B.S.U. Rejects Pfau’s
Affirmative Action Program

The Black Student Union, C.S.C.S.B., met with President John Pfau on Monday, October 16, requesting the hiring of the black faculty and administrators without delay. In the same document, proposed a list of non-negotiable structural changes.

The second major issue of the meeting was the so-called “Affirmative Action Program,” an in-paper-plan. At the conclusion of the meeting, Bob Rochelle stated that the B.S.U.’s official rejection of the document was that they were not included in its preparation and had never seen a copy of it. Students are traditionally the outspoken advocates of affirmative action and the B.S.U. has insured us this through Title V. Yet there is no doubt that the minority groups on this campus, or any students for that matter, were not included in its construction and had never seen a copy of the document. The Black Student Union has insuured this through Title V. Yet there is no doubt that the minority groups on this campus, or any students for that matter, were not included in its construction and had never seen a copy of the document.

The meeting argued the rehiring of the blacks who signed; and, in the same light of San Bernardino’s high ratio of ethnic minorities, both shoplifting and formalism is a very real problem. I view the B.S.U.’s detailed curricular outline as an ineffective effort to assert a full and total black Studies Department. In the words of one member, "the only thing lacking is course numbers and professors to teach them." The meeting ended with the scheduling of another meeting for Monday, October 30. Prior to that date, the administration will inform the appropriate curriculum committees and persons in power so they may attend to the issue. It is for all the talk which has been exchanged to be worked into creative actions. There seems to be no logical reason why black faculty and administrators from such a blatant lack of sufficient ethnic studies courses. Among these same lines: a) a demand that a fully-staffed and organized black Studies Department be created; and b) the establishment of a Black Studies Department as a viable element of the San Bernardino State College curriculum for hopeful minorities. Shall we wait for futile bickering and hopes for futile change along with the others who have ironed out the confusion regarding this program. In fact, no Black Faculty and Staff, were included in the planning of this proposed program. This kind of non-action implies that the college is not genuinely concerned about minority development, specifically Blacks. Your administration’s lack of concern toward the program is obviously a symptom of institutionalized "Racism." I challenge the institution by any and all other than clever rhetoric, statistics and paper plans to prove it is genuinely concerned about developing a meaningful "Affirmative Action Program" with respect to Black Faculty and Administration. I cannot close without expressing my thoughts and feelings about one of the individuals who signed. Vernon O. Levine’s departure from this campus means the loss of a loving, skillful and knowledgeable person whose personality is "dynamic." Ollie reached out and touched many students on many levels. Personally, he was the charge agent of my own racial hang-ups.

TOM RIVERA

Born and raised in Colton, Rivera is a 1958 graduate of Colton High School. After attending San Bernardino Valley College, he transferred to California State University, Los Angeles. He was very influential in developing the ethnic, black studies and social work programs at this institution. His decision to resign is sincere for he is a committed individual. He seeks justice and change for minorities at this campus and will not accept the lack of concern demonstrated toward Black Faculty and staff by the present administration. His challenge along with the other, who resigned is a challenge to the administration, staff and student body to honestly change inadequate policies and develop a genuine "Affirmative Action Program" which will respect the dignity of each and every Black Faculty member and Administrator.

Mankau Offers Course In Human Sexuality

Dr. Saroj Mankau, renowned woman Biology professor and long-time student favorite, is teaching a course this quarter which promises to spark the interest of the entire campus. Her course, "Biology of Human Sexuality," will be an open and all students (male and female alike) are encouraged to attend. The class will be offered as an extension of a winter quarter, and as a regular class for junior and senior students, as proposed by Dr. Taylor of the Biology Department.

The text which Dr. Mankau has selected for the course was written by two Stanford professors, Herant A. Katchadourian and Donald T. Lande and is entitled Fundamentals of Human Sexuality. Alice Wilson, Curriculum Coordinator, has prepared a complete bibliography of source material on the subject drawn from the campus library.

