Understanding Problems in South Africa
by William Tarpai

Since mid-November, 1984, hardly a day has passed without some mention in the American media of the non-violent anti-apartheid movement which is gathering force in the United States. However, during the same time period, there has been an increased level of violence occurring in South Africa. Last year, more than 160 black South Africans died objecting to apartheid policies—75% of that number having been killed by police.

On Saturday, March 9, the International Club will host a program designed to provide citizens of the Inland Empire with additional understanding of the problems in South Africa. The agenda for the 4-hour program includes a film about life in South Africa, a panel discussion and a luncheon. During the panel discussion, participants from the Patrice Lumumba Coalition, the African National Congress and the U.S. State Department will debate the effectiveness of current U.S. policy towards South Africa, look at the direction and speed of current political change in South Africa and highlight the pros and cons surrounding the U.S. divestment issue. The audience will have an opportunity to put questions to the panel and to interact with other participants.

The Ambassador from the South Africa Consulate in Los Angeles had been invited, but refused to participate as long as the African National Congress had a speaker present. The African National Congress is an officially banned organization in South Africa, and the government there considers it a terrorist organization.

Current U.S. policy towards South Africa has been labeled "constructive engagement" by the Reagan administration. It is supposed to allow for quiet diplomacy to promote peaceful but fundamental change in South Africa. However, 35 conservative Republican congressman recently wrote to the South Africa Ambassador in

by Sam Spadely (aka Greg Timpany)

Have you had problems getting a graduation check? Apparently several people have, and no one really seems to know why. Well, the problem with graduation checks stems from circumstances beyond all control. The Admissions and Records Department here at CSUSB is in charge of handling all graduation checks. Thus, this seemed the likely place to start an investigation into the grad check dilemma. The Admissions and Records Department appears at first glance to be just like any other administrative department on campus. Only after further inspection can one see that this is not just any department. Within its inner sanctums are the records of every student who ever existed, as far as this campus is concerned. Just

Ghost Sonata Haunts Cal State Theatre
by Nicole DuCharme

On Feb. 28 The Ghost Sonata opened at CSUSB. It is a long play in three acts and although it is not difficult for one to follow it is sometimes difficult to involve one's self in for longer than ten minute intervals. The cast was made up of some very talented Cal State veteran actors and some fresh faces in the theatre. Clayton Martinez gave a gripping performance as Director Hummel. Jodi Julian was effectively deranged as the Mummy. Tina Ladeiri was gracefully haunting in her solemn silence. Carol Damgen and After months of being tied up in red tape the Windjammer has finally gotten the go-ahead from the A.S. Board of Directors. The vote was 0-5 in favor of the yearbook at the Board's February 25th meeting.

Financing for the yearbook was the major stumbling block. With a cost of over $5,000 needed for the printing of the book, the Windjammer staff has been trying to get the A.S. Board to cover any debts if needed. At the Board's February 18th meeting, A.S. President Sheryl Hammer presented the proposal to the Board. One argument against the yearbook was that A.S. could lose money if all of the books ordered could not be sold. It was felt that past endeavors such as calendar and dorm yearbook sales indicate that students might not buy the Windjammer. Both ventures lost money because sales were low.

More opposition to the yearbook occurred because the Windjammer is getting a late start. The traditional yearbooks are started the first day of school. The Windjammer staff realizes this, but are confident that they can produce a high quality yearbook anyway.

The Board had originally voted in the February 18th meeting with a vote of 2-12. This vote however did not allow a majority of those voting, nor the majority of the nine votes totaling a quorum (absent). For this reason the vote was held again at the February 25th meeting.

Again, President Hammer presented the proposal to the board, and again the motion passed.

Through all this, the Windjammer staff has kept their heads held high with the organization of the book. With the deadline being April 25th they felt that they could not afford to waste any time.

The staff has been taking pictures, obtaining pictures from individuals, doing layout, typing, and getting the yearbook ready. Now, with the Board's clear vote in favor of financing the publication, the staff is spending the time needed to finish the yearbook.

25% of the sales of the yearbook are being held through March 15th. The February 28th deadline has been extended. The pre-sale cost of the yearbook is $15, after that the price will be $20.

The Windjammer is being sold through the yearbook office (Morongo dorm room 203). The following are the days and times the office is open.

Monday 1-4 p.m.
Tuesday 2-5 p.m.
Wednesday 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
Saturday 9-3 p.m.

