Cal-State students were welcome back with a roaring brush fire. The fire which consumed several hundred acres was contained within 24 hours.

Michael Gomez takes over Campus Police Chief duties

by Owen Sheeran

For Michael A. Gomez sociology and police work go hand in hand. Gomez was appointed as the new Chief of Campus Police to fill the vacancy left by Walt Kadyk, Gomez, who has been with the Cal State Campus Police since August 1973, was second in command under Kadyk. John Fau and Dean of Students Kenton Monroe.

"Basically our job at Campus Police is to protect life and property on campus", said Gomez. "The job requires a great degree of professionalism. We are more committed to the college community because we are responsible to the students. I'm a senior majoring in sociology and several of the other officers are also students."

The staff consists of 8 sworn peace officers including Gomez, 2 parking officers, security officer and a clerical secretary. Service is provided on a 24 hour a day, 7 day a week basis. "We strive toward good community relations with a great degree of professionalism. We are here to serve the students and the college."

Recently the parking lot west of the Biological Sciences building has been closed to student parking. Asked why this policy had changed, Gomez said, "we had a lot of problems in this area. It was really a question of safety and it was becoming a traffic hazard.

Since school has started we've eliminated the traffic and the arguments over parking spaces. The Academic Senate came up with the solution and I see it as a good program. We use a warning system to the students who park there so they are not being given tickets. There are signs at the entrance to the lot and if a problem arises we will enforce the regulation. I think we all face parking problems, myself included."

The Cal State Campus Police are also continuing to sponsor the Ride-Along Program where students may ride along with one of the officers on his rounds. "All students are welcome anytime," said Gomez. "It gives the students a chance to meet us and see what we do. I hope in the near future we will be meeting everyone."

Prior to coming to Cal State in 1973 Gomez worked with the Colton Police Department as an identification training officer and also as a patrolman with the Chino Police Department. "You name it and I've done it," said Gomez referring to his various jobs in the juvenile division and as a plain clothesman with the Colton Police Department.

Asked what he feels about his new job Gomez replied, "my feelings are very positive and good. The students here at Cal State are all cooperative and responsible. The Campus Police do not have to be oppressive to be effective. By discussing and working out any problem a student might have we can help eliminate that problem."

Other staff members include: Art Butler, Dick Faustini, Rich Nunez, Don Schafer, Pam Zmolek, Mike Frick, Roy Trueson, Fred Dixon, Dennis Bigham, Larry Huizar, and secretary Janice Williams.

Cal-State art students redecorate D.M.V. office

Are you sometimes completely bored standing in line at the Department of Motor Vehicles? Well now, there's something to do! Colorful murals depicting transportation development in San Bernardino will attract your eyes to the past, present and future of transportation in the San Bernardino area.

The artists of the murals are Joseph Moran, assistant professor at Cal State, San Bernardino; Dan Vasquez of Bloomington; Juan Esqueda, Peter Rodrigues and Nick Bawsh of San Bernardino; Cal State art majors; and Shirley Bowers of Pomona, a Cal State graduate in humanities.

The colorful paintings are part of a statewide DMV project to make the field offices an integral part of the community and to reflect the culture of the area.

The paintings approach the subject with a lower-half view of bus patrons waiting on benches at the 4th and E Streets terminal.

On the west wall, white figures against a background of desert and mountains reflect the timelessness of the theme. Another mural contrasts the gentle burro in the desert with lines of freeway roads converging in the distance.

The artists began planning the paintings last May. As individuals they took photographs and made sketches, and then met as a group to discuss and develop ideas.

Moran, who supervised the local project, has taught art at Cal State since 1972. He earned his master of fine arts at Claremont Graduate School and recently has worked with the state coalition of Chicano artists.

All of the Cal State students have exhibited their work in the area.

Vasquez, a graduate of Colton High School, is currently employed at the Witterman Steel Mill in Fontana. He plans to be a professional artist when he completes his education and has shown his work in the governor's exhibit in Sacramento, the Vincent Price Gallery in East Los Angeles, and the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery.

Esqueda is currently employed by General Telephone Company. The senior art major plans to teach art and has also exhibited at the Vincent Price Gallery and the Los Angeles Museum.

Rodrigues plans graduate work in ceramics and has exhibited in the Los Angeles, Hollywood, Riverside and San Bernardino areas.

Bawsh, staff artist at the San Bernardino public library, plans to work in interior design and building space.

Bowers is a fashion illustrator for Miller's Outpost.

