Declar Bankruptcy and Regain Your Economic Solvency!

(CPS) — Faced with a deflated bank account, few job prospects and heavy school debts?

Don't bother with small loans to regain solvency, go for the big time: declare bankruptcy. Because of a quirk in our economic system, bankruptcy is the legal means of reestablishing good credit and starting fresh financially.

An increasing number of students and graduate students have turned to bankruptcy as a way of resolving personnel debts, according to legal sources. With inflation and the high cost of living, many graduate students have started their professional careers with debts up to $30,000 and have seen no feasible or honest way to pay up.

"Students don't take bankruptcy lightly," said Beth Karren, the legal advisor at the University of California at Berkeley. "There's a real moral stigma attached to it and they usually come in quite a few times before they decide to go ahead with the proceedings."

There is also a financial stigma. Stereos, radios, sports equipment, furniture and other material goods are all taken away when bankruptcy is declared. Bankrupt students can usually wave bye-bye to credit cards and loans for the next several years. Proven to unreliable, they also face possible discrimination by future employers.

Yet bankruptcies are so easy to obtain that students, for the most part, represent themselves in court. In fact, all students have to do is convince the judge that their liabilities outweigh their assets, list any property and name their creditors and amounts owed. The process usually lasts about half an hour.

The cumulative effect of student bankruptcies however, have been severe. The University of California at Berkeley absorbed $303,364 in uncollected student loans last year; this year, across the country, students will default on 1500 federally insured loans. The debt approached half a billion dollars and has threatened the existence of the federal student loan program.

This program, which has been in effect since 1966, has distributed 47 billion to over 4 million students. It has been predicted that 24 percent of the outstanding loans will never be repaid. The 1975 fiscal budget originally estimated that the student loan loss would hit $134 million but the figure has since been revised to $456 million.

As of now, anyone may file for bankruptcy and there is no minimum or maximum debt limit. The cost for petition is $50 and it is not necessary to obtain legal counsel.

Bankruptcies are handled only by federal courts but property exemptions are determined by state law. The normal exemptions are property that a person can hang on to after declaring bankruptcy — including clothing a percentage of wages, basic unpretentious transportation and occupational tools.

The ease with which student borrowers obtain bankruptcies has prompted two California congressmen to sponsor a bill which would exempt student federal loans from bankruptcy laws.

In the meantime, bankrupt students have one good thing going: some banks consider academic bankrupt a good credit risk because of students' potential earning power and because federal law prohibits them from filing bankruptcy again for six years.

Housing Office Can Find You a Home!

By Skip Arden

When I transferred to CSCSB this winter quarter, I had no idea where I was going to live and found myself caught in a real dilemma. I asked someone if there were a special bulletin board for realty. Luckily they knew that this campus now actually has an Off-Campus Housing Referral Service.

In one day I found myself sharing a house with three foxy chicks, paying only $69 a month, and being close enough to ride the bus for only 10 cents.

The office is staffed by Elaine Antflick and Miki Pallottelli from 9:00 - 4:00 M-F. It's located in Joshua Rm. 163 with telephone ext. 456.

Elaine was very helpful in getting me a place to live. She looked through all the listings to find a place that suited my needs. Then she called up the landlords and made an appointment for me to see the place, and even showed me on a map where it was located. If you have trouble finding a place, she will help you locate it on the campus and get in touch with the landlord.

She also has listings of over 30 houses, 20 apartments, and 10 rooms all to rent. She has a special bulletin board for the apartment hunters also over 300 houses for sale that are VA and FHA approved for loans. The rent usually ranges anywhere from $90 - $250.

International Program
Faces Cancellation

Salvatore Bellia
IP Retention Committee

The International Program is the Cal State student’s vehicle to attend universities in foreign countries while still enrolled in his home campus. The program has recently been deleted from the governor’s budget. We feel that his deletion is a great loss to the state university system in that it deprives the system’s 23,000 students from obtaining
1. saleable education and skills only available in foreign universities.
2. the possibility of teaching foreign language which demands international experience as qualification.
3. exposure to international business techniques.
4. expanded cultural understanding not available in a classroom.

The primary reason for the program’s termination is cost increase created by inflation and international dollar devaluation, although due to program refinements it is cheaper to spend a year overseas now than it had been 4 years ago.