Yearbook sales will also be held in the A.S. office M.F. 10-5 p.m.; in the Commons and in front of the library (on the grass). All students who are interested in buying the Windjammer might want to do so as soon as possible because quantities are limited and when they are sold no more will be available.

The yearbook will be delivered to campus sometime in June.

NEWSBRIEFS

A.S. Yearbook Finally Approved

Lee Edwards, "It offers a way for high-caliber students to gain experience in the media while studying areas often neglected in a typical academic program."

Besides taking courses at Georgetown University in Economics in Public Policy and in Ethics and the Media, the 50 undergraduates chosen to participate will interview each other on a weekday afternoon in the Washington offices of major news media. Outlets will include daily newspapers, wire services, magazines, television or radio stations and networks. For more information, contact the Chronicle.

Hart to Establish College Work Study Program

Senator Gary K. Hart today introduced legislation to reduce college students' reliance on loans and to enlist the support of the private industry in providing students financial aid.

Hart's legislation, SB 417, would provide $1.5 million to begin a state work study program for college students. Under this program, nonprofit and private employers would provide matching funds to hire eligible college students in jobs that are educationally beneficial or related to the students' career interests. Hart noted that the legislation is modeled after successful programs in other states.

"Work study emphasizes the self-help approach to financial aid," Hart said. "This program presents a rare opportunity to benefit both students and potential employers through a partnership that helps students defray their educational costs, provides career exploration and job skill training, and maximizes the effectiveness of taxpayer dollars in providing financial aid to needy students."

Sensational Saturdays

The San Bernardino County Museum is featuring three "Sensational Saturdays" programs this spring. Saturday, March 9 at 10 p.m. The program is "Indian Dancing," which will be done by the Sherman Indian High School of Riverside. This group of youngsters are in demand throughout the Inland Empire. Along with the dancing there will be a basket-making demonstration and a story-teller.

The Museum has many displays of the local Indian groups, and during the year thousands of students are introduced to the Native American cultures and study the artifacts while visiting the Museum with the Education Program. The Programs provided free to them. The authentic Indian Dancing will add much to the lives of those who attend. The Sensational Saturday programs have an admission of $1 for adults and 50c for children. Children attending without an adult will be signed in and out by an adult.

The "Sensational Saturday" programs begin at 10 a.m. in the Hall of History.

CPR Training Offered

A CPR training course, available to all campus employees, will be held Friday, March 8. A 34.30 fee includes class materials and a CPR training card. The course will utilize the "Module" approach to teaching CPR. This approach emphasizes more hands-on experience than class lecture time, said Moses. A San Bernardino Red Cross CPR instructor, Moses teaches at local recreation departments, and is trained in first aid.

Sign-ups will be held in the Student Union through Friday, March 8. A $4.30 fee includes class materials and a CPR certification card awarded upon completion of the course.

Cal State To Host Theater Festival

Evaluators and theatre professionals from throughout the state plus more than 300 students are expected for the 11th Annual Theatre Festival for Young Audiences on campus April 12-14.

More than 20 performing groups, most professional, will entertain the youngsters and adults. Several favorites from the Family Performance Series of two years ago will be here. They include Judi Garrett, the Imagination Players and the Firebird Theatre. Campus organizations are invited to sponsor booths with food, games or activities for the visitors, said Dr. Ronald Barnes, Dr. Amanda Sue Russeff and Robert Howell. A variety of strolling musicians, dancers and performers will add to the color and festivity of the event, sponsored by the Southern California Education Theatre Assn. and the San Bernardino and Riverside County Schools Offices.

Tickets for the Saturday and Sunday performances, April 13-14, will go on sale March 15. Families are invited to bring their children for the weekend events. All performances are included in the one fee which is $2 for children, $3 for adults and $7.50 for a family.

Trainline Lines

Trainline Lines, Inc. has announced that no round trip fares will exceed $98 per person presenting a college identification card.

Tickets may be purchased at any Greyhound terminal or commission agency through April 30. A valid student ID card must be presented at the time of purchase.
Pot Demonstration To Be Held

"Functional vs. Nonfunctional pottery" will be the topic of a demonstration and workshop presented by visiting artist Alex Podroz on Tuesday, March 12th, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. The presentation will be hosted by The Ceramics Club, and is free to all Cal State students, faculty, and staff. Everyone is invited to attend, and encouraged to participate.