Dr. Mankau has prepared herself for the course by taking a number of independent courses on the topic of female sexuality in San Francisco. Her objectives are both informative - the class is not intended as a specific sexual education for the male - and educational - the class is intended to give the non-reproductive aspects of human sexuality and views the organism as a complete sexual entity. The role of sexual behavior will also be explored. Sex is "not mere procreation," as the main topic of research. 2) Secondly, Dr. Mankau is concerned with teaching healthy, positive attitudes toward sex and a general demystification about typical sexual hang-ups. She will work to integrate the anatomy, physiology, and psychology of sex as they are all interrelated. The entire human body is a sexual organism, the external genitalia are not detached mechanisms.

On a cultural level, Dr. Mankau plans to present lectures, films, and discussions revolving around recent findings in the field of sex among human groups. She will attempt to expose what she terms "the myths of innocents," i.e., the size of the penis as the measure of manhood, and "balls" as a synonym for courage. The latter was agreed upon by interviewer and interviewee to be a typically chauvinistic statement. Dr. Mankau cited the examples of India Gandhi and Golda Meir, both of whom have been referred to as "having balls." She asks the question: "Why?"

The instructor intends to explore areas of female sexuality not necessarily directed at the male (the male is not necessarily good for the female). The anatomy of the female is the biological aspects of the female organ - will also be studied. Variations in sexual behavior; or, what our society labels deviances such as homosexuality and non-sexual behavior will be under scrutiny. Dr. Mankau feels that these people are not necessarily rejecting members of the human race simply because they choose to make love in a different way. Human sexual dysfunctions such as premature ejaculation in the male and organic failure in the female are included in the course plans. Masters and Johnson research (Human Sexual inadequacy) will be discussed. Masters and Johnson's Sexual Behavior in the Human Male and Female. Masturbation as a healthy practice in adolescents will also be explored. Conception, contraception and methods, diseases, and disorders are all included under the general topic of study. Senescence (age) and human sexuality - a relatively new area of exploration.

In summarizing her ideals for the course, Dr. Mankau quoted former University President Clark Kerr and paralleled the statement with her goals: "The role of education is not to make ideas safe for students, but to make students safe for ideas." Similarly, Dr. Mankau would like to "make students safe for sex, not sex safe for students." The "phallic fallacies," i.e. the size of the penis as the measure of manhood, and "balls" as a synonym for courage. The latter was agreed upon by interviewer and interviewee to be a typically chauvinistic statement. Dr. Mankau feels that these people are not necessarily rejecting members of the human race simply because they choose to make love in a different way. HURRICANE (From MOTHER LODE, a feminist paper published in women in San Francisco Women's Liberation, January 1971 — Judy Syfert)

I belong to that classification of women who want to be married. I want a wife. I want a wife who will take care of me. I want a wife who will prepare meals, do the laundry, take care of the children, and send me to school. And while I was ironing one evening, it suddenly occurred to me that I, too, would like to have a wife. Why do I want a wife? I would like to go to school, but I can become economically independent. I want a wife so that I can stay home and rear my children. I am not a financial planner, but I want to keep my house clean. I want my guests to come in and be fed and ready for bed before my guests arrive so that the children will not bother us. I want a wife who takes care of the needs of my guests so that they are not disturbed. I, too, wish to be able to go out and enjoy times of my own, so that I may do something other than rear my children.

I want a wife who will take care of my physical needs. A wife who will keep my house clean. A wife who will pick up after my children, a wife who will keep my clothes clean, ironed, mended, replaced when need be, and who will see to it that my personal things are kept in order. I want a wife who will take care of me when I am sick and sympathize with my pain and loss of time from school. I want a wife to go along when my family takes a vacation so that someone can continue to care for me and my children when I need a rest and a change of scene.

I want a wife who will not bother me with rambling complaints about my wife's duties. But I want a wife who will listen to me when I feel like it, a wife who will be one of CSCSB's most exciting courses (no pun intended).

What Is In The Mind's Eye?

The problem of the visual artist is to discover what is already there, to open up and probe what is inside and outside himself and to find a means of setting this experience back to the whole world. It is an adventure which is the focus of the Art Department.

