What Goes On Behind Closed Dorms?

by Steve Jacobsen

In assessing the pros and cons involved in life at Cal State's residence halls, it immediately becomes clear that the defining line separating the advantage from the disadvantages is somewhat murky, at least in popular opinion.

The issue seems fairly well divided in the student mind. A good example of this duality is the attitude expressed concerning the 24-hour surveillance clause.

This in itself is generally held to be an asset—yet when one considers that an overnight temporary resident must pay two dollars per night to stay, it becomes apparent that the dorm residents and visitor are at times difficult to ascertain.

The liability of the Residence License is that the police have not been trained to enforce the rules every hour on the hour. Some people feel secure and safe in their dorm existence; others feel unwelcome, and suspect it of being "constantly watched."

The truth of the matter lies in the middle; indeed it is true that the license a resident signs makes it clear that any resident violating these rules is subject to having their room searched. This search may be effected only by a Housing official rather than the campus police.

The other voiced pros and cons of dorm life were pretty evenly expressed.

Most students felt the advantages to be living in an academic environment, many within reach of the library, book store, etc. not having to worry or pay for transportation, but having to commute to schools.

The simple largest complaint regarding dorm life was that the process of checking in and out of the dorm is a non-rigid meal times, lack of privacy, having to sign a contract for the entire academic year.

The Saga of the Window Screen

Quotes of memorable note from Dorm officials:

"When I looked Friday, November 29th, your bedroom screen was not in place."

"If the screen is not in place by Tuesday noon on November 30th you will be billed $10.00 per room for a new screen."

"November 29 - There is a serious problem which I want to bring to your attention, someone or a group of people is attempting to replace the screens with lesser quality window screens."

"If you have the screen but do not have it in place . . ."

The first meeting of the newly formed food co-op will be held on the fifth floor of the library, at 2 p.m. on Wednesday the 20th of Feb.

Plans for the organization of the food co-op will be voted on by all present.

The food co-op is being organized by Joseph Bush who is the vice president of the Associated Students of Cal State.

It is estimated by Mr. Bush that the members of the food co-op can save up to thirty percent on their food bill, and they may even be able to save as much as forty percent.

The basic plan of the food co-op is simple. All the members buying food together from a wholesale firm. Wholesale food firms always give discounts to people who buy food from them in large amounts.

Anyone who is interested in saving money on their food purchases is invited to attend the meeting.

Perspective on Washington

Q: Is impeachment a dead issue now?
A: Far from it. The House Judiciary Committee, which has a majority of Democrats and which has moved to impeach the President, has been可以说 is of much greater significance than that of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Q: Why is that?
A: Under the Constitution, the House has the responsibility for investigating and impeaching, and a Senate committee is without jurisdiction in such matters. You have read that Gerald Ford is Vice President and can succeed to the Presidency, but what about Congress impeaching the President and be done with it?

A: Impeachment alone would not remove the President. Impeachment and removal are all the same thing. The House have voted in favor of articles of impeachment, which are still before the Senate for trial. It takes a two-thirds vote in the House to have an impeachment proceeding entertained; and, of course, no sentencing as in an ordinary trial.

Q: Is the House Judiciary Committee doing anything now?
A: Yes. A still unbroken strike of about 40 lawyers to conduct the investigation. The House voted 40 to 10 to grant the committee subpoena powers.

Editor

In Defense of Thumbin' by W.Y.

The Editor supports the recent report from the Student Liberation Army (SLA) in taking a position as a "newspaper nearbess" and is a particular problem. Often the ruling class is so removed in their corporate board rooms that any oppression, that pressure upon them, and the faltering of a vulnerable point for immediate, non-violent action to correct injustices.

The SLA says Hearst's daughter was killed because she was the girlfriend of her mother and father. Hearst is the "chairman of the board of the ultra-right" and Mrs. Hearst as a UCRegent has made investments in university funds, in corporations that have interest in the SLA. They are to be removed in their corporate board of directors as a result. The only reason the Senate Committee is without an investigation of grounds for impeachment is that there is no one to do it. Recently the House Judiciary Committee is making an investigation. Conviction is no longer supported by a majority of the House.