The murals will be unveiled at a public reception at the Department of Motor Vehicles office, corner of Waterman and 13th, from 2-4 p.m., Sunday, October 5.
Come join the Paw Print staff

At the beginning of every quarter we make an appeal for help. This quarter will be no exception.

The Weekly PawPrint is one of the most unique college newspapers around because it is a student effort. More student participation is necessary in order for us to continue publishing a relevant and professional style newspaper.

Unfortunately we can offer no monetary reward for your efforts but you may be eligible for two units of academic credit. Other more intangible benefits include working together with some great people and being able to list extra-curricular activities on your future employment applications.

Reporters are usually considered as being able to cover all sorts of events. However, if you do not have the time or energy to spend covering the weekly events, there will never be a better time to get started.

It's kind of like your a nerve ending.

Not a regular contributor, but someone who chances upon a newsworthy event amongst the students.

Student government needs support

Student Government needs the support of every student. ASB positions and offices are filled by students. Taking responsibility in the Associate Student government adds diversity to one's education and allows individuals to prepare for quandary situations that they may face later in their lives.

In order to make Cal-State a better place for everyone, many more students must be involved in Student Government. Many offices and committee seats were vacant due to student apathy. Hopefully this trend will end this quarter.

Student Government has a valuable place to make many new friends and learn about the functions of Government.

At the present time there are several ASB, class and committee positions unfilled. All of the Junior Class offices are vacant at the present time.

Any student wishing to be considered for any of these positions should contact ASB president Raul Ceja or any of the other ASB officers in the ASB trailer, which is located behind the Student Services building.

Registration systems in need of overhaul

In spite of many complaints, circulated petitions and outright protests, the unfair registration process still exists.

The present system divides all students into priority groups. These groups are rotated each quarter so that a different group has the top priority time each term.

This present plan sounds like it should be fair for everyone but upon closer inspection it appears very unjust to those who only need a few units to graduate.

Graduating seniors who need less than 30 units to graduate usually are granted the last day priority when it is usually a user group. However, it does not necessarily mean that they will get the first hour on the first day of registration. They could be stuck with the last hour on the first day when many classes are already closed and there is a long waiting list to get into a popular class. This creates an undue hardship on a graduating senior who needs a particular class in order to graduate that quarter.

A much more fair registration process would be a priority system based on the number of units a person has completed. Incoming freshmen would be the last persons to register, while seniors who only need a couple of units to graduate would be allowed in line.

Cal State used to have a registration system of this nature but the powers that be scrapped it in favor of the present system.

With the evidence piling up that the present system is just not working satisfactorily for a large number of students, one must wonder why it is still in existence. Well one simple reason seems to be economic in nature. It has been found that lower division students usually enroll in more units than upper division students. Incoming freshmen tend to take overload classes and get out of Cal-State sooner.

This is not the ideal situation. The Student government office is considering making changes in the registration system to provide better benefits for the students.

Veterans Club News

by Ray Sensing, Vice President, Veterans Club

Well, Congratulations to us! As you can see, the Cal State Vets Club has weathered the summer to return in all its radiant glory, to drive once more into the fray. It would be less than truthful of us to deny at least a little surprise at the Phoenix-like resurrection of the Vets Club from its summer torpor. In fact, if you read the registration edition of the Pawprint, you will have noticed that not even the paper thought the Vets Club had made it, we weren't even listed with other clubs—shame on you, Pawprint! For those of you new to glorious Cal State San Berndo, the Cal State Vets Club was born in the dying days of the Spring Quarter 1975, the last in a series of efforts to organize a veteran's club on this campus. Unlike the earlier attempts, this one succeeded, although survival was just by the skin of their teeth. However, all that is history, we are forced to the present reality and anyone resurrected club should go on to bigger and better things, and already we have some in store. But first, this thing has got to get organized, and so on Monday, October 12, at 2 p.m. in LC 311 the Vets Club will hold its first meeting, for the purpose of deciding goals, government, and good times. All veterans are invited to come (it's our club) and remember, even though the veterans make up one third of the students on this campus, unless we stand up for ourselves, there will be nobody to help us, and even if joined together it is just as much of a rough. So come and participate, maybe get a fat pass to an easy position to look good on your record, and at least help stand up for your rights.

