Speaker exposes evidence

William Spiropoulos opened his lecture on the assassination of John F. Kennedy by telling the audience that he would ask them to be the jury and decide, on the basis of the evidence he would present, who killed the late president.

By the time the three hour program was over, no one was certain who was responsible for Kennedy's death; however, Spiropoulos did show that the Warren Commission either concealed or ignored important facts.

Spiropoulos and his organization have been working on the case for three years, and their purpose is to get the government to reopen the investigation and release the suppressed evidence to the public. Some of the more revealing statements Spiropoulos made were the following:

A Secret Service man rode on the back of the presidential car until 3 blocks before Kennedy got shot. The agent left his post because he was tired, possibly because he was out drinking late the night before.

A policeman on a motor cycle, who was riding alongside the president's car, turned off onto a side street just seconds before the fatal shots rang out.

Lee Harvey Oswald worked for the FBI in November of 1963, he received $200 per month.

Jack Ruby was scheduled to testify before the House UnAmerican Activities Committee in 1957, which Richard Nixon was a member, but was scratched at the last minute, probably because he worked for the CIA, according to Spiropoulos.

There were other attempts on Kennedy's life, one in France and the other in Chicago, and one in Dallas seven days earlier.

The Zapruder film was shown several times which shows in detail that all of the shots could not have come from the Texas Book depository building from which Oswald fired his rifle.

Other slides were shown which contradict the government's theory of no conspiracy and a lone gunman.

One slide which was a computer analysis of a picture of the grassy knoll at the time of the shots indicates a person was there, hiding behind bushes with a rifle.

Spiropoulos asked the audience to write to their representatives and demand a new investigation. He said that Gerald Ford should not be a candidate until the case is cleared up.

Folksinger and dance planned

Los Angeles songwriter and singer, Karla Bonoff, will perform her latest hits in the Lower Commons on Wednesday, April 21, from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Karla has recently appeared in numerous clubs and at colleges in the Southern California area.

She was a member of an A & M Records recording group which included Wendy Waldman and Andrew Gold.

"Woke Up This Morning", a song written by Karla, was released as the group's first single.

Currently one of Karla's compositions, "Lose Again", is being performed and will soon be recorded by Linda Ronstadt.

Recently another song, "Isn't It Always Love", was released by Karen Alexander for Asylum Records. The tune became the album's title and was also released as a single.

Dance set for Friday

A dance, sponsored by the Cal-State Sophomore Class is planned for Friday night, April 23, from 9 p.m. until 2 a.m. in the small gym.

Providing the rock 'n roll sounds will be "Anthony Garcia and Company," and a new local group, "Essence," will also be performing.

All Cal-State students and their guests are invited to attend.

Advance tickets are one dollar, at the door the price goes up to $1.25 and non students must pay $1.50.

Tickets are available at the Cal-State Activities office, SS-143.

Paul Martinez, an organizer of the event, was quoted as saying, "everyone come and boogie to some heavy sounds."

Student Senate Forms Committee to Study Dept. Funding

At last week's Student Senate meeting, an ad hoc committee was formed to study the funding of College departmental activities with ASB fees.

Senator Fred De Haro made the motion to form the special group after much discussion of a proposal before the Senate to let the Inter-Organizational Council (IOC) handle all future department funding requests.

Some Senate members were concerned that requiring the departments to go through the IOC for funds would add another level of bureaucracy to student government.

On other business the Senate approved an emergency funding request by M.E.Ch.A.

The group requested $1950 for their Cinco de Mayo activities. The money will be used to pay entertainers and speakers.

A report on bad checks which were cashed at the bookstore revealed that so far only part of the insufficient funds checks were collected on. The ASB guarantees all students' checks for $20.

A proposal for $400 for a banquet for the outgoing ASB officers was passed and sent on to the Executive Cabinet for approval.

Various other actions were taken at this, the first meeting this quarter of the Senate.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 21, at 4 p.m. in C-219.

Benefit Showing of "Attica" Scheduled

A special benefit showing of the film "Attica" will be held on Wednesday, April 21, at 2:30 p.m. in the Lower Commons.

The event is being sponsored by the Frank Shuford Defense Committee.

Frank Shuford is a 23 year old black man who was a community organizer in Santa Ana before he was sentenced after two trials for a crime his supporters claim he did not commit.

A spokesperson from the Orange County based organization will be present to answer questions.

Shuford's supporters say his conviction was a total frame up.

