ASB Elections

Constitutional Amendment on Ballot

The Associated Students will be holding Fall Elections on November 18 and 19. Election polls will be located at the crossroads in front of the Library, and will open from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. In case of inclement weather the polls will be located in the commons on Monday November 18 and in front of the Library on Tuesday November 19.

The Student Senate is considering suggested wording for A.S.B. Constitutional revision. The current A.S.B. Constitution was written in 1966 when the college was new. At that time, there were less than 300 Bachelor degrees available. Judi Jones, A.S.B. President, suggested that the A.S.B. Constitution be amended in the up coming election to include graduate students, since they are not excluded from paying the fees. In order for the revision to qualify for the November 18th and 19th ballot, it must first pass the Student Seante on November 13th by a two-third majority vote. The revisions will seat one graduate representative on the Executive Cabinet and two graduate Senators on the A.S.B. Senate.

"Lady Frederick" Opens This Week

Somerset Maugham's "Lady Frederick" will open the 10th season of Players of the Pear Garden productions Nov. 14 at California State College, San Bernardino.

Performances will be Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 14-16 and Wednesday through Saturday, Nov. 20-23 in the Little Theatre on campus. Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m.

The 1907 play, the first of the epigrammatic comedies which established Maugham's name, is famous for the scene in which the irresistible charmer of middle age who gives her name to the play shows herself as she looks without artificial aid in order to discourage a youthful suitor.

The title role of "Lady Frederick" will be portrayed by guest artist Mary Barnes, wife of Dr. Ronald Barnes, director of the production. Dr. Barnes founded the Cal State drama department and is its chairman.

Mrs. Barnes' background in the theatre includes the role of Miss Kelly in "Harvey," with John Astin; Hesione Hushabye in Shaw's "Heartbreak House" with John Kerr and George Ede; and Vivie in Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession" with the San Francisco Interplayers. She has also appeared in productions of the Honolulu Community Theatre, the Stanford Players and the Traveler's Company of Hollywood.

The Maugham comedy, set in a fashionable spa on the French Riviera, premiered in England Oct. 2, 1907. Ethel Barrymore was the first to appear as "Lady Frederick" in the United States.

CSCSB students cast in the play include Keith O'Camp, a Beaumont resident; Kurt Nelson, Fallbrook; John J. Finn, Lake Arrowhead; Kimberly Munson, Colton, and Steve Deever, Fontana.

Students from San Bernardino who are taking part include Clark

Elder Morrow, Johnny W. Pipkin, Rock DeFillipes, Kathleen Newcomer and Sondra Sparks. Another actress, Deborah Stephens, also a San Bernardino resident, is a student at San Bernardino Valley College.

Sandi Stiglinski is in charge of set design and Deirdre McGuire, costumes. Both are members of the Cal State drama staff. Dr. Amanda Sue Rudisill, associate professor of drama, is in charge of the lighting.

Reservations may be made now through the drama office at the college. The play is selling out fast.

Other plays to be presented this year are Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," which open Feb. 27, and Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost," set for May performances.

All are British plays, each from a different century. The following year, the bi-centennial, will be devoted to American drama.

Veteran's Corner The G.I. Bill Story: November 1974

The GI Bill (Veterans Readjustment Act of 1974) which recently passed the House and Senate will become law, according to Congressman Bob Wilson, R-Calif., 40th District.

"The bill will pass, with an override vote if necessary," Wilson said. "Right now the President does not have the bill, it has not left Congress."

"Congress is presently adjourned and won't reconvene until November 18. At that time the bill will be submitted to the President, it is conceivable that the bill might be submitted for Presidential approval or veto as much as a week prior to reconvening."

According to parliamentary procedure, the President has three options when a bill is presented to him; (1) he can sign the bill into law, (2) he can veto the bill, or (3) he can do neither. If the President chooses to sign a bill it is the law there after, subject to repeal. If the President vetos the bill can go back to Congress for re-evaluation or if Congress is strongly in favor of the proposed bill the presidential veto can be overridden by simple majority in the Senate and a two-thirds majority in the House.

If the president takes his third option, simple inaction, the outcome of the bill relies on whether Congress is in session or is adjourned. The president has ten Congressional working days in which to exercise one of his options. If he neither signs or vetos a bill after ten days the bill automatically becomes law. On the other hand if Congress is adjourned and the ten day limit expires the bill is automatically killed. This method of killing a bill is known as a presidential "pocket veto."

Since a "pocket veto" would further delay the bill, Congress has removed the opportunity for such a veto, according to Representative Wilson.

"Congress will hold the bill until reconvening or just prior to

National Model United Nations

The International Club will once again sponsor a delegation to the National Model United Nations (NMUN) in New York City. The event will take place in the spring quarter of 1975 (April 22-26). Applications for interviews will be available Monday, November 11 in the Political Science Secretary's office (Penny Jones). Perspective applicants must be undergraduates and plan on attending CSCSB for the remainder of the school year. This event is open to all majors.

The largest collegiate conference in the country, NMUN, built on the experience of forty-nine years, is also the most comprehensive in its size, scope, and ability to meet the needs of its participants. The conference satisfies many varied educational ambitions. The study of international economics becomes alive and meaningful. Those in-involved in regional studies are offered a unique opportunity to apply abstract knowledge to a purposeful end in the simulation of world diplomacy.

As a member of the academic community concerned with political, social and economic relations between diverse nations, you are invited to consider the interest and educational value of the National Model United Nations.

New Revolutionaries

Fill Radical Void

(CPS) — With the death of SDS most college administrators breathed a sigh of relief, but the void left by the group's demise is being replaced by the Revolutionary Student Brigade (RSB), an organization partly responsible for two campus disorders in October.

At Columbia University members of the RSB, formerly the Attica Brigade, took over the administration's careers office to protest Columbia's policy of allowing all "illegitimate employers to recruit on campus."

The group of 15 students ripped up a dozen application forms for the CIA and stated that its action was the beginning of a campaign to deny university recruitment services to federal agencies and corporations "which are responsible for the oppression and exploitation of people worldwide."

During the two hour sit-in, an RSB spokesman also demanded that the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) not be permitted back on campus and that Columbia president William McGill resign from the board of directors of Texaco. In addition, the spokesman stated that the university must "end all investments in corporations operating in Southern Africa."

The protesters left when they were told that they would be subject to discipline under the rules of university conduct if they stayed any longer.

Meanwhile at Boston University (BU) three days of protest ended when 150 students marched to the administration building and burned an effigy of the vice-president. The RSB and other groups were demonstrating against Chile's military junta, a BU-organized conference on Latin American development and the use of city police to quell student disruptions.

