ALLRED TO SPEAK MAY 30TH

Gloria Allred, feminist attorney from Los Angeles, will speak at Cal State, San Bernardino Thursday evening, May 30.

The free public lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Creative Arts Building. Ms. Allred will discuss "Civil Rights, Gay Rights and Social Change."

Described as a "whirlwind seeking change," Allred has become known outside the courtroom for carefully orchestrated press conferences announcing the filing of another case. Time magazine described the diminutive attorney as "one of the nation's most effective advocates of family rights and feminist causes."

Although she handles routine business, personal injury and family law cases, it is her unusual cases which have resulted in some 2000 radio and talk show appearances, 15 thick volumes of clippings and an office with a staff of 11 attorneys.

With her court cases, she has forced Los Angeles County to unchain pregnant jail inmates from their beds, sued a restaurant for giving women menus without prices, filed suit for honor students expelled from a church-related high school for sipping wine at a private party, helped "Roots" star

LeVar Burton gain joint custody of a child he fathered, and filed a $21 million dollar suit for a 22-year-old woman who claimed she was seduced by seven Roman Catholic priests. She was involved in the case of Elizabeth Bouvia, the handicapped Riverside woman who wanted to die.

Born in Philadelphia to liberal Jewish parents, she earned a B.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, married, had a daughter, divorced and moved to Los Angeles. She graduated cum laude from Loyola University Law ranking 12th in her class.

She is married now to Bill Allred, owner of an aircraft parts manufacturing firm, and they live in conservative Burbank. She drives to her Wilshire Boulevard office in a silver Porsche 928.

Her Cal State appearance is sponsored by the Associated Students Special Events Committee, the Gay and Lesbian Student Union, the Professional Advisory Council and the Association of California State University Professors.

A reception will follow Allred's talk.

INTRAMURAL TEAM SPORTS

The latest line from Las Vegas lists "Slider" as the favorite in Co-Ed Softball, with the resurgent "Mixed Company" in hot pursuit. Defending champion "PE-MM" and "SOMB" are also in contention.

In the rugged men's division, the top three appear to be the "Hitmen", "PEMM", and the "Broken Arrow Gophers." The "Illegal Aliens" rate as the darkhorse, and the "Master Slammers" are a 15-1 choice.

As Volleyball winds down, the finalists figure to be "Ginger and the Boys" and the "KGB", with "Negrete's Raiders" not far behind. The best chance for an upset lies with, you guessed it, "Last Chance."

UNI PHI "SERVICE TO DISABLED" AWARDS

The Uni Phi Club has named four members of the University for special recognition. Daniel Igboke, a graduate student in education, will be given the Anita Hallberg Award which recognizes a severely disabled student showing "academic success with inspirational enthusiasm." The Barbara Sovereign Award given to a disabled student demonstrating "high academic achievement and leadership ability" will be presented to psychology senior Sandra Boyd. Ellen Kowalski (Physical Education) will be given the Dr. Fred Kellers Award as the faculty member who "shows sensitive respect and creative aid to disabled students." Dr. Theron Pace (Services to Students with Disabilities) will be presented the Frank Lootens Award, given to a faculty, staff or student whose "behind the scenes efforts promote the progress of disabled students."

NEWSBRIEFS

Dr. William J. Mason, director of analytical studies in the CSU Chancellor's Office, will visit campus between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 29. He will meet with President Evans, Vice President McAfee and Associate Vice President El-Ahraf, followed by lunch with key faculty and staff personnel.

U.S. Central American Policy to be Debated

A panel discussion on Central America Friday, May 31, will feature Congressman George Brown and Prof. Meg Crahan (Occidental College) arguing against current U.S. administration policy in that region. Dr. Chris Flannery (Claremont Institute) will represent the administration's point of view. Dr. J.C. Robinson (History) also will participate. The symposium will be held in PS 10 from 9:20 to 10:30 a.m. as part of a sociology course "Understanding Socialism." It will be open to the public, said Dr. Tom Meisenhelder (Sociology).

Business Economist To Discuss Careers

Dr. Jim Beckham, a specialist in market research program evaluation and strategic planning, will discuss careers in business economics Wednesday, May 29, in the Student Union Senate Room from noon to 1:30 p.m.