1. The board of trustees have requested $783,000 for the 78-79 fiscal year which include salaries of the 17 staff positions.
2. The state pays approximately $2000 per student to attend domestic schools. If the program was terminated to the state for the $200 IP students affected would be $720,000 if they remain at home campuses.

June 30 is the last day the governor can alter his decision to terminate IP. Once the program is terminated the potential to reopen it is almost nonexistent, good faith with participating universities would be destroyed.

A student wishing to attend an overseas school: would
1. not receive the economic advantages participating countries have generously given to the program.
2. It is very difficult for a student outside an international program to be accepted into a foreign university.
3. Few state students could afford to attend foreign universities.
4. Upon returning to their home campuses students would receive little or no credit for the work they have done.

We believe that the educational benefits derived from the program’s continuation outweigh the economic expenditure to the state.

English Equivalency Examination to be Offered

LOS ANGELES — A unique English testing program, which has proved successful in permitting able students to get a head start in The California State University and Colleges, opens this week to fall 1975 applicants, Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke announced today.

The program is available to California high school seniors and others who believe their English abilities may match those of typical collegians who have completed freshman English requirements.

In the past two years 7,710 candidates have taken The California State University English Equivalency Examination. Nearly one-third (2,300) passed the test and qualified for credit for two complete courses in freshman English.

"Much attention has focused recently on inadequate English preparation of many college and university students," Chancellor Dumke said. "This is a situation receiving our considerable attention.

"At the other end of the scale, however, are many other students who are demonstrably skilled. The Systemwide English examination has proved this, and has allowed able students to move directly into advanced academic coursework."

During 1973-74 students who passed The California State University English Equivalency Examinations achieved grades averaging higher than "B" in the courses in which they enrolled.

The third annual administration of the test will be on all 19 campuses of The California State College and Colleges on only one day — Saturday, May 3. The combined application deadline for applying is Friday, April 11.

Dr. Edward M. White chairman of the English Department at CSCB and director of the examination program, stressed that it has been developed by the Systemwide English Council comprised of chairmen of English departments at all CSCSB campuses.

Students taking the examination will find it divided into two 90-minute components with a break between.

The first component is an objective examination, the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) Subject Examination in Analysis and Interpretation of Literature developed by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J.

The second component is in form. Students will be asked to respond to two questions composed by English professors from throughout The California State University and Colleges.

When grading is completed this summer a list of students who passed both parts of the examination will go to all system campuses. These students, upon registration, can apply for — and automatically receive — six semester units (or the equivalent at quarter calendar campuses) of freshman English credit.

Results of the CLEP portion of the test will — at the option of the student — be sent to other institutions as well as those in The California State University and Colleges.

Students taking last year’s examination were from 461 California cities. More than 750 high schools were represented by the applicants.

Dr. White encouraged high school seniors and others who are contemplating college to take the exam, particularly those who read literature with understanding and who write well.

"The only risk is a $20 test fee and a few hours of testing time," Dr. White said. "Applicants have no reason to feel inhibited about whether they can pass the examination since the scores of those who don’t will not be forwarded to any college or university."

Dr. White said candidates will be informed of test results in two stages. They will receive results of the CLEP portion in June from Princeton, N. J., and the combined results of both the CLEP and the essay component in July from the system’s English Council.

The tests will be administered at all 19 campuses, at admissions offices on campuses of The California State University and Colleges.

Dr. White, chairman of the Department of English at CSC, San Bernardino, is director of the testing program with Dr. Richard H. Mocie, director of the Placement Office at NC.

PFUA Endorses Yes Vote

CSCB President, John M. Pfau, made public his feelings on the L.A. fee election by issuing the following statement:

"There is a direct relationship between the current level of the tax, the quality of activities available to students on the campus. Every year more and more requests cannot be met since the only way we can meet our expenses is by fee increases."

"As a result of the increased fees, we need your help to ensure that the tax rate we are currently at will produce the needed revenue to maintain the quality of the educational experience to which students are entitled."

Dr. Jones, CSCB President, was glad to receive the endorsement and urged students to vote YES, February 25 and 26, 1975.