Seven demonstrators were arrested on the second day of protests when Boston police were called in by the university to break up a demonstration in front of the administration office after windows there were broken.

Protesters objected to BU conference invitations sent to Eduardo Frei, an opponent of Salvador Allende's Popular Unity government, and Robert McNamara, president of the World Bank, which refused to extend credit to Allende.

Six policemen and two students were injured during the demonstration.

The Associated Student Government leaders of Cal State are supporting a petition calling for a Legal Aid Program for San Bernardino.

The petition calls for a fully funded and staffed Legal Aid office that would provide free legal aid to those people of the local community who cannot afford attorney fees.

The nearest legal aid society is located in Riverside and usually those who cannot afford an attorney also cannot afford a drive to Riverside.

The petition for the legal aid program will be available in the A.S.B. trailer to be signed by interested persons during the following hours: 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The petition states that "We the undersigned, feel that it is important that San Bernardino County have a fully staffed, fully funded Legal Aid program."

The supporters of this petition feel that equal justice means equal access to the courts and without adequate legal aid there is no justice.

The Executive Cabinet meets every Tuesday at 8:00 a.m. in the A.S.B. trailer.

The Student Senate meets every Wednesday at 8:00 a.m. in the Commons Conference room.

The A.S. Senate Appropriations Committee meets each Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the Upper Commons

As The Platter Turns

J. J. Cale — Shelter Records

by Bruce Scott

OKIE
J.J. Cale
(Shelter)

If you want credits, some of Cale's come from his early stints with Delaney & Bonnie, an association with Leon Russell and two artful previous Shelter LPs, Naturally and Really.

Cale's vocals are restrained, as much laid-back as held back, at times almost a hush. His guitar is similarly laid-back, weaving a tapestry of syncopated strumming, subtle chord arrangements. Together, voice and guitar slide the sonic message across, not by overpowered emphasis, but by a shifting of tempo and sidestepping which makes subtlety the central focus.

On Okie, branded "commercial" by the short length of the cuts and the consistent use of fade-outs to make for easier airplay, Cale is strongest with the uptempo "Cajun," featuring some beautiful lead guitar licks by Reggie Young. Other cuts that contribute to Okie's appeal are the soft country "I'd Like To Love You Baby" and the gentle blues cut, "I'll Be There (If You Ever Want Me)."

LIBERTY
Gene Cotton
(Myrrh)

Gene Cotton looks sort of like a country balladeer of the modern school, sort of like a street corner Jesus Freak, and sort of like plain folks. Deep in his Nashville heart, Gene is a 'Christian.' (The word 'Christian' is used in this connotation to denote one after converts, rather than the holy life in quiet contemplation.)

The Myrrh label is a subsidiary of Word records, a gospel and pop record mill in Waco, Texas which has just signed a deal with ABC-Dunhill for distribution. . . which is important, as it bodes more Christian ballads and hymns on the AM dial (which is just what you needed, right?), the current one of which is Gene Cotton's "Sunshine Roses," the opening track on his Liberty LP.

"Sunshine Roses" is an "American Pie" formula song, with none of the depth. Cotton even sounds like Don McLean, vocals and chord progressions sounding amazingly like. . . Ah well, pity those bored and dull Fifties rockers, those oppressed Blacks and stoned hippies, sez Cotton, for they don't know they can't be Free until:

"Sunshine roses sweet holy Moses,

Ethan Allen come and sing us your song,

Any day now any way now,
Somebody come and take us away."

Following this sure Top Forty Jesus Freak Heavenly Hit Parader is a Harry Chapin-ish story (lacking Harry's depth) of people who've sold their souls ("Man Buyin' Names"), a Charlie Brown tribute to country Nashville called (apropos) "Country Spirit" and an "All The Lonely People" spin-off which manages to incorporate some Simon & Garfunkel — titled "Mrs. Oliver," it even has the line, "It's all the same, nobody came." At that point, Cotton begins singing some songs written by others from the Word stable, perhaps in an attempt to prove that he stands not alone in his monolithic mediocrity. One song, "I'd Hate To Be A Black Man," has some catchy guitar licks; but is annihilated by its patronizing liberalism.

In fact, those last two words in the forgoing paragraph sum up what's really wrong with Cotton's Liberty. Racism, poverty, war, all the cliché ills of Mankind are met with an even more cliché cure, as if totting tracts in the parking lots of life and belching sanctimonious platitudes will automatically eliminate them.

Reactionary thought staggers through Liberty like a red freak at Swing Auditorium, as passe as the copped music. Witness these heavy lines from Larry Norman's "The Great American Novel," on the side two of Liberty:

"And your money says 'In God We Trust,'

But it's against the law to pray in school,

You say we beat the Russians to the moon,

But I say you starved your children to do it."

So we can land a man on the moon, but we've still got poverty? Who needs poor people on the moon? Or a Keith Partridge Christian soundalike on the AM dial?

TRACY NELSON
(Atlantic)

The fourth LP from Tracy Nelson, veteran of Mother Earth, shows she still doesn't know where to take her considerable talents. Sure, it's nice to "elude any catch-all classification" and be able to lunge alternately into rhymes & blues, gospel, and country; but sometimes when you try to cover all the ground, hollow spots are left.

Tracy's rich, throaty voice strains heartily to communicate the quintessence of "I Shall Be Released" and a half-dozen others, but always seems to lack the immersion to pull it off. She does terrific renditions of the spiritual "After The Fire Is Gone" and most C&W, however, showing that there is more undirected talent out there than suspected.

What producer Bob Johnson (of Bob Dylan and Leonard Cohen fame) needs to do is help Tracy direct her attention to the genre that's right for her (which I suspect is country), and then expand to cover all the bases.

Top Of The Head Recommendations:

Uh, lessee, hozabout Erroll Garner's Magic (London) for some jazz, or maybe Billy Cobham (Mahavishnu Orchestra) with his Crosswinds; for some charmin' country rock-pop (even though he says he doesn't do country) maybe a two-record set of John Stewart - The Phoenix Concerts Live (RCA; Cobham's on Atlantic); or some boogie R&B by War called War Live (United Artists); or the far-along New Riders of the Purple Sage with Home, Home On The Road (Columbia). Well, 'till next week as God said to Moses, "Take two tablets and call me in the morning."

Film Review

"A Very Natural Thing"

By Dave Senty

"A Very Natural Thing," a New Line release; produced and directed by Christopher Larkin; written by Larkin and Joseph Coencas. With Robert Joel, Curt Gareth, Bo White. Restricted Audiences (R).

