March 2020

This month has been something different to me, I feel like my life is going to change in so many ways. On March 13, 2020 it was a Friday, I was working at PMS and during one of the periods the superintendent sent out an email that the school is closed until further notice. All of the students had no idea what was going on until they sent out the email, of course they were still confused. Little did I know that this whole month would be stressful. I have been so stressed out about school especially now that it is all online. I am taking the Math series and hopefully I pass it! Well this is everything that happened to me this month and I can't really say much but staying home for everything sucks!

April 2020

This whole month was something extremely different, all of our classes were either online or we had to go to campus. Thank God, I passed all of my classes for this Winter Quarter. I was scared I was not going to pass none of my classes because of so many things they were requiring now. Anyways, nothing much happened, just the same routine over and over and over again. I was laid off from work last month so that has been boring and I am only on campus for a little, just like one or two classes. After all of this has happened I was surprised that I am still able to move around. Oh yeah, I forgot to tell you. I'm pregnant. I am 5 months pregnant so it is just so stressful. Now starting Spring Quarter, I am ready, I am motivated. I am still taking the Math series so that is going to be something that will keep me entertained.

I hope I do well this quarter because pregnancy sucks the living life out of you omg!!!!

May 2020

I am still doing my Spring quarter, all of my classes are good, it's just the Math series is stressing me out a little. COVID is still going on, many things are still closed which sucks because I am a person who likes to experience new things. Well nothing much has really changed this month. Just the same routine, which sucks. I hate this life. Usually, by commuting to CSUSB I would also have fun in my car listening to new music and what not, but now I can't even do that which sucks! Okay well this is all that I have for you this month. My life is boring.

Nothing interesting happened in June 2020, so I decided to skip this month.

July 2020

COVID is still affecting all of our lives, and it sucks to say but I think this thing isn't going to change anytime soon. SO many people are getting sick and they are testing positive for COVID. I hate this thing so much because there is nothing interesting happening in my life. I feel like I do the same thing over and over and over again. For example, I am not going to school anymore because I am on summer break, and there is nothing to do. Especially since I am not working either, I work for a school so we aren't employed during summer. I wish things were so different so I could actually go out and do stuff. The only thing that makes me happy is that I have not gotten sick whatsoever. That makes me happy because I know I am doing the right thing and following the protocols. Well this is pretty much it for this month, I'm telling you nothing interesting is happening.

August 2020

This month, I met the love of my life. I did not know how something could be so perfect until I met my son. This month was the best month of my life because I became a Mother. I would never change anything that happened that day, it was almost like a dream come true. So, the whole COVID thing is still going on and I absolutely hate it because there were so many downfalls after I had my son. The first thing that COVID affected is not being able to be with my family during the whole delivery part. Another downfall that happened during this pandemic when I was in the hospital was that my family was not able to visit me after the delivery so I was all by myself!

After I gave birth, I received bad news about one of my family members. My uncle (dad's brother) got hospitalized because he was having severe chest pains. They did not know what he had, they were basically doing so much test and studies but they couldn't find exactly what was wrong with him. Hopefully we find out soon because I'm worried about him.

September 2020

Starting this month off with not one but two uncles hospitalized. One of my uncles (dad's brother) was diagnosed with sepsis because of a previous infection that he had. The other uncle, he was my mom's uncle, he was hospitalized because he had chest pains as well but for him they did find that he had COVID and it was attacking him fast. Also thing, this uncle had cancer on his left ankle and had it for about 10 years now. I know I'm supposed to be talking about my COVID experience but this is what is happening to me because of COVID. The coronavirus is something serious that we all have to pay close attention to and not go out and touch things because that is how we will come in contact with the virus. Okay now going back to my uncles. My uncle with sepsis passed away on September 7th. My uncle with cancer passed away on September 4th. So yes COVID is affecting my life with going passed my family members and killing them. They both tested positive for this virus. So I absolutely hate it.

October 2020

My life remained the same this month. Nothing new happened, and nobody is sick. The only thing that I do want to say is that this whole pandemic has increased even more in cases and there are so many more deaths.

THIS PANDEMIC SUCKS.