The former vice president of marketing with Gold-Well investments in Los Angeles, Dr. Beckman is a member of the National Association of Business Economists. He is currently studying financial products and business cycle prediction.

The event is sponsored by the Economics Department and the newly formed chapter of Omicron Delta Epsilon, the economics honor society.

Wheel-A-Thon To Benefit Disabled

The Uni Phi Club is sponsoring a Wheel-A-Thon on Thursday, May 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Students are signing up cash pledges which they will earn by completing laps around the university campus. Pledges also may be made through the Services to Students with Disabilities office. Extra wheel chairs will be available so any student may enter. Proceeds will benefit scholarships for disabled students.

STUDENT LIFE

WANT A T-SHIRT ?

Unless you are currently on a contending team in softball or volleyball, you are running out of time to win a coveted "I Want You" Intramural T-shirt. Only three Intramural events remain on the schedule. There will be a golf tournament on campus tomorrow, and you may tee off any time between 1:15 and 4 p.m. The sign up area, and first tee are just north of the P.E. Building. Special door prizes have been donated by Anheuser Busch. The Coyote 500 Car Rallye will take place on Friday, May 31st, starting at 6:30 p.m. in the dorm lot. One driver and one navigator per car, and there is no entry fee. For those who may be wondering, a car rallye is not a race, but instead a test of navigational skills and the driver's ability to maintain a safe, given average speed. It is a lot of fun, so plan on being there.

The final event of the year is the annual Water Carnival, June 4th at 3 p.m. In addition to standard aquatic events such as freestyles, medley relays and diving there will also be some novelty events. These include an underwater swim, dog paddle, and an innertube relay. For more information about all of these events, come to the P.E. Building and check the Intramural Bulletin Board, or stop by Room 124.

Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Delta Sigma Phi!

by Carl Morgan
You may have been hearing a lot about the Delta Sigma Phi social fraternity on campus. In a short time they have sponsored a pie throw at Springfest, a baskesale, a softball social; they have volunteered at the San Bernardino Special Olympics; and they are the sponsor of the upcoming talent show to be held this week in the Student Union. While you may have heard DSP's name on campus, you may still ask: "what is where did it come from?" Well, I hope I can answer a few of these questions. Delta Sigma Phi originated in 1899, at the New York city college. It began with a handful of men dedicated to academics, leadership, and athletics. Since then, the fraternity has grown to comprise over 150 chapters, most of which are located in the eastern states. Schools which accommodate DSP included Penn State, Purdue, and Cal State Berkely; local chapters include UCLA and San Diego State. DSP has full status as a national fraternity. DSP was established at CSUSB on April 18 of this year. The inspiration for the foundation of DSP chapter on campus came from Bill

Gropp. He is the only active member of the DSP in the CSUSB colony. It is because of his hard work, along with dedicated pledges, that the fraternity has been so successful at CSUSB. The Delta Sig's have come a long way since April 18, and they have not begun to start. They are well on their way to achieving their goal: to become a distinct and positive force for campus. Delta Sigma Phi offers the opportunity for all dedicated men to become members of a national social fraternity. Any men become members by next fall, when DSP will gain full chapter status on campus, will be Charter members of the CSUSB chapter. For answers to your questions, contact Bill Gropp (Joshua dorm, 222) or Paul Feller (Waterman ext. 7422). Also, remember to come and see America's future stars at the DSP/A.S. talent show this Thursday, May 30, at 8 pm, in the SUMP. Admission is $1.00 to students with I.D. and $2.00 to non-students. You don't need to go to the big city to see great entertainment, it's as close as the Student Union. Hope to see you there!

Finance Assoc. Elections

Cal State Finance Association will hold an important meeting on Thursday, May 30 from noon to 1 p.m. in Student Union Meeting Room B. All Finance Association members should try to attend as election of officers will be held. From 1 to 5 p.m. on May 30 the club will operate a booth near Pfau Library offering credit card application services for all CSUSB students. Come visit us!

The Benefits Of The Alumni Association

by Elrond Lawrence
In last week's column, I briefly mentioned the Alumni Association, and how it is a good idea for seniors graduating from CSUSB to join it. But what exactly is the Alumni Association, and how can graduates benefit from it? Basically, the Alumni Association is an organization where graduates from CSUSB can serve as role models, representing the university in the community and supporting its programs.

