Understanding Problems In South Africa

by William Tarpai

Since mid-November, 1984, hardly a day has passed without some mention in the American media of the non-violent anti-apartheid movement which is gathering force in the United States. However, during the same time period, there has been an increased level of violence occurring in South Africa. Last year, more than 160 black South Africans died objecting to apartheid policies—75% of that number having been killed by police.

On Saturday, March 9, the International Club will host a program designed to provide citizens of the Inland Empire with additional understanding of the problems in South Africa. The agenda for the 4-hour program includes a film about life in South Africa, a panel discussion and a luncheon. During the panel discussion, participants from the Patrice Lumumba Coalition, the African National Congress and the U.S. State Department will debate the effectiveness of current U.S. policy towards South Africa, look at the direction and speed of current political change in South Africa and highlight the pros and cons surrounding the U.S. divestment issue. The audience will have an opportunity to put questions to the panel and to interact with other participants.

The Ambassador from the South Africa Consulate in Los Angeles had been invited, but refused to participate as long as the African National Congress had a speaker present. The African National Congress is an officially banned organization in South Africa, and the government there considers it a terrorist organization.

Current U.S. policy towards South Africa has been labeled "constructive engagement" by the Reagan administration. It is supposed to allow for quiet diplomacy to promote peaceful but fundamental change in South Africa. However, 35 conservative Republican congressmen recently wrote to the South Africa Ambassador in cont on page 4

In Search of The Lost Grad Check

by Sam Spadely (aka Greg Timpany)

Have you had problems getting a graduation check? Apparently several people have, and no one really seems to know why. Well, the problem with graduation checks stems from circumstances beyond all control. The Admissions and Records Department here at CSUSB is in charge of handling all graduation checks. Thus, this seemed the likely place to start an investigation into the grad check dilemma.

The Admissions and Records Department appears at first glance to be just like any other administrative department on campus. Only after further inspection can one see that this is not just any department. Within its inner sanctum are the records of every student who ever existed, as far as this campus is concerned. Just

by Nicole DuCharme

On Feb. 28 The Ghost Sonata opened at CSUSB. It is a long play in three acts and although it is not difficult for one to follow it is sometimes difficult to involve one's self in for longer than ten minute intervals. The cast was made up of some very talented Cal State veteran actors and some fresh faces in the theatre. Clayton Martinez gave a stirring performance as Director Hummel. Jodi Julian was effectively deranged as the Mummy. Tina Ladeiri was gracefully haunting in her solemn silence. Carol Damgen and

A.S. Yearbook Finally Approved

After months of being tied up in red tape the Windjammer has finally gotten the go-ahead from the A.S. Board of Directors. The vote was 0-5 in favor of the yearbook at the Board's February 25th meeting.

Financing for the yearbook was the major stumbling block. With a cost of over $5,000 needed for the printing of the book, the Windjammer has been trying to get the A.S. Board to cover any debts if needed.

At the Board's February 18th meeting, A.S. President Sheryl Hammer presented the proposal to the Board. One argument against the yearbook was that A.S. could lose money if all of the books ordered could not be sold. It was felt that past endeavors such as calendar and dorm yearbook sales indicate that students might not buy the Windjammer. Both ventures lost money because sales were low.

More opposition to the yearbook occurred because the Windjammer is getting a late start. Traditional yearbooks are started the first day of school. The Windjammer staff realizes this, but are confident that they can produce a high quality yearbook this way.

The Board had originally voted in the yearbook at their February 18th meeting with a vote of 2-1-2. This vote however did not allow for a majority of those voting, nor the majority of the nine who were present (one member absent.) For this reason the vote was held again at the February 25th meeting.

Again, President Hammer presented the proposal to the board, and again the motion passed.

Through all this, the Windjammer staff has kept their heads ahead with the organization of the book. With the deadline being April 25th they felt that they could not afford to waste any time.

The staff has been taking pictures, obtaining pictures from individuals, doing layout, and laying out the Windjammer. Now, with the Board's clear vote in favor of financing the publication, the staff is spending the time needed to finish the yearbook.

The sale of the yearbook are being held through March 15th. The February 28th deadline has been extended. The pre-sale cost of the yearbook is $15, after that the price will be $20.

The Windjammer is being sold through the yearbook office (Morongo dorm room 203). The following are the days and times the office is open.

Monday 1-4 p.m.
Tuesday 2-5 p.m.
Wednesday 1-4 p.m.
Friday 9:15-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.
Saturday 9-3 p.m.

Yearbook sales will also be held in the A.S. office M.F. 10-5 p.m.; in the Commons and in front of the library (on the grass.)

