"One Do You Have To Rehearse To Be Yourself?"

To Donald E. Waver

The FORM SUPPORTS THE PURPOSE...Part I

If we are to be vital and growing in a relationship, I have to get support from you, and you have to get support from me. I have to support you in helping me to learn the lessons that are here for you to learn, and you have to do the same for me.

To have a relationship, we also have to give up our old ideas of support and re-define our relationship. If I can't support you well, then you'll support me, and we'll go together.

A lot of relationships are made up of two people who can't individually support each other. Many things just happen, hoping that together maybe we'll make it. When we multiply over and over again, both of you end up with one-quarter. It happens mathematically and it happens emotionally.

Two people are having a relationship and both of them are trying to be the fractional area of being a person -- neither of them has a personal reality that includes an experience of their own wholeness -- then the product of their coupling will be less than what they individually started with. In other words, the relationship will only diminish them. It will be a source of discontent and further disintegration. It will not add to the quality of their experience, it will detract from it.

Nothing is neutral in the universe. It either contributes or it costs. It is either part of the solution or part of the problem.

If a relationship is ever going to work in terms of a term of survival, we must suspend to each other. If you talk up something that your partner is willing to share, we will find that the feedback is going to be so up pressured or power over one.

Thus, a surrender in a relationship would give us the opportunity to give up possession of the relationship, to support each other. A relationship done right, will be a source of strength and growth.

I Want a real one. Are you kidding? That is exactly what I'm thinking about. I don't have power over you, you're going to keep your mouth shut.

Well, we really can't have a Fourth Annual seminar. We have to re-think all the means of the tape. We should only stick with the understanding of how to support our own well-being.

A lot of times when we try to support another person, we end up with one-quarter. It happens mathematically and it happens emotionally. When we multiply over and over again, both of you end up with one-quarter. It happens mathematically and it happens emotionally.

A H B A I Held Successful Meeting in Palm Springs

When a small select, powerful group of men and women came together in Palm Springs recently, the effects were heard all over the nation and the world. They decided to recapture their share of the market in Black hair care.

The group was the American Health and Beauty Advertiser, who met at the Sheraton Hotel, in Palm Springs, California.

A H B A I is a consortium of Black-owned health and beauty products manufacturers, directed by Lafayette Jones.

The group met for a general overview of the ethnic health and beauty market, the current trends in the industry and for what they should prepare.

Jason Jackson, Mr. John Johnson, publisher and others spoke to the group of attendees.

Jackson's message was clear: "We must educate the younger generation to the ethnic loyalty to take advantage of the economic development at the marketplace. It is our responsibility to educate them to our own values.

Jackson's message was followed the next afternoon by John Johnson, who said to the audience, "The best way we can help our people is by making more money. He refused to go on a quilt trip about being rich."

Jackson also discussed the importance of community-based organization and said they should be combined with a businesses, etc. Each is important in their own area and to keep them [people] I'm not a community organization. I'm a business," he said to be successful Black leaders must also be able to make money.

John and EUR Johnson and Eunice Johnson also spoke to the group of attendees. They are partners in the American Health and Beauty Advertiser.

part III...

It is true that one vice obliterates many virtues, I believe that the "all-or-none" position item D3 in the paper sincerely cannot count any and all defiance in the 3 or 4 positions he took. To the best of my knowledge, this is called a credibility gap. Or is it sick semantics?

The fact of a school district is not solely at the whim of the superintendent but because the governing board has the authority to veto any actions he might choose to take. So the governing board should shoulder its fair share of what happens in a district. A governing board is the ultimate decision making body, because it is the one that has the final say (laws) in a school district and enjoys a wide range of discretionary powers.

But this means nothing when a majority of a school board black votes and rubber stamps its way through agenda after agenda on a controversial act with almost no reference to anything that directly affects the students, faculty and children of the school. I will discuss this problem in future articles.

When a governing board can sit at the table and see competent, dedicated teachers, most with teaching credentials, most with teaching endowments, they're built close to the ground"? What is our business here? A brand-new interest group exposed.

Blacks are taught how to become documentary powers. They are a combination of all colors. Even nature acknowledges that the smallness of our nation stems from its ability to recognize and tolerate all colors, all hues. In that same art class we learn that Black is the absence of color. How does that mean we should ignore the rest of America? It means we should be Black even if not color blind to its failures and mistakes. But any vice "are at least twenty teachers..." does not necessaritly express the policy, nor the opinion of what's gone wrong with the school. I'm sure that the Superintendent's report referred to when he called our district an "autocratic district." If he meant by that statement that this district provides refuge for unempolyed or multiracial teachers who are employed here... or for as long as...?

Our school buildings can be called "Black houses for teachers who come today and gone tomorrow." In his position as Superintendent and with that attitude, and that statement had even a slight chance of being true. I think it is fair to say that the school's board may try to take their places. The South Shore Schools Lords of any Big City, USA? Teachers may come and go. Of time. Three of the teachers but his group of those "enmities" had many hatreds. 6, 8 years, it means the teachers...

I am willing to work to change that. They are always ready to let us have it. And I am ready to live up to...