(CPS) — There is a problem in making a film about gay relationships for the general public: what gays consider "facts of life" the general public views as symbols of a decaying society.

"A Very Natural Thing" is an honest, candid, brass-tacks interpretation of the inherent problems in relationships between gay males. It is not a nihilistic exploitation film along the lines of "The Boys in the Band," but neither is it a Doris Day glossing over of the fact of life.

The story involves a young man (Robert Joel) who has left the priesthood after an internal battle over the compatibility of his religion with his homosexuality. He is oriented toward a permanent, monogamous relationship and attempts to establish one with the wrong person, a swinging businessman played by Curt Gareth. After this relationship inevitably breaks up, Joel does the flip-flops to the other extreme and thwarts the nesting instincts of a second potential lover, a divorced photographer played by Bo White.

At first glance it might seem that this is just reward for a bunch of perverts who are afraid of making commitments, but the problems are more fundamental and universal. In this day of the liberated woman it is becoming evident that the union of equals is much more difficult than the traditional I and Thou relationship. This has always been the case in gay relationships.

In the relationship between Joel and Gareth the problem is not a lack of love, but rather Joel's neurotic insistence on stifling togetherness — that each of them be the only man in each other's life. Total freedom and independence are not the answer either, for this approach apparently negates the purpose of the relationship.

Joel lives in extremes, and this is his nemesis. He becomes the least likeable, most discomfiting character in the film. Gareth comes across as the most "seasoned homosexual" of the three men. He is a strong character because he has his head together and neither wants to rule or be ruled. At one point he says, "Love is never having to say you're in love" — that's food for thought. White is the "novice gay" who still visits with his ex-wife and young child. His understandable need for emotional stability makes him the most compelling character.

Unfortunately, "A Very Natural Thing" has some technical flaws common to most just-barely-above-ground films. The acting only occasionally rises above mediocrity; the dialogue is sometimes forced and unnatural; the the Telemann and Samuel Barber music tracks during some of the love scenes reach almost farcial proportions. The sex scenes in a steam bath and at a Fire Island orgy will no doubt have some of the more judgmental viewers clucking decay-of-society, but the director is more concerned with telling an honest story than with pacifying tender sensibilities.

This film is not for tender sensibilities, but it is for open-minded viewers who want to understand human problems, but who don't demand rosy universal solutions. "A Very Natural Thing" does not beg for sympathy, but it does evoke empathy — no matter what your own orientation is. It has some very good technical and ideological moments, and is well worth seeing — especially if you hated "Love Story."

Ten Per Cent Enrollment Increase

The Fall Quarter official census, taken on October 23, shows 3,501 students on campus, or an equivalent of 2,889 full-time students. This represents a 10.7 per cent increase over the F.T.E. figure of the Fall Quarter in 1973 which was 2,610.8, with 3,072 students on campus. The percentage of individual students increased 14 per cent based on the comparison of the two Fall Quarters.

What Do You Think of A.S.B.?

Garry Moser, Education
I am not too aware of the ASB. Sometimes I do see that they exist by the posters they post on walls. They should have more social activities. And perhaps organize some garage sales, art shows and dances.

Al Mellon, Business Admin.
Why Should the ASB be spending money on arts and crafts? The college should spend that money. I think a Child Care Center should be a worthwhile project. With all the married students on campus, I think that should be a good cause.

Greg Garrity, Biology
I don't know a thing about the ASB. I don't even know who the officers are. I am just aware of their presence.

The Astrology Corner
By Phoenix

Aries: Use your energy wisely — especially around children this week and watch your impatience. Keep the upper hand in bargaining.

Taurus: Don't let yourself become isolated. Now's the time to move with the crowd. Successive events will lead you up.

Gemini: Slow down. You tire easily. Complications due to someone new in your life.

Cancer: Don't let nostalgia bog you down. Take a chance; invest.

Leo: There is a woman giving you support: a mother, a sister, wife; something you've been wishing for comes to you.

Virgo: Allow yourself the chance to be pleased with yourself. Protect those you love.

Libra: This is a week to roll up your sleeves, and get to work. Your activity will pay.

Scorpio: Forget what's past. Look to the future. Home is being built. Prepare now and financial support is there.

Sagittarius: Social atmosphere this week. Involve yourself with artistic people.

Capricorn: Count your friends. You'll be surprised at how many you have. The good will outweigh the bad two to one.

Aquarius: Although your problems seem unsurmountable take them one at a time. There will be an opportunity to communicate to the masses through written material.

Pisces: Cooperation with a partner is called for this week. Share you knowledge with others.

This week the moon moves through Libra on the 12th, Scorpio on the 13th and 14th, Sagittarius on the 15th and 16th, Capricorn on the 17th and 18th. Mercury enters Scorpio on the 12th. With Mercury, Moon and Sun in Scorpio on the 13th, Scorpios may have strange dreams and unique thoughts. Venus and Mars are also in that sun so there's lots of romantic activity. Capricorns appear to be having it a little rough with Saturn opposing their Sun Sign.

Psychology Club News

The association of Psychology Students is soliciting students interested in going on trips, hearing guest speakers, and throwing parties. Meetings are held every Tuesday at noon in PS 122.

The APS's first event — a coffee hour held on October 30 — was considered a success by both faculty and students in attendance. Dr. Stuart Ellins introduced the Psychology Department faculty and each instructor outlined his/her main area of interest. Coffee and cake were served.

Ski Club

The Cal State Ski Club will meet Wednesday, November 13, at 12:00 noon in the upper commons. A movie will be shown from the Olympia Beer Company. Also, plans are being made for a beer bust and ski trips to the local mountains and the Sierras. For further information contact Joe Long or Greg Price in the Physical Education Department.

Foreign Students Association

The new "Association of International Students" will meet Tuesday, November 12, 1974 at 1:00 p.m. in PS 133. The agenda will include organization of the club and election of officers. The club is open to foreign students and all other students interested in promoting cultural exchange between students from other countries and the United States.

Bridge Club

Bridge anyone? Several local colleges have bridge teams that would like to play against Cal-State students.

In fact, there will be a major bridge tournament at UCLA later this month.

If you are a bridge freak - or just enjoy a good game, come by or call the Activities office (SS-143, extension 516) and ask for Lorraine.

Sociology Club News

There will be a meeting of Sociology majors and the Sociology faculty on Wednesday, November 13, at 12:00 noon, Fifth Floor of the Library. Agenda items include a question and answer period and organization of the Sociology Club.

Gerri Olin, Graduate Student in Clinical Psych.

I am not really familiar with the ASB. I think they are trying to make the students more aware of the activities available to them. Much more so than in the past. They should reach out and find more of the students needs. They should try make the students get involved in our community.