Recruiting This Week

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company will be interviewing on campus, February 27, for management trainee positions. All placement registrants are invited to report to your time by stopping by or phoning the Placement Office, for an appointment.

Fountain Valley School District will be on campus Wednesday, March 5, 1975, to recruit elementary teachers for 1975-76. All interested teachers are invited to attend.

SAT Scores Stop Slipping

(CPS) — In a national report profiling one million 1974 high school graduates, the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) revealed that for the first time in ten years, there was no significant decline in the average Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores.

The number of students described in the report is equal to about one-third of all 1974 high school graduates and about two-thirds of all those graduates who entered college this fall, according to CEEB. The students all took the SAT and also answered 56 additional biographical questions.

In a statement released with the report, entitled College Board Seniors 1974-75, the CEEB reported that the average scores were about the same as last year, but that it was too early to tell if the declining trend in SAT scores was over.

Another increase was recorded in the percentage of seniors who say they plan to attend college after receiving their degrees. The 1974 increase of more than 1 percent is the most dramatic in women students, and the increase resulted in almost as many women entering college as more able students who didn't bother taking the SAT's. This year, CEEB has not ventured a guess as to why the scores have not continued to decline.

Aside from leveling off on SAT scores, there was a number of increases revealed in this year's report.

There was an improvement in the average scores on CEEB Achievement Tests over 1973. Increases in mathematics, biology, French, chemistry, and Spanish placement or exemption from the test may be traced to the students who take the SAT before junior year.

The CEEB report also found that the number of students in the top 10 percent of students their age in that category; in the top one percent said they were in the top 1 percent in socialization ability. In addition, less than 1 percent of the students said they felt they needed counseling about personal problems.

The results of the report were put into a broader perspective by Sam McCandless, program officer for CEEB's Admissions Testing Program, who claimed that, "In terms of both sex and ethnic background, the students who take the SAT are truly representative of the student body, and older than college-going youth."

"Third Annual Pipe Dream"
Atlanta Rhythm Section
Polydor

This is one of the finest albums from a southern band with a difference - instead of long extended jams, they deal with highly structured, appealing songs, many of which have immediate hit material. If Lynyrd Skynyrd can drift up the charts the Atlanta Rhythm Section can scale up their own foot with songs such as "Doraville" and "Angel." Buddy Buie (their producer) is partly responsible for these cuts and he's no novice to the music scene having written hits in the 60's for people like Bobby Goldsboro and Tommy Roe.

As musicians, the band is hard to beat. Handling the lead guitar work are J.R. Cobb and Barry Bailey, who produce some very tasteful and controlled licks. Everything is being conceivably laid out with no time for backhanded jamming. Ronnie Harmon's beautiful soulful singing is one of the band's main assets and this is a remarkable feat when so many boogie hands suffer from tortured vocal sections.

Most of the cuts are W0's Down Time. They are faithful to their roots including a catchy blues number "Blues In Maude's Flat" which exhibits the fire that many English imitators have tried unsuccessfully to achieve. "Angel" is a real tour-de-force, full of rich instrumental workouts from all the band's members with Bailey contributing some incredibly sweet Duane Allman guitar, wafting in and out of the lush string arrangement. Another track of more than usual interest is "The War Is Over" which is very moving in its simplicity and beauty. This diversity of song arrangement is their main strength and with their exemplary musicianship, it goes a long way to making "Third Annual Pipe Dream!" a really hot album which deserves an awful lot of playing.

Dan Fogelberg

"Souvenirs"
Dan Fogelberg
Columbia

"Souvenirs" is Dan Fogelberg's "L.A." album, a collection of delicate ballads, wreathed in a musical framework which embraces the tempering side of the Eagles and CS&N and Y's work. As a session musician, he has worked with many contemporary troubadours, Randy Newman, Jackson Browne and Roger McGuinn. The considerable talents employed by these musicians are superbly applied on this, his second album, where apart from some amazing vocal work, he plays acoustic and electric guitars, piano, moog, and organs.

