Student Union Construction will proceed without increased fees

By John Whitehair

The construction of the Cal-State Student Union building will proceed as scheduled despite Governor Brown's veto of a bill increasing student fees for the project.

Brown said no to a measure passed by both houses of the state legislature which would have doubled the maximum fee charged to students in the California State University and Colleges (CSUC) system for constructing and operating student unions.

Cal-State students now pay a $6.50 fee each quarter that will be used to build the Union. The vetoed bill would have increased that fee to $13.

Associated Students president, Raul Ceja, was disappointed that the bill was vetoed, and will travel to a meeting of the California State University and Colleges President Association (CSUCSPA) next week in Northern California where he and the other student presidents will push for a reconsideration of the measure. Ceja stated, "I think the chances are good that Brown will reconsider the bill if we talk to him about it. We really need a Student Union here and I will be doing my part to get it going".

The Union building, originally scheduled to be finished this year has been delayed due to rising construction costs. It will be built on the vacant land west of the College Commons and east of the Creative Arts building under construction.

When finished, the Union will house a large multi-purpose room where films will be shown and dances held, a beer bar and grill, student body offices, a lounge with pool tables and games, music listening rooms, and a newspaper office and darkroom.

Cal-State Dean of Students, Kent Monore, said that Brown's veto of the bill will hurt the students some, but hopes it won't delay construction. "We would be in much better shape with the bill; without it we will have to really economize. We have already cut the costs by $50,000. The original plans called for carpet in all areas. We saved over $10,000 by eliminating the carpet except in the music listening rooms and the lounge. We also had to eliminate equipment, pool tables and games," he said.

Monore added, "If Brown had signed the bill, none of these eliminations would be necessary." The Union is being financed by a complicated plan that will allow it to be constructed even though enough funds have not been collected. At the present time around $300,000 has been collected from student fees, and $450,000 of bonds must be sold to meet the $800,000 construction costs. The bonds will be paid off with future Student Union fees.

Monore said that an increase in the Student Union fee will be necessary after it is built. Inflation, interest payments on the bonds and other rising costs will not be met by the present $6.50 fee. "It can't be operated on a fee of less than $25. yearly. We are looking for ways to cut costs, ways to cut it down to the bare bone minimum and operate it on the present fee," he stated.

The architectural drawings and blue prints are nearing completion and will be given to the Board of Trustees of the CSUC system when completed.

When the drawings are given final approval, bids for construction will be advertised and the necessary bonds will be sold. "Construction will hopefully start by August or September of next year at the latest. Construction will take around 12 months and it should be completed by the beginning of fall classes in 1977," Monore said.

At present there are no facilities on campus for the sale of beer. The Union will have the necessary equipment and a beer license is planned for the Union which will allow sales of beer to students.

Alumni who have been paying the $6.50 fee now for a number of years will be welcome to utilize the building. A member of the Alumni association maybe appointed to the Board of Directors of the Student Union.
Federal government checks Cal-State’s weather

By John Whitehair

That green trailer and radar apparatus located north of the Campus are police fortresses in a secret CIA installation spying on unsuspecting students.

To that end, the trailers are part of the United States Forest Service Research Lab which conducts research on wind currents and temperatures.

The lab research is presently involved in a special research project to determine ways to better predict the weather affecting forest fires and the obtained information will also be used to provide more accurate local weather forecasts.

This includes scholarships, grants, and loans.

Only students who are juniors or seniors next year are eligible to participate in the program, however the farm stay will provide an edge in the competition by planning early. There are openings in majors as well as special programs in selected majors.

A 2.5 grade point average is the minimum for students who are studying in Italy as well as in abroad students who are studying in Italy.

The emphasis of the program is definitely academic and students are chosen to be proficient in their language. Other countries that have no language requirement are Italy, Sweden, Denmark, New Zealand, Japan, and the Republic of China.

The deadline for filing for the program will be November 1.

Costs for the year of foreign study, including transportation, are $2,500 (Mexico) to $4,000 (Denmark), however these costs are much more than the average student would encounter in a year at home.

All financial aids available to the student if his or her home campus are applicable to the overall cost. This includes scholarships, grants, and loans.

Campus Council

Chairperson of the Cal-State Campus Council, Dave Fowler, has announced that the Campus Council requested and received an extension of the deadline for applications to the Campus Council from the Faculty Senate. The nomination deadline for the various faculty-student committees was extended until Oct. 29 so that all interested students may have an opportunity to apply for the positions.

