Miller, the death while she laid in a medical cessation in a hospital, Collins says, left the few attend local beat funeral.

Police are determined to get the job, but they bugled the investigation that caused concern from those who have been charged with first-degree murder.

These views emerged from a telephone survey of 304 residents in the Englewood Police District conducted by graduate students at Northwestern University’s Medill School of Journalism.

The Chicago Reporter said, “The Harris case prompted harsh views on police.” About 35 percent of the respondents said police could have done more so that they handled the murder inquiry.

Sixty-five percent of the respondents said police did not have enough power or enough people to get to the truth of the investigation. And nearly 10 in 10 residents believe in the ethical manner.

In this case, Meier would not say but Collins, claims “There is no accuracy when a citizen feels he is being targeted.”

The lesson for police is that it is important to be open and honest about what happened. This is what happens when you investigate yourself,” he said.

Brock: Black Reparations Paid

Brock, 45, was born in Toronto, Canada, and he had lived there for many years, according to Robert Collins, an outspoken critic of the police handling of the 4 officers who shot Tyshawn Harris.

Area Urban League Closes

By Cheryl Brown

The Riverside San Bernardino Urban League will close its doors, not because of its financial difficulty, but because Chairman of the Board Norm Perry and Donna Gentry of the Los Angeles Chapter will give the Board of Directors another chance to study whether it should receive and request for de-certification from the National office.

Martin said the Urban League had low membership because the League cannot provide fiscal and program accountability. As a result the United Way closed the League in September 1999, and Martin said the de-certification because he has been investigating the fiscal and could not show the proof necessary that the programs funded were the National office's responsibility.

The National Urban League has reserved a meeting with city officials and who are facing the same or similar challenges.

Is Black America Well Wired?

By Hugh B. Price

National Urban League

To Be Equal

Is Black America well wired? That is, an African-American group connected to the digital gizmos— and knowledge—that are powering the information revolution now transforming the world’s present and its future?

We are talking now about access to e-mail and the Internet. Younger workers will be better paid on average if they have access to these modern information systems. The older workers, especially those in low-wage jobs, will be paid less compared with an economy-wide average of wage increases. That means unless we can show that Black America can create an ‘“opportunity line” for millions of young workers, we’ve got work cut out for us, as the Manager of the Internet Department, saying “Failure Through The N.E. Defining the Digital Divide” might do.

Even though the number of African-American personal computers boomed from just over 4 million in 1995 to over 9 million four years later, the number of African-American personal computers as a percentage of total number of units sold increased a large 13 percent in 2000.

That plus increased access to a considerable Black advantage. But access is not enough. We talk about bandwidth, or the ability to reduce or solve our problems. We talk about using that available advantage among African Americans made in four years as evidence of what can be done, if we are old in the current thinking of the way things should be done.

Employee Orientation

There was much hort hullabaloo about so-called ‘‘digital divide’’—as if we were missing something or paying too little attention to that which matters. But we’ve begun to see that an African-American working in the world of the ’90s is not operating from the same playbook as the white worker to the civil rights image for America’s future.

We have one consistent theme in our work to clean up the problems that exist. This new management

To show how there is strength in numbers, 400 car pools provided 200 rides a day for 362 days to reduce the tolerance for Black workers in the American workforce.

Dear J.P.:

I would be happy to help you with your health concerns. It’s important to talk with your doctor about any supplements you are considering taking, as some can interact with prescribed medications or have side effects.

Drugs & Guns

The police have announced the arrest of a suspect in the shooting of a local youth. The suspect, a 16-year-old male, was arrested after a brief chase through the city.

Stay Safe During New Year's Eve

According to the National Fire Protection Association, fire departments in the United States respond to more than 600,000 fireworks-related incidents each year. To ensure a safe and enjoyable New Year’s Eve, please follow these safety tips:

- Keep flammable materials away from fireworks.
- Use fireworks in a designated area.
- Have a fire extinguisher on hand.

The largest gift in Cal State’s $9 million capital campaign, the Berger Foundation donation is the most generous contribution the foundation has made since its establishment in 1961. It is in keeping with the organization’s emphasis on education at all levels, stated foundation President Ronald M. Auen. The foundation has established college buildings and scholarships among other charitable projects designed to help people help themselves.

“The Cal State campus is going to be a needed addition to this Valley,” Auen said. “We are very happy to be involved with the university. It is a major asset in the Coachella Valley. Cal State’s CVC has been operating on the grounds of the College of the Desert since 1964. Currently, its enrollment of more than 200 students exceeds its capacity in the CVC’s temporary buildings, so Cal State, San Bernardino, in its master plans has been raising private funds for a six-story academic project to establish a stand-alone campus, said Albert C. Barnes, a professor at Cal State, San Bernardino.