All students who are interested in buying the Windjammer might want to do so as soon as possible because quantities are limited and when they are sold no more will be available.

The yearbook will be delivered to campus sometime in June.

The Chronicle's last issue for the Winter Quarter will be March 13th. All articles for the issue should be typed and submitted by March 7th by 5:00 p.m. The first issue of the Spring Quarter will be April 3. Please submit articles on March 27th.

First Institute on Political Journalism
For college students interested in a journalistic career, the 1985 Institute on Political Journalism offers a unique opportunity to explore the Washington journalism field first hand. The program will be held for six weeks, June 8-July 20 at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

"This challenging academic and internship program for undergraduates headed for a career in journalism," said Director Lee Edwards, "It offers a way for high-caliber students to gain experience in the media while studying areas often neglected in a typical academic program."

Besides taking courses at Georgetown University in Economics in Public Policy and in Ethics and the Media, the 50 undergraduates chosen to participate will intern each weekday afternoon in the Washington offices of major news media. Outlets will include daily newspapers, wire services, magazines, television or radio stations and networks.

For more information, contact the Chronicle.

Hart Bill to Establish College Work Study Program
Senator Gary K. Hart today introduced legislation to reduce college students' reliance on loans and to enlist the support of private industry in providing students financial aid.

Hart's legislation, SB 417, would provide $1.5 million to begin a state work study program for college students. Under this program, nonprofit and private employers would provide matching funds to hire eligible college students in jobs that are educationally beneficial or related to the students' career interests. Hart noted that the legislation is modeled after successful programs in other states.

"Work study exemplifies the hands-on, real-world approach to educational financial aid," Hart said.

This program presents a rare opportunity to benefit both students and potential employers through a partnership that helps students defray their educational costs, provides career exploration and job skill training, and maximizes the effectiveness of taxpayer dollars in providing financial aid to needy students."

Sensational Saturdays
The San Bernardino County Museum is featuring three "Sensational Saturdays" programs this spring, Saturday, March 9 at 10 p.m. The program is "Indian Dancing," which will be done by the Sherman Indian High School of Riverside. This group of youngsters are in demand throughout the Inland Empire. Along with the dancing there will be a basket making demonstration and a story-teller.

The Museum has many displays of the local Indian groups, and during the year thousands of students are introduced to the Native American way of life. Hart studied the artifacts while visiting the Museum with the "Sensational Saturdays." Programs provided free to students.

The authentic Indian Dancing will add much to the lives of those who attend "Sensational Saturday" programs. They have an admission of $1 an adult and 50¢ for children. Children attending without an adult will be signed in and out by an adult.

"The "Sensational Saturday" programs begin at 10 a.m. in the Hall of History, said Moses. A San Bernardino Red Cross CPR instructor, Moses teaches at law enforcement academies, and is trained in first aid.

Sign-ups will be held in the Student Union through Friday, March 8. A $4.30 fee includes class materials and a CPR certification card awarded upon completion of the course.

CPR Training Offered
A CPR training course available to all campus employees, will be held Saturday, March 9 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Commons.

The "Sensational Saturday" programs are invited to bring their children. The program will add to the color and fun of the event, sponsored by the Southern California Education Theatre Assn. and the San Bernardino and Riverside County Schools Offices.

Tickets for the Saturday and Sunday performances, April 13-14, will go on sale March 18. Families are invited to bring their children for the weekend events. All performances are included in the one fee which is $2 for children, $3 for adults and $7.50 for a family.

Trailways Lines
Trailways Lines, Inc. has announced that no round trip fares will exceed $98 per person presenting a college identification card.

Tickets may be purchased at any Greyhound terminal or commission agency through April 30. A valid student ID card must be presented at the time of purchase.
Pot Demonstration To Be Held

"Functional vs. Non-functional pottery" will be the topic of a demonstration and workshop presented by visiting artist Alex Podresou on Tuesday, March 12th, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. The presentation will be hosted by The Ceramics Club, and is free to all Cal State students, faculty and staff. Everyone is invited to attend, and encouraged to participate.

South Africa Awareness Discussion

The International Club will host a forum to discuss current issues surrounding the growing anti-apartheid movement in the U.S. Scheduled for Saturday March 9, 8:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m. The program will consist of guest speakers from the U.S. State Department.