The Campus Council is a sounding board for the representatives on the various student-faculty committees. It is the only organization on campus where members of the faculty and administration meet with students to solve mutual problems.

Representation for the pre-paid dental health plan outlined their program at the Student Senate meeting on Oct. 15. Under the dental plan, students would be able to obtain dental care from a wide choice of local dentists at reduced rates. The Senators would be able to work with the administration to extend the program to other students in the future.

In other business the Physical Education department was granted $600 to pay salaries of lifeguards needed for weekend supervision of swimmers.

United Nations news

Women Veterans who think that they might be eligible for this retroactive payment are urged to contact the Veterans Affairs Office. The deadline for filing for retroactive payment is July 1, 1976.

Library expands services

By Len Ehret

If you stand near the front entrance of the Library for awhile you will hear, as I did, many people expressing thanks for the front door being open. Why are they so exuberant? The reason is that since the new Library facilities were opened in 1971, this is the first time this door has been open. Until now the only way into the library proper was the rear entrance. I asked John Tibbals of the library staff how the change came about.

He said that they had always wanted the door opened but their budget had prohibited it. However as a result of the poll taken last quarter, Mr. Tibbals said that they felt that something should be done. The answer they found was to use student help to tend the door. An added reason for their decision was the closing of the back parking lot to students during the day.

Some of the other changes the library made as a result of the poll were:

- Longer hours open. The library is now open til 9:00 on Sunday nights.
- Easier to pay fines. No more trips to the bursars office. The fines may now be paid at the check-out desk.
- Phone call renewals. Just call the desk during open hours and if no one wants the materials you have you may keep them another two weeks.
- There will also soon be a suggestion box in the front lobby. Any suggestions, complaints, questions, requests for materials and comments will be welcomed. All questions will be answered and the answers posted.
- One issue that our local library could do nothing about was the amount of the fines for overdue books. These rates are set by the State Board and are the same at all 14 state colleges.

The best news this year though is that there are enough funds for student materials requests. All you have to do is ask. For instance: If an instructor has failed to notify the library of required textbooks and you are temporarily short of funds, just holler and the library will send over to the bookstore and purchase it. It can then be checked out for use.

Paintings on display

An important Bicentennial exhibition, "The Balsek Presence in the Era of the American Revolution, 1760-1800," will be on display in the Library during the month of November. The exhibition is circulated nationally by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service.

In a statement accompanying the exhibit, Smithsonian writers had this to say: "The celebration of a Revolution, especially one that promised liberty and justice for all, may provide an opportune moment for a fresh view of one feature of the event that for two centuries has been absent from the official rhetoric of the Fourth of July."

Forty exhibit panels tell the story of blacks during this period by presenting their portraits and deeds in pictures and words — as soldier and sailor, founder of the black church, fighter for equality, organizer of school, lodge, and society; as scientist, writer, poet, artist, captain, physician, freedom-seeker and rebel.

OPINION POLL

This week's question: Do you favor an increase in Student Union fees?

"I really don't see the point in it. I don't see what we get for the $6.50 we pay now, why should it be doubled?"

Mary Keenan, freshman

First, before paying the extra money I want to know what it is going for. If you pay twice the fees, there should be twice the services. If the money goes to the proposed Student Union Building I would at least expect to be able to come back and use the facilities on an equal with other students. I won't pay money to someone for nothing.

Paul Starbuck, senior

I live in the dorms and the Cafeteria isn't open at night. If the Student Union Building provided a place to go at night, had eating facilities, and was open all day it would be a pretty good deal. I wouldn't mind paying the increase.

John Gray, sophomore

"I think it would tend to overbuild the campus. Already there is a lot of wasted space. I could afford it but that doesn't mean I would pay for a building and not know what it's use will be."

Gorden Edwards, junior

My initial reaction is that expenses are already high enough. It doesn't seem too much of an increase to ask for if this is the only increase. I'd go along with it as long as the costs are held down.

John Anderson, junior

"It won't do any good to increase fees if we don't receive any benefits. Besides, I don't expect to be here any longer than two years. Thirteen dollars is expensive when you consider tuition and books. Another way should be found to raise the money, maybe a committee could be established to raise the money."

April Osmer, sophomore

"I would spend the money if the building could be completed before I left. I'm interested in knowing what services would be offered, but the building should be built first."