How does one make visible what is in one's mind? What can be laughable in one's dreams can begin in the Foundation Studio of the School of Art; Color, light, drawing and the eye-hand relationship, the properties of human vision, the future of the pictorial surface, the organization of three-dimensional phenomena — studio work dealing with these considerations brings a basis for further work.

To discover what man has made in the past, what forms he has invented and 7) how he has organized them, the Art Department offers a broad range of art history courses not only with the art of the West to the present day, but also with the art of other areas of the world and the art of the indigenous peoples of the Americas, Africa, and the South Pacific.

Psychological relationship between student and teacher in the studio courses is close and intense; the student is governed by the student's own intellectual life. The student and teacher in the studio work develop with each other a professional trust which promises a spark of human liberation — January 1971 — Judy Syfert

Painting and Drawing

Sculpture, in wood, metal, plastics, plaster and concrete, including kinetic and environmental concepts.

Ceramics, using approaches from the potter's wheel

Primacing, including intaglio

Crafts, emphasizing the use of natural materials, including woodworking and metalwork.

A new Art Gallery will maintain a continuous program of exhibitions to show the outstanding work to the campus and surrounding community. The gallery will be a living part of the Art Department.

The art students plan to have an active club which will participate in departmental affairs, sponsor lectures, exhibits and other events, and promote various social activities.

Students Gain Borrowing Privileges

California Baptist College Riverside, California State College San Bernardino, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda University Riverside, University of California Riverside and the University of Redlands are cooperating on library use and borrowing privileges for a trial period, beginning immediately and continuing for the academic year.

Students may apply for a courtesy borrowing card at the University where they are currently enrolled. Here, they will be issued a cooperative library card which may be used at any and all of the cooperative libraries. Local lending rules in effect at each library in the cooperative apply to the circulation of materials by that library.

Students will now have readily available many additional general resources, as well as specialized resources of each library within the system.

The chief librarians of the inland empire cooperative, as the system is known, hope for the success of the program and that it may lead to cooperation in other ways among libraries within the system, as well as cooperation involving libraries in a larger area.

Dr. H. Arthur Hoverland joined the faculty of California State College, San Bernardino, this month as professor of administration and department chairman.

Ringing a background of teaching combined with practical experience in major companies, Professor Hoverland heads one of the largest and most growing departments at Cal State.

Since 1963, with the exception of a year in France, Professor Hoverland has been at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, Calif., where he was associate professor of administrative science.

During the 1970-71 academic year, he was a visiting professor of behavior science at the University of Aix in Marseille, France. Earlier he had taught at San Jose State University and the Universities of Michigan and Illinois.

Hoverland's industrial experience has been with Ford Motor Co., Proctor and Gamble and General Electric.

The teacher-author earned his B.S. from Miami University in Ohio in 1951, his M.S. from the University of Illinois in 1954 and his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1963.

His professional activities include membership in the Academy of Management, American Accounting Assn., the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, the American Economic Assn., and the Institute of Management Scientists.

Dr. Hoverland joins the CSUSB faculty this fall as professor of business and department chairman. He succeeds Dr. Edward J. Carlson, who is director of the college's new Management Center.

Crum Assumes

Deanship

in

Natural Sciences

A chemist who is as interested in the environment as he is in the classroom is the new Dean of the School of Natural Sciences at California State College, San Bernardino.

He is Dr. James Crum, professor of chemistry, who assumed his new position Sept. 1. President John M. Pfau announced.

He succeeds Dr. Ralph Petrucci, now the college's dean of academic planning.

Dr. Crum, who has been chairman of the Chemistry Department, has earned national recognition for his outstanding work in organic chemistry, said President Pfau. In addition to his teaching and research, he has written 13 professional papers, numerous chapters in books and is the co-author of a widely used textbook in experimental organic chemistry.

Before coming to the Cal State campus in 1966, Dr. Crum taught at Western Reserve University. A native of Ohio, the chemist earned his bachelor of science and Ph.D. degrees from the Ohio State University and his master's from Marshall University. He also has studied at Harvard University under a postdoctoral fellowship.

Under the sponsorship of the U.S. Agency for International Development, Dr. Crum and other scientists toured schools and colleges in India to evaluate and suggest improvements. He also lectured and participated in numerous professional conferences and seminars.