By careful multi-tracking, he creates a one-man choir, and almost doesn't really need most of the Eagles and Graham Nash to harmonize with him on many tracks. Most of the songs are tearful lamentations, almost elegies to lost places, "Illinois," and times, the track 'Souvenirs.' The pace quickens momentarily on "As the Raven Flies," which conjures up the foreboding intensity of Neil Young at his apocalyptic best and on "Morning Sky," a country rocker backed by some stimulating banjo work from Al Perkins. I dare not close without mentioning Joe Walsh who, as well as producing the album, sings and plays guitar throughout though without the liner notes, his influence would not necessarily be discerned. This is as it should be for "Souvenirs" is obviously Fogelberg's achievement and his alone.
BASKETBALL

FRIDAY "A" LEAGUE

For ten minutes, the vastly improved High Rollers managed to stay with the Rollers. Then the roof fell in and, when the dust had cleared the Rollers were up by 73-37. Ted Saar rode his magic carpet to the hoop for 39 points and Lethargic Jeff Martin managed to get the ball to score 18 points himself. As the two Rollers led all scorers, Larry Flynn added ten to the Rollers' total. Tim Hill, Barry Whitely and Willie Hamilton scored 16, 9 and 8 respectively for the High Rollers. It was not a case of the Rollers choking, they were simply the victims of some bad breaks. Costly turnovers and poor shot selection contributed to their downfall, but they did show signs of coming together as a team. If they can play an entire game like they did for the first quarter against the Rollers, then next week's opponent, the Family, may be in trouble.

FRIDAY "B" LEAGUE

If you are not sure what good sportsmanship is, you might ask the Aztecs. They passed up a chance to solidify their second place position by playing the short-handed Warriors 4 on 4, instead of using 5 players against the shorthanded Warriors 4 on 4. After the Warriors raced to a 17 point lead at halftime, the Aztecs remained true to their team play and tremendous board work, a difficult task against a well balanced team. If one were looking only at the scorebook, it would be difficult to ascertain whether the Outsiders were doing better or the Rollers were doing better to show up for their games. By watching them play, however, it is obvious that they have been fun, despite losing every week. They are on the court for the joy of participation, and that, friends, is what intramurals is all about. Now for the coroner's report: the Mother Truckers, showing no ill effects from their recent mechanical problems (faculty Dip Stick) rolled over the winless Outsiders 63-20. Strong rebounding and balanced scoring were the keys but the real story was the resurrection of Ernie "Chopper" Chabattini. Chopper led all scorers with 13 points while fellow Truckers Nagel and Hesse had twelve each. Ted Hopkins and Ken Bumgarner scored 8 apiece for the Outsiders. Truckers Pat McCarty left the gym complaining that he had been hoodwinked by scorekeeper Karen Kenstiger. He claims that she failed to record his 25 foot prayer from the top of the key. If there are any impartial witnesses willing to testify, please see the intramural coordinator at the office, because he is the only knowledgeable person left in the office. I'm sure he can tell you what intramurals is all about. By watching them play, however, it is obvious that they have been having fun, despite losing every week. We still have no real clue as to what good intramurals is all about. Student Loans Threatened

By Ron Hendren

WASHINGTON — A recent study has concluded that more and more young people are defaulting on their federally guaranteed student loans. The study also revealed new and potent ammunition to congressional, senator and White House education advocates for disbanding the program. More than half a million students have obtained college education with the help of these loans.

The study projects that the government will likely lose some $20 million annually in defaulted notes, assuming a 1 percent default rate of one percent of the total amount guaranteed, and about half the cost of a single G.I. transport aircraft.

But never mind, $20 million is $20 million, and in these perilous times a lot more people are fighting for a little more time looking for ways to dig the other person's belt. And rightly so, as these fiscal advisors would do well to start at home.

The problem is that those who are straddling economically are the ones who are bailed out, or forced to be the first to take in another notch. Thus it is that Social Security, unemployment and medicare recipients, and others living on fixed incomes are the creators of a situation that is still more.

If we bring it back to the recipients of guaranteed student loans. The four volume study (which the Office of Education $180,000) found that 1,000 who actually knew what education loans tend to be students from middle and lower income families. And as for the last group, we would not receive formal education beyond high school, and that is not for this program.

The study also shows that defaults are still at a disturbing high. For example, defaults on percent of the students who default. These are people who are far more likely to be black than white, and attended poverty is not a problem for many attended trade schools.