Scot McIntire, Bus. Admin.
The ASB should publicize their activities more. They should make the students more aware of the political situation of this community and the State. They should get off their seats and get involved.

Debbie Goerner, Health Sc.
Not too many students know what the ASB is up to. They should let the students know that they are here. They should get the Child care center going again. I think it'll work if they get the right people to run it. They should get lunch time speakers, movies and musicians on campus.

Warren White, Criminology
I have seen very little of the ASB. I am sure they are trying to do as much as they can. I think they should throw some "pool" parties at PE pool for students to get together. Maybe more athletic programs.

David Zamora, Social Sc.
All I know is that they exist and thats about it. It seems that they would be limited in their activities because of the nature of this campus. Most of the students are commuters and to them ASB is nonexistent.

We've got a plan to make your banking easier.

The College Plan®

What we've got is a very special package of services designed specifically for college students. We call it the College Plan, and here's what makes it so special:

The College Plan Checking Account.

First you get completely unlimited checkwriting for just $1 a month. (Free during June, July and August.) You get monthly statements. And the account stays open through the summer even with a zero balance, so you don't have to close it in June, reopen it in the fall.

Personalized College Plan Checks are included at a very low cost. Scenic or other style checks for a little more.

BankAmericard® Next, if you're a qualified student of sophomore standing or higher, you can also get BankAmericard. Use it for tuition at state universities, for check cashing identification and everyday purchases. Conservative credit limits help you start building a good credit history.

Overdraft Protection. This part of the package helps you avoid bounced checks, by covering all your checks up to a prearranged limit.

Educational Loans. Details on Studyplan® and Federally Insured loans are available from any of our Student Loan Offices.

Savings Accounts. All our plans provide easy ways to save up for holidays and vacations.

Student Representatives. Finally, the College Plan gives you individual help with your banking problems. Usually students or recent graduates themselves, our Reps are located at all our major college offices and are easy to talk with.

Now that you know what's included, why not drop by one of our college offices, meet your Student Rep, and get in our College Plan. It'll make your banking a lot easier.

Depend on us. More California college students do.

Blood Drive

You could consider C&CSB a small community of approximately 5,000 people if you count all the students, faculty and staff. Given this number, there is a statistical probability that someone, maybe YOU, will require surgery or incur an injury where BLOOD will be necessary to guarantee your continued health and well-being, possibly your LIFE.

The only way to guarantee that none of you will have to face this tremendous cost is to have a reserve fund and the only way to have a reserve fund is through the generosity of DONORS.

Your Student Health Center has established a blood reserve fund on this campus to guarantee this very necessary commodity to you or any member of your family free of charge in the event that one of these incidents might occur. One pint of blood costs approximately $50 if you had to buy it.

Our annual blood drive will be held on November 19 in PS 121 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. We would like to see you there; give this very important matter your serious thought and consideration — don't "let the other fella' do it."

You may stop by the Student Health Center, AD-117, anytime between now and the 19th and sign up for the time most agreeable to your schedule.

Remember — "GIVE BLOOD — IT WAS MEANT TO CIRCULATE!!!"

Environmental Exhibit on Display

The nature and scope of America's environmental crisis and the efforts being made to cope with it are depicted in 113 color photographs displayed in the Cal State, San Bernardino library Oct. 26 to Nov. 24.

Titles "Our Only World," the photographs may be seen on the first and fourth floors.

Produced by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, "Our Only World" is being circulated nationally by the Smithsonian Institute.

Among the problems depicted pictorially are the needs for clean air, clean water solid waste management, insecticide and radiation control and noise abatement.

The exhibit shows the effects of our technology and the efforts now being made - both by individuals and by organizations - for slowing down and reversing the damages we have done to this portion of our world.

Original color prints identical to those in "Our Only World" may be purchased by the public through order forms available at the exhibition.

Library hours are Monday thru Thursday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 12 noon to 4 p.m. and Sunday, 12:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Veterans Get Free Tutors

(CPS) — If any of the 727,000 veterans and servicemen enrolled in GI Bill college courses this fall need tutorial help, the Veterans Administration (VA) will pay for it.

Under a new program not available under the World War II and Korean GI Bills, VA pays costs of tutoring, not to exceed $50 in any given month, up to a maximum of $450 per year. The benefit is not charged against the veteran's basic educational entitlement.

Any veteran who is a high school graduate is eligible if he attends college halftime or more and has a deficiency in a subject required in an approved program of education.

In order to get money for tutorial assistance, the agency advises eligible veterans to complete a VA application and have it certified by the school. Applications should be sent within a year of the tutoring to the VA regional office which has the veteran's claim folder.

Library Cooperative

An "information explosion" is the major factor in the banding together of 21 academic libraries in a new cooperating organization.

Explained Arthur Nelson, Cal State, San Bernardino library director, "No individual library can hope to acquire all available material in all disciplines." Under the new arrangement, the combined resources of all 21 libraries total nearly three million volumes.

Shrinking buying power, Nelson continued, is another reason for the formation of the Inland Empire Academic Library Community.

Included in the organization are all community college, four-year college and university libraries in San Bernardino and Riverside counties as well as a number of libraries in eastern Los Angeles county.

Students enrolled in any of the cooperating colleges may check out books from any of the 21 libraries, using the card issued at the home college.

The members of the Inland Academic Library Cooperative are:

Antelope Valley College, Azusa-Pacific College, Barstow College, California Baptist College, California State College, San Bernardino, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, Chaffey College, Citrus College, College of the Desert, Crafton Hills College, LaVerne College, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, Loma Linda University, Riverside, Mt. San Antonio College, Mt. San Jacinto College, Palo Verde College, Riverside City College, San Bernardino Valley College, University of California, Riverside, University of Redlands, Victor Valley College.

Student Services Expanded

The Admissions and Records Office formally became a part of the Student Services operation on November 1, President John M. Pfau announced.

This change brings the arrangement at Cal State, San Bernardino more nearly parallel to that followed on other campuses in the system, and consistent with that of the Chancellor's Office where Admissions and Records is organized under the statewide Dean of Student Services.

Kenton L. Monrow, Dean of Students, states that he welcomes the Admissions and Records Office as a part of the Student Services group and looks forward to a close working association.

The Admissions and Records Office, currently located in temporary quarters in Mohave House at Serrano Village, is expected to move into their remodeled permanent offices in the Student Services Building some time around the middle of November.