It works to build its own membership, while helping to recruit new students for CSUSB. At the same time, though, it helps people maintain friendships, and by a process called networking, it gives members the opportunity to use their informal connections to further their own careers. And through this all, they simply have fun, too. Aside from what the Alumni Association does, it also brings many benefits to

CORNERFinals Week
Stress

How To Avoid Destructive Stress

Stress can be defined as the tension that motivates you toward action to satisfy a need. It is simply your body's signal to act.

When you see a way to satisfy the need, make a decision and then take action, the stress is constructive. You may, for example, be preparing a report to submit to an instructor. You are excited about it. You know what you want to include in the report and you begin collecting all the data you need. Next, you start writing. You become thoroughly involved with the task. You have a need to do the job well and are taking constructive action to satisfy that need. The stress you experience is constructive.

Destructive stress, on the other hand, is the tension you experience when you have and maintain a need to control something that is out of your control. You may, for example, feel a need to have more hours in the day so you can complete your work and still have time for a reasonable amount of rest and relaxation.

The tension you then experience in your body (destructive stress) arises from your need to somehow change the fact that there are only 24 hours in a day. This tension has no constructive action outlet since there is absolutely nothing you can do to create more than 24 hours in a day. You literally "stew in your own juice" (adrenalin), often with destructive physical and emotional consequences.

Freedom from destructive stress requires:

-1. Ability to discriminate between what you can control and what is beyond your control, and

-2. Willingness to let go of your need to control that which is out of your control anyway.

When you do this, not only are you free of destructive stress, but you also release your full potential for constructive action in those areas you can control.

Practical Tips For Finals

1. Have a positive attitude. Realize that you are an intelligent person and that there is no reason why you shouldn't do well.

2. Be calm when you study. A calm mind absorbs information better than a tense one.

3. Exercise regularly. Aerobic exercise releases hormones that calm the body and the mind. Even if you are not into regular exercise, a daily walk can do wonders. A bit of warning though. Don't make exercise an additional stress, that is, don't constantly try to run that extra mile.

4. Plan regular study breaks, and do something different during these breaks--exercise, listen to music, etc. This helps avoid burn out by not overloading the brain.

5. Avoid stress foods--caffeine, sugar, greasy foods. Eat a variety of foods, especially stress reducers such as milk, foods high in Vitamin A, B and C.

6. Distractions--that intense desire to scrub the floor, the inability to concentrate on anything but soap operas--are a normal part of studying. Instead of feeling guilty about them, recognize that there are ways whereby you are mentally preparing yourself to get down to the task at hand. Allow yourself a limited period of guilt free time, then get on with your studying.

7. Above all, realize that finals week is not the end of the world. You will do the best you can, you will survive, and the sun will come up tomorrow. By keeping some perspective, you can manage stress better, work more productively, and approach the summer in a better frame of mind.

Alumni Assoc.

graduates. It assists with many aspects of commencement, and it works with Placement and Enrollment Services as well.

The Alumni Association is divided into seven chapters: Black, Chicano, Nursing, Education, Business & Public Administration, and General. Of these chapters, the Education Chapter has a scholarship program, in the form of two scholarships given out to one new and one continuing member.

How does one go about joining the Alumni Association, you might ask? You can contact them by going to VA 105 or by calling 887-7811. The cost is $18 per year, or $100 for a life membership. However, if you are a graduating senior, you can join the Association at a reduced rate of $9 for your first year. Easy, isn't it? And so beneficial. So don't miss out--join the Alumni Association, and make the most of your CSUSB experience...even after you've left.

Thank You Cal State, For A "Truly Memorable" Experience

Dear Editor,

As graduation approaches, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people here at Cal State that have helped make my college experience both enjoyable and most rewarding. I am very fortunate to have chosen this particular school to finish my bachelor's degree, as most graduating seniors here within my particular discipline would agree, I am sure. Us Californians are lucky to have the Cal State University system at our disposal. Fees are perhaps as little as one-fifth the cost compared to universities throughout the United States. Cal State University, San Bernardino is truly a jewel within this system.

This quality is perhaps most personified by the excellent faculty-student relations and extra-curricular programs available to students majoring within business.

