Rita J. Simon Speaks On The Insanity Defense

by Elrond Lawrence

A world-renowned scholar in the fields of sociology, criminology and law will speak on the Insanity Defense at Cal State, San Bernardino on Wednesday, Nov. 13. Professor Rita J. Simon, Dean of the School of Justice in the American University, will present a lecture discussing The Defense of Insanity from 12 noon to 1:30pm. It will be held in the Eucalyptus Room in the Lower Commons. The event is being sponsored by the Intellectual Life Committee at CSUSB.

As well as being a former editor of The American Sociological Review, Dr. Simon has authored a number of books and professional articles on criminology, sociology and law.

The topic on which she will speak, the Insanity Defense, has a special relevance in current issues, due to its influence in the outcome of trials concerning figures such as Dan White (the "Twinkie Defense") and Richard Ramirez (the "Walk-in Killer"). Recently, there have been several suggestions to change sentencing and legal definitions pertaining to this issue — suggestions which Dr. Simon will address.

An informal meeting with Dr. Simon is planned after the formal lecture. The lecture itself will be videotaped, and will be available for teaching purposes in the future. For further information about the event, call Sandy Weiser at 887-7943.

Theatre Arts Presents
"The Clandestine Marriage"

by John Purcell

The Clandestine Marriage is a play written by David Garrick in the 18th century. The play is being put on by the CSUSB Theatre Arts Department and will run November 14, 15, 16, 20, 21, and 23. The play starts at 8:15pm and tickets can be purchased in the Theatre Arts Department Office in the Creative Arts Building. $5.00 for General Admission and $2.50 for Students.

Dr. Ronald Barnes, director of the play, is excited about the production. Having worked on putting the play together since September 26, when auditions began, Dr. Barnes has found that the play is quite special. He sees putting this particular play on as a challenge since the comedy of the play is somewhat hidden by the 18th century English which it is written in. "The actors didn't find the comedy in the play right away," Barnes says, "But as they went along they started to notice it. The challenge is that they have to transmit the humor to an audience that has just one night to understand it."

The cast members include Alicia Aultman, Carol Lynn Damget, Jay Garcia, Manuel Gomez, Kelly M. Greard, Dagmar Handlos, Kenneth Herring, Michele Marko, David A. Pavco, Chris Ross, Tam Silver, Stephen Steele, Laura Vehlione, and Phillip J. Wurtzel. The cast ranges from freshman to senior. Several members do attend CSUSB, however some come from schools as far away as Michigan and Texas.

Dr. Barnes stated that there is an unusually large number of freshmen in the play. He attributes this to the graduation of many of last year's students. However, some students have had to drop.

What Is Toastmasters?

by Susie Leonard

Toastmasters International met officially on Friday, Nov. 1 in the Student Union Building Room A & B. The president of the organization is Glen Thompson.

What is Toastmasters International? It began as a club organized in Anaheim, Calif. and a third followed in Los Angeles. During the 1930's another club was formed in Victoria, British Columbia, the name of the club was then changed to Toastmasters International.

Membership in Toastmasters International is open to anyone who wants to improve his/her speaking and leadership skills while learning to communicate clearly. This same year, a comprehensive listening program was introduced to further help members develop their communication skills.

Today, club membership is approaching 4,000 members. So, if you would like to communicate more clearly, develop leadership skills, be able to overcome meetings and get encouragement from other members while learning to speak more effectively—then maybe Toastmasters is a club for you to join.

If you are interested in becoming a member, call Glen Thompson at 381-3507.

MEET THE FIRMS NIGHT

This Friday, November 15, the Accounting Association of CSUSB will be sponsoring their third annual “Meet the Firms Night.” In attendance will be a wide range of Accounting professionals from the national Big-Firms of Ernst Whinney and Price Watershouse to the local firms of Soren, Abernethy, Bartells & Wolchof and Vavrniek, Triine & Day. There will also be representatives from such government agencies as the Internal Revenue and the Defense Contract Audit Agency as well as accountants from the private sector.

In prior years many students have found “Meet the Firms Night” presented them with a golden opportunity to informally interview and network with the representatives from a wide range of accounting firms and enable them to add to their network of job contacts.

All accounting students are encouraged to attend, there will be no charge for admission. Food and beverages will be available.

In addition to making job contacts, students can present to the recruiting representatives questions about their specific firm to access whether their firm will provide the student with the type of work that he/she is looking for and what it would be like to work for that particular firm.

Health Center Presents AIDS Awareness

On Tuesday, November 12th, the Health Center presented an informative film on AIDS. Both informative and entertaining, the film depicted the disease's manifestations and the necessity of its prevention. Following the presentation, attendees participated in a question and answer session.