Interested in ecology and preservation of the environment, Dr. Crum currently is co-chairman of the Scientific Advisory Committee of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

Dr. Crum is known to high school chemistry teachers through the in-service institutes he has conducted at Cal State. He is also president of the California Assn. of Chemistry Teachers, a statewide organization of teachers from high schools, junior colleges and four-year institutions.

As dean of the School of Natural Sciences, Dr. Crum is responsible for the curriculum, faculty and students in the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics.

CRUM

Schofield

New Dean

Academic Planning

Dr. Kent Schofield, a life-long resident of the San Bernardino area, is the new associate dean of Academic Planning at California State College, San Bernardino.

In his new position, he will work particularly with the administrative and special pedig trees filed by students, scheduling of classes and other curricular matters. One of his special projects this year will be the development of a complete student advising program, which will combine academic advising and the counseling of students in the Student Services operation.

As dean of the School of Natural Sciences, Dr. Schofield has been responsible for the curriculum, faculty and students in the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics.

Dr. and Mrs. Crum, who live in San Bernardino, have three children, Leslie, James Jr. and Jennifer.

DISCOUNTS ON STUDENT AUTO INSURANCE

Recently inaugurated for College Students is a new program of Automobile Insurance underwritten by the American International Insurance Company, a member of the American International Group, Inc., which is a large international insurance operation doing business in more than 130 countries. This progressive group of companies ranks among the very top insurance operations in the United States as well as internationally. AIG companies have assets of $939 billion. The economies resulting from mass merchandising and group sales have resulted in lower operating costs to the insurance company and these savings are passed on to the student.

"The rates offer a deviation of 20% off the Insurance Service Office rates," according to Frank Doyle, President of the National Association of College Students, the non-profit student consumer organization that sponsors and endorses this program for students.

Policies are non-cancelable except for reasons of nonpayment or suspension of drivers license.

One of the most important features of the program is the convenient "Every Other Month Payment Plan" with no interest or administrative charges. This eliminates large premium payments and additional charges.

One stop claim service allows policyholders to pick their own garage to handle repairs. No need to waste time driving around to collect the customary three estimates.

In addition, the company has a nationwide network of over 300 claims offices, providing 24 hour service. Each policyholder receives a directory listing claims offices and phone numbers of those offices. To report a claim, all the policyholder has to do is telephone the nearest claim office and give them the policy number. The claim representative then takes charge.

For additional information or to obtain a request for quotation, contact your A.S. Office. If quotation requests are not available ask your A.S. President to contact NACS for a supply.

There will be a meeting Tuesday, October 24, at 12:00 in the Commons building downstairs, and for those that live in the dormitory, there will be a meeting Tuesday, October 24 at 6:00 in the cafeteria. For those who cannot make either one, please sign up in George Romandy's office, 297 Student Service trailer, or contact George Pyle in Bogan from Room 129, or call 887-6131, ext. 177 before both and ask for Ronnie. If we don't have enough talent out of you beautiful people, there won't be a show.
DAVIS — The Davis campus of the University of California is seeking students from disadvantaged and ethnic minorities to apply for graduate and professional studies. Each of the nine professional schools on the campus has joined in a program to encourage students from socially and economically disadvantaged backgrounds to consider training in various graduate professional fields, including law, medicine, veterinary medicine, natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. Graduate training leading to master's and doctor's degrees in more than 50 fields plus professional training leading to B.V.M., M.D., M.D. degrees is available at Davis.

The deadline for returning financial aid applications for all of the programs described above is January 15, 1973.

Further information about opportunities, preparation, admission requirements, and financial aid is available from the following:

Richard D. Lee, assistant dean, School of Law
Dr. Jerry L. Gillespie, assistant dean, School of Veterinary Medicine.

UC Davis Seeks Minority Students

Dear People:

This November the people of California will have the opportunity to vote on Proposition 19, the Reform of Marijuana Laws. It is a rich man's proposal. It would benefit the few, at the expense of the many, and would increase government power and police action at the expense of individual freedom.