Q: Why is that?
A: Here's the situation: the House and the Senate are not doing anything now. Conviction without the Senate Committee is without the investigative powers. The following contain important facts and leads: Watergate Report, and books by Mark Lane, the Los Angeles Star, Rampart, Nov. 5, 1973; (article by Peter Dale Scott); The Realist, no. 95, pp. 35-13, (article by Mae Brussel); Rampart, Nov., 1973 (article by Lester Brown); Sturgis was a friend of Lee Harvey Oswald and David Ferrie. Forrest Sorrels and C. Ewell Romero regarding a plan to kill Kennedy. The Watergate, "Executive Order" has evidence that E. Howard Hunt, Lesley Strock, John Dean, David Ferrie, James McCord, and a few others, evidence that Hunt, Edgar Strock, which is an indictable offense, and no one is going to be held accountable for saving your health.

Four Day Week

I found it interesting that the reason Physical Plant employees were being returned to a 5-day week was reduced efficiency (whatever that is), and by lack of supervision for a 24-hour period each day. If the parks are "the same", then why would you not refuse to share his ride with the person handling the lane along the roadside, who travels thru the use of the hitchhiker's thumb and shares his ride with the hitchhiker in the straight direction.

Hitchin' Cards

There was an attempt in Southern California to "the hitchhiker's thumb" that would identify "striped thumbs as non-criminal and reliable persons to share your car with. It received little response.

Ideally, in the future the Dept. of Motor Vehicles will issue a "striped thumb" card for each hitcher who will be able to give the driver a clue that they may offer him a financial inducement to share his car, such as coupons for the hitcher, which will give the driver discounts when purchasing oil and gasoline.
Ladies Show Finesse
By Jago Nath Singh

Just in time for the charging of the point guard for the UCR's team, The Jockettes. The Jockettes' Hop. Not the Rockettes coming to the bank. The Jockettes, a ladies basketball team, right here at our own CSCSB. Believe me, it was really something.

They were playing Duncan Swish and the Dribbles' Yup. Not quite the best, but Duncan Swish is the ladies appointive fame that we're used to. Besides, the Duncan Swish court isClearly sandpaper, another advantage for the Rockettes.

It was the first game of the season and the newly formed three team women's league. Coach O'Gara was on hand to introduce his team, simply so we could have more ladies down here at the CSCSB. Come support our ladies!

After the game, I interviewed a couple of the winners - the two main organizers of the Jockettes, Roberta Stathas and Barbara Raynow. They told me that their participation in Cal State's intramural program began as a joke. Barb was so excited about last fall and said she was going to play flag football. There were just two teams of five each then, and they really didn't know that much about football, but Joe Long, the intramural director, and Greg Pryce helped coach, teaching drills and plays.

"Some people laugh," said Barbara, "but we wouldn't do it if we weren't having fun. That's why we do it, not to prove anything."

Robertas told me a story about one of the football games. "We were ahead by a touchdown, and had the ball with about two minutes to go. I had dropped passes all day, but I finally caught one, and ran all the way for a touchdown, sửa, every man was very happy. I really thought I would get into sports like that! It wasn't like football, but it was great after practicing so hard!"

That story really said it all. The joy and group togetherness of the Jockettes.

Washington, D.C. 1984 - It is a desperate effort to bring America's spiraling birthrate under control. Congress today enacted the Selective Shooting Act, allowing for selected citizens to be shot each month for the good of the country.

Proponents of the bill agreed that the turning point in American morality necessary for public acceptability of the measure came in 1978, with the passage of the American Anti-Abortion Act, which legalized all abortions at the request of the expectant mother. After the public accepted the concept of killing unwanted people before birth, it was only a matter of time before the idea of killing unwanted people after birth was accepted as well.

Opponents of the bill argued that it was unconstitutional to deprive a person of life in this manner. However, after years of presidential wars, executive privilege, and government wiretapping, no one could find a copy of the Constitution to help him claim this claim out. Some of the younger Congressmen even expressed the opinion that the idea of Constitutional rights was simply a full legend made up out of the mid-50's.

Spiritual debate raged in both houses deciding the issue of who, in the best interests of the nation, could be done away with. The Democrats voted overwhelmingly for the measure applicable only to Republicans, while the Republicans were unanimously in favor of limiting the execution of the bill exclusively to Democrats. However, as the Republicans control the House and the Democrats the Senate, the party was able to pass the measure. Finally Congressmen, many of them parents of teenagers, reached a compromise. With the 18-year-old vote, they selected the 17-year-olds as the ones to be shot.