Richard A. L. Lombara, executive secretary of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators fears that these defaults will be worse for more successful. By no means a sacred cow immune to congressional scrutiny. The report, which has been expensive study made clear, there are at least several thousand students over the last few years who have never will have the chance to get on in pursuit of formal education.

CPS-PNS) — Before you bit into that accursed tuna-salad sandwich, Project Jonah wants to ask you a question:

Have you ever wanted to take off winter quarter and go skiing? Or would you like to graduate a quarter early? Maybe you just want to lighten your load of classes each quarter so that you can achieve higher grades or work a little more.

Well, dummy, get your — in gear, brush up on some subjects you have some knowledge about and apply for Credit by Examination. Then consider doing something about it in time to register for the examinations in the office of the school or department concerned, for the first few days of the term in which the course is offered. Then you have four weeks in which to complete the examination, whereupon passing the exam gives you full credit for taking that class.

The exams are not all that hard. Really, when you think about it, the teachers probably enjoy having one less person in the class. Some subjects are particularly easy to get credit for, for example Languages, Mathematics, English, History, and Music, especially if you had them in High School just a little while ago.

For example, if you speak Spanish, you can take exams right up through Spanish 4 and receive 30 units of credit. But if you have been reading about a certain subject and feel you are really conversant, why not go ahead and try passing the exam, you've got nothing to lose.

I would like to destroy some common myths concerning Credit by Examination. Students often ask, "How many dolphins and porpoises were killed last year by the tuna-fishing industry — the "in-cradible" victims of technology employed by some of the big brand tuna-pickers?"

The estimated kill runs from 30,000 to 100,000 per year, according to officials of Project Jonah, who have launched a nationwide tuna boycott in an effort to top what they call a "cor^ng to officials of Project Jonah, who have launched a nationwide tuna boycott in an effort to top what they call a strong and more urgent than ever before." — and the boycott has now become a hard reality.

Main targets of the boycott are Stark-Kid Fish Inc. and Van Camp Sea Food Co. (a division of Ralston-Purina), both of Terminal Island, California, and Hambly Bee Seafoods, Astoria, Oregon.

Jonah has urged boycotting consumers to switch to chicken salad to quit buying any tuna packed by the producers named. With few exceptions, the cans don't say what kind of tuna is inside, or how it was caught. This leaves it up to consumers to find independent sources, probably in Washington and Oregon.

"We don't want to put the small independent tuna man out of business," says Ms. McIntyre. "What we're against is agribusiness in the sea."

Jonah has chosen an unlikely weapon for their new campaign: a comic book called "Net Profit." The book extols the intelligence and friendliness of porpoises and dolphins — and describes in graphic detail how the big ships stalk and trap them.

"The book, and other information, is available from Project Jonah, P.O. Box 476, Bolinas, CA 94924."

Killing Porpoise Without Purpose

When the catch is hauled aboard, the tuna are sorted out and the porpoises — many badly maimed, many already dead from suffocation — are dumped unceremoniously back into the sea.

Jonah has learned that a scientific survey shows "the porpoise population has been drastically reduced," over the past two years.

"The case is stronger and more urgent than ever before," says Ms. McIntyre. "What we're against is agribusiness in the sea."

CPS-HED — What will President Ford’s plan for sending $300 million in supplemental foreign aid to the tottering military governments of South Vietnam and Cambodia cost the average student?

One educator said the money could be used to allow 600,000 students to participate in the College Work-Study program and another 400,000 to receive Basic Educational Opportunity Grants.

American Association of University Professors General Secretary Joseph Duffy, in a letter to the association’s membership, said such an investment would be "significantly more productive" than shipping "war materials" to Indochina.

Gays Edged Out of Frat House

(CPS) — Gays may be good in some places, but it’s only so-so in the Theta Chi fraternity.

Three homosexual members of the fraternity voluntarily moved out of their frat house at Lehigh University, PA last month after they received an alumni request asking them to do so.

The alumni made the request because they felt they would be in the best interest of the people living in the fraternity, according to Paul Severt, president of the Theta Chi Alumni Association.

According to another alumnus, the fraternity was afraid that most people at the Lehigh University did not approve of homosexuality and that the fraternity would not be able to get enough pledges to remain financially stable.