ASB Elections

Stephen Waterbury

As Senator-at-large I would work towards implementing a regular Pawprint column covering the times, places, and agendas of all ASB Senate and committee meetings. This would give students the best possible opportunity to attend and be heard on any issues and all matters. Also, a capsule report on the minutes of these meetings to keep the student abreast of changes affecting the offerings of Cal State San Bernardino activities. My past experience as ASB president of my Community College, Chairman of the Communications Workshop at the National Associated Student Government Convention, guest speaker before a State Assembly Sub-committee on several Bills pertaining to Community College ASB fees, and coordinating efforts to establish the first Black Student Union, and Mecha Organizations on my JC Campus, have given me the background and sensitivity to deal in the interests of all students. I am always available and willing to represent the needs and interests in Student Government.

Tom Caron

Greetings fellow students, my name is Tom Caron and I am seeking re-election to the office of Senator-at-large. I spend most of my days on campus, not only for the reason of being a full time student and senator, but also because I live in the campus residence halls and take an active interest in the academic and social life here on campus.

Throughout the year there will be issues brought up at the A.S. B. meetings concerning fund allocations for various departments, evaluations of services that could benefit students, and providing assistance in promoting activities that are of both academic and recreational nature. As a voting member of A.S. B., I assure you that I will use my voting power in the interests of overall student benefits.

Freshman students are under represented on campus. They need a strong representative in the senator's office.

Freshmen should be made aware of campus facilities and activities. They need a strong senator to organize the freshman class. I will be a strong senator for the freshman class. I am a representative of M.E.C.H.A., to the I.O.C., and vice president to I.O.C.

I will get the freshman class in the campus spotlight.

Jesse Moreno

We've had a good laugh reading the candidates statements but lets get serious for a minute Gary De Leon is my name and I'm truckin' (as opposed to running) for Freshman Vice President. I am a serious person and believe in having a good time. So let us be serious about having one helluva a good time.

I promise you I won't make any campaign promises except this one, that I will represent you.

This has been a free political announcement, paid for by the "Non-political Party".

Jose A. Garza

Each member of the student body should have input as to what occurs in any and all student body meetings. From these meetings and the results gained from the, will affect the school in general. If any students differs in the opinions given or have better ideas, they the right if not the responsibility to speak out. In this area of representation I have had experience and hope to serve your interest on campus.

Hello, my name is Paul Martinez, and I am a candidate for Freshman Class President at California State College, San Bernardino. As a candidate I can say through my experience as President of San Bernardino High School for the year 1973-74 I am familiar with the responsibility of a class president. Besides my assigned duties if I am elected, I hope to bring unification in all Freshman activities. I feel that unification will establish communication and participation of all students, as well as professors and the administration. This unified participation will bring successful accomplishments, and make our Freshman year memorable as well as bring togetherness of our class as a whole.

If you want a leader who believes in representing our class as a whole, vote for P.G. Martinez on Nov. 18, Election Day.

Candidates on the Soap Box

Maria Pasillas

This is the first time that I run for a Student body office. I've had some experience, and would really like to obtain a position like this one.

I was a former President of the Spanish Club at Redlands High school and Vice President of M.E.C.H.A. I have been involved with the Vallett Folclorico down in Redlands, and performed for a couple of years.

I worked as a dancing teacher at the Y.W.C.A. with children as well as young adults, and wish to continue my work, but here at Cal State.

I would like to have some more activities going on here at this campus, so with your help I hope to get it.

In sincerely hope that you and I can unite together so that we can make an active year here at Cal State.

I have had a great deal of experience with high school government as Student Body Treasurer of a high school with 3,100 students. Since I have been here I have seen room for improvements.

I feel that one of the most necessary programs here is the "Book-Co-Op" program. The student government here should concentrate more effort into making this program successful for the student body. There is no reason why students should continue to pay outlandish prices for their books and get comparatively no resale on them. I will encourage the student government to concentrate all of their efforts to get this program off the ground.

As Freshman President I will also propose. Freshman registration priority. Many Cal-State schools now have Freshman priority, and I will fight to bring it to San Bernardino.

Danny Bilson

First of all, I will try to promote more student participation in student government. I will do this by posting in the cafeteria and in the dorms, a list of the actions taken by the student government after each senate meeting.

Of course, I will be available to discuss anything any freshman student wants to discuss.

If any action needs to be taken, I will bring it up during the next meeting.

I have attended every senate meeting since the beginning of this year, so I am up to date on what's happening there, this way, I will be better able to help you, and will have some background when I am elected.

Bill Howell

As in previous elections, communication between the student body and ASB government has been a big issue. The problem appears to be in bringing student ideas to the representatives, suggestion boxes around campus would remedy the situation.

Communication can ben extended on and off campus with a large number of foreign students on our campus. Foreign exchange program could be initiated here similar to those in other colleges. Traditional foreign students activities can be sponsored to attract the interested American students as a means to fill the gap between them. Being a foreign student myself, I realize the need of bringing the American and foreign students to a closer interaction.

Campus director also is another step toward bringing students of various backgrounds together.

Every quarter many students supply personal information to be included in the directory, but his information has never been excellent results, I might be just the one needed to catalyze these reactions.

available to them. The time is right for us to get in touch and get it all together. This is especially possible and necessary for a small campus such as ours to create a unique atmosphere filled with friendship.

I will also push for carpool and book swap which will save us all time and money. Next quarter we will have the book swap on a much larger scale. Carpool would provide an excellent means of transportation for a large percentage of students who live as far as fifty or sixty miles away from school.

With the unallocated funds available for fall quarter, we can arrange for guest speakers appearances for our campus clubs. Noon-time and other week-day activities, outdoor and indoor, have always been met by enthusiasm of students who are unable to attend weekend get-togethers on campus which include movies and theaters.

To accomplish and sponsor satisfactory activities and to get

Too many times A.S. Officers strive for the success of their "pet projects" and fail to recognize that there are a great number of students with a variety of ideas and goals. As Freshman Senator, I will be eager to hear and present a wider variety of legislation to the Senate. Legislation that will represent the entire freshman class and not just a few. I will also endeavor to keep the lines of communication between A.S. Government and students open. A few A.S. Officers, in order to get their "pet projects" passed and appropriated, merely tell the students what they want them to know. I believe that students should be given the full facts regarding legislation that will ultimately affect them.

Student Services Profile

Counseling Center

Available

Almost every student at some point in his college career experiences problems of studying, apathy, anxiety, motivation, interpersonal relationships and-or the choice of a career, among others. The services of the Counseling Center, PS 227, are available to members of the college community to aid in solving these problems.

The staff is composed of John Hatton and Don Woods, psychologists, Susan Merrill will begin January 1, 1975, as a part-time counselor along with her position in the Psychology Department. Appointments usually may be made for the same day and often persons can be seen on a walk-in basis. All counseling is completely confidential and tailored to the needs of the student.