Cal-State houses many strange animals

by Frank Sheenan

Unless you're a Biology or Psychology major, you should be aware that Cal State maintains an animal house on campus. But before you inquire about accomodations or kennel services read on. According to Dr. Dalton Harrington, Chair of the Biology Dept., the compound has raised the interests of USDA officials who have commented on modern facility and its layout. Such attention also has a very practical aspect. Federal and state regulations govern the humane treatment of the animals and the USDA regularly visits the facility to insure that certain standards are met. It is not possible to explain to the animals is dependent upon adherence to these regulations. Laws also extend into the laboratory where experiments are conducted on the animals. Experimentation is governed by prescribed amounts of anesthesia administered to the lab animals and monitored by a visiting veterinarian.

Animals are principally obtained through laboratory supply houses. Dr. Harrington pointed out that economics is the chief factor for buying the lab animals. Rising food costs have made it less expensive to purchase the animals rather than to maintain a supply through the summer for fall courses. However, some breeding does occur among selected pairs of mice to provide specimens for study. After pairing the pair is separated to discourage an overdubundance of the "beasties". Wild animals are prohibited in the compound. A parasite problem presents a very real danger to the animals housed there.

Used primarily by the Biology Dept. (the Psychology Dept. also has a section for its use) the compound has both invertebrate and small vertebrate specimens. The invertebrate section consists principally of smaller warm-blooded animals (rabbits, rats, and mice) and the tortoise and frogs are also kept. Currently a committee is working to achieve accreditation from the AAALAC (American Association for Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care) acceptance from the AAALAC could mean increased grant sources from the National Institute of Health and the U.S. Health Service, as well as the constant attendance of a veterinarian in the compound.

Cal-State students may soon be able to purchase beer on campus

by John Whitehair

The Board of Trustees of the California State Colleges and Universities passed a measure last spring permitting the sale of beer on campus.

The President of each college or University must approve the sale of beer on his campus and C.S.C.S.P.B. President John Pflau favors the measure. The issue almost died in January of last year and was revived by Governor Brown who convinced the Board that individual presidents should have the final say so.

Brown has been served at various campus functions for several years now but only under very strict regulations of monetary payment. Undoubtedly, if the students are fully aware of the possibilities students and faculty will be able to purchase beer on campus.

Before the first quarter of the new policy of charging a fee per each day of use will now be approved by the Physical Education department. The money will be used to hire a work study student to work in the gym so that the hours of operation may be extended. The measure was approved by the Senate and sent to the Appropriations Committee.

A new state law permits the sale of beer for the next three years in the City State's facility. A license for sale of beer will have to be obtained from the Alcohol Beverage Control Board. A license for beer is necessary for verification of the age of potential customers must be initiated.

Dr. George P. Newby does not foresee any problems with the proposed sale of beer and indicated he believes few students would try it if there were any potential problems.

San Jose State University was the first campus of the C.S.C.S.P.B. system to sell beer.

On September 8 the Spartan Pub in the San Jose Student Union started selling seven types of beer. The president of S.J.S.U., John Bussel, bought the first glass.

Senate meeting highlights

by John Whitehair

The Cal-State Student Senate met for the second time this year last Wednesday and the members presented two major action items of concern involving student activities. Among other matters, the Senate approved a request from the sports committee for $225. The money will be used to hire a work study student to work in the gym so that the hours of operation may be extended. The measure was approved by the Senate and sent to the Appropriations Committee.

Drama rehearsals underway

by Owen Sheenan

Rehearsals are now under way for the new Creative Arts Building's fall production, Oliver Hailey's "For The Use Of The Hall". The show will open Thursday, November 13 for eight performances through November 22. Dr. Amanda Sue Rudlaisl is directing and John Finn is stage manager.

"For The Use Of The Hall" is a comedy set in the winter of 1975 and concerns the plight of Charlotte and Allen, two middle aged lovers; Martin, a very bad newspaper reporter; Terry, a nun, Alice, a children's book writer and old Bess, a faithful observer.

Hailey, who has also written for other plays on and off Broadway, visited Cal State during the first reading of the play and plans to return for the performance. "For The Use Of The Hall" was seen on national TV several months ago.

The cast includes Deborah Stevens, Johnny Pipkin, Paul DelMar, Ann Bade, Robin Griffs and Keri Gesnek.

Dr. Rudlaisl has been at Cal State since 1969. Asked how she views the new Creative Arts Building now being built she said, "We just can't wait." The new theatre will only seat 150 people but "we will be much more flexible in some respects", she added. "The Little Theatre was originally a chemistry lab and was never meant to be a theatre. It's extremely limited but in the new theatre we won't have any problems."

The new theatre Arts building is now due to open the winter quarter of 1977.

