Riverside County Sheriff's Department
DEPUTY JOE HORTON

"Living Out Your Dream"

Horton stated that one of his biggest mentors was Jim Evans, who had given him a great recommendation to become a police officer. "He was rubbing his gun drawn and spraying him in the face. The officer's name was Robert Burrola. The shooting was instantaneous. The officer had been "living out his dream." He had no idea how it would end. The officer was shot, and the deputy had to leave for nearly a week after the shooting but returned to duty on May 12, 1981.

Upon completion of his training, Burrola was assigned to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department. In 1985, Horton was promoted to detective, then to the Ben Clark Training Station. In 1990, he was named to the Ben Clark Training Station. In 1993, he was named to the Ben Clark Training Station. In 1996, he was named to the Ben Clark Training Station. In 2003, he was named to the Ben Clark Training Station. In 2006, he was named to the Ben Clark Training Station.

He then kicked Burrola away from retirement. At the time of the shooting, Burrola was 29 years old.

Cops and Clergy Honor Redlands Police Chief

Chief James R. Baumann, Chief of Police in Redlands, was honored recently at Redlands Community Missionary Baptist Church for his unique leadership in that city. He had an abiding love for Black Churches and Clergy for protecting, empowering, and promoting justice by "working with Cops," joining in a partnership of neighboring groups. Pastor H. Himmelberg, said, "I only know what he does in this community on a daily basis they wouldn't know if it wasn't for him." The Riverside County Sheriff's Department has an abiding love for the police force and its officers, including Deputy Joe Horton.

Chino Hills Temple Scheme: Waiting Final Approval

The BAPS Temple Scheme, a socio-spiritual organization, is currently waiting for the approval of the Chino Hills Planning Commission. The scheme is designed to establish a cultural, educational, and religious facility in Chino Hills, California. The scheme aims to provide a space for community events, religious activities, and educational programs for the residents of Chino Hills and the surrounding area.

New UCR Research Center to be Named for Ed Blakey

The Riverside County Sheriff's Department has announced that the new research center to be named for Ed Blakey, a former deputy and jail officer. Blakey, who served as an officer for 27 years, was well-respected for his dedication to law enforcement and his commitment to community service. The center will focus on research and education in the fields of criminal justice and public safety, providing valuable insights and resources to those in the field of law enforcement.

Amina Lawal Set to Be Stoned on 27 August 2003

The Nigerian Supreme Court has upheld the death sentence for Amina Lawal, convicted for the crime of blasphemy committed in February 2003. The court ruled that she should be stoned to death, as it is a capital punishment in Nigeria for those accused of blasphemy.

The African word "okay" is a universal language masterpiece and has become a global concept among all English words for its universal meaning. According to the famous American linguist Richard W. gourmet in his book "English as a Second Language," "okay" is applied to families that have the courage to say "okay, we're going to" and families that do not have the courage to say "okay, we're going to." This phrase is often used in the Black community or African American community to signify agreement or acceptance. The African origin of "okay" is unclear; historians have traced it back to the 19th century. The word "okay" has been used for different meanings, such as "enthusiastic" or "satisfied." It has also been used to express agreement or approval. In many African countries, "okay" is equivalent to "O.K." or "O.K. for African." In this context, "Okay" is a term that is used to describe a situation that is satisfactory or acceptable. It is often used in everyday conversation to express agreement or approval. In this sense, "Okay" is a term that is used to describe a situation that is satisfactory or acceptable. It is often used in everyday conversation to express agreement or approval.

The meaning of "Okay" is a complex and multifaceted one, as it can be used in various contexts and can take on different meanings depending on the situation. However, in general, "Okay" is used to express agreement, satisfaction, or approval, and it can be used in a variety of contexts, from everyday conversations to formal settings. It is a versatile word that can be used to convey different meanings, and it is an important part of the English language. In conclusion, the African origin of "Okay" is unknown, and its exact meaning is difficult to determine. However, it is clear that "Okay" has become a universal term used in many languages and cultures around the world, and it is a word that continues to evolve and change over time.

African American Clergy and First 5 Riverside To Partner

African-Americans account for 12% of the U.S. population and 35% of the patients awaiting kidney transplants. Before this, not many African-Americans have ever seriously thought about donating their organs even though there is a critical shortage. More than 80,000 men, women, and children are waiting for a life-saving organ transplant. On any given day, 1-20 minutes another name is added to the waiting list. What’s more disturbing is that on average of 17 people die each day because they do not have enough organs.