Cal State Forensics Team Excels at PSCFA

At the Pacific Southwest Collegiate Forensics Association (PSCFA) Spring Championships on February 22-24, the Cal State Forensics team received several awards for excellence in the areas of Debate, Impromptu, Extemporaneous speaking, and Duo Interpretation. About 300 students from 40 schools attended the tournament. The PSCFA contains two and four-year colleges from Modesto to San Diego and includes Arizona and Nevada. Some of the schools attending were USC, UCLA, and Arizona State University. In addition to PSCFA schools, the University of Pennsylvania sent their team.

In debate, Steve Kempa and Todd Turoci finished with a 5-1 record and wound up second in their division. Judge Merry Chamberlain referred to the Kemp/Turoci team as, “Excellent...a show of professionalism.”

In individual events, Greg Scott received a superior in impromptu, and an excellent rating in extemporaneous speaking—as rated in relation to college speakers in general. Karen Eilers also rated excellent in extemporaneous. The Eilers/Scott team received an excellent rating in a Duo interpretation of The Rainmaker. Kemp and Turoci both received superior ratings in impromptu.

Forensics Coach Mike Hope said, “I’m very proud of the team for all their efforts, especially the way Greg and Karen performed in their first tournament.” Dr. Fred Jandt, Communications Chair, added, “I feel this was a sterling performance for the first year.”

Hope also added, “Forensics is a great opportunity to develop critical thinking and presentational speaking skills. I urge anyone interested in the team to contact Dr. Fred Jandt for more information.”

Cal State Forensics plan to attend practice-for forensic tournaments each quarter. In the next few weeks, Cal State plans to attend tournaments at UC Irvine, and UN Las Vegas.

Getting More Service For Your Money

When you enroll at California State University, San Bernardino, you receive an I.D. card that entitles you to many benefits. One of these is unlimited visits to the friendly Cal State University Student Health Center. This article and future articles will acquaint you and inform you about the services available at the Health Center, and their dollar value.

Now, if you are a new female patient and come in for your first visit, you will get the works. This includes medical history, blood pressure determination, weight, urinalysis, hemoglobin evaluation, and complete physical examination with a pap smear. At today's prices, your private physician or your neighborhood "Doc-in-the-Box" clinic will charge you $75 to $125 for the above survey. As a registered student, what does all of this cost you at the Student Health Center? Just show your current student I.D. card and it is free.

Oh, by the way, when you're leaving the Health Center after your super examination, you will be given one more health benefit. You will be given an appointment for your next FREE visit-annual examinations are important.

Now, if all of the above doesn't excite you, the following will make you aware of additional benefits available if you have a current student I.D. card. Approximately two to five minor surgical procedures are performed daily. A mole or wart removal with local anesthesia, surgical preparation, surgical dressing and follow-up care is valued at $100 to $200. But for the Cal State University student, there is no charge. And again, you stop at the courteous and efficient front desk and one of the receptionists will give you an appointment for a free follow-up re-examination visit. Follow-up care is so vital and important to complete and proper healing.

Future articles in the Chronicle will continue to review the services available at the Health Center. A relative value will be placed on the services discussed to inform you of the fee that is charged locally.

"The Vels" Hit The Music Scene

by John Cloud

Let's say you are out for a night on the town at your favorite club. While you're there, the DJ puts on the album Velocity by the Vels. The DJ plays the synthesized funk-laced tunes such as, "Private World", "Tell me Something", "Secret Garden" and the entrancing "Velocity" itself. If, after hearing these tunes you are not dancing, you are either totally dead or most definitely dead. This trio from Philadelphia, comprised of Alice Desote (lead vocals and keyboards), Christin Larkin (vocals and keyboards), and Charles Hanson (bass, vocals and keyboards), have put out an album that is one of the most enjoyable and most exciting albums of the year. This is the group's debut and to say the very least, it is impressive.

Their album is recorded on the Mercury/Polygram label and it is produced by Steve Stanley who is noted for his work with the Tom Tom Club, Black Uhuru, and one of the most popular albums of 1982, "Something". The Vels, together, with Stanley have created, in my mind an album of sheer perfection. Velocity is one of my choices for top twenty albums of the year.

ACLP: A Growing Part of Campus Life

by Kathie Morrell

The American Culture and Language Program (ACLP) at CSUSB is in its fourth year of operation.

It started in the fall of 1981 as an outgrowth of Cal State Los Angeles. The program at CSLA was overflowing with international students and other local colleges and universities took up the extra students. CSUSB had dormitory space to accommodate them, thus the program here began.

There are now thirty-one students registered in the program from such countries as Japan, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia and Peru. In the past, students have also been from Korea, Korea, Jordan, Suria, Taiwan and a few others.