For those readers who are unfamiliar with the accounting program here at Cal State, I would like to briefly explain what makes this school the absolute best education for the money in the field of accounting. The Accounting Department has been turning out highly competent graduates since its inception several years ago. We have had a few national award winners from past CPA Exams and most have gone on to pursue successful careers. What makes the program such an overwhelming success given a relatively short life is the dedication toward the pursuit of excellence that the faculty has embraced.

Nowhere in my prolonged college career have I witnessed such concern for the welfare of the student as an individual by faculty and staff as at Cal State.

In addition to my educational experiences, I am lucky to have been actively involved in the Accounting Association and Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity. The relationships I developed with students and faculty within these organizations helped me through some rough times and enlightened my perception of the what to expect in the business world after college. I know the experience I gained by participating in these organizations will continue to serve me in my professional career long after graduation day.

Thanks to my instructors, fellow students, friends, staff and significant others with whom I have had the pleasure to get acquainted during the last two years. You have made experience here at Cal State truly memorable.

Sincerely,
Jim St. Leger

"Pimp & Whore" Dance

Blind Tradition or Informed Thinking?

On May 23, 1985, Morongo Dorm sponsored a dance for all CSUSB students and non-students. We support the organizers in their efforts to raise funds for the dorm. Yet, we do not think that the implications of the "traditional" theme of this dance were considered.

At times, tradition needs to be questioned, as in this case. We feel that the traditional "Pimp & Whore" dance trivializes a very serious social issue-prostitution. Unfortunately, prostitution is often glamorized in the media. Because of this, the uglier facts involved are frequently overlooked. Please consider these facts:

*Approximately 80% of prostitutes (men and women) are incest victims or have been otherwise sexually molested or raped as children and thus have been forced into sexual exploitation most of the lives (Lecture given in Psychology 370, 1983-84).

*More than one million runaway children (8-18 years old) are forced into prostitution each year. They are unable to go home, get work, or take care of themselves in any other way (Laura Lederer, Take Back The Night, 1980).

*Pimps often violate the dignity of other humans through the use of drugs, coercion, emotional and physical abuse. For example, pimps are aware that rape is one of the quickest ways to "turn-out" a young female prostitute. Therefore, they frequently "set up intricate gang rape situations when they have spotted a prospect as part of a good-business practice" (Susan Brownmiller, Against Our Will, 1975, p. 275).

*Many women have no economic alternatives to prostitution. Most investigators agree that women, given the same education, job and experience, are given less pay and are promoted more slowly than are men. For example, the U.S. Dept. of Labor (1978) reported that the average working woman makes only 3/5 of what the average working male makes when they both work full time year around.

*A large number of prostitutes are minorities.

"...the number of Black 'working girls' on Prostitution Row is disproportionate to (the number of white prostitutes) and bespeaks an economic and cultural crime (Laura Lederer, pg. 116).

Given these facts, we believe that the blind tradition of a "Pimp & Whore" dance should be questioned in the future. By being informed about social issues of human exploitation and victimization, each of us can be more sensitive to the pain and degradation of others. Together we can work to promote human dignity, freedom and well-being.

Those of us connected with the M.S. Counseling Psychology program encourage others to share their knowledge so that we may all expand our awareness on other important social issues.

"P & W" Dance: Manipulators or Victims

Dear Sir:

Controversy has been raging concerning the Morongo Dorm sponsored, Pimp and Whore Dance, which was held Thursday, May 23rd in the Student Union on that evening. My concern as a Registered Nurse, senior Psychology major, and Associated Student Executive Officer is the tolerance and/or promotion of societal deviance that renders its participants either cruel manipulators or traumatized victims.

I feel that we, as concerned human beings and students, who are striving towards academic competency and the embodiment of professional excellence, should seriously consider a clarification of personal choices. Tolerance, in its most passive form, breeds an atmosphere of unconditional permission and produces a personal tendency to self-isolate and deny any personal responsibility. As a society, our demarcations of acceptable and nonacceptable behaviors have turned grey; we as participants have begun to "pass the buck."

Responsibility starts with self and is inclusive of others in an actualized human being. Responsibility for the well-being of other students, faculty, and administrators within the CSUSB campus is everyone's concern. We need to respect the individual interactions, abilities, and encourage the positive possibilities to become loving and living, not existing, human beings. What we emulate, we accept. Fun and profit at the expense of personal dignity harms us all and should concern us all.
