The Black Voice News

Byard Byas, 48, joined the school district in August 1997 as assistant superintendent. He formerly served as the assistant superintendent of business for the Duarte Unified School District since 1994. Prior to that, he was the business manager for Bear Valley Unified for four years and the manager of Xerox Corporation as a senior financial administrator and Ford Aerospace as a financial analyst. Prior to that, he worked for Kaiser Steel Corporation for 12 years.

Police Use of Force Panel Recommendations

The Black Voice News

There was a last minute meeting of the community committee that was held on Tuesday, the 27th of the month. The meeting was called by the assistant superintendent of the school district. The community committee was asked to give their report on the recommendations for the Police Use of Force Panel.

Riverside City Council Resolution

The Black Voice News

The Riverside City Council has adopted a resolution to improve the use of Force Panel that was appointed June 1, 1999 after the ad hoc committee came back with specific recommendations, following the upset over the police shooting of Tyrone Miller, a black grocer, in the mid-1990s. The four meetings were held last week and were later focused on in that shooting. That committee was lead by Jack Clarke, President of the California Credit Union League and consumer of the first Black City Council in Riverside

The Millville Community Center is located at 2348 Millville Avenue. The Center is open from Monday to Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Byas holds both a master of business administration and a master of arts in management from the Peter Drucker Management Center at Clark University. He has a bachelor of arts degree in economics from San Bernardino Valley College and an associate degree from San Bernardino Community College. He and his wife and her and her parents have improved.

Tensions Rise as Use Of Force Panel Makes Report

The Black Voice News

One of the hot button issues on the agenda is the use of force by police. The officers are being asked to give their support to the district attorney and the police department. The officers are being asked to support their colleagues and the district attorney.

Fuller dismissed charges that Carroll sold securities without qualification and that he engaged in a conspiracy to sell unqualified securities.

In ruling, Fuller stated that Deputy District Attorney Gordon Less had brought the charges without probable cause, in direct violation of protective federal law.

Carroll attorneys view the ruling as a major victory since the remaining charges require the prosecution to prove that a conspiracy existed.

Clarke remarked at the meeting there is some concern by the Police.

Use of Force Review Panel, because they cannot bring up issues unless they are based on the background of the Brown. This he said seems to go against the will of Mayor Lovett. Having said that, he’s not going to stop working and the City Manager John Holmes to devise a plan to make this a non-violent Black or Brown.

Another concern brewing in this meeting is the Riverside Police Association’s standoff with the assignment of officers.

The report says you need to put a freeze on that, unfortunately that isn’t going to happen.

TAKING THE FIRST STEP

Not only did Rialto voters approve a much needed school bond issue but also proposed a middle school and elementary school construction. The City also has the overwhelming matter with 77 percent voting “yes,” the large majority of Rialto voters were a wonderful surprise. It tells me how much our community members care for our children and of their willingness to invest in the future of our children.

Besides those who voted, the others who voted because of their time making phone calls, going door-to-door with mailers or doing whatever it was they can do. Many individuals and organizations contributed financially or volunteered time, and the majority of volunteers regularly for the City, to coordinate the outreach endeavor. To the many people who participated in this worthwhile effort, you are important.

We need better, safer schools for our students; taking this first step is a another concrete, and significant improvement on our educational system of the former. Very important. Thank you Rialto voters for making that possible for our children.

Curoso released the Urban Institute report at a news conference with members of Congress and leaders of the Association for Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN). ACORN released its own study at the same time demonstrating continuing racial disparities in the national home purchase, mortgage and refinancing markets. Congress Members James Clyburn of South Carolina, Eleanor Holmes Norton of the District of Columbia, and Loretta Sanchez and Xavier Becerra of California also attended. "These reports confirm the sad truth that discrimination remains a persistent part of our society that has yet to be cured," Curoso said. "The reports also show that HUD needs added funds that President Clinton has requested to intensify our fight against all forms of housing discrimination so that we can make the American Dream of homeownership a reality for more families."