1. Are all those persons infected with the AIDS virus going to die of AIDS?
   a. No, it is not. Its prevalence is among a high risk population comprised of:
      1. Homosexual/bisexual men (73% of cases)
      2. IV drug users (17% of cases)
      3. Heterosexual men and women with multiple partners (only 1% now, but this figure is expected to rise)

2. How Could A Person Get AIDS?
   a. Sexual contact with a known carrier (carrirer means one who is asymptomatic, but has a positive antibody; has AIDS Related Complex (ARC), or has full blown AIDS). Susceptibility has been overstated in popular media.
   b. Percutaneous inoculation from used needles or blood products of a known carrier (IV drug abusers)

3. Could I Get AIDS If I Shook Hands With Someone Who Has AIDS?
   a. No, there are many mistaken ideas floating around on ways that people can contract AIDS. You cannot get AIDS by:
      - living with and touching a carrier
      - sexual acts that cause damage to the mucous membranes (anal or buccal mucosa. Repeated exposure increases the risk)
      - coming in casual contact with a carrier in a classroom or other public places.
      - using a washbasin, toilet seat, shower after a carrier, or using a swimming pool, hot tub, or shower with or after a carrier.

Other relevant information you should be aware of is:
   a. In regards to contagion, the virus is carried by 5% of the adult population. This translates into a real potential of one million carriers within the next several years of which 5-20% will contract the full blown syndrome, another 30-40% may contract AIDS Related Complex (ARC), and the remainder will possibly be carriers for their lifetime.
   b. The virus is present in all the body fluids of a carrier, but when exposed to air or water is short lived. No case of saliva-to-saliva transmission has yet been documented, but exchange of saliva through kissing theoretically carries some risk.
   c. Testing for antibody is useful for screening blood donors, but not the general population because of false positives and inability to predict who, among the positive, will develop the disease.
   d. As the majority of carriers are asymptomatic, quarantine is of no value in controlling transmission.

The Making of "Mona"

"Mona", a rock & roll video about the life and martyrdom of a young girl, will be shown Nov. 18 at 1 pm and again at 7 pm in the SUMP. There is no charge.

The song "Mona", singer-songwriter Doug Cameron's testimony to the resolve of a 16-year old girl who was hanged with a dozen other women and children by Iranian revolutionary authorities solely for her religious beliefs, has steadily climbed both Canadian radio and television video charts since its release there late last summer.

The song and video were released in the U.S. in September and have received steady airplay in several regional markets and some airplay on MTV as well as local music video shows.

Accompanying the music video for the campus event is a short documentary on the making of the video, which includes interviews with Doug Cameron and celebrities and relatives of Mona's, as well as country的距离 Seals and popular artists Seals & Crofts.

The event is being sponsored by Cal State's Baha'i Club. "The video has already been shown on quite a few local music video channels, which, lamentably, has gripped Iran."

"As is pointed out in the documentary, the martyrdom of Mona and the other women and children reflects the frustration and sheer lack of human values of those who have committed these atrocious acts. It has been their goal to force Iran's Baha'is to recant their faith," Heister said.

"Mona's case is particularly touching because in their effort to force the Baha'i women they had kidnapped to recant, to say they are not Baha'is, the authorities hanged them by one as the others watched. Mona asked to be left so she could pray for the spiritual strength of the others."

Times offers internships

by Jerry Nye

Los Angeles Times' internships, paying up to $350 a week, are available to Cal State San Bernardino students, according to Include Williamson, an L.A. Times representative.

Williamson said that three types of internship programs are available. All are paid and temporary. None of them are considered entry-level positions.

Opportunities for go-getters; Gophers need not apply

Summer internships provide full-time, temporary work for students and for recent graduates, for a total of 12 weeks. The positions are available in the Times suburban bureau, and in regional offices such as San Gabriel.

Approximately 25 positions are available for this summer. The file deadline for applications is Feb. 1. The Times expects about 500 applicants for the summer of 1986.

Summer internships usually have previous intern experience at other newspapers. Williamson points out this is not a requirement, but it is highly desirable, because they work more independently.

Academic internships provide part-time work during the school year for students in their junior or senior year at the time the internships begin, but sophomores are urged to apply.

Specialists can help you write--the right way

by Kimberly Amos

Students needing assistance in writing can receive it Monday through Friday in the Writing Center, located in SS 174.

The CSUSB Writing Center has a staff of 11 tutors who help 35 to 40 students a day.

"If a student is willing and wants to improve and comes in, they can't help but become better at writing," said tutor Robbin Hart.

Part of the Writing Center's goal is to provide support for students in composition courses such as English 99, 100, 101, and 495.

The majority of students are seen on an appointment basis, but drop-in hours are provided Monday 9-10am and 2-3pm, Tuesday 9-10am and 2-3pm, Wednesday 9-10am and 2-3pm, Thursday 10-11am and 3-4pm, and Friday 9-10am and 11-Noon.

To apply, interested applicants should send a cover letter explaining their reasons for desiring to participate in the internship program with the Times.

A resume with at least four references, a listing of any previous journalism work experience, and at least eight published samples of work should also be included.

Applications should be sent to Intern Coordinators, Editorial Training Program, Times Mirror Square, Los Angeles, Calif., 90053. All applicants will receive a postcard in approximately six weeks. If approved they will be invited in for an interview.

Wilkerson states that if additional information is needed or questions arise, interested parties may contact her or Larry Lang at 1-800-LA-TIMES.