Veterans Admissions Counselor

In the land of Headache Numbers which the Veterans Affairs Office is a permanent member and veterans are periodically allowed to visit, there exist Headache Number 2,486 and 1,643, commonly known to you as Headache Number 2,486 and College Headache Number 2.

Headache No. 2,486, the master of the two, displays certain symptoms before it starts rattling your brain, such as periods of un-controllable screaming, panic, confusion, crying, and the terrible feeling of discrimination and loneliness. This is also accompanied with frustration, anxiety, and the compulsion to hit a wall, or the nearest thing available, especially members of the Veterans Affairs Office.

Headache No. 2,486 is brought on by finding out that the present 1974 Vietnam Veteran Readjustment Act (HR 12628) restricts the nine month extension to only undergraduate study and not to everyone. In otherwords if you have a BA tough-luck.

To relieve Headache No. 2,486 there are only two pills that might work. The first pill, of course, is the famous “Grin and Bare It” pill. (Was that a misprint?) The second pill is the “I Care” pill. Unfortunately these pills only offer temporary relief. Congress caused the headache and only Congress can relieve it. (And that wasn’t a misprint.)

However, the “I Care” may be an effective way to help eliminate it. Petitions have already been sent to Congress stating the nine month extension should apply to every veteran regardless of his educational status. What is needed now is individual letters from you stating about the same thing. Maybe this would help change some attitudes in Congress.?

There are a couple more pills that may help to relieve Headache No. 2,486, and they are the “Cal Vet.” and “State Bonus” pills. To be eligible for the “Cal Vet” pill you must be a veteran who has exhausted all VA educational benefits. You must be a full time student, and a native of California or resident at the time you entered the service. You must also have paid state taxes and been a registered voter within the state sometime since 1968. This pill pays, if you are eligible, $350 per month for 18 months to help ease your pain.

If you wish to take this pill, you must do so within four years of the date your VA benefits were exhausted. For further information, or to file an application, drop in or write the county Veterans Service Department of your area. You can find the number etc. in your phonebook. Please do not contact this Office about this because it would cause us Headache 3,746, meaning that we don’t know anymore about the pill than what was just stated.

The other pill which may help, the “State Bonus” pill, not only applies to Headache No. 2,486 but to all veterans that qualify. If you are from one of the following states, drop in our office and see Mr. Painter and Dr. White to see if you are eligible for a “State Bonus”. The states are: Connecticut, Delaware, Guam (?), Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia.

The basic eligibility requirements are that you served in the armed forces and were a resident of the state before you entered the military. The bonuses vary from $225-$1000. his particular pill is also good for curing the “Oh my god-I got to pay my bills” headache no. 12345.

By now you should be developing Headache No. 38 from reading this column and I’m developing Headache 6784 from writing it. But I must proceed on the Headache No. 1,643, also known as Registration. (Goope-Freudian Slip that should be registration.)

The only thing I can say about Headache No. 1,643 is that if you don’t stop by the Veterans Affairs table and fill out the cards and forms located there, you may develop Headache 490 and 321.

Headache 490 is caused simply by a letter from th VA denying your existence. Headache 321 is too horrible to go into.

Stay tune to this column to see if my Sir Shirley ever meets Painter’s famous carefully groomed young man. Oh zounds!

JOHN HATTON
FOR SAN BERNARDINO SCHOOL BOARD

MARCH 4th

Dear Cal State Students, Staff and Faculty:

My name is John Hatton. I am a candidate for the San Bernardino School Board. I need your support on March 4th. I have three young children in the San Bernardino schools. I want them to have the best education the school budget can afford. My fear is that this is not happening. In my opinion, and I am not alone, the current school board has done poorly, including the incumbents now seeking election. The Board has been politicized to such an extent that the educational process has been disrupted and rational attention to complex problems has become virtually impossible. For the past eight years, I have been affiliated with CCSSB. I am currently the director of the Counseling and Testing Center and also have administrative responsibility for the Learning Laboratory and the Health Center. I have an appointment as Associate Professor of Psychology, have been on the Faculty Senate for five years, and was its chairman in 1972-73. I believe that my background and experience in education can be put to good use for the betterment of our children’s education. If you agree, I would appreciate your vote on March 4th.

If you have any questions or comments, please call me at 883-0314.