The ACORN report found that Black and Latino applicants for conventional home mortgages are rejected much more frequently than Whites, and that those ratios have steadily been increasing. The ACORN report said that in 1998 African Americans were denied mortgages 2179 times as often as Whites, up from 2069 in 1995 and 1997 in 1995. Latino applicants were rejected 193% as often as Whites for conventional mortgages in 1998, up from 169% in 1995 and 181% in 1997.

Conference for Religious Leaders Focus on Family Violence

For Gospel legend Yolanda Adams, her desire to work with people who are hurting is an essential part of who she is. Adams, who was born in Los Angeles, California, but grew up in Houston, Texas, says her desire to help others is rooted in her own personal experiences and the support she received from her family and community. She has always been drawn to music, and her passion for sharing her faith and her love for singing has been a guiding force in her life. As she continues to make music and perform around the world, Adams remains committed to using her platform to raise awareness about the importance of treating people with love and respect, and to encourage others to use their own talents and resources to make a positive impact in their communities.

The conference, the first of its kind offered in the region, is for religious leaders, community organizations, churches, and other interested parties.

The conference was held on Saturday, September 25th from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Corona Public Library. The event was free and open to the public, and included keynote speakers, workshops, and discussions on various topics related to family violence.

Adams, who has been involved in the music industry for many years, has used her platform to raise awareness about the importance of treating people with love and respect. As she continues to make music and perform around the world, Adams remains committed to using her platform to encourage others to use their own talents and resources to make a positive impact in their communities.

During the conference, Adams shared her personal experiences with family violence and offered inspiration and encouragement to those attending. She spoke about the importance of treating people with love and respect, and encouraged others to use their own talents and resources to make a positive impact in their communities.

The conference was well attended, with approximately 200 people in attendance. The keynote speakers included a range of experts on family violence, including psychologists, social workers, and religious leaders. Workshops were also offered, covering topics such as recognizing the signs of family violence, how to support survivors, and how to prevent violence from occurring.

The conference concluded with a panel discussion, where the speakers and attendees had the opportunity to ask questions and engage in dialogue. The event was a success, and many attendees left feeling inspired and equipped to make a positive impact in their communities.

The conference was sponsored by several organizations, including the Corona Police Department and Alternatives to Domestic Violence, a nonprofit agency serving individuals affected by domestic violence. The conference was held at the Corona Public Library, and was free and open to the public.

For more information about the conference, or to find out how you can get involved in the fight against family violence, please contact the Corona Police Department at (951) 278-2471.

Monterey's Musical Best Depends on Who's Talking

By Taylor Jordan

Determined the best, near best and most exciting ensemble at the 62nd annual Monterey Jazz Festival is presented by MCI WorldCom was a simple matter of personal taste. While the usual routine on previous Fridays is to arrive slowly, sit and settle into seats for the first evening of the five-concert weekend. Folks are working off the edges of stress from long flights, drivers and extra work required to acquire three days for Monterey Jazz. Stirring singers Pedro Calva, Roberto Hernandez and Martin Rivera, bassist Blacher, trumpeter/composer Terence Blanchard and his no-holds-barred Afro-Cuban mix with salsa, soul and rhythm and blues. By the time, Los Van Van hit the stage, the crowd was ready.

The legendary Clark Terry commanded love and respect of Monterey Jazz Festival fans and artists.

Eastwood, together, are the stuff of dreams. And Eastwood is always accommodating and wonderful with fans, even those who reportedly interrupted his long solos toward the garden stage for an earlier set by his bassist son Kyle. It was a good thing there was no roof on the arena because Los Van Van's Friday finale would have blown it off. The Latin Night opened with Cuban pianist/leader co-founder Jesus "Chucho" Valdes and he set excitement into musical motion. Percussionist Poncho Sanchez and his no-holds-barred aggregation imbued the Latin-Afro-Cuban mix with salsa, soul and rhythm and blues. By the time, Los Van Van hit the stage, the crowd was ready.