A.S.B. President Raul Ceja, outlines goals

By John Whitehair

When the dust had settled after the A.S.B. elections last spring, Raul Ceja was the winner of the hotly contested battle. It was no easy task for him, as the election was counted and even after all the votes were counted and showed Ceja the victor, there was talk of a possible third contest.

A third election was not necessary and Ceja assumed the office of A.S.B. president early last June.

Ceja has a lot of praise for the people who helped him get elected, he believes their hard work and his personal type campaign won the election for him. In an interview he said, "The students saw all those people out working for my election and realized I wasn't a bad boy and voted for me."

Ceja wants more activities planned that will appeal to a larger minority — I would like to have activities that will appeal to a wider range of students."

"I would like to see more students participating in campus activities. It seems in the past that the students have not participated in campus activities."

Ceja feels that it is important for him to travel to other colleges and to the state capital to lobby for what he thinks the students need. "I will be doing some traveling, but only what the A.S.B. can afford. There is a bill being considered that will enable the construction of the Student Union to proceed and I feel my traveling to lobby for the measure is important," he said.

Ceja would like to see more students get involved with student government and activities. He believes that the best way for a student to learn more about the workings of Student Government and the A.S.B. is to talk to the people currently serving in an office. "Let them know that you want to get involved and most likely you will be appointed to one of the vacancies," he stated.

Ceja will maintain an "Open Door" policy whereby students should feel free to come by and discuss matters of concern at any time without an appointment. He would prefer to respond to the needs of the campus community as a whole, however he is concerned with the welfare of each individual student.

Ceja summed up his hopes for the coming year in the following words: "I would like to welcome back all the returning students and I would like to extend a welcome to the freshmen and those students who have transferred from another college. Students should take advantage of those activities they are paying for, such as the Health Center services, Physical Education programs, Learning Lab and other activities that are being offered to them and paid for by A.S.B. funds."

"If any student ever feels that he or she has a gripe or complaint and needs to talk to someone about it, come and see me personally or any of the following A.S.B. officers: Pat Egeler, A.S.B. Vice-President; Pat Motz, A.S.B. Secretary; Steven Waterbury, Junior Class President; Paul Martinez, Sophomore Class President. Ceja added, "These students represent the students on campus. Seek their advice and tell them your opinions."

Ceja feels that this year will be a very good one for the students of Cal-State, and he will be looking forward to meeting personally with as many students as he can.

Student Government positions available

There are many unfilled Student Government positions and offices that must be filled for CSCSB Student Government to be effective.

Most of the positions will be filled by appointment. Interested students are urged to contact the A.S.B. office at 887-7494.

In the Executive Cabinet, the position of Treasurer and Judicial Representative is open.

Many class offices are vacant this year and include the following: Senior Class Secretary and Treasurer, Junior Class President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and two Senators.

Sophomore Class Secretary, Treasurer and one Senator.

The Activities Committee needs a Chairman, a Secretary and a Treasurer.

Six positions are available on the very important Election Committee.

Tom Hayden talks of S.B.V.C.

by John Whitehair

"Tom Hayden, campaigning for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, spoke to a noontime gathering of students and teachers at San Bernardino Valley College on September 24.

He was introduced as the co-founder of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), former anti-war activist, husband of Jane Fonda and as a concerned taxpayer.

Hayden, who is challenging incumbent Senator John Tunney, outlined his proposal for economic recovery, energy independence, busting of large corporations, a plan for the working class and accused Senator John Tunney of accepting campaign contributions from the oil industries.

On economic recovery Hayden said, "We need public participation in economic planning, which includes consumers, workers, the past that the activity technicians, in setting our overall priorities and the use of our resources."

Hayden said that the recent utility rate increase that will help Atlantic Richfield explore for offshore natural gas in Alaska is one of the biggest rip-offs of the California people in all history. He noted that the oil companies all turned gigantic profits last year and these profits should go to exploration and new research, not to dividends to stock holders.
WELCOME — All students new and old to the Cal State P.E. Department. The officers of the Intramural Program are here to provide an opportunity for each member of the College to participate in his or her favorite sport. Intramural activities provide competition for sport enthusiasts. A comprehensive schedule of events is planned each year, ranging from team competition to informal participation by both groups and individuals. New activities are added each year by the staff; often the result of requests by interested students.

Sign-ups are “now” down at the gym on the bulletin board across from the equipment room.

REHAPS FROM 1974
There were numerous foolish activities in the intramural program last year. Richard Rich has once again returned with an idea or two.