Cal State Forensics Team Excels at PSCFA

At the Pacific Southwest Collegiate Forensics Association (PSCFA) Spring Championships on February 22-24, the Cal State Forensics team received several awards for excellence in the areas of Debate, Impromptu, Extemporaneous speaking, and Duo Interpretation.

About 300 students from 40 schools attended the tournament. The PSCFA contains two and four-year colleges from Modesto to San Diego and includes Arizona and Nevada. Some of the schools attending were USC, UCLA, and Arizona State University. In addition to PSCFA schools, the University of Pennsylvania sent their team.

In debate, Steve Kempa and Todd Turoci finished with a 5-1 record and wound up second in their division. Judge Merry Chamberlain referred to the Kemp/Turoci team as, "Excellent...a show of professionalism."

In individual events, Greg Scott received a superior in impromptu, and an excellent rating in extemporaneous speaking—as rated in relation to college speakers in general. Karen Eilers also rated excellent in extemporaneous. The Eilers/Scott team received an excellent rating in a Duo interpretation of The Rainmaker. Kemp and Turoci both received superior ratings in impromptu.

Forensics Coach Mike Hope said, "I'm very proud of the team for all their efforts, especially the way Greg and Karen performed in their first tournament." Dr. Fred Jandt, Communications Chair, added, "I feel this was a sterling performance for the first year."

Hope also added, "Forensics is a great opportunity to develop critical thinking and presentational speaking skills. I urge anyone interested in the team to contact Dr. Fred Jandt for more information."

Cal State Forensics plan to attend practice for forensic tournaments each quarter. In the next few weeks, Cal State plans to attend tournaments at UC Irvine, and UN Las Vegas.

The Whitewater Rafting and Adventure Club will be meeting March 13th and 14th at 12 p.m. in the Student Union, Room A. All who are interested in rafting the Kern River in the Spring and Summer (only 3 weekends), are urged to attend. Space is very limited and will fill up quickly. We'll see you there!

South Africa Awareness Discussion

The International Club will host a forum to discuss current issues surrounding the growing anti-apartheid movement in the U.S. Scheduled for Saturday March 5, 8:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m. The program will consist of guest speakers from the U.S. State Department.

The Vels Hit The Music Scene

by John Cloud

Let's say you are out for a night on the town at your favorite club. While you're there, the DJ puts on the album Velocity by the Vels. The DJ plays the synthesized funk-laced tunes such as, "Private World", "Tell me Something", "Secret Garden" and the entrancing "Hit The Parlor". If, after hearing these tunes you are not dancing, you are either totally deaf or most definitely dead. This trio from Philadelphia, comprised of Alice Desete (lead vocals and keyboards), Chris Larkin (vocals and keyboards), and Charles Hanson (bass, vocals and keyboards), have put out one of the best albums of the year. The Vels, together, are a good way for both Americans and the students to learn about another culture. With dorm space becoming a problem, the students go on to universities to receive their education once they have passed the test, providing that their high school work in their own country is satisfactory.

Chancellor Changes

Admissions Eligibility Requirements

In an executive order, Chancellor Reynolds implemented the following changes recommended by the CSU Admissions Advisory Council:

- That eligibility for admission without a test score be changed from "above a GPA of 3.2" to "above a GPA of 3.1"

That the eligibility index for applicants with a high school GPA between 2.0 and 3.1 submitting a Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) score be adjusted from 1072 to 2994. For those submitting an American College Test (ACT) score, the index minimum will move from 741 to 722. The changes are effective for students applying for CSU admission next fall. These are not expected to have a noticeable effect on 1985-86 enrollments.

AICL: A Growing Part of Campus Life

by Kathe Morrell

The American Culture and Language Program (ACLP) at CSUSB is in its fourth year of operation. It started in the fall of 1981 as an outgrowth of Cal State Los Angeles. The program at CSLA was overflowing with international students and other local colleges and universities took up the extra students. CSUSB had no dormitory space to accommodate them, thus the program here began.

There are now thirty-one students registered in the program from such countries as Japan, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia and Peru. In the past, students have also been from Korea, Russia, Jordan, Suria, Taiwan and a few others.

Students who participate usually live in ACLP for six months to a year. During this time they spend five hours a day, five days a week in class learning English. Towards the end of a quarter they must take the TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) test. Undergraduates must have a minimum score of 500 to pass. Graduate students must have a score of 550 or better to pass.