Although Hatton, Woods, and Merrill are resources for dealing with crises and difficult problems, they are very interested in reaching students without a particular problem but who may benefit from a personal exploration of goals, expectancies, and feelings.

Vocational testing may be used to aid in the selection of a major or occupation. Inventories are used as a beginning point for discussion not as ends in themselves. Information and applications for such tests as Graduate Record Examination Law School Aptitude Test, Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, National Teacher's Examination and College Level Examination Programs can be obtained at the Counseling Center. Some tests, such as American College Test (ACT), Graduate Record Examinations (GRE), Miller Analogies Test (MAT), and College Level Examination Programs (CLEP) are given on our campus.

Foreign student advising in immigration, academic and personal areas is also provided by the Counseling Center.

California State Scholarships

The California State Scholarship and Loan Commission reminds high school seniors and college students that the postmark deadline for the filing of California State Scholarship applications is November 22, 1974.

Approximately 13,500 new scholarships for undergraduate college students are to be awarded by the Commission in March 1975. Students who believe they will need financial assistance to pay for tuition and fees at the college of their choice and who have already taken the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board (or who plan to take the examination on December 7th) are encouraged to secure an application from their school or the Commission offices in Sacramento immediately. A copy of the Parents' Confidential Statement should also be secured for mailing not later than December 13th.

The Commission especially wishes to encourage students with approximately a "B" average to apply for a State Scholarship. Analysis of Commission statistics has in the past confirmed that many students in the approximate grade point average range of 2.80 to 3.20 who have not applied may well have been eligible with a reasonable test score and financial need.

Tennis Singles Tournament

An intramural ladder tennis singles tournament sign up is underway in the P.E. Bldg. Under the "ladder" system no one is eliminated and individuals play at their own convenience. For more details, see Joe Long, PE-124.

Recreation night will be held each Monday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Insurance I.D. Cards

Students who have purchased the voluntary Accident and Sickness Insurance may stop by the Student Health Center, AD-117 to pick up their I.D. cards. The Company is forwarding these cards to the Health Center for distribution as applications for the insurance are received. If you purchased this insurance, stop by and see if your I.D. card is here.

Student Services are back home! Last week they carried on amidst boxes and boxes as they moved from the 3-C trailer to the "Rainbow Wing" of the renovated Student Activities building at the north end of campus.

The five-room suite, rooms 143-145, is located in the northeast corner of the building. The rooms are painted in cheerful tones of yellow, green, blue and shrimp (?). They're planning an Open House soon. So we can all appreciate their happiness in their new surroundings.

Still trying to believe the new offices are for real are: Dr. Russell De Remer, head of Student Services, his secretary Doris Scott; Activity advisors Richard Bennecke and Lorraine Smith with their secretary Sheryl Guidry.

"29. For I am divided for love's sake, for the chance of union.
30. This is the creation of the world, that the pain of division is as nothing, and the joy of dissolution all."

LAST WEEK: As you hopefully remember, Susie and Loretta walked a total of 16 miles while trying to find the A.S.B. Traller. After this arduous trek, they were astonished to find that Jungle Judy was as much a Bozo as everyone else on campus. If that wasn't enough, the mystery identity of the Vice-President was exposed as none other than Kevin, the campus B.P.O.C. Meeting the enterprising John Pulitzer Whiteheart, the Pawprint editor, they were assigned to check out the pay parking lot for hot news items. Although they failed in this endeavor, they succeeded in arousing the suspicions of the Campus Police when they fell asleep while waiting seven hours for news to break. They were searched, an experience which Susie found dramatic, and this discouraging event, along with the many others thus expounded in previous issues, was directly responsible for the cataclysmic mind hassle she experienced at an orgiastic Halloween Party in Crestline.

—The Lovers vs The Mourning After

"Gee whiz, Frank," said the clean-cut youth, "it sure was great of Pops to let us borrow his car to go visit our girlfriends."
"Ah, gee," replied Frank. "Pop sure is a swell guy. He's the greatest."

The two boys continued down the freeway at 55. They were anxious to see their girlfriends, Susie and Loretta. It had been a long time since Frank succeeded in accomplishing what he termed as "a tremendous victory" of getting his grubby little hands down into Susie's bra. He hoped Susie would let him go all the way, so that he wouldn't have to lie (as he usually did) to all the guys in the locker room after the football games. After all, Frank and Joe Hardy were All-Amerikan boys, and just because they respected womanhood, it didn't mean they couldn't sow a few wild oats. As males, they considered it their privilege.

—The Mourning After vs "The word of Sin is Restriction."

Back from the Dorms, Susie was grogging back to consciousness after the long and eventful Halloween Party in Crestline. She didn't remember much, but she knew she had done something horrible, immoral, and criminal. She remembered taking the first drink, and then another, and yet another. Then somebody walked in dressed up like a joint and she knew it would get wild. She stayed in spite of Loretta's constant urgings to leave, until at last Loretta disappeared. By then it was too late to find her, because Susie had consumed four Sunrises, smoked her first three joints, and was having such a good time at the party she saw no reason to waste time looking for her friend. She only faintly knew it then, but that night was the culmination of years of repression, and the beginning of a fight with her identity and values, as a person, as a "Susie", and as a woman. For that night, she took part in a pious and almost religious defloration ceremony, during which she learned what sex was all about. Wham, Bam, Thankyou Sir.

Her mind was a mesh of mush as she got out of her dormitory bed. She stumbled over to Commons, looked at the sausage, and dry-heaved her way over to the coffee machine.

—The Book of the Law
She impaled herself on a chair by the window, and began talking to the dark-haired busboy. She no longer thought of him as a scraggly hippie type. He was friendly, mature, and in a fatherly manner convinced her that she was not damned for all time.

This conversation was good for her, and she continued talking to several other people, all of which were what she once considered to be leftist freaks or drug-slaves. Now that she had finally released her hidden repressions, these people made sense. She understood, even in her confusion and guilt, that this was a learning experience. Not only were her recent experiences with marijuana and sex educational, but they had shown her more peace of mind than she had ever experienced, even in her happiest days as head cheerleader. In fact, it was not so much the drugs and sex which gave her peace of mind, but the lessening of restriction, and the knowledge that her future could be virtually unlimited, and that she, too, could be unstuck in the web of human society.