Richard also stated that he really appreciates the physical education facilities and enjoys the friendly atmosphere of the staff. They have been more than helpful to all students, and he hopes this will not change.
ESCAPE '75, 76 RETURNS WITH NEW OUTDOOR OUTINGS

Many new and diverse activities are planned for the "Escape '75-'76" Outdoor Leisure Programs, which will be available once again during the fall quarter for Cal-State students and their friends. "Escape '75-'76," which is jointly sponsored by the Student Health Center and the Counseling Center, is designed to offer students the opportunity to learn about and discover California's vast outdoors.

This year the programs will be planned for individuals with experience in outdoor activities, as well as for beginners.

An attempt will be made to create an informal atmosphere which will enable students to make new acquaintances, exchange ideas, and develop personal associations. The objective is freedom, freedom to do, to see, to wonder, and freedom to create.

The outing leaders are volunteers and fees are charged to cover only costs of transportation, food, and special equipment.

The best way to become familiar with the programs is to go on an outing and participate. Suggestions for future outings from students are encouraged and the facilities and equipment are available to all students, and all students are invited to come along and "escape".

General Information

- Transportation arrangements for all outings will be the responsibility of the individuals signing up for the trips. However, whenever possible, an effort will be made to form carpools.

- All outings will require a pre-trip meeting. Interested persons will be notified of such a meeting when they sign up for the outing.

- Priority will be given to students of Cal State. Faculty and staff personnel will be permitted to participate if there is space available.

- All outings are on a first come, first serve basis.

- All costs of transportation must be paid by the reservation deadline. No refunds will be given after the deadline.

- Fishing poles, camping stoves, backpacking stoves, backpacking tents, and backpacks will be available for use from the P.E. equipment room.

- BACKPACKING TO VIVIAN CREEK October 18 - 19

Flu shots available to students

All interested students, faculty and staff may obtain flu shots at the Student Health Center (AD-117) throughout the months of October-December as follows:

- Wednesday: 2-4 p.m.
- Friday: 2-4 p.m.

Additional hours may be added at a later date.

Faculty and staff will be charged $1.00 payable at the Bursar's Office before coming to the Health Center. Students receive this protection for free.

Influenza protection is especially urged for those with chronic illness (especially heart or lung disease) and those particularly susceptible to respiratory infections.

Library opens south entrance

As an experiment during Fall Quarter, the South Entrance (nearest the main parking lot) to the Library will be open weekdays from 8am to 5pm.

Over the years there has been much interest expressed in having the South Entrance opened but personnel shortages in the Library have prevented this. This Fall enough personnel will be available to staff the South Entrance from 8am-5pm on weekdays.

As always, the North Entrance will be open whenever the Library is open.

Book fines are now payable at library

Donald E. Sapronetti, Cal-State Accounting Officer has announced that all library fines will be collected at the Circulation desk in the library.

The fines had been payable at the Bursar's Office in the Administration building. The change in place of payment was made for the convenience of the Cal-State faculty.

Because of rising postage costs, the Office of Admissions and Records will no longer mail notification of student assignments. Students may pick them up in the Records office during normal business hours.

Students are urged to check the information and request changes of record by reporting to the Circulation desk.

A.S.B. organizing Car Pool

The ASB is offering a co-operative car pool service. Students should fill out the form below and send or bring it to the ASB office which is located in a white office trailer west of the Student Services building.

ASB officers will take steps to contact applicants and put them in touch with commuters from the same area.

Students from outlying areas are urged to join the car pool and help save energy.

V.A.O. News

The Veterans Affairs Office will extend its office hours to serve evening veterans this year.

An office is maintained in the Library, room 226 from 5 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

The VAD's regular office is in the Student Services building, serving day veterans. Its office hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Public law 94-276 entitled "The Privacy Act of 1974" went into effect last September. This new law prohibits the Veterans Affairs Office from disclosing any information about a person on the phone or giving any information to anyone about a veteran. This law now requires all business to be conducted on a person to person basis in the office.

The Veterans Affairs Office would like to remind all new veterans taking Physical Education courses that the college only allows a total of 12 units of P.E. to count toward a degree. Thus, any more than 12 units in P.E. from CSCSB will not be recognized by the VA.

American Veteran Benefits Available

It is becoming clear to the Veterans Affairs Office that many veterans on this campus are not aware of the many Veteran Benefits available.

Complete information on all veteran programs is available at the Veterans Affairs Office.
