Women's Center enters initial stages

Diane Irwin, psychometrist and director of the Learning Center, is preparing to open a Women's Center at Cal State.

Ms. Irwin received her M.A. in psychology at Cal State Fullerton in January, 1974, and taught there during the next session. Last summer she taught “Psychology of Women” and an introductory psychology course at San Bernardino Valley College. Her master's degree is in the specialized area of psychometric acoustics, which is the psychological understanding of hearing.

“Women have been conditioned since childhood to believe that the only way for a wife to deal with a problem is to call her husband.”

Ms. Irwin believes that a Women's Center would help to make changes both in attitudes and abilities. The study of practical matters such as car repairs and simple home repairs will help make the wife a partner and relieve some of the responsibilities, but Ms. Irwin believes that the intangible factors will be the most valuable. “By strengthening her, bolstering her confidence, the center can make her a more useful partner. Women have stereotyped roles and men have stereotyped roles. If both share the responsibility of the family, both will be better off,” she says.

“I think men have been pushed into the role of breadwinner first, then father, and last of all husband. Women have been forced into the roles of mother, then wife, and last of all, a person. By dropping conditioned stereotyped ideas, both men and women will be able to have their own identities. Basically, being a man, or a woman, is what’s important — in and of itself.”

Among the subjects covered at the Women's Center, in addition to home and car repairs, will be legal, personal and medical problems, self-defense and self-knowledge. Re-entry programs will be of assistance to women who have been out of academic life. The Women’s Center is in the developmental stages. There is not an opening date available.

$2.6 million involved

Referendum will decide where your money goes

LOS ANGELES — Students in The California State University and colleges during the week of February 24, 1975, will have an opportunity to express their views on the fees they pay as Associated Students. Referendums on 17 campuses will assist in decisions as to whether funds previously allocated from a $2.6 million State appropriation to help finance such activities as debate, drama, intercollegiate athletics, music and student publications should lead to a reduction in fees. The referendum outcomes will advise campus Presidents and the system's Board of Trustees as to whether funds previously allocated from student fees for instructionally related activities should continue to be collected to be used for other purposes or if fees should be reduced by as much as 50 per cent.

Advisory ballots by students are provided for in a 1974 legislative measure, Assembly Bill 3136, which appropriated the $2.6 million to shift basic support of instructionally related activities from student fees to State support. Associated Students fees for the academic year are now $20 for full-time students on 16 campuses and only $19.50 at CSUMB. On eight of these campuses there are provisions for lesser fees for part-time students. Two system campuses, California State Colleges at Bakersfield and Sonoma, do not have Associated Students organization with mandatory student body fees. However, these campuses will share in the appropriation.

Ballots in the advisory referendums will contain information on the proportion of current student body fees spent on instructionally related activities, as well as a listing of activities currently funded at the campus. Students not wishing to retain their present mandatory fee may register a preference for reducing this fee at 10 per cent increments to a maximum of 50 per cent. Those wishing to maintain the fee at its current level so that funds may be used for other purposes likewise will be able to so indicate.

Results of the referendums are to be reported to the Chancellor, along with information on the voting turnout, expenditure plans, continuing obligations and the recommendations of the respective campus Presidents.

After receipt of these reports, the Board of Trustees will act to reduce fees or maintain the current level on a campus by campus basis.

Outlook good for Marijuana Reform

Legislation has been introduced in the California State Senate which would reduce penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana from a felony to an infraction, punishable by a maximum fine of $100. SB 95 — is authored by Senate Democratic Leader George R. Muscone (San Francisco), former Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on the Control of Marijuana.

SB 95 is modeled after the successful civil fine approach which has been in effect in Oregon since October 1, 1973. Under SB 95, possession and transfer without consideration of up to 3 ounces of marijuana would be an infraction, punishable by a fine of up to $100. Other minor marijuana offenses, such as using or being under the influence of marijuana, would also be reduced to an infraction. Felony penalties for the sale or cultivation of marijuana would remain unchanged.

While this is not a full decriminalization measure, it removes jail penalties and the possibility of incarceration for marijuana offenses which currently comprise 90-95 per cent of all marijuana arrests. Under present California law, simple possession of any amount of marijuana carries a mandatory felony arrest record and is punishable by up to 10 years in state prison for first offenders, and up to life imprisonment for third-time offenders. SB 95 adopts the principle embodied in the Oregon law that simple possession is a redistinctive offense, and treats both first and subsequent offenses as infractions, punishable by a fine only.

