legs and has partial sight which enables her to read with the aid of highly magnified mechanized lenses.

Michelle resumed her academic studies through home teaching and attended Arrowview Middle School, completing the eighth grade and enrolled at San Bernardino High School.

Michelle encounters short term memory lapses as a result of the surgery. In 1991, the tumor recurred which necessitated seven weeks of radiation therapy. During that interim, Michelle suffered a vascular stroke.

"Aside from modern wonders of medicine, persons have asked what other factors were involved in recovery of this extraordinary young person? Generally, people have observed that Michelle has a positive attitude, very determined, and very courageous. "I have made great progress since surgery," she said. "And I hope to continue. I'm one of the lucky ones, surgery left me totally disabled, but each day I feel stronger and stronger." Mrs. Annabelle Negrete, Michelle's mother, is the primary support and role model. She stated, "I am so proud of Michelle and what she has accomplished. I want to share her success story with other people, especially other young people, so that they can see that it can be done when an individual makes the determination to overcome all obstacles."

Michelle has planned her future. She is making plans to attend San Bernardino Valley College to prepare for a career in education, specifically in education for physically impaired preschool children.

"Because of the difficulties that I have faced, I feel a deep and abiding empathy for the physically handicapped, but I also realize how much work and determination to overcome all obstacles."

Michelle Negrete's graduation is a significant event for her and her family. It represents the overcoming of tremendous obstacles and a testament to perseverance and determination. Michelle's story serves as an inspiration to others facing similar challenges.

EDITORIAL
Que Vayan con Dios, Leno and Elisa Diaz

The Inland Empire is losing two dedicated individuals whose commitment and efforts to the educational field and their civic involvement have been widely recognized and has benefited our young people and communities.

Leno and Elisa Diaz recently announced their decision to move to San Antonio to be close to their family and enjoy their grandchildren growing up, a very legitimate reason for grandparent’s sake. The decision, after forty-plus years in the area was, undoubtedly, an extremely painful and hard decision for this couple who have established many close relationships, both in education and community.

Leno and Elisa Diaz taught at the elementary level, utilizing their experiences, skills and development of educational enhancements to impact young children’s minds in knowledge and challenging each young child to expand their education beyond what is the norm, especially in minority children.

They were also involved in many community projects and events. Leno Diaz, for example, was one of the founders of the Westside Democratic Club in the early sixties. He was also very active in the Association of Mexican-American Educations, a group that fosters and supports Hispanics into higher education.

Eliza Diaz was on the San Bernardino School Board for 15 years. During her board tenure, Mrs. Diaz was a strong advocate of bilingual education, educational enhancement and counseling programs for school dropouts, dropout intervention programs and the consistent need for minority teacher employment. She was well known for being a continual visitor at every school in the district.

Diaz’s advocacy and focused determination was the catalyst for her initiation of strong discussions at the board level to redirect administrative and programmatic approaches to educational or problematic areas. This action would, at times, cause reactionary discussions by other board members.

The unselfish contribution of Leno and Elisa Diaz to education and community throughout these years is immeasurable. However, we, who have looked up to this couple as our role models for these many years, can only say “GRACIAS.”

State Compensation Insurance Fund Adopts Monterey Elementary School

State Compensation Insurance Fund adopted Monterey Elementary School on June 10. Manuel Hernandez, representing State Compensation Insurance Fund, was present for the signing of the adoption certificates. He pledged financial help for kids who needed help with the cost of school uniforms, and academic enrichment programs, such as field trips. Principal Kathleen Stevens presented Mr. Hernandez with an appreciation plaque from Michelle Sumi’s first grade class.

Since the Adopt-A-School Program began, more than 140 businesses have adopted schools in the San Bernardino City Unified School District. The Adopt-A-School Program is co-sponsored by the San Bernardino Area Chamber of Commerce.

King, New SANBAG Executive Director

San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) Board members have selected Norman R. King as the agency’s new executive director.

King, 53, has served as the City Manager of Moreno Valley for the past five years. He will assume his new position August 5, and will replace retiring Executive Director Wesley C. McDaniel, who has served as SANBAG’s founding director since 1973.

King, who has established a notable reputation statewide, will bring over 20 years of public sector experience to the position. “I am extremely pleased to have the opportunity to serve SANBAG, and to become involved in San Bernardino transportation and regional issues,” said King. “As a city manager, I particularly enjoyed participating in joint city and county cooperative and intergovernmental efforts, and my new position with SANBAG will allow me to become more directly involved. I look forward to working with the leaders of the County and the cities of San Bernardino County.”

King’s career includes tenure as a city manager for the cities of Moreno Valley, Palm Springs and Claremont. Beyond municipal level experience, King has amassed expertise in intergovernmental and regional policy areas. He served as Assistant Director of the Office of Policy Analysis for the National League of Cities/United States Conference of Mayors, as well as a member of the Governor’s Commission on Transportation Investment which explored methods to fund the various transportation strategies for individual mobility and goods movement throughout the state.

King has taught at the University of Southern California in the School of Public Administration, and is currently teaching at Claremont McKenna College. He earned his undergraduate degree from Claremont McKenna College, and a Master of Government Administration from the Wharton Graduate School of the University of Pennsylvania.

A recipient of numerous awards, King was named the 1993 Management Leader of the Year by the Graduate School of Management of the University of California, Riverside. He was also honored with the 1993 Excellence in Government Award by the Valley Group, a prominent Riverside County business organization.
Crafton Hills College Implements Phone Registration

Starting this summer, Crafton Hills College (CHC) continuing and returning students with touch-tone telephones will be able to register for 1996 fall classes from their homes. CHC is implementing a telephone registration system, called Easy Touch Registration (ETR), which will replace the college’s early access registration by mail.