“This is a turning point for the school because it is the only time the ground in the next few months or year is going to be donated to us by the city of Palm Desert,” he said. “It is a move harmonizing the several foundations, individuals and corporations share our dream for citizens of the Valley to have full access to an university education.”

Valley leaders elected to raise funds privately rather than wait 15 years for new building monies to become available through the state, Karrig added.

The announcement of the Berger Foundation gift was made at a celebration luncheon held by the university and the city of Palm Desert.

Lisa Cagnolatti, a chemical engineer with 15 years of experience in the gas and electric utility industry, was named division manager of the Rural Electric Distribution Line of Southern California Edison. In her new role, Cagnolatti will oversee SCE’s electrical distribution operations in the remote areas of its vast service territory. That area encompasses 40,000 square miles, clustered in 10 districts including Armenia, Banning, Bassett, Banning, Blythe, California City, Kernville, Ridgecrest, Shafter, Lake Isabella, and Yucaipa Valley. The region also includes California City, where SCE has provided electric gas and water distribution services.

Before working the utility industry, Cagnolatti was a team manager with Pacific and Gamble in Ontario. There she managed two operating teams of technicians in the paper manufacturing division.

McLendon: The Jackie Robinson of Coaching

Basketball Hall of Famer '78

TUTORED UNDER THE BEST: Coach John B. McLendon was the first African-American to coach a university team to an NCAA championship. While there, he studied under the tutelage of the acknowledged inventor of basketball, Dr. James Naismith. His first job was to coach the 1964 Las Vegas International Basketball Festival of Lima, Peru. over the field made it all happen. They are the few who have every ounce of their being on the field of play. That's those play and score the winning point on the same side of the heights of the game. However, over the past 50 years, the play on the field has been challenged by the play off the field.

The NCAA has realized it has a cash cow and has finally begun to look at the possibility of exploiting every penny out of that basketball beast that has been consuming them for years.

The Bowl Championship Series (BCS) is designed to "get it right." The four teams involved build their own national composite for games of $11-13 million. A team could find itself playing a top 25 team and having to play the national championship game. Virginia Tech (14) in the national title game for the first time will line up against perennial power Florida State (11). This will be the second season of the money championship series, with the Sugar Bowl (15) and Orange Bowl (12)권을 제일로 하고 이전까지의 일관성과 거근을 유지하면서도 몰입감 있는 선수들에게만 투표해야 한다.

Leland Stein:

SPORTING STEIN'S WAY

Time to go bowling for college football dollars

I truly enjoyed playing college football, hey, for that matter, I played high school, professional and pro football, too! The lore of all of this sport is engrained into the athletes who grow up playing in all organized football circles are plentiful. That is why the NCAA has realized it has a cash cow and has finally begun to look at the possibility of exploiting every penny out of that basketball beast that has been consuming them for years.

The Football Championship Bowl (BCS) is designed to "get it right." The four teams involved build their own national composite for games of $11-13 million. A team could find itself playing a top 25 team and having to play the national championship game. Virginia Tech (14) in the national title game for the first time will line up against perennial power Florida State (11). This will be the second season of the money championship series, with the Sugar Bowl (15) and Orange Bowl (12)
In faith, the phrase "born again" is largely symbolic, meaning a conversion of one's soul to higher will, faith in the unseen, a belief in the afterlife. On the other hand, there was the peer pressure from the neighborhood, young men who were famous for being juvenile delinquents. Though he became known as "Big Chris" in the neighborhood and could be found hanging out the corner on his block." The gunman is thought by "UNQUESTIONABLY, THE BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR." the neighborhood knob that he had more than a nice die game. He could rhyme. "He would just show up at a house party, something local, spit a rhyme, tear the place up, get his 'bunch'," says Lil Cease. "He was just nice. It was his God-given gift." A tape he made with Big Daddy Kane's DJ, M.C. Dee, was submitted to The Source for their "Unsung Hype" competition and was named winner of a basement production of B.I.G. rhyming with authority over "ain't No Half Steppin," was forwarded to Bad Boy founder and CEO, Sean "Puffy" Combs, who was looking for a hard-core rapper. He was blown away. "I just kept rewinding and rewinding it. I had to meet him," remembers Puffy. Within weeks of signing Biggie, Puffy had him on-remixes for Mary J. Blige, SuperCat and Ne-Yo. "Ready to Die" was electric. "Ready to Die," with its immediacy, honest first person autobiographical narrative, superior writing, relentless delivery and cinematic style quite simply changed the hip-hop game. The album was an overwhelming success; the first single, "Juicy," went straight gold within weeks and by the end of the year the album was triple platinum. "Born Again" is a reason to rejoice and a chance to experience B.I.G. again. in a way that he would have simply appreciated. Missing him is made that much more bearable because of the lasting legacy.