Margaret Barnard, junior

I sounds good. Students need a place to go to relax, if it is just a building for ASB offices that means nothing to me. I wouldn't mind paying the extra fee as long as it benefits the student body, otherwise I can't see the point in it.

Mike Lambert, senior

"It depends on what you will get. They ask for more money but a lot of time you don't get more for the money. The proposal is not acceptable, I haven't seen where the money goes now, and I've been here four years."

Debbie Urquijo, senior

I'd have to know what we'll get for our money. Is it an increase because of inflation, or will we be paying for additional benefits?

Anna Ashley, senior

Russian and American Naval Authority to speak

An authority on Russian and American naval strengths will speak at the World Affairs Council dinner Thursday, Oct. 23 at Cal State, San Bernardino.

Norman Polmar, American editor of "Jane's Fighting Ships," will discuss the "Soviet-American Naval Balance." Polmar is the first American to hold an editorship with the London-published work. In addition he is vice president of Santa Fe Corporation, an analytical planning firm in Washington, D.C.

Polmar was formerly an executive with Lulejian and Associates, for whom he directed a number of studies, primarily related to maritime activities, advanced weapons and technologies, and the development of military strategy.

Polmar has traveled extensively in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East, and during the summer of 1973 visited the Soviet Union as a guest of the Soviet Institute of U.S. Studies and the Soviet Navy.

Among his publications is "Aircraft Carriers: A History of Naval Weapons," which was named as the most notable naval book of 1970 by the Naval Institute. He also has contributed to "Proceedings," and lectured at the Naval Academy on World War II naval weapons.

Polmar has traveled extensively throughout the world, including Europe, North Africa and the Middle East, and during the summer of 1973 visited the Soviet Union as a guest of the Soviet Institute of U.S. Studies and the Soviet Navy.

At present he is preparing the first in a series of new military books, "Combat Aircraft Directory," which will describe the air forces of all nations.

Cal State will hold its students and guest from area colleges at a "dialog with Norman Polmar" from 3 to 5 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 22, in the fifth floor of the Library building.

Further information may be obtained by calling Dr. Richard Ackley, associate dean of academic administration at Cal State.

Cal State, San Bernardino is one of 30 colleges and universities in the area which are sponsors of the World Affairs Council. Membership in the council is open to all interested individuals. The cost is $15 per year, for an individual or a couple.

Every day is Cal State day. Show your I.D. and get a pitcher of beer for only $1.00. Every Monday night there is a dart contest and on Thursdays football fans have their chance.

Our College Plan.

$1 a month buys all the bank you need.

Bank of America's College Plan is a complete banking package just for students. It's simple, convenient, economical and includes everything you're likely to need. Here's what makes it so useful:

1. The College Plan Checking Account.
   Unlimited checkwriting for just $1 a month. With no minimum balance required. And no service charge at all for June, July, August, or for any month a balance of $300 or more is maintained. You get a statement every month. And the account stays open through the summer even with a zero balance, saving you the trouble of having to close it in June and reopen it in the fall.

2. Personalized Checks.
   Yours inexpensively. Scenic or other style checks for a little more.

   For students of sophomore, standing or higher, who qualify, the College Plan can also include BankAmericard. It's good for tuition at most state schools, check cashing identification and all types of purchases. Parental guarantee is not required. And conservative credit limits help you start building a good credit history.

4. Overdraft Protection.
   Our Instant Cash helps you avoid bounced checks, by covering all your checks up to the limit of your available BankAmericard credit.

5. Educational Loans.
   A Bank of America specialty. Complete details are available from any of our Student Loan Offices.

   Lots of plans to choose from, all providing easy ways to save up for holidays and vacations.

7. Student Representatives.
   Usually students or recent graduates themselves, our Reps are located at all our major college offices and offer individual help with any student banking or financial problems.

Now that you know what's included, why not drop by one of our college offices, meet your Student Rep, and get in on our College Plan. $1 a month buys all the bank you need.

Depend on us. More California college students do.

Intramural Flag Football season begins

The 1975 Intramural Flag Football season began with a bang last week as six powerful teams tested their skills against each other. The league, organized by Diane Jackson, and Dave Fowler, Christie Beaudin, Kathy Hordinsky, Keri Grunest, and Diane Bloecker, almost overcame a 12 point halftime deficit, but the determined SISSIES finally prevailed, 19-14.