The National Medical Association (NMA) in a collaborative effort with African-American physicians, nurses, and other social groups like Donate Life is raising up the heat on persuading African-Americans to become organ and tissue donors. There is a lot of confusion in the Black community about organ donation. The dilemma was played out in the film John Q. Denver Washington plays a working-class dad who holds a hospital emergency room at gunpoint to get a heart transplant for his nine year old son. This confusion on the part of medical care in America is hard

I heard a man say, "I need a friend, and clean up after me. Come home at reasonable hours, pick halfway decent food, and you. We are just being our selves. These things will evolve into something more, and that is when we really don't make our lives a whole lot easier because we really don't even try. It's just going to the point where we have to make the decisions for him and take what he does to what we want to do."

The problem with this is that no one wants to be a nagging wife/girlfriend. When someone gives you a lot of qualities that they aspire to be, maybe you're never one of them. Yet, some men still want us to be in this position. That is when we really start to act like a mother and step into the child position.

The way to stop this is to show our men that you can make sound decisions on your own. Come home at reasonable hours, pick halfway decent food, and clean up after yourself. These things will make decisions for him and take what you do to what we want to do.

As women we are classified as nurturers. We are looked upon as the emotional carers. While these are good qualities to be known for, it can also be a hard role. It seems as if we are not only supposed to give this kind of care giving to our children or anyone close to us. It seems as if human males is the only species that is in search of another caretaker once they have left their mothers. It is not only the person but society which says this is okay. Think about how often you have heard a man say, "I need a friend, and clean up after me."

When you meet a man it's like getting assigned a new family. How the scope of you will make you be able to take care of her son.

All too often women are given the responsibility of being the only person who is looking out for their men and making sure they don't get into any trouble. It just gets to the point where we have to make the decisions for them and take care of them.

No, it’s not a typo, it’s just my way of saying that credit has taken a life of its own in our lives. Our credit ability will soon determine whether we can go for a vacation or go to college. Employees check credit before hiring you next year. So in addition to being irreplaceable I should add unchangeable. So let me give you tips on buying a house, a car or a stock on bar credit. Repaying your credit file is one step. Establishing and maintaining your credit file is another. I am here to help you help you get a good credit file and maintain a good record at the same time.

1. Get credit in your own name. Whether single, married, separated, or divorced, you are entitled to a credit file in your own name. If you spouse or former spouse had or has had credit and most credits in your spouse’s name, it would definitely be advantageous to have your own credit file. Even if debt was held jointly this could be a liability because by separating the files and insisting that your file not include any of the spouse’s credits, some negative credits could easily disappear.

2. What is needed is contacting each of the three credit bureaus and requesting a credit report in your own name. You can contact me and I will walk you through the steps. Then insist that the bureau remove all accounts belonging to your spouse. By law they have to do it. This fact is that if one person credits it and the other has some issues to receive. You can get a house in the better credit name and then add another one on your good accounts. This adds the title of the loan as they feel secure and everyone is working as a single unit.

3. Know how to avoid credit offers - When you apply for credit, most often a credit or risk inquired is assigned to you to establish your ability to repay the debt. This method is used by applying calculation formulas based on factors identified by officers like Frank B. The 5th District AME Church Web site I go complete detail in this area. But besides credit scores, creditors sometimes evaluate application using the three “C’s” such as Capacity, Collateral, and Character.

Capacity: A credit wants to understand your ability to repay the additionally they want to know how much debt you can consistently pay back. How long have you been on the job? What is the likelihood of advancement? Is your job and industry stable? What is your current debt ratio? What kind of debts do you have? Are you all assessed such as credit cards? Is there secured loans such as car or home? How long have you been with these creditors? Do you have any good hiring of previous addresses?

Collateral: Do you own a car, stock, valuations etc. This area could be crucial in procuring a loan if you have many late payments.

Character: and char­acter shows through in objective manners such as, how long on the job and how long at your residence.

3. Build Your Credit's Approval:

1. Always apply in the exact same name.

2. Do not use a middle in­itial, spellings and not others.

2. Build your credit application.

If you have negative remarks there is a reason.

3. Apply for credit when you are most likely to get it.

4. Apply with creditors with whom you have a history.

Credit is a weapon when you have Credit:

- Scamsters pre-approved cards.
- What is the interest rate, annual for great period.

- If you have a card, protect it.

- Rather than going over your limit, ask for an increase.

- Once approved for a card, do not get out of control. Once you learn to control credit, credit applications will always be available to you.

- One of the first thing I look at is a client credit report, but for­tunately Countywide has several programs that do not base your loan possibilities on credit scores or past history. In the financial industry, credit is the picture you send to someone before you meet him or her. Sooner or later we will be swapping credit cards before dating someone. Scary thought, huh?

The 16th Annual Long Beach Jazz Festival, presented by Rainbow Promotions, was the hottest ticket of the weekend at August 8 - 10. Over 30,000 plus jazz aficionados blanketed the entire grounds the Rainbow Lagoon Park for three days of great jazz music. A stellar line-up of famous musicians and singers provided continuous entertainment for the crowd.