In 1973, there were over 95,000 marijuana arrests in California, and one-fourth of all felony arrests in the State were for marijuana offenses. The Senate Select Committee on the Control of Marijuana has estimated that more than $100 million dollars are currently spent on California's marijuana laws. Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr. is on record in support of the Oregon approach, and has stated that he will sign legislation which would implement it into California. This is in sharp contrast with former Governor Ronald Reagan, who vetoed three bill sin 1973 alone, which would have reduced the present harsh penalties for marijuana offenses.
Guitar class features

Clabe Hangan

Clabe Hangan, well-known folk singer and composer, is currently teaching a guitar and folk music class. The class promises to be an interesting one as the instructor is well-qualified.

Hangan has to his credit numerous original compositions, two albums, several appearances on television and performances at schools throughout California and Arizona. In addition to that, he is a veritable musical polyglot, singing in twelve languages.

For the City Slickers on campus, he’s a regular at the Penny University on Base Line. If that isn’t enough to keep him busy in the musical field, he is also active in many community service projects.

As counselor and music director, he has served at various church camps and conferences for youth under the auspices of Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Unitarian churches and at Friends Conferences in Aslomar and Upland.

He is also a consultant for the Dependency Prevention Commission of San Bernardino County, Peace Corps Training at Cal State, Los Angeles and Teacher’s Counselors Training Program for minority youth of Los Angeles.

His degrees were earned at San Bernardino Valley College, A.A. in music; University of Redlands, B.A. in sociology; and Claremont Graduate School, where he will receive his master’s degree in sociology.

Currently, he is teaching sociology, history and music at the Claremont Colleges and is an assistant professor in the Black Studies Center.

In announcing the addition to the curriculum, Dr. Moorefield, chairman and associate professor of the Cal State music department states, “We’re very fortunate to have the services of Mr. Hangan. I’m sure the students will benefit from his rich experience.”

Barnes, Fiskin team-up for art show

“"The magic of San Bernardino. That’s what the show’s about."" In this way, poet Dick Barnes, a native of San Bernardino, describes the show which opened in the art gallery Monday, Jan. 6.

Dr. Barnes’ poem will be displayed with 32 photographs of San Bernardino by Judy Fiskin, through Jan. 30.

It’s a two-month show, with a group of prints from the Los Angeles Circus gallery also on exhibit.

Dr. Barnes‘ ties to the city go back a long way. His great-grandfather moved to this area in 1887, living first in Victorville, then in San Bernardino. His father was born in Victorville, his mother in Colton and he be in San Bernardino.

“Lot of people think San Bernardino’s ugly but I don’t,” he says, “and Judy doesn’t either. She found it hard to photograph, however, because it has its own interesting one as the instructor is well-qualified.

For this reason the Activities Office is sponsoring a seminar, “Protect Yourself the Modern Way – With Knowledge,” which is designed to help those attending recognize ways in which they make themselves vulnerable and what to do should they become a victim.

The seminar is being conducted in the Lower Commons from 12:00 noon to 2:00 p.m. today; Wednesday, January 15; and Thursday, January 22. Rick Callanan, an instructor of Karate, and Mike Gomez of the College Police will present a program on how to prevent home burglaries. On January 16, Dr. Wendell Opden of the San Bernardino Medical Center, Mr. Paul Steinman, Attorney, and the Campus Police will present a panel discussion entitled, "Rape – And Justice Done Now?"

The best protection an individual has is knowledge. This seminar is designed to provide the knowledge necessary to avoid being victimized.

No one likes to think about themselves becoming the victim of a crime. But someone they know may be victimized. But since there is always a chance that this will happen, it is important to know how individuals can protect themselves.

Hail to the chief!

"Two Hundred Years of Presidential Papers," an exhibit of documents bearing the signatures of presidents, will be on display on the first floor of the Library from January 10 until January 24.

The exhibit, jointly sponsored by the CSUSB Library and the San Bernardino Bicentennial Commission, includes signatures of every president from George Washington through Gerald Ford. The signatures appear on a wide range of items including checks, personal and political letters, and official documents including pardons.

The exhibit is on loan from private collections and leaving CSUSB it will tour high schools, community colleges, libraries, military bases and commercial establishments in San Bernardino County.