Students who participate usually use the ACLP for six months to a year. During this time they spend five hours a day, five days a week in class learning English. Towards the end of a quarter they must take the TOEFL test (Test of English as a Foreign Language). Undergraduates must have a minimum score of 500 to pass. Graduate students must have a score of 550 or better to pass.

Most students go on to universities to receive their education once they have passed the test, providing that their high school work in their own country is satisfactory. Japanese students are usually the only ones to return home after the program as they are here mainly for the cultural experience.

The students are introduced to the American Culture and Language Program (ACLP) at CSUSB.

Chancellor Changes Admissions Eligibility Requirements

In an executive order, Chancellor Reynolds implemented the following changes recommended by the CSU Admissions Advisory Council:

-That eligibility for admission without a test score be changed from "above a GPA of 3.2" to "above a GPA of 3.1." -That the eligibility index that students submit a Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) score be adjusted from 3072 to 2994.

The changes are effective March 6, 1985. The Qirohicle page 4

Student Celebration Marked the Year of the Ox

by Kathe Morrell

The Chinese Lunar New Year Festival, held on February 22, was a great success. Between 400 to 500 people showed up to participate in the event presented by the Chinese Students’ Association, in collaboration with the International Students’ Association and the American Culture and Language Program.

The evening started with an introduction by Connie T. Lao, Mistress of Ceremonies. She explained that the Chinese celebrate festivals that are fixed by the lunar calendar, rather than the Gregorian calendar. The lunar calendar divides the year into 12 months and each month has 29 or 30 days. Each month begins with the appearance of the new moon.

For Chinese, this is the year 4683: It is the year of the OX. The ox represents hard work. Peace and prosperity are a few things that they hope for in the new year.

Firecrackers are used to celebrate the new year. They are set off throughout the night on New Year’s day and during subsequent days to frighten off evil spirits.

“Firecrackers are used...to frighten off evil spirits.”

Another important part of the New Year celebration is the honoring of the Kitchen God. This is done on the 24th day of the 12th month. Legend says that he returns to heaven at the end of each year to report on the family. It is custom to make sure that he tells as little as possible or reports only good things. Before he returns on New Year’s Eve, the house must be immaculate. Each member of the household participates in cleaning, repairing and painting. A new image is placed in the kitchen and a rich feast welcomes him back.

David Liao, President of the Chinese students’ Association, spoke Chinese during his welcoming speech. Connie Lao interpreted it into English for those of us who couldn’t understand him.

A saw playing demonstration was part of the on campus Chinese New Year Celebration sponsored by the Chinese Student Association.

These dragon dancers highlighted Cal State’s celebration of the year of the ox, 4683.

-CUTTING THE RED TAPE-
The Testing of Skills
by Eldron Lawrence

Although mid-term is pretty much finished and finals are coming, I'm going to talk about something important: the Entry Level Math test. Now, if you've already taken these tests, there's nothing to worry about; but if you haven't, then you should think about taking them as soon as possible.

First of all, there is the ELM a test that's important even if you're not a botany major. The ELM is required for all students entering CSUSB in Fall 1983 or thereafter. To be eligible for any general education math class, you must pass the ELM. Unlike most tests, you have to take the ELM until you pass it or fail by a large amount. In that case, you would have to take a remedial math course, such as Math 70 or 80, classes that will not count towards graduation.

To sign up for the ELM, go to the Counseling Center, located in PS 101. The next ELM test date is May 11, and registration for it closes on April 26. Cost for the ELM is $7, which is to be paid upon arriving at the test location.

And now we come to the EPT, which is required for all students with fewer than 84 units. The EPT is also important, for without passing it, you can't take English 101, which is a prerequisite for several classes at CSUSB. Unlike the ELM, the EPT is free, and has a one-time only chance to pass or fail. So if you fail the EPT, you'd have to take English 100, and pass with a C or better in order to take English 101. The next test date is the same as the ELM, as is the registration deadline. But, like I said, the EPT is free, so sign up at Admissions and Records as soon as possible.

Now, some students might not have to take the ELM or EPT for various reasons (e.g., high scores in Math or English on SAT or ACT tests), but be sure to have this confirmed at Admissions and Records. Also, when you are planning to take a General Ed Math class, or English 101, get your clearance at Admissions and Records. They are the people to talk to concerning any of these things, and they can save you a lot of headaches. And in case you think you need help preparing for the EPT or ELM, tutoring is available at the Learning Center. So, do yourself a favor, and check things out with the folks over at Admissions and Records.

think, every grade that was ever given, is tracked down and located from the records kept by this department. A plethora of information can be had just by the punch of a computer button. Anyway, back to the action. The most likely suspect in this case seemed to be the ELM-English Placement Test, and Records, Ms. Cheryl Weese. After hours of intensive investigation, Ms. Weese presented an almost airtight alibi:

"The evaluators which perform graduation checks require one year of training before they can become fully operational. They are required to be knowledgeable about all of the changes in classes and majors. This becomes quite extensive when all of the schools, majors, concentrations, certificates etc. are considered."