"The idea of ETR is to make registration more convenient for our students," said Dr. Jim Bisi, CHC vice-president of Student Services.

ETR is scheduled for June 24 - July 25. Fall semester begins August 19.

Continuing students are students who attended CHC during the 1996 spring or summer semesters. Returning students are those who enrolled at CHC between 1981-1995. Although both continuing and returning students are eligible for ETR, returning students must go to the CHC Admissions Office in person to reenroll at the college before registering.

Also, continuing students and returning students who need to see counselors should do so before registering.

New students enrolling at the college for the first time must come to the Admissions Office in person to enroll and obtain appointments to register for regular arena registration. Continuing students and returning students who do not register using ETR must also come to the Admissions Office for appointments to register. Fall arena registration will be August 7, 8 and 12-14 at the CHC Cafeteria.

For more information about ETR, call the CHC Admissions Office at 389-3372.

Additional Business through Bartering

Why lay out your hard earned cash for your business expenses when you can be bartering and paying for them with the additional business we send you?

- Conserve your cash flow and reduce your overhead by bartering with Barter members for your business, personal, family needs and expenses.
- When you pay $200 in cash and collect $200 in credits for mechanical, painting, legal, medical, office supply maintenance, h/p appoints, etc., etc., you could have conserved that hard earned cash and paid for those ongoing expenses with the business credits you have earned and accumulated. Additional Business paid for through bartering.
- Using your WHOLESALE, buying power, your cost (barter credits equivalent to cash: dollars you are purchasing at the regular price, however, actual cost paid is your WHOLESALE COST). PLUS YOU STILL HAVE THAT $200 HARD EARNED CASH IN YOUR POCKET. Now doesn't that sound great? INTERESTED?

Bernardino School Board, being the first Latina elected to the school board. She recently tendered her resignation effective in July, 1996.

Regarding her tenure on the school board, Diaz stated, "I have been extremely interested in the educational needs of all students and especially children of color and students with limited English capabilities. As everyone is aware, I am an outspoken advocate to establish programs to provide guidance counseling to students, and more specifically, to students who have been suspended or expelled. I am opposed to the "throw them out in the street mindset."

Leno Diaz graduated from the University of Texas - El Paso with Honors and earned a membership in Kappa Delta Pi. At a later date, Diaz received his M.S. at Cal-State, Fullerton, and continued his studies at Kent State and La Universidad de Guadalajara.

Diaz began his teaching career in El Paso. He continued teaching at Riverside County Superintendent of Schools and San Bernardino School District from 1953 to 1979. He specialized in Bilingual Curricula Development and developed unique teacher workshops to utilize puppets and other audio-visual techniques which would demonstrate alternative enhanced teaching.

His membership included the Association of Mexican-American Educators, National Education Association, California Teachers Association, National Association of Bilingual Education, San Bernardino Teachers Association, Kiwanis Club of Greater San Bernardino, Sinfonia Mexicana Society and founding member of La Casa de AMAE—the precursor of Casa Ramona. He was instrumental in heading a committee to name a Westside branch library as the Villasenor Library.

"We have raised two wonderful children through the San Bernardino and California public school systems. They are gone from the area. We want to live close to our grandchildren in San Antonio while we have an opportunity to enjoy them as they grow up," Eliza Diaz said.

After 33 yrs. of waiting on others, Mercy Aguirre will wait no more

Mercy Aguirre has served politicians, officeholders, executives and persons of all ages, special people in her life, personal friends and last, but not least, the general public, all who have come to the well-known Mitla’s Restaurant in the Westside, and on June 23, 1996, one of the most famous waitresses in San Bernardino retired after 33 years!

"Now is the time for me to pull the cord," she said. "All these 33 years I have enjoyed knowing so many wonderful people, getting to close to them and being able to serve them. It has been a beautiful experience. To retire will be a very hard thing for me."

Born and raised in San Bernardino, Mercy was the ninth child in a family of sixteen. She began working at nine years and attending Alessandro Elementary and has never stopped.

Mercy began working full time at Mitla's as a dishwasher and after four years, was promoted to waitress, when the late Vera Lopez, Mitla's owner and one of the most outstanding and noblest persons in the Westside, insisted that she work with her.

"Vera Lopez was my idol. She taught me so many things about the restaurant when I worked with her on banquets and special occasions. She was so genial to others and always gave good service. She was also my friend," said Mercy with moistened eyes.

Mercy has kept the tradition of good service that Vera Lopez had established throughout these many years. This has resulted in having a large number of steady customers that repeatedly request her services. This popularity among customers has generally been because of her gracious manners and sociability, many customers have indicated.

Vera Lopez established a special celebration for the American National Organization and Mercy has kept that tradition going these many years by being the hostess in her home.

Mercy Aguirre Retiring after 33 years at Mitla's Cafe

Another organization that she will miss is the Kiwanis Club of Greater San Bernardino. The service club has had its Tuesday morning meetings at Mitla's for the last 26 years with Mercy serving as waitress.

Mercy has been married for 35 years to her husband, Richard. Their four girls are Jeannette, Lisa, Lena and Annette, and four grandchildren.

Although Mercy would have liked to work until her 62nd birthday and continue making tortillas every morning and serving customers, she said, "I feel that my body says, you better stop now. I want to enjoy my grandchildren and life, after serving these many special people all these many years. I will always remember everyone who have been very special to me and will remember them all, especially Vera, who will be a part of my life forever."