She was about to leave Commons when she ran into John Pulitzer Whiteheart. He had been at the party, and knew what had transpired as to the loss of her physical, emotional, and spiritual virginity, but to her amazement, he actually respected her for it. "I acted like a prostitute," she thought, "and for once, people are accepting me, respecting me, treating me gently like some kind of new-born baby. Mom and Daddy Dear always gave me the impression that if I gave in once, every male on earth would lose respect for me and try to get down my pants." This thought stunned her with all sorts of emotional implications, not the least of which was the inference that Mom and Daddy dear didn't know their ass from a hole in the ground.

"Are you aware of what happened to your friend Loretta?" John asked her. "While you were in bed with that guy, she got awfully upset 'cuz someone offered her a hit of acid. She freaked-out, threatened to call the police, left the party, and came to the dorms to call them."

"Oh my god!" said Susie fearing for the safety of her party comrades, while realizing that only a week ago she would have commended Loretta for this behaviour.

"Well anyway," spoke John, "Kevin, Hippie, and the gang got the story from Loretta before she called the police."

"Did they persuade her not to call the fuzz?" Susie quivered at her use of the slang term for peace-officer.

"I don't know, that's all the story I got. They must have done something to shut her up." John turned to leave. "I have to split to the Dorms. We got a report which will make a great story for the Pawprint. Some chick got locked on the roof last night with only a blanket and the word is that she's still up there doing wierd things with a soggy banana."

NEXT WEEK: Susie learns how to cope with her identity crises...Joe and Frank Hardy arrive for a visit which is cut short when Susie discovers that she's been dating a nurd for three years. Susie gets in with the local female lib. group and the City Slicker Sages explain the Tao as being essentially a Nihilistic system which negates itself. This stimulates Susie to negate herself as she ventures to the desert with nothing but water, a book by Huxley, a book by Carlos Castaneda, a sleeping bag and 45 peyote buttons.

Fly to Castles in the Sky With the International Program

By Sal Bellia

Fairy tales may come true, it could happen to you, when you leave Berdoo.

But alas, you love Cal State San Bernardino; its rocky fields, the blank space where the student union building should be, a part of the school runs through your veins, especially if you eat in the cafeteria. Well worry not good students, there is a fairy god-mother and a way to have the thrill of foreign travel and Cal State San Berdoo too; for, while enrolled at CSSB you can attend a university in one of ten foreign countries.

"Impossible!" you say.
"Not at all", replies Mme. Rydell, the fairy godmother representative of the California State University and Colleges International Program. For approximately the same cost one would pay to attend school here, you could be learning Mandarin Chinese at the University of Taipei. You say that you are not a language major and you only know your native tongue. Don't worry, without any prior knowledge of the language you can go to Italy, Sweden, The Republic of China, Denmark or England. Those of you who have had two years of language training may attend colleges in France, Germany, or Spain.

The program is offered to juniors and seniors, but it is good to start preparing and applying for it when you are a freshman or sophomore. For more information about the international program, follow the fairy dust to LC239 where Mme Rydell and magic wand will be happy to answer any of your questions.

Throwing the book at sexists

By Nancy Heine

(CPS) -- "Examples of stereotyping to be avoided: scatterbrained female, fragile flower, goddess on a pedestal, catty gossip, henpecking shrew, apron-wearing mother, frustrated spinster."

Editors at the McGraw-Hill Book Co. have sharpened their pencils and begun attacking sexist educational texts they publish. And they're not alone. Other publishers have joined the battle.

According to studies on sex-role stereotyping in textbooks, plenty of editing is in order. Though 51 percent of the US population is female, the studies discovered men far outnumbering women in texts at all grade levels. Women who were represented were shown as servile, fearful, passive and dependent.

In a study of 554 elementary readers, researcher Diane Graebner found a ration of three boys to every two girls. She determined that 75 percent of all stories were about boys and that boys made up 67.5 percent of all illustrations. She found that girls were depicted as shallow and "mothers" invariably wore skirts—even while camping or hiking down the Grand Canyon.

When the Women on Words and Images (WWI) went through 134 readers from 14 publishers, they found boys outnumbering girls five to two as lead characters in stories. Their study uncovered six biographies of males to every one biography of a female. In mathematics books, WWI found boys solving astronomy and chemistry problems and learning to buy stocks while girls measured curtains and bought flour.

An investigation of social studies texts by Richard O'Donnell revealed 83 percent of the occupations described belonged to males and only 17 percent to females. The occupations for females included waitresses, housewives, secretaries and other service or home-oriented jobs. Seventy-two males had prestigious jobs while only one female was shown in a similar role. O'Donnell never found a male doing dishes, cleaning or handling childcare duties.

Perhaps the most exhaustive research on high school civics texts was published in the book "You won't Do": What Textbooks on US Government Teach High School Girls. Dr. Jennifer Macleod, research psychologist, and Sandra Silver (wo)man, feminist consultant, dissected eight leading civics texts and found little mention of women in the US political process.

They discovered that illustrations vastly underrepresented women. Whereas 51 to 73 percent of the pictures showed only men, a scant 3 to 9 percent showed only women. They saw only two pictures of women in nontraditional roles - Senator Margaret Chase Smith holding a bouquet of roses and Rep. Patsy Mink throwing snowballs.

The researchers noted that all political leaders were drawn as make stick figures in charts. In one book's introductory unit, "Understanding Democracy," a six-sketch montage shows: a man running for office; a man reading about a male candidate; three men discussing politics; a man watching a three-man TV debate; a man cheering a male candidate, and a man voting.

Macleod and Silver (wo)man found the reading matter no less stereotyping. They uncovered statements like: "the ideal presidential candidate is . . . an energetic member of the male sex."

Some day perhaps, a Negro, a Jew, even a woman, may have some prospect of being the party (presidential) nominee."

While researchers, psychologists and educators comb textbooks for further evidence of sex-role stereotyping, federal and state governments have taken some steps to eliminate the school book sexism. Two bills which may have some effect have already been passed by Congress and another is pending.

One of these bills, Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, says that no person on the basis of sex shall "be subjected to discrimination under any educational program" receiving federal funds. Whether or not this covers the subject of textbooks has been a matter of debate.

The New York Times noted that Title IX failed "to cover discriminatory curriculum materials, such as textbooks that contain sex bias." The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) added that any attempt to ban the use of such materials "would raise grave constitutional questions under the First Amendment."

But according to Wilma Scott Heide, past president of the National Organization for Women (NOW), "selection of sexist texts by state action (via the public school boards) is a denial of individual First Amendment rights of freedom of speech by excluding, derogating, and/or stereotyping women."

Dr. Anne Scott, NOW Legislative Vice President has observed that, as is, there is nothing in Title IX "that makes a school system accountable to its required statement of non-discrimination."