I asked her what this all meant in terms of the grad check dilemma. She said, "one year ago we had six evaluators, and when the final wave of grad checks came, we were down to three. One evaluator was transferred to the School of Education and two others took maternity leave. To complicate matters further, one of those who took maternity leave later resigned. This tends to make life a little difficult, as we have to reprocess almost 2000 grad checks per year."

She had a point there, but I had to ask her if she had tried using part-time help. She replied, "temporary help can do only so much. It takes a great deal of effort to train new people, and while you are training them from the pile of things to do, it seems to get larger."

"These were not her only problems. It is a well known fact that enrollment is up this year, so I had to ask her how this affected her department's operations. "There were 564 new applications for the Fall and Winter quarters. This translates into an increase of 2,006 pieces of paperwork for the evaluators. Application processors must deal with 12,437 new forms, as a result of the increase in applications. In fact the whole department is almost 1040 man hours behind."" Sounds like a tough situation to me, I was curious about her plans for alleviating the situation. "I am asking for a new evaluation position in the 1985-86 budget. The evaluator staff is currently back up to six, but not a fully trained six. They are still working on their training."

Well all this is as tight as any that I've heard in my years as a private eye. In fact, it makes it much easier to understand why they are behind on graduation checks. Oh well, another case closed!

"Does Rooting for the Home team Catch Your Eye?"

Do you enjoy the thrill of victory? Does rooting for the home team catch your eye? Yes! Then you're in luck because CSUSB is looking for enthusiastic, energetic people for the 1985-86 cheerleader/yell leader squad.

Workshops for those interested Coyotes and Coyotettes will be held April 1, through April 11. The times will be as follows: Mondays and Wednesdays 5-7 p.m., and Thursdays 6-8 p.m. in the large gym. Tryouts will be held on April 15, at 7:30 p.m., also in the large gym. During the workshops mandatory cheers, jumps, and dance routines will be taught. In addition, the workshops will provide an opportunity to brush up on necessary skills needed for tryouts. Being a cheer or yell leader is a responsible position, therefore certain standards have been set. A cheer or yell leader must have a GPA of 2.0, must have attended at least one quarter at CSUSB, and must be a full-time undergraduate student.

If you can't participate in sports why not support with spirit, and experience the excitement of cheering our new intermediate program. It's not just the talent of the teams that lead a school to victory, it's the support and energy of the fans as well. So if you're energetic, enthusiastic, and want to support intercollegiate sports, become a cheer or yell leader and help the Coyotes become number one.

Farm Problem: Is There A Solution?
by Greg Timpany
Editorial
It's been quite awhile since this country has seen a real honest-to-goodness rebellion. But low and behold one is beginning to take shape in the country's mid-section. The farmers are up in arms, and their anger is spreading from the Midwest towards both coasts. Why are they furious you ask? Well, let's see if we can't find out why.

The economics expansion and policies that everyone has been talking about for so long has made life tough for many farmers. For fiscal policy, the resultant fuelled by a massive dose of indirect affect upon the value of the dollar, have made life tough for many farmers. For taxpayers, the resultant fueled by a massive dose of indirect affect upon the value of the dollar, have made life tough for many farmers.

The value of the dollar has been rising records almost daily. What has this done to the U.S. farmers? It has made the price of his export crops Argentine on foreign commodity markets. This in turn makes foreign agricultural products cheaper relative to their U.S. counterparts. Case in point; Cargill Inc., the world's largest grain merchant, announced plans to import 25,000 metric tons of Argentine wheat into the U.S. in January. Only after bitter protests by U.S. farmers did the company change its plans.

Farms, and their debt, upon the whole system, has made the whole system, from farmland to dinner table, slightly less efficient. Incomes in this country has seen a real honest-to-goodness rebellion. Is this the only problem facing U.S. farmers? No, in fact it is only the tip of the iceberg. Past government regulations and tax rules are in part to blame for the current farm crises. Government marketing orders, have at times, artificially disturbed the actions of the marketplace. Government subsidies have kept many inefficient farmers in business longer than they should have been. Add to this, farmers increased the size of their farms, and their debt, upon the whole system, has made the whole system, from farmland to dinner table, slightly less efficient.