Registration will be streamlined

by Midge Thornton

CSUSB will adopt a computer assisted registration system next fall to provide more efficient scheduling and availability procedures.

The early registration to be held in late April will help adjust the class schedule according to student demand, CSUSB registrar Jo Ann Von Wald said. The registration is held early enough to drop or add courses from the schedule.

Students receive early registration materials in March and April, and will be able to register early until August 19. The only requirement for students to register early is advising prior to registration, Von Wald said.

Registration materials can be mailed or returned in person. The new registration will take less time, for students to complete.

Early registrations will receive a confirmation schedule in September. If there are conflicts in scheduled classes, students participate in a priority add/drop before walk-through registration for late registrants.

The system is similar to those already in use at other CSU campuses. Carol Jones, registrar at Cal State Fullerton, says the system there is very effective and makes registration easier for everyone involved.

She recommended the system for any campus. "Regardless of the number of people you're dealing with," Jones said, "the system is very effective."

Ms. Jones admits that problems do occur with the system, but the errors are almost always human.

Statistics show that 68 percent of the students at Cal State Fullerton get complete and accurate schedules with the computerized system, Ms. Jones said. Students who don't prefer machine-processed schedules participate in a special add/drop before priority add/drop and walk through registration.

CSUSB Hits The Bigtime?

by Chris Ellis

The appearance of George Plimpton last month brought a near capacity crowd to the Student Union Multipurpose room. The people were amazed at his accounts of how he literally put himself in the shoes of participants in just about every major league sport as well as at least one reputable symphony orchestra while writing for Sports Illustrated.

This past weekend, the controversial political comedian Wally George (who emcees the “Hot Seat” show on KOCE TV) appeared on the Cal State campus. George, who ridcules various “klt wing liberals” on the air, will appear.

The appearance of these “big names” at CSUSB has many students talking about this one time sleepy little back-water college finally becoming a respectable institution. But others are pointing to the big league costs of having such notables come and speak, and asking if it’s worth it. They say the SUMP or Recital Hall (where noted UFO researcher Robert Hastings will speak on Thursday, Nov. 7) do not sell enough tickets to even begin to make a dent in the enormous cost. For example, it cost approximately $4,500 (which included airfare and accommodations) to have George Plimpton speak for 250 people who paid $2.00 each if they were students, and $3.00 each if they were not students. An area with a seating capacity of 2,000 or more would be far more appropriate if we are to recoup any significant amount of such expenditures.

However, Sandy Weitzer of the A.S. Special Events Dept. believes there will be “indirect benefits in the long run,” because of the increased publicity and attention that will be drawn to Cal State by the appearance of noted speakers. According to Ms. Weitzer, this will ultimately result in greater student enrollment as well as an increased popularity of the school, and an even more impressive reputation. Also, once enrollment has grown enough, the school can afford to build a new large auditorium that will seat enough people to make big name speakers a financial asset. The financial losses being incurred now are only temporary and can be considered the price to pay for building CSUSB’s reputation as a cultural as well as an academic institution, which is extremely attractive to prospective students. Nevertheless, A.S. is considering a ticket price increase for non-students from $3.00 to $5.00 to help lessen the impact of current expenditures.

After all, Ms. Weitzer points out, just being located in Southern California puts us in some heavy competition with numerous large and respectable universities. We have to be willing to pay the price if we are going to make it against the “big boys.”

Coyote Invitational Debate Tournament

by Susan McClain

Granted, I have only been a student here for about five weeks, but I thought I knew my way around campus fairly well. That is until Saturday, Oct. 19th.

The last threads of my sanity were seriously challenged when I came to my campus and walked into what I thought was my Student Union. A feeling of disorientation suddenly overwhelmed me, as though I had just gone through a time warp. It looked like total disruption had occurred. Long tables were in the middle of the room, chairs were scattered everywhere, and the floor was wall to wall people. It was all completely unfamiliar to me.

I finally came to the determination that I hadn’t completely gone crazy, this was actually the CSUSB Student Union. Our campus had undergone an invasion by strangers from a very strange foreign land—high school. The students were here for the Second Annual Coyote Invitational High School Speech and Debate Tournament, sponsored by the CSUSB Communications Department.

Then it was too late to turn back. I had been sucked into the excitement of the tournament. I joined the ranks of “the unsung heroes” made up of students and staff, who decorated the hall, cooked and from food and sleep, to help with running the tournament.

I quickly learned that it wasn’t as easy a job as I thought it would be working behind the scenes. I figured, what all could there be to running a debate and speech tournament? I thought all we would do was answer a few questions and tabulate the results. Wrong!!

We answered endless questions, tabulated what were probably thousands of ballots, ran errands to every possible building on campus, posted lists of participants for rounds, assigned judges and then tracked down people to replace those judges who never showed up to get their ballots. Then we had to rise very early for work, recruit a few more judges, and get to the second time around we should do it all over again, wouldn’t we? Of course, but I think the second time around we should be prepared with emergency food rations and sleeping bags.

Coyote Invitational Debate Tournament