A display of books by and about presidents, each autographed by the president concerned, will be shown in the Library at the same time as "Two Hundred Years of Presidential Papers".
Dr. Edward M. White participates on National Educators Committee

Dr. Edward M. White, chairman of the English department is a member of a select national committee of educators re-evaluating the granting of credit by examinations. Familiar to high school students, the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) examinations provide for the awarding of college credit for certain courses earned in tests covering specific fields. The national steering committee on which Dr. White serves is directing a study of these examinations, and which Dr. White serves is attempting to redefine the "norm" for granting credit. By next fall, the committee will announce the results of its study and its recommendations will be made available to colleges and universities using the examinations. The current recommendation is that up to 30 semester hours of credit be granted in the areas covered by the CLEP exams: English composition, humanities, mathematics, natural sciences and social science-history.

About 88,000 college students and nearly 260,000 members of the armed services make use of CLEP tests every year. Dr. White, who holds a Ph.D. in English from Harvard, is recognized throughout the California State University and Colleges system as an authority in the granting of college credit through testing and evaluation. He is the originator and director of the English equivalency testing program, which allows high school graduates immediate college credit if they can demonstrate they have acquired the college-level skills. He also has been named as a special consultant to the Chancellor's Office on credit-by-evaluation in all fields. A member of the Cal State faculty since the college opened in 1965, Dr. White is the author of college textbooks, fiction and numerous literary reviews.

Cal State announces grading standards

ISN’T 13 AN UNLUCKY NUMBER?

CSUSB ranks as the thirteenth hardest grader in the California State University and Colleges system, according to a report released last year. The report, compiled by the Office of Institutional Research for the system, shows that 71.5 per cent of the grades given at CSUSB in the spring of 1973 were either A’s or B’s.

Twelve state colleges and universities in the California system have tougher grading systems with Pomona leading at 64.5 per cent. The system wide average is 69.1 per cent.

The schools with the easiest grading standards, as reflected in the study, were the campuses at Sonoma, with 82.2 per cent A’s and B’s, Chico, with 75.2 per cent A’s and B’s; Humboldt, with 74.8 per cent and San Francisco with 74.4 per cent.

According to the study, eight schools have tougher grading standards than the 60.1 per cent statewide average, while eleven schools have more lax standards.

Spring 1973

Educational Television Official will lecture to students on Thursday

Robert Cromie, columnist for the Chicago Tribune and host of National Education Television's "Book Beat", will speak at Cal State Thursday, January 31.

Cromie, awarded a Peabody award for excellence of his television program, will share some inside knowledge on the world of books. A versatile writer, reviewer, author and former war correspondent, he was appointed as editor of the Chicago Tribune's literary supplement in 1960 and became a columnist nine years later.

The lecture is scheduled at 2 p.m. and will be held in LC 500 on the library's fifth floor.

Cromie, whose diversified background should provide interesting commentary, will be available for questions and conversation following the lecture.

Course on Ethnic Minorities to be broadcast on T.V.

The culture, history and current problems of ethnic minorities will be studied in a Cal State, San Bernardino course presented on television starting today.

The social science class will be shown on Channel 24 in San Bernadino and Channel 62 in Riverside on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3 p.m., with a repeat showing at 3:30.

For teachers, the three-unit social science course fulfills partial requirements of Article 3.3 legislation which requires course work in the culture, history and current problems of minorities. Introductory programs on prejudice, discrimination, and assimilation will be followed by segments devoted to current problems of Blacks, Mexican-Americans, Asian-Americans, Native Americans and Jews.

Los Angeles City Schools and the California State Universities and Colleges have produced the course, which is taught by Dr. Elliot Barkan, Cal State associate professor of history.

Many school districts in Riverside and San Bernardino counties are participating in the offering of the program, making possible a reduced fee of $33, which includes the course materials. Final program will be telecast Thursday, March 6.

Further information on the extension class may be obtained by writing or phoning the Office of Continuing Education.

Modern Art Class

What you've always wanted to know but have been afraid to ask will be covered in a class offered in Riverside Tuesday evening's, beginning Jan. 21. "Impressionism, cubism, surrealism, expressionism, and new trends in contemporary art will be selected, on the basis of student interest, as topics for discussion in the Cal State, San Bernardino extension class.

The need for such a course has long been recognized by its instructor, Roger Lintault, chairman of the art department.

He has found, during the 14 years he's been teaching, that many students "do not understand the art and the context in which they are living and the context of their culture."

"Many have an attitude toward art which might have helped them 200 years ago, but is not relevant to the present," he says.

And yet we accept modern technology.

"We accept cars, radio and TV because we use them every day. But when we start dealing with the visual parts of our lives, there's a tendency to immediately fall back on stereotypes of past cultures.

"People accept a convention for understanding and accepting our world, like a road map or a floor plan of a house and don't realize they are abstractions."