Most of the ACLP students live on campus in the dorms. A few students are in nearby apartments or "homestay." Homestay is a program where the student lives with an American family. This is a good way for both Americans and the students to learn something about another culture. With dorm space becoming a problem, the students go on to universities to receive their education once they have passed the test, providing that their high school work in their own country is satisfactory. Japanese students are usually the only ones to return home after the program as they are here mainly for the cultural experience.

The students are introduced to the American College and beyond through seminars, field trips and social events that are scheduled throughout the ACLP. American students are welcome to drop by the office (5th Floor Library) to meet the international students as another means of providing some American culture.

The International Communication class provides an opportunity for students to meet and socialize and learn from the international students. Students are paired off in both classes and during the quarter spend time getting to know one another.

Student Celebration Marked the Year of the Ox

by Kathe Morrell

The Chinese Lunar New Year Festival, held on February 22, was a great success. Between 400 to 500 people showed up to participate in the event presented by the Chinese Students' Association, in collaboration with the International Students' Association and the American Culture and Language Program.

The evening started with an introduction by Connie T. Lao, Mistress of Ceremonies. She explained that the Chinese celebrate festivals that are fixed by the lunar, rather than the Gregorian calendar. The lunar calendar divides the year into 12 months and each month has 29 or 30 days. Each month begins with the appearance of the new moon.

Firecrackers are used to celebrate the new year. They are set off throughout the night on New Year's day and during subsequent days to frighten off evil spirits.

Another important part of the New Year celebration is the honoring of the Kitchen God. This is done on the 24th day of the 12th month. Legend says that he returns to heaven at the end of each year to report on the family. It is custom to make sure that he tells as little as possible or reports only good things. Before he returns on New Year's Eve, the house must be immaculate. Each member of the household participates in cleaning, repairing and painting. A new image is placed in the kitchen and a rich feast welcomes him back.

David Liao, President of the Chinese students' Association, spoke Chinese during his welcoming speech. Connie Lao interpreted it into English for those of us who couldn't understand him. He hopes that the new year will bring "great peace, luck and prosperity."

Guest speakers included Dr. Henry Gong, Representative of the Chinese Community of San Bernardino and CSUSB President Dr. Anthony Evans, who said that this was the best attended event he had been to at Cal State.

Children receive special attention during the festival. All children were asked to come forward to receive red envelopes which contained something that was a symbol of luck, wealth or happiness. Chinese children get new clothes and spend New Year's Day playing games and eating sweets. These sweets are not available and are forbidden during the rest of the year.

After the children had collected their envelopes, people were asked to go outside and observe the traditional Lion Dance. The lion or dragon is used in these dances because they are "powerful." The dance is performed to show happiness and good fortune for the coming year.

Once the performance was over everyone lined up for the New Year feast. Coupons were sold for twenty-five cents each and were then exchanged for food-smorgasbord style. On the menu were such things as fried, steamed and sticky rice, fruit salad, sweet and sour chicken, egg rolls, fried dumplings, sate, sushi, tempura, sweet bean cake, fried noodles, soft rice noodles, pearl in sea and radish cake. It was indeed a lavish meal.

A Chinese film rounded out the evening. It was shown in the SUMP. Many people missed the movie because of the long food line. Even so, the evening was enjoyed by all.

David Liao was expecting a big turnout. He was pleased to see that the crowd was mostly a 50-50 split of Americans and Chinese. "We are striving for a friendship between different cultures," he said. "We are striving for a friendship between different cultures." Hopefully the evening helped to do that.

The Testing of Skills

by Elron Laurence

Although mid-terms are pretty much finished and final exams are lurking around the corner, I'm going to talk about two tests that are very important: the English Placement Test (EPT) and the Entry Level Mathematics (ELM) test. Now, if you've already taken these tests, there's nothing to worry about—but if you haven't, you should be thinking about taking them as soon as possible.

First of all, there is the ELM—a test that's important even if you're not a botany major. The ELM is required for anyone who wishes to enter CSUSB in Fall 1983 or thereafter. To be eligible for any general education math class, you must pass the ELM. Unlike most tests, you have to take the ELM until you pass it—no matter how large a amount. In that case, you would have to take a remedial math course, such as Math 70 or 80, classes that will not count towards graduation requirements.