Under the new bill, every 17-year-old in the country will be assigned a member of the Selective Shooting Department. The Selective Shooting Department (affectionately known as the SS), will establish a monthly quota based on the latest population estimates and the appropriate number of young men and women will receive an order to report to a government extermination center to lay down their lives for the country.

In their Solomonic wisdom, the members of Congress added a clause which provides an alternative service to those opposed to the indiscriminate killing of human beings on grounds of conscience. In anticipation of an avalanche of claims for this special status, Congress specified that, to qualify, the class must be opposed to all indiscriminate killing, not just his own. Those opposed to indiscriminate killing must immediately surrender another 14 women to the Selective Shooting Department for immediate extermination, will be classified I.D., placed in the army, and sent overseas to practice indiscriminate killing on America's enemies.

Authors of the measure are quick to point out the many advantages the Selective Shooting Act enjoys over its forerunner. The Selective Shooting Act. The new bill will bring about many of the same results as the old bill, but under a much more efficient and less expensive program. A considerable amount of money will be saved, for instance, by eliminating the need for special veteran's programs. More importantly, under the next bill, both men and women will be shot alike. This aspect of the measure prompted a demonstration of irate teenage girls led by Betty Friedan Jr., who surrounded the Capitol building chanting "Inferior citizenship for women now."

This demonstration, however, was simply ignored.

It is possible that this new bill will not remain in effect for more than five years. His Majesty Richard I issued a royal press release from the White Palace today, urging the American public to support the new program and to "rise up, as the great nation we are, to meet this challenge. If we all work together, we can overcome this problem by the end of this decade, and by the turn of the century we can assure importing unwanted people to America."

He stressed the benefits available for part of the funds, those who volunteered for the program. When asked if he thought the benefits would provide sufficient incentive to make the program work, he confidently replied, "Why not? Considering our run away inflation, poisoned environment, and government restrictions on personal freedom, the average American would be happy to live for these days, anyway!"

Four Day Week?

This week, students at CSCSB were asked to give their opinions on the following question: "How would you feel about having a four day class schedule?"

Julius Hemingway Senior, Social Science

"Due to the fact that the majority of the students are working either full or part time, the four day classes should be offered at various times and days. Many classes are not available at the time students have the opportunity to attend. There should be duplication of major classes in the morning and afternoon hours."

Sylvia Quartiroli Senior, Business Administration

"I like the four day week. A lot of full time students are working weekends. This four day week would give them the opportunity to work Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Since Cal State is a commuting college, savings in gasoline would be realized. There would be more time for recreational activities for those who do not work weekends."

Linda Carleton Senior, Political Science

"Education is for the individual, and by limiting students to a four day week, you are in effect limiting the possibilities of education for each individual."

J.C. Wright Senior, Political Science

"Education is for the individual, and by limiting students to a four day week, you are in effect limiting the possibilities of education for each individual."

Michael Aschenbrenner Senior, Art

"I think a four day class schedule would help students to save gas. It would also allow the college to shutdown its facilities for an extra day each week to save energy."

A Renaissance Festival on Sunday, Feb. 24, will climax a month of special observances and activities to mark the culture of the period at California State College, San Bernardino.

Dramatization of a "campus," as well as the liquor, will play an important role in this festival. Besides the "campus," several buildings, of a school or campus, will be the backdrop for the night's entertainment.

But, when the brouhaha is over, much meaning is made of this. For example, one of the members of the Instrumental Consort, Dueler, Robert Brousseau and Michael Brousseau of Fontana, Janice Broussard of Riverside, Rachel Jupi, Carl Stouder from assistant from Kansas, and Deborah Materky, Riverside. Reservations for the event, at $6.50 per person, should be made by Feb. 18 through the music department of Cal State, San Bernardino.

A.S. SENATE VOTES UNANIMOUSLY TO GIVE THE PAWPRINT EDITOR A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

By A.S. President Joe Bush

The A.S. Senate voted unanimously on Wednesday to support the PawPrint as editor. The action was necessary because, as a test of attempts to remove the editor from office.

The Senate feels that the vote of confidence is necessary for the following reasons.

1. The Pawprint is finally paying for itself.

2. The Pawprint has become a way of life at Cal State.

3. The Pawprint has begun to cover issues which are of great importance to students (e.g., Union coverage etc.).