Three acts, particularly Los Van Van, did what no others have ever done in 42 years of Monterey. They got the sweaty feet and sorry backs up dancing on a Friday night. The usual routine on previous Fridays is to arrive slowly, sit and settle into seats for the first evening of the five-concert weekend. Folks are working off the edges of stress from long flights, drivers and extra work required to acquire three days for Monterey Jazz. Stirring singers Pedro Calva, Roberto Hernandez and Martin Rivera, bassist Blacher, trumpeter/composer Terence Blanchard and his no-holds-barred Afro-Cuban mix with salsa, soul and rhythm and blues. By the time, Los Van Van hit the stage, the crowd was ready.

Cuban. "I got to dancing and took off one layer. Don't need that. Then I took off a second layer. Don't need that. It was so hot I was about to get naked!"

That sentiment was echoed by the crowd. The heat meter repeatedly climbed on stages, offsetting the nip in the Monterey air.

The winners of the Show Me the Way-Go-On! Awards were unequivocally guitarist Russell Malone and pianist Kenny Barron. Rumors had it their flights were delayed 18 hours before they finally arrived in Monterey. They hit the fairgrounds running, never complained, made no premeditated demands and dazzled Dizzy's Den patrons with extraordinary sets. "Russell Malone and Kenny Barron tore the place up," said a breathless Bernard Spaulding of Calabasas. "Their performance was worth the price for the entire weekend. They were tight, just magical."

Spaulding and his bebop buddies Odell Graham, Fred Todd, Doc Stewart and James Benson also enjoyed Ellington's musical and spiritual veins.

Summer Camp Success Thanks to Local Businesses

By Ruth M. Baylis

With help from AllState, Parkview Community Hospital, Del Taco, Little Caesars Pizza, Heritage House and other contributions, Summer Camp ’99 at Hope and Help, Inc. was a huge success. We started the week off with our councilman Ameal Moore, who came and spoke to the children on holding on to their dreams and that “whatever they wanted to achieve, no matter how they start off in life, they could do it.” Billy Mitchell of AllState presented Hope and Help with a $5,000 check to pay for the camp. In addition, Jennifer Blakely received a plaque for the $5,000 check Parkview gave in June for the Celebrity Basketball game in honor of the late Rev. Johnny D. Harris, the founder of Hope & Help, Inc., along with his wife Bridget Harris, who is working in another area of the organization.

Del Taco on University and Little Caesar’s on Chicago supported the cause with great deals on everything. Activities during this year’s summer camp included swimming, a joint bar-b-que with Stratton Center and PRO (People Reaching Out), taking the Metro-link to Union Station and walked around some old Spanish homes, visiting the Heritage House in Riverside, and the last trip of summer camp, a trip to Newport Beach.

Elegance with Toshiko Akiyoshi and re-visited Regina Carter’s violin virtuoso performance in Dizzy’s Den. Going to see Terry again, this time on the garden stage with Swing Fever, they got a surprise treat from vocalist Jackie Ryan’s moving “Do Nothing Til You Hear It From Me.”

The blues day is usually the blow-out day, the afternoon of frenetic fun. But the only performer to get the crowds stirred up was Shemekia Copeland. It was hard to believe the daughter of the late, great Texas guitarist Johnny Clyde Copeland was only 20. Her daddy fittingly predicted at her birth she was born a blues singer. He was right.

Her big, booming blues voice, sensuous, sassy moves and powerful command of both the trumpet and piano proved to the world that the Copeland family name was not going to die with the blues. Shemekia Copeland, blues Artist of the Year in 1998, proves to be the most powerful vocalist at Monterey. This princess of the blues will someday be queen. The Reverence Award, in appreciation for his huge talent, inspiration for other artists and gracious humility with all fans, goes to Clark Terry. The love others feel for him was best evidenced in the face of trumpeter/orchestra leader/jazz educator Gerald Wilson. A giant himself, Wilson’s face was awash with love and excitement as he watched Terry.

It would take a book to write everything exhilarating about Monterey Jazz. Matter of fact, somebody should start now on the sequel to “Monterey Jazz Festival: Forty Legendary Years.” The last festival of the 20th century was filled with fodder for the new pages. It’ll be musically challenging to see what’s in store for the 21st century.