Shuford's first trial ended in a hung jury; the second jury found him guilty and he received a sentence of 20 years to life in prison for assault with intent to commit murder.

The crime he allegedly committed occurred in February 1972, when three men shot and seriously wounded two clerks in an Orange County market.

Shuford was the only person arrested in the case, and he claims he was home watching TV at the time the holdup took place.

Shuford's supporters say that he was blamed for the crime because attorney appealed to the fears of the all white jury by calling Frank a "revolutionary trouble maker."

According to a recent article in the Daily Titan, both the prosecuting attorney and the investigating officer "conceded they are not certain that Shuford is the right man."

Shuford's staunch denials, the lack of physical evidence against him and the growing effort aimed at his exoneration have led to doubts about his conviction.

The prosecuting attorney admitted that it is unusual for him not to be certain about the case.

In spite of the prosecutions doubts and the growing support from friends around the country, Shuford has been denied bail pending appeal by the California State Supreme Court.

His lawyer, Barry Litt is appealing the conviction, and with the assistance of the American Civil Liberties Union, trying to get a new trial.

Shuford was the director of the Santa Ana Community Youth Council (CYC), and he helped organize hundreds of young people to bring about change in the community.

For his work in providing free of his community organizing activities and his attempts at stopping heroin dealing in Santa Ana.

In Shuford's two trials, no physical evidence was produced against him, and the prosecuting food and clothing programs, counseling programs, and a prize winning drill team, he received a letter of commendation from the mayor of Santa Ana.

Rick West heads Veterans Affairs Office

Of all the faculty and staff on the Cal State campus at San Bernardino there is one man who probably has more contact with the student body than any other person. If everyone in whom he has an interest came to his office, there would be a lineup from the Student Services building almost to the Library. These people would number some 1,400 which is almost one-third of the total student body.

Who is this man with the greatest potential to give real service to all these students? He is Richard J. West, the Vet. Rep. on Campus, and the only person who can resolve your VA problems that are directly concerned with — money. The stuff that keeps you in college.

Rick, 31, is a native of Tucson, Arizona, and has a BS in Social Environmental Sciences from the University of California, Riverside. The degree is now two years old, but his son, Michael, is only seven months. Rick and his wife, Jeanne Marie, live on the UCR campus where she is in the Master's program, working toward her graduate degree in public administration.

Rick came to Cal State on December 2, 1975, replacing Wayne Painter who headed north to Missoula, Montana in the dead of winter, to be the new Vet. Rep. at the University of Montana.

This is Rick's second assignment as a Vet. Rep. on Campus. He entered the Veterans Administration after graduating in '74 to begin his training, a general OJT program that lasted two months.

From there he was sent to UCLA for a special two-week intensified course in Vet. Rep. problems and procedures. And then came his first job as a Vet. Rep. The Los Angeles regional office sent Rick to Mr. San Antonio College (Mt. Sac) at Walnut, CA, which is near Pomona.

Rick worked there for 14 months, serving nearly 4,800 vets with one other Vet. Rep., and he learned, fast, how to handle their problems.

The Vet. Rep. job could become a hassle if Rick would let it, but he doesn't. "It's a direct challenge to me," he said. "I really like that. When a vet comes in here with what seems to him to be an insurmountable problem, and I can lick it for him, that makes me feel great."

"One thing I learned really fast at Mount Sac," Rick said, "was never to assume anything. Always get all the facts first, then get into the problem-solving business. You have to have all the facts," he said, "and that can be the biggest help that the vet with a problem can give to me. Like Sergeant Joe Friday, 'give me the facts, man, All I need is the facts.'"

Rick said that when he was doing the undergrad bit, he never really understood about Vet. Reps. and what they could do for him. He just figured that if his check didn't come when he expected it, that it would show up — sometime.

"I don't want the vets here ever to think that way," he said. "Here I am, at your service every school day. I can, and want, to help every vet who has a VA problem."

Even after two years of it, Rick actually likes VA work. He gets solid pleasure out of helping a vet get what is coming to him in the way of VA benefits. "It's a funny thing," he said. "When there is a difference of opinion between the vet and the VA, more often than not the vet is right and the VA stands corrected."

There is an explanation for some of the VA errors, however. Rick said that during the past two years the veteran population of this country has doubled, but that overall VA staff has remained stable. In other words, every VA employee, from office clerk to Vet. Rep. on Campus, is now doing about twice the amount of work he or she did two years ago. Hence, the problems. The computer is not omnipotent, it takes people to feed the info into the machine, and people make mistakes. Also, it is not entirely unknown for a machine to go berserk on occasion and raise Cain with its output.