"But when they look at a work of art, they say, "Why doesn't that look like fruit?" or "Where is the table?"

Lintault stresses that this is an appreciation, and not a history, course.

"His work has been exhibited in San Francisco, Omaha, Long Beach, New York and Hawaii, and is a part of the collection of the Honolulu Academy of Art, New York Museum of Contemporary Crafts and numerous private collections."

He won the purchase price and a first award at the 1974 Orange Show's All-California Art Exhibit.

Fee for the one-unit extension class is $28 for those wishing credit and $20 for non-credit students. Registration is available at the opening class session in the Riverside Art Center.

No Nothing is ever "almost legal." Especially marijuana. Last year alone 420,000 people were arrested for marijuana offenses. Of those, 90% were for simple possession.

But now a growing number of Americans are thinking seriously about changing the present marijuana laws. In fact, some laws have already been changed.

The state of Oregon has successfully de-criminalized the personal use of marijuana. The American Bar Association, The National Council of Churches, Consumers' Union and The National Education Association have urged other states to do the same.

An inevitable chain of events has begun. Become part of that change. Help us help you.
Nicholas Krushenick perceives 1962-1972 period as great era in art

By Sal Bella

One tends to wonder where a great artist comes from, whether the stork dropped him down a chimney or if he appears fully grown in a fully equipped studio. Nicholas Krushenick was born like anyone else, not by a virgin birth but a normal one in a little borough on the lower east side of New York, the Bronx. Krushenick, who has exhibited his work in many museums and galleries in the U.S. and abroad, and is a guest artist at CSUSB this winter quarter. The artist will teach courses in advanced drawing and life drawing.

Krushenick’s paintings are in permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum and the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Washington Gallery of Modern Art, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, plus other museums abroad. He received the Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship in 1967.

When asked about the generation of his creativity, Mr. Krushenick said that it unexpectedly just happened. He had two uncles in Russia who were anti-czarist writers. The uncles changed their names, one to Krushenick, the other’s choid is unknown.

One tends to wonder where a great artist comes from, whether grown in a luxuriously equipped studio, the stork dropped him down a thousand dollar Krushenick. The blind gentleman, willing to sell his car and possessions for a four thousand dollar Krushenick. The thing he had seen which revealed the color his life had been devoid of was his work.

Among the several other anecdotes mentioned was the story about the mobilist, Calder. When commissioned by the Red Devil Ham Company to do some work for their front lawn, the artist duplicated the company’s trademark and created a giant red devil. Calder, who is known for his sense of balance, felt it necessary to equalize the length of the devil’s twenty foot tail with a twenty foot penis. He briefly talked about contemporary art. Krushenick likes the work of Morris Lewis and feels it to better than Jackson Pollack’s. He credits the contributions of the Beatles as a major force in the creation of the greatness. He also feels that the art world will benefit by the forthcoming depression and may soon appear a new renaissance appear.

I asked Nicholas what he thought about Salvador Dali’s television commercial. He said that Dali was passed his greatness and is living on his name’s reputation.

Among the other items discussed was the pertinent question, “What is a great artist like you doing in San Berdoo?” Krushenick’s response was that he had been in wet and cold Washington and thought it would be pleasant to enjoy some warmer, drier weather. Also his son is currently living in Long Beach and he can easily visit him from here.

Nick’s impressions of San Bernardino are positive. He enjoys the view of the surrounding mountains. His primary concern, though, is not material or surrounding, but his work.

He feels that there is much more for him to do and releasing his own personal creativity is the most important thing to him now. A humble energetic and talented man is Nicholas Krushenick. I believe that in categorizing great contemporary artist one legitimately must include him with the best.
Proper conditioning can help prevent ski injuries

The new cover of snow on our surrounding mountains indicates the beginning of ski season. Some of us have, no doubt, taken advantage of the Christmas snow, contending with huge lines, bare spots and big rocks. Others are holding out for a fresh while covering or the beginning of P.E. ski class.

To the latter here are a few hints to avoid early termination of skiing due to injuries.

Some common causes for broken bones are fatigue, improperly fitted equipment, mountain conditions and over estimation of skiing ability.

Orthopedic doctors feel that many fractures can be averted if a person is trained to ski and fall correctly. Also emphasized is the importance of boot fitting and buckling, since the majority of fractures take place in the area above the top of the boot where the bone gives most easily.

Skiing is as much a psychological as a physical sport. When going uncontrollably fast, fall into the hill with skis thrown out in front of you. It is far better to deal with a little snow on one's posterior than the attention one receives while riding down the hill in a basket.