To sign up for the ELM, go to the Counseling Center, located in PS 227. The next ELM test date is May 11, and registration for it closes on April 26. Cost for the ELM is $7, which is to be paid upon arriving at the test location. And now we come to the EPT, which is required for all students with fewer than 84 units. The EPT is also important, for without passing it, you can't take English 101, which is a prerequisite for several classes at CSUSB. Unlike the ELM, the EPT is free, and has a one-time-only chance to pass or fail. So if you fail the EPT, you'll have to take English 100, and pass with a C or better if you wish to take English 101. The next test date is the same as the ELM, as is the registration deadline. But, like I said, the EPT is free, so sign up at Admissions and Records as soon as possible.

Now, some students might not have to take the ELM or EPT for various reasons (e.g., high scores in Math or English on SAT or ACT tests), but be sure to have this confirmed at Admissions and Records. Also, when you are planning to take a General Ed Math class, or English 101, get your clearance at Admissions and Records. They are the people to talk to concerning any of these things, and they can save you a lot of headaches. And in case you think you need help preparing for the EPT or ELM, tutoring is available at the Learning Center. So, do yourself a favor, and check things out with them before they are over at Admissions and Records.

think, every grade that was ever given or recorded, tracked down and located from the records kept by this department are now located in PS 227. A plethora of information can be had just by the punch of a computer button. Anyway, back to the action. The most likely suspect in this case seemed to be the Application Processors, Admissions and Records, Ms. Cheryl Weese. After hours of interrogation, Ms. Weese presented an almost airtight alibi.

"The evaluators which perform graduation checks require one year of training before they can become fully operational. To do so requires a knowledge about all of the changes in classes and majors. This becomes quite extensive when all of the schools, majors, concentrations, certificates etc. are considered."

I asked her what this all meant in terms of the grad check dilemma. She said, "one year ago we had six evaluators, and when the fall wave of grad checks came, we were down to three. One evaluator was transferred to the School of Education and two others took maternity leave. To complicate matters further, one of those who took maternity leave later resigned. This tends to make life a little difficult, but they process almost 2000 grad checks per year." She had a point there, but I had to ask her if she had tried using part-time help. She replied, "temporary help can do only so much. It takes a great deal of effort to train new people, and while you are training from the pile of things to do, it seems to get larger."

These were not her only problems. It is a well known fact that enrollment is up this year, so I had to ask her how this affected her department's operations. "There were 564 new applications in the Fall and Winter quarters. This translates into an increase of 2,005 pieces of paperwork for the evaluators. Application processors must deal with 12,437 new forms as result of the increase in applications. In fact the whole department is almost 1040 man hours behind."

Sounds like a tough situation to me, I was curious why they were alleviating the situation. "I am asking for a new evaluation position in the 1985-86 budget. The evaluator staff is currently behind on graduation checks."

Well that alibi is as tight as any that I've hear in my years as a private eye. In fact, it makes it much easier to understand why they are behind on graduation checks. Oh well, another case closed!

"Does Rooting for the Home Team Catch Your Eye?"

Do you enjoy the thrill of victory? Does rooting for the home team catch your eye? Then you're in luck because CSUSB is looking for enthusiastic, energetic people for the 1985-86 cheerleader/yell leader squad.

Workshops for those interested Coyotes and Coyotettes will be held April 1, through April 11. The times will be as follows: Mondays and Wednesdays 5-7 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays 6-8 p.m. in the large gym. Tryouts will be held on April 15, at 7:30 p.m., also in the large gym. During the workshops mandatory cheers, jumps, and dance routines will be taught. In addition, the workshops will provide an opportunity to brush up on necessary skills needed for tryouts. Being a cheer or yell leader is a responsible position, therefore certain standards have been set. A cheer or yell leader must have a GPA of 2.0, must have attended at least one quarter at CSUSB, and must be a full-time undergraduate student.

If you can't participate in sports why not support with spirit, and experience the excitement of cheering our new intercollegiate program. It's not just the talent of the teams that lead a school to victory, it's the support and energy of the fans as well. So if you're energetic, enthusiastic, and want to support intercollegiate sports, become a cheer or yell leader and help the Coyotes become number one.

Applications and work schedules are available in the P.E. Office.