The growers in this state are not large. They do not, for the most part, own the land they cultivate. They are workers. They are the United Farm Workers Union. This initiative would destroy their struggle for dignity and justice. It would end their right to buy and sell the product of their labor.

We need your talent and time to help defend these workers. You can help keep the people in this state free.帮上忙。

Sincerely,

Eileen McCarthy

NO ON PROP. 22!
YES ON PROP 19!

Student Government is in a fine predicament this year, and maybe a few of you can help. This year we shall have two senate meetings and an executive cabinet meeting, and two senate elections, and one executive cabinet meeting in order to appoint a vice-president to fill Bruce Prescott's office when he took over for Van Andwills. When we did this, we were thwarted 1) because we didn't have enough senators to confirm our appointment, and 2) those that were there did not agree with our choice, which was that senators right. But this is not the problem. The problem is that all of the senators elected spring quarter last year, there were only two who came back to school in the fall. Now I know, to a lot of you, student government is a big joke. But what if it is? If it is such a joke, why aren't we all in there trying to make it better?

Four new seniors were appointed by their respective class presidents. Richard D. Lee, assistant dean of the junior class appointed Gary Eldred to the vacant senator position in that class. Wilfred Marrero, sophomore president, appointed to second position in that class. Wilfred Marrero, sophomore president, appointed to third position in that class. Gary Eldred. Senior Class Russell Blair, first term last spring quarter, ran for office to keep the hair from falling out.

The reason for this article should be obvious. I implore you, if you're interested, to join the fun. There are four more senate openings that we will soon have elections for. For two freshmen class, and two overall senators at large. We don't want a popularity contest. We want a real race. And until you do, you will seem right to everyone. But if you're interested, no, not just interested. A lot of people are interested and we are not going anywhere. The job takes a humanist who is dedicated to the cause that A.S.B. is dedicated to. It takes a humanitarian who is dedicated to the cause that A.S.B. is dedicated to.

I am writing to you in hope that you will have interested people get in touch with Gay at A.S.B. and use the phone number at the top of the page.

The growers in this state are mounting an expensive media campaign to push for the enactment of Proposition 22. On behalf of the members of our union I ask for your help in defeating it. We need your vote. You need your talent and time to help reach the consciousness of California voters.

The Farm workers are confident of your response.

Cesar Chavez A.S.B. Treasurer

For groups of 20 or more the tickets range from $2.50 to $4.00 in price. Playing now through November 25, Neil Simon's THE PRISONER OF SECOND AVENUE.

Campus Recruitment

The Campus Placement Office has requested the "Pawprint" to print the dates of upcoming recruitment on campus during the month of October. As Editor of this publication, I feel morally obligated to refuse printing of the dates of all military recruitment.

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome everyone to Cal State, particularly all members of the Senior Class. I would also like to extend an invitation to all seniors to say hello to either John Newhouse or myself. Why? Because John and I are your duly elected high officials - yes, none other than co-presidents of the Senior Class. I am not writing to impress anyone with my "high" position, but to say that there are many interesting things happening this year. There is a lot of room for people who are interested in doing things for the school or for themselves.

Intellectual bullshit being swapped with a straight face faces at the end of colored bodies eating eating nutrition and knowledge knowledge of a hamburger's crisped flesh curling curling, whirling, stomachs churning churning, words like thick cutter sticking sticking like cards to a hand, gum to a shoe shoes on the end of bodies, tied-lace language language cooked and boiled to a burnt cliche cliches, God grant me the word and the key key to smoke and words to say say you love me, dear, before I fall on the floor floor me clear, before I eat too much too much love of words, faces, shoes, and bodies:
the coffee-stained face pouring over a book.

'Bout Being Black
I could write a book 'bout being black:
'Bout the pimp 'round the corner
with his new cadillac,
'Bout the neighborhood junkie shootin' his smack, he ain't never gonna give that shit no slack.
'Bout the whore in the projects who got busted last week, and the pig doing under-the-cover work this week.
'Bout Reverend Lee and Sister Sally,
who got caught last night making love in the alley.
'Bout my very best friend down
the street, least she used to be,
til she tried to get next to me.
'Bout me and how hip it is just being black.