Sports personality profile

Diane is a sophomore at Cal State, and is presently living in the dorms for her second year. She came to Cal State from Skyline, where she attended Aalos Verde High. Diane has always been active in sports, and her basic philosophy concerning physical education is that everybody needs it, it is a definite release for tensions, and probably the best way to meet people. In P.E. there is a common interest among the participants and it makes it easier to make friends.

This past summer Diane played for the KB-Mart softball team in 29 Palms, and also coached the Blue Planers all girl softball team. In High School Diane participated in basketball, volleyball, and baseball, stating that basketball is probably her favorite. This fall Diane plans to play on an intramural football team consisting of five other players. The members of Diane's team, "US," are Tracy Carter, Kristy Beaudin, Keri Grunest, Kathy Jackson, and Dave Fowler. Diane plays softball and volleyball with organized teams from dorms, and stated that this was a good release for her excess energy, and she enjoys the company of fellow students.

Commenting on the intramural program, Diane stated that she really enjoys the activities, and that definitely the PE department provides all the required, and extra equipment necessary for physical fitness. Diane would, however, like to see more female involvement, and interest towards sports. As she stated the opportunity is there, and should be taken advantage of. Diane's hoping that this year there will at least be two women's teams from the dorms alone.

Diane will finish up at Cal State this year as a sophomore and transfer to Cal State Chico to finish up with a major in PE.

Bits & Pieces

Volunteers needed for career day

How would you like to help high school students find answers to their questions concerning college and choice of a future career? Cal-State San Bernardino is sponsoring a Career Day for local high school students on Thursday, Oct. 30.

Career Day will provide an opportunity for high school students to become familiar with Cal-State and will help them decide on their choice of major field of study.

The high school students will participate in an area of interest of his or her own choice and will be able to sit in on Cal-State classes. The academic areas available will include Public Administration, Business Administration, Humanities, Social Sciences, Education, Natural Sciences, Physical Education, and Recreation.

Cal-State students are needed to help in registering high school students, and they are also needed to assist the high school students in finding their way around campus, answering their questions and mingling with the students at lunch.

Cal-State students who volunteer to help make Career Day a success will receive a free lunch for their services.

Further information may be obtained from Lorraine Smith, Activities Advisor, in the Student Services building room number 143, phone number 887-7409.

Deadline for bus trip nears

If you like to drink beer or enjoy all the excitement of an amusement park, you won’t want to miss out on the Busch Gardens bus trip on Oct. 25.

This trip to the Southern California version of Bavaria, is being sponsored by the Cal-State Activities Office as part of their Escape ’75 program.

October festivities include a full swing night at the Gardens with a Brass band and many other attractions imported directly from Germany.

Interested persons must sign up quickly as that buses may be chartered for the trip. Further information may be obtained from the Activities Office, phone number 887-7009.

Published poet will speak

Jonathan Griffin, English poet, journalist and translator, will speak at Cal-State at 1 p.m., on Friday, Oct. 24.

The public is invited to the talk, “Poetry Today,” to be held in the Lecture Hall of the Physical Sciences Building.

Griffin will discuss the importance of poetry and where it’s going, according to Dr. Helene Koon, chairperson of the English department, who will introduce him.

Among his works are “The Hidden King,” a play about Sebastian of Portugal, which was presented at the Edinburgh Festival in the mid-fifties; and three books of poetry, the most recent of which is “In Time of Crowding.” The author is a regular contributor to “The Journals of Pierre Menard,” which two years ago published an issue exclusively devoted to Griffin’s work.

Among his translations are the poetry of Ferdinand Pessoa and Rimbaud’s “A Season in Hell.”

“He translates poems into poems,” Dr. Koon says.

After graduating from New College, Oxford, Griffin became a journalist, covering key events in Europe during World War II. He was in charge of broadcasts emanating from England for foreign underground reception.

For a number of years Griffin was attached to the British embassy in Paris, resigning in 1954 to devote his time to writing.

The lecture is the first in the College’s distinguished speaker series.

Amateur tennis tournament planned

The San Bernardino School of Hope is sponsoring an amateur tennis tournament on Nov. 8 & 9 and 15 & 16.

Matches will be held at various San Bernardino area tennis courts and at CSCSB.

Entry blanks and additional information is available from the School of Hope, 24554 Sixth Street, San Bernardino, phone number 884-6484.