Farm Problem: Is There A Solution?

by Greg Timpany

Editorial

It's been quite awhile since this country has seen a real honest-to-goodness rebellion. But low and behold one is beginning to take shape in the country's mid-section. The farmers are up in arms, and their anger is spreading from the Midwest towards both coasts. Why are they furious you ask? Well, let's see if we can't find out why.

The economics expansion that everyone has been talking about for so long has never really fully spread to the farm sector. The economic recovery was fueled by a massive dose of fiscal policy, the resultant budget deficits and their resultant interest rates have made life more difficult for the farm sector. The resultant fuelled by a massive dose of interest rates have never really fully spread to the farm sector. This in turn has forced farmers to change plans. Is this the only problem facing U.S. farmers? No, in fact it is only the tip of the iceberg. Past government regulations and tax rules are all in place to blame for the current farm crises. Government marketing orders, have at times, artificially disturbed the actions of the marketplace. Government subsidies have kept many inefficient farmers in business longer than they should have been. Add to this, the fact that increased the size of their farms, and their debt, upon acreage increases of increasing crop prices have found out that prices do not always go up.

Tax rules have made "part-time" farming a good tax shelter. End result for the farmer, higher land prices. Much of the new land bought by farmers is financed at extremely high interest rates. Interest rates have not come down from their peaks, but payments on existing loans have not. Gee, Wally are there more problems? Yes, Beaver there are. Too many farmers have become dependent upon government handouts to survive. They live from one planting season to the next. Government subsidies and regulations are awash with inefficiencies. In this, has made the whole system, from farmland to dinner table, slightly less efficient.

In comes President Reagan with his budget slashing free-market approach. I have to agree that the free-market approach to agriculture is best in the long-run. I did not my training in economics would leave me with a guilty conscience. On the other hand, taking farm subsidies away in one fell swoop is not the right choice either. Face it, farmers are addicted to government handouts.

What would be best for the farm sector is for the current administration is to bring down their budget deficits, so the value of the dollar would not drop from its lofty heights. This will make U.S. exports more competitive in world markets. Equally important is to slowly wean the U.S. farmers from government subsidies and regulations. Being in the free-market approach, but not at an immediate pace. Give the farmers time to adjust.

Response To The Confused Senior

Dear Editor,

C.S.U.S.B. does indeed have a "gay and lesbian unite" movement, and a "confused senior" wrote in "The Chronicle's Feb. 20th issue.

I believe her/his signature/ies do seem confused and should include her/himself in those classified as "strange." First: If this person took the effort to come to a U.S. Out of Central America Club meeting s/he would know what any third grader knows, that Central America is not the same as the central United States. Therefore Nicaragua is not and never has been in Central America. Central America as the name implies, refers to that group of countries between Mexico and South America. Central America also is not as Reagan would have us believe. "Our own back yard", just as we are not our own front yard.

Second: If confused would go to a Gay and Lesbian Student Union meeting maybe s/he could overcome some of his/her ignorance concerning them. Her/his belief that "if a gay and a lesbian unite totally, they'd be straight" shows an unbelievably confused means of mental processing. If that strange concept were true it would not also mean that if a black person and a white person united totally they'd be gray. Third: S/he seems paranoid that s/he will be accused of being closed-minded if s/he opens her/his mind to the Bible, and fears that someone will call the A.C.U.L. on her/him. S/he seems unaware of the "Krishna Clan" being on campus but didn't mention the other religious groups on campus which enjoy all the same rights as any other clubs or religions to express their views. These groups include the Newman Club, Campus Crusade for Christ and Bahai's, L.D.S.S.A. and Shalom Club.

I guess s/he didn't see some of the campus Christians do their Pharisies imitation when the Atheist Union booth was set up on campus a couple of months ago, when they felt the call to converge on the booth kneeling and praying aloud for all to see and hear. As I remember reading in the Bible (without a.C.U.L. interference), in Matt. 6:18, Jesus had some unkind words for the Pharisees who felt it necessary to make sure everyone knew they were religious by praying aloud in public. I always felt that if one feels the need to communicate with one's god, one should do so in private. Maybe "confused" could pray to be unconfused, or as they say in religious circles to "see the light."

(Of course I am aware that the letter to which I am replying was written with humor, I never the less feel compelled to respond. I am doing so because the letter though it just reflects a growing lack of knowledge and concern about some important issues of our time. Though this letter is written as a response to one person, it is for all who have not bothered or cared enough to check the facts before they make senseless and unenlightened remarks.)