Another bill dealing with sexist texts, the Women's Educational Equity Act of 1973, was recently signed by President Ford. The bill authorizes $30 million per year to "encourage the development of new and improved curriculums" and to implement community-oriented educational programs on women in American history.

Senator Charles Percy has introduced another bill to Congress that would insure even more funding to "help women gain their place as equal beneficiaries of society." Percy's bill, the Women's Equal Educational Opportunity Act, is still in committee.

But while the federal government continues decision making over the matter, eight state governments have already outlawed sexism in education and texts. For instance, in California sexist textbooks must be phased out by 1975.

And publishing houses have begun ferretting out sexist references in their books. J.B. Lippincott, the D.C. Heath Co. and Harper and Row all have said they are carefully examining their manuscripts for offensive sex-role stereotyping.

McGraw-Hill, which has recently published an 11-page "Guidelines for Equal Treatment of the Sexes" stated: "We realize that the language of literature cannot be prescribed, but we want to encourage a greater freedom for all individuals to pursue their interests and realize their potentials."

New Rock in Old Ways

by John Woodhouse

Any one who used to hang out at the old Tangerine Bowl is in for a big surprise because the only strike your going to hear now, will be on the electric pin-ball machines of the new "Eros Bogart" rock and roll emporium. That's right a genuine rock and roll club for good old San Berdo. A new dawn is here with no more heavy grovelling at the "Dog" or mesmerising hoedowns at the "Penny".

I have always been amazed at how a town of 100,000 or so, failed miserably in supplying a decent rock club. Was the town jinxed by some deadly smog-laden genie which instantly gobbled up anything which smacked of creativeness? No one can argue that there aren't enough kids to go around; thousands seep out of the woodwork for Swing concerts and just look at the mindless droves swaggering along E Street on a swinging Saturday night. Well the search for the Grail is over. No longer need the cruisers waste gas checking out MacDonalds for some tight action, here at last is a sizable boogying paradise.

O.K., after a lengthy prologue, time for a few particulars. Although the club will open for the first time on Thursday the 14th of November, the grand opening will take place on the 23 of Nov. As yet (the time this is being written) contracts have not been finalized for the main act, however, expect some one well known. And here is where their strength will lie. Nationally known bands will be appearing regularly. The majority of small, local clubs, can not even marginally support expensive top musicians; where as the good people at "Bogarts" are fully willing to accept a loss when such artists perform and hopefully make a profit when local bands hit the stage.

The outrageously exhorbitant prices demanded by many superstars for a couple of hours of their precious time, has been a source of annoyance to me for a long time. Promoters like unctious Bill Graham coolly discuss million dollar profits as though they are a trifle in the bottomless well of mammon. Obviously the vociferous greed of musicians has to be matched by the incredulous inanity of the droogs who hand over 10 bucks, at the drop of a stainless steel guitar, to sit cramped together with countless other sardines in some mammoth aircraft hanger, goggling with red, glazed eyes at some bright dots cavorting on a stage. The 'counter culture' sure knows how to emulate the rank excesses of the capitalism it is supposed to despise. "Yes your honour, the only way I could get the $50 for the Stones tickets, was to hit up the old lady"; ran the riff in 1984. Just think for the moment what would be the outcome if everyone boycotted a couple of major concerts. Jesus, would you see some hasty scrambling to 'bite the bullit' and help the flagging economy by reducing admissions a little! Ah well, so it goes, as someone once prophecised.

Anyway, the "Eros Bogart", will be open 6 days a week with a calendar, roughly consisting of: - Mondays-ladies free; Tuesday-guys 99 cents and girls 1 cent; Wednesday-a dance contest with cash prizes; Thursday-open; and Friday and Saturday-2 bands each night with general admission being in the $2-$5 range depending on the act involved. A unique feature which could be used by other establishments, is a two show policy with the bar closed during one to enable younger kids to get a look in. After this there is an 18 minimum for girls and 21 for guys. The bar by the way, will feature mixed wine drinks as well as the usual assortment of beer. And if your a little hungry, a restaurant, specializing in Italian cuisine will be on hand. While you're waiting for your order you can gape at the chef who has set a record of sorts by producing a pizza from dough ball to oven in 21 seconds! The restaurant will be open 7 days a week from 11 am to 2 am.

Other goodies to wet your appetite are a games room complete with pool tables and odyssey type electric games. For local, budding artists there will be an art contest with a first prize of $200 and a $100 voucher for art supplies as a second prize. The winners will be exhibited in the club and it is hoped to have regular exhibits of local artists works.

GRAND OPENING ON NOVEMBER 22 WITH A TOP NATIONAL GROUP!!!!

973 North E St. SAN BERNARDINO

Chicano Art Show

"Twelve Contemporary Chicano Artistas," new art show, has opened in the Cal State, San Bernardino Art Gallery.

The public is invited to view the show and meet the artists who are from different parts of the state. The exhibit will be up from Nov. 4 through 27.

"The exhibit represents a of ways in which the Chicano artist is working with the arts," says Joe Moran, Cal State assistant professor of art and coordinator of the show.

Moran is a representative of the State Coalition of the Artists, formed six months ago to encourage participation in the arts,

Other artists represented and their work are sculpture by Gilberto Lujan; large abstract drawings by Leonard Castellanos; and painting by Esteban Villa, Juan Orozco, Rudy Cuellar and Jose Montoya. Abstract of Chicano artists and coordinate shows.

Among the objects shown are bronze shoes sprinkled with colored glass, created by Armando Cid, and colored sculptured plates by Rene Yanez.

A throw away mural was created especially for the Cal State exhibit by Armando Cabrera.

photography and scenes related to current social problems by Alvaro

Lopez and George Beltran; and prints by Moran.

Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p.m.; Wednesday and Thursday evenings, 6:30 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 4 p.m. and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

reconvening so the President can't 'pocket veto' while we are ad-journed," Wilson said.

Although he could not guarantee how the President would handle the bill once he received it, Wilson said the bill would ultimately pass.

The VA is working under the assumption that the Bill will pass. It must work this way and be prepared to reprogram its computers so it will be ready to issue checks and retroactive pay in accordance with the Bill if veterans should reflect the raise within three or four weeks from the time the Bill is signed into law.

Getting all your adventure from TV?

Instead of getting your excitement from watching the exploits of others, you could be having some of your own.

By driving a tank. Or jumping out of a plane. Or learning to sleep in the rain. Or by learning a job you never thought you could do. Or doing a job you never thought could be done. Or going places you never thought you would go. Or simply by putting on a uniform and getting satisfaction from an old-fashioned feeling that you're doing your best in the service of your Country.