High paying, rapidly advancing bureaucratic job available

You may have referred to your forthcoming degree as a useless piece of paper, good only for covering unsightly holes in bathroom walls. Surprisingly though, it may suddenly have some value for you.

The federal government needs administrators to fill a variety of jobs across the country. The Professional and Administrative Career Examination is available to any individual who has a college degree or is close to acquiring one. A wide range of jobs are offered to candidates who score sufficiently high on the 4.5 hour P.A.C.E. test.

You too can steal salamies from government. Be a computer specialist or buy screws for bureaucratic job available

A GS-5 position, starting at approximately 700 dollars a month, is offered to degree holders in general. Candidates having one year of graduate work or better than a 2.5 GPA qualify for a GS-7 position starting at approximately 900 dollars a month.

Applications for the PACE test can be obtained at U.S. Civil Service Commission office located at 380 W. Court St., between D and Arrowhead. The test is given every two months, March being the next opportunity to take it. A smiling representative is available to give you information about the PACE and other civil service tests which could qualify you for high paying, rapidly advancing, bureaucratic jobs.

Dave Mason at Swing Jan. 24

Dave Mason, one of the fine singer-guitarists from England, will headline a concert Jan. 24 at Swing Auditorium in San Bernardino.

The show, which starts at 8 p.m., is being presented by Wolf & Rissmiller Concerts of Beverly Hills.

Mason first gained recognition in 1967 with the formation of Traffic, being an integral force in the band. A couple years later he joined the Delaney & Bonnie and Friends tour with Eric Clapton, followed by a stint with Derek & the Dominos.

A fine writer as well as performer, Mason has recorded several beautiful albums, his latest, on Columbia being "Dave Mason."
Avanti to help design Cal State building

Handicapped students at California State College, San Bernardino, members of a new campus organization, Avanti, Unlimited, are having a part in the design of the new Creative Arts building, which will be constructed on the campus in 1975-76. Their representatives met with James H. Urata, Cal State building coordinator, to look for possible architectural barriers to free access by the handicapped.

While plans of previous buildings have been reviewed on this basis in Sacramento, this is the first year that the direct involvement of affected students was requested. This will be a procedure in all future building within the state college and university system, according to an announcement from the chancellor's office.

"Cal State, San Bernardino is fortunate because it's new," Urata says. "The college was built to fit national and state standards for eliminating architectural barriers for the handicapped."

Minimum-slope ramps, wide doors, special rest room facilities, accessible light switches and water fountains, and wide parking lanes were included in the original plans for the San Bernardino college.

Avanti, Unlimited, formed last spring, has become fully organized this fall. Special tutoring and social functions, including a Christmas party, are among plans of the group, which has about 20 members.

Blood pressure screening

High blood pressure is a national health problem. There are at least 23 million Americans with high blood pressure (hypertension). Heart attacks and strokes are caused by high blood pressure — these kill and disable many people every year and Black Americans die from high blood pressure at 7 times the rate of whites.

Most people who have high blood pressure don't know it, and if found and treated, can be controlled. Your Student Financial aid office is conducting a screening program on campus on January 20, 21 and 22 from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Free of charge for all students, faculty and staff. It will take about 10 minutes of your time to see if you have this problem and there will be 4 convenient locations where you can be tested — the Commons, the main floor of the Library, the Student Services Bldg., and the Biology Bldg. Look for the posters for exact locations within the buildings on these 3 dates the clinic is open. Give a few minutes of your time to protect your future health.

Dr. Cleaves awarded fellowship

Dr. Wallace Cleaves, chairman of the psychology department at California State College, San Bernardino, has been awarded a two-year post-doctoral research fellowship by the National Institute of Mental Health.

The professor will conduct research on sensorimotor integration of Child Development. He will be on leave from Cal State during the two-year research period, which begins June 29, 1975.

Veteran's Corner

Over 100 years ago, Abe Lincoln said, "To care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan". It appears that this philosophy dies out after each and every conflict which this country has faced in the interval since Lincoln's time. Ford's veto substantiates this claim.

HOWEVER, the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Act of 1974 was passed into law. It affords the veteran an appropriate boost for cost of living which exceeds 22 percent. The only negative factor to come out of this legislation is the restriction of the nine-month extension to undergraduate study only. This office is attempting to correct this injustice. We will always fight for justice because as a result of this legislation, the veteran is not receiving equal benefits for equal service, nor equal opportunity under the law. In support of this claim is the idea that veterans benefits have always held the status of "RIGHTS".