Opening the music Festival on Friday evening, was saxophonist Kim Waters followed by the smooth sounds of vocalist Brenda Russell. James Ingram who closed the show had the crowd on their feet dancing and singing all night. The jazz party continued on Saturday, with the hot sounds from the Latin band Kashiwa; saxophonist Michael Lington; Ronnie Laws; balladeer Phil Perry; saxophonist Kirk Whalum who rock the house and after a three year west coast absence, the legendary Roberta Flack graced the stage and sang her classic hits. Jazz impresario and entrepreneur Al Williams and daughter Kimberly Renos and the marvellous staff of Rainbow Promotions have consistently provided premier jazz entertainment for 16 years to the delight of an international audience. Festival treats included a variety of tasty food vendors, various vendors, arts and crafts etc. It is no surprise that this is the longest running jazz festival in the county.

Future events produced by Rainbow Promotions include Jazz Under The Stars on August 23 featuring vocalist Diane Schuur, at the Village Green (Euclid and Main Street) in Garden Grove. On August 30, is the 1st Annual Love L.A. Gospel Festival at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum featuring T.D. Jakes, Shirley Caesar, Oleta Adams, Kurt Carr and The Kurt Carr Singers, Smokey Norful, Fred Hammond, Juanita Bynum and more. Valentine’s Day Dinner concert 2004 at the Long Beach Center for the Performing Arts, a Winter… Spring… Concert Series at various venues around town, and last but certainly not least is the very popular San Diego Smooth Jazz Festival in 2004. You can find more detailed information on www.rainbowpromotions.com website.

Bank Of America, Northrop Grumman, Alize, Budweiser and Good Neighbor Pharmacy were some of the sponsors for the 16th Annual Long Beach Jazz Festival.

Gospel Showboat Sets Sail August 30th

Life is too short not to experience the wonders and pleasures of God's creation. And, one of these wonders is found directly along the California coastline in Newport Beach.

If you have always wanted to experience a cruise or see the sights of Newport Beach harbor, then purchase your tickets now for an August 30th voyage of the Gospel Showboat cruising the shores of Newport Beach. Enjoy dance, meet new friends and be blessed by great gospel entertainment featuring Sherri Bryan while sailing in a luxury yacht. Tickets are $50 per person and space is limited. The Gospel Showboat will set sail promptly at 6:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. For more information or to purchase tickets, contact (909) 356-4337.

Dynamic and powerful are only two of the words that describe Sherri Bryan. A native of Florida, Bryan migrated to Southern California after graduating from Arizona State University in 1990. She soon began attending a local fellowship where, for the next six years she served in the young adult ministry, choir, and church-planting training department. She later came to Faith Community Church in West Covina where she further honed her gift of leadership in the singles ministry as praise and worship leader and lending her insight for formal teaching for the group and through one-on-one relationships she cultivated.

Now Bryan is currently serving faithfully in the Music Department as part of the choir and worship team, which allows her the opportunity to express herself musically. Her家门口, vocal arranging and production gifts can be heard on her newly released CD "If I Died Today." Bryan speaks and sings with an intimacy that flows from her own testimony and is fueled by her incessant heart after God. "If I Died Today," is a collection of original songs that express Bryan's passion for worship leader and lending her insight through formal teaching for the group and through one-on-one relationships she cultivated.

California has generated more than $5.5 billion in revenues, according to Census data, says Hambrick. The Expo will help grow that figure. The Expo began in 1988 with 50 booths in a warehouse, and in more than 125 channels of real digital quality

New Construction / Remodeling

Over 125 Channels of Real Digital Quality

In the Southland, from fashion and beauty businesses in the Southland -- from fashion and beauty stores to furniture stores, attorneys and manufacturers -- will showcase the diversity of services and products available to Southland consumers.

The Expo's goal is to increase that figure. The Expo began in 1988 with 50 booths in a warehouse, and in 2003, the Expo has featured more than 700 Black businesses and companies that can deliver services and goods. A special feature of the Expo is the Africa USA Trade Conference and Africa Trade Pavilion, a first for the Expo, held Sept. 12-14, presented by Hambrick.

The 15th Annual Los Angeles Black Business Expo and Trade Show will be held Sept. 12-14, at the Los Angeles Convention Center, Hambrick says. "The Expo is the realization of cooperative economics,"

The Black Voice News

"Business owners meet, network and establish working relationships that last beyond the three days of the Expo. It sparks year-long networking opportunities for all involved."

And, says Hambrick, the Expo has raised the consciousness within the consumer market -- across ethnic lines -- that there are qualified Black-owned businesses and companies that can deliver services and goods.

The Expo is the realization of cooperative economics, Hambrick says, which "empowers our dollars circulating in the community and helps to bring in new opportunities." And, says Hambrick, the Expo has raised the consciousness within the consumer market -- across ethnic lines -- that there are qualified Black-owned businesses and companies that can deliver services and goods.