The size of the override of the President's VETO was overwhelming: 77 to 19 in the House and 86-1 in the Senate. If this appears as a whole demonstrated their commitment to today's veteran. It is hoped that they will also consider our arguments for a change of this law embodied in our request for the extension of nine-months for all study to all veterans. We need your support in this matter. There are petitions in the office now, and there will be petitions circulated during registration in an attempt to correct this legislation. SEE YOU THERE.

It may interest you to know that the quote by Lincoln is also the motto of the VA. It sometimes appears that the VA is an "olde oger" who withholds from us our just due, yet if your computer system was almost 40 years old, it is safe to say that you'd not function too well either. This is a good point to make. If you, the veteran, would support your cause and be heard in the legislation and through appropriate channels, you would have the funds available to the VA necessary to update that MAZE OF MACHINERY in LA, San Diego, or San Fransisco. It is only through voter support, action, and commitment that change is made.

Men's first successful flight in heavier-than-air, mechanically propelled airplane was made by Orville Wright this month in 1903. Take a good look at the changes made from that time. One small attempt at change was made, it worked, and we can make the same changes. One catch - we have to try!

Also, this is the month in 1941 the Japanese attacked the US Pacific Fleet anchored at Pearl Harbor. It would be fitting that we "BOMB" Washington with letters, telegrams, and petitions concerning our request for equal rights to ALL VETERANS.
An open letter to the students

Golly geezers, I sure hope we’re all ready for another busy, bustling, exciting, and challenging quarter here at our good ol’ alma mater. It’s good to see that nobody dropped dead during the registration hassle, and if we can stand our General Studies classes until mid-term I think we might be able to stick it through.

Yes, so let’s all drown our Cal State Berdoo mascot costumes, piddle around on our paws, and fear not the accusations of those who would call us “nurds”. Yes, school spirit is what makes this school one of the best colleges in the California system, and it’s this school spirit you and those before you had which built this wonderful institution for higher learning out of this beautiful barren brown hillside.

As manager of the staff, I want to work with each and every one of you to help cover the stories of importance which happen every day here at the campus. Like the new cheerleaders’ uniforms . . . several hundred dollars well spent, and I know we’ll all jerk together to maybe get a football team or basketball team or baseball team or something so we can use those lovely uniforms on our lovely ladies to impress other schools, and someday show the UCLA Bruins that we’re really the boss. And other stories like the erection of the radio station, years in the planning, and how we can all buffalo chip in to keep planning more this quarter, making it possible for those who will follow us to help plan for the radio station too.

You see, the way this spiffy campus was forged, and with teamwork we will make this quarter just like the others — thrilling, exciting, and most important, challenging. So lets all show some school spirit, just in a group setting, and everyday we’ll be proud to sing the alma mater — whatever the hell it is.

Registration system is unfair

By John Whitehair

The registration process here at Cal-State is unfair to seniors and a more equitable plan should be implemented at once.

The present system divides all students into priority groups. These groups are rotated each quarter so that a different group has the top priority time each term.

Now this plan seems like it should be fair for everyone but upon closer analysis it appears very unjust to seniors.

Gradsitting seniors who need less than 30 units to graduate may receive a first day priority number. However this does not necessarily mean that they will get the first hour on the first day of registration. They could be stuck with the last hour on the first day when many classes are already closed and there is a long waiting list. This creates an undue hardship on a graduating senior who needs a particular class in order to graduate that quarter.

A much more fair process would be priority system based on the number of units a person has completed. Incoming freshmen would be the last persons to register, while seniors who only need a couple of units to graduate would be first in line.

Cal-State used to have a registration system of this nature but the powers-that-be scrapped it in favor of the present unjust system.

In general I support the tenets of the woman’s movement and actively participate in furthering its goals. Consequently, I thought it would be beneficial to suggest a priority hierarchy for the lay person, who is perhaps uniformed, but nonetheless wishes to help the feminist cause. I am referring predominantly to the middle class American mother who is sympathetic to the movement, but cannot actively contribute to it.

If the origins of the word radical are recalled, it is evident that time has altered its intended meaning. Radical, comes from the Latin word Radicis, meaning root.

The root of our culture still lies in the family whose wielding power has traditionally rested in the mother’s hand. The sex role disparity originated primarily in the family structure and from that structure the problem can be alleviated.

The housewife has the opportunity to become a radical. She can play a contributing part in raising a generation without sexual disparity.