Rick said the Los Angeles regional office, which handles the records of you vets here, now has about 148,000 veterans on its rolls, scattered among 80 colleges and universities — for educational benefits alone. When you consider the additional thousands of vets and dependents, who are being taken care of, you can understand why the computer sometimes garbles things.

"Getting back to the facts business," Rick said. "There are certain things that I have to know if I am to help the vet. I have to know about any checks he has received, and how much they were for; I have to know about any change of address he might have had; I need to know — and this is really important, if any of his dependent children have reached the age of 18, and I need to see any and all letters he might have received from the VA. Any and all information is needed," Rick emphasized.

"Only if I have all the available information can I get right to work on the vet's problem."

"Suppose it's a check problem, it almost always is," he said. "Once I have all the information I can get from the vet himself and from his file that is kept by the certification clerk, I can get with the LA office and do some checking on my own. I have to make certain that the vet's basic entitlement (the 36 months) is still in effect. I have to make sure the school has certified the vet, and I have to find out if that information is really in the computer tapes. After all that, I have to find out if any overpayments have been made (VA letters often have this information) and I have to check on the number of eligible dependents. All this, and more, has to be determined before I can get into the problem," Rick said.

Now comes the good part. Rick says that if all the information on the vet checks out o.k. with the LA office, and if everyone concerned has been doing his job, the overdue check should arrive within a week. And now comes the bad news. If the vet has forgotten to notify the LA office, through the VA office in the Student Services building, of any change in his status, then that information has to be sent to the computer and it can take at least 25 days for the check to arrive. Rick also said that in really fouled up cases, the check could be as late as three months. But — the check will arrive.

So, the moral of the story is clear. Keep your VA files up to date and you shouldn't have any problems with late checks, checks in the wrong amount, or no checks at all.

"It's great stuff," Rick enthused, "when you can tell a vet that he is going to get some of that long green in the near future. I know how it was when I was a vet student, sweating out those monthly VA checks, and I appreciate the problems that the vet brings to me, and I do everything in my power to help him get squared away with that machine in LA."

There is one more item that Rick needs from the vet who has a problem. Trust. Complete trust in him and his ability to get things squared away in short order. "I've had the training for this work, and I've got a good deal of practical experience behind me," he said. "There aren't many problems that I haven't heard before and fixed up. And then, if I can't hack the problem, the LA office can. All it takes is a phone call to get things rolling."

Money problems, however, are far from the total of Rick's job, or responsibility. He is your on-campus source of The Word on all kinds of VA information and bennies. The VA pension program is a big thing with Rick who feels that it has not been publicized at all on school campuses. Not too many college vet students are ready for pensioning, we grant you. But, did you know that, as a vet, if anything should happen to you your wife and children are eligible for certain VA pension plans? No one likes to think like that, but accidents do happen.

Rick's the boy, then. Your Vet. Rep. on Campus. Got a VA-related problem? See Rick in the Student Services building, or give him a buzz at ext. 4092 — and get it solved.

Mental health lecture set

"Mental Health Issues and the Culturally Different Client" is the subject of a lecture by Dr. Hector Myers of UCLA at Cal State, San Bernardino Wednesday, afternoon, April 28.

The public is invited to join Cal State students and faculty at the event, which will begin at 3 p.m. in the Lower Commons.

Myers is an assistant professor in clinical and community psychology at UCLA and director of research for Frantz Fanon Research and Development Center.

Business Opportunities for Women through Rho Zeta Chi

Rho Zeta Chi Business Sorority will hold a meeting on Tuesday afternoon, April 20th, at 3:00 p.m. in LC204. This club is geared towards the opportunities of business-oriented women on this college campus. Rho Zeta Chi works with the other 3 business clubs at Cal-State, the School Administration and the Board of Counselors as far as dispersing curriculum, career and employment information and getting together for various social ac-

He is also director of the children's early identification, consultation and training program at the Central City Community Mental Health Center, Los Angeles Mental Health Department.

The ability of the culturally different to benefit from mental health programs will be discussed by the psychologist.

"The assumption is that they can't, because a non-culturally sensitive model for mental health intervention is used," he says.

"The strengths of the culturally different are not taken into contivities.

On Tuesday we will elect new officers for the 1976-1977 school year so, freshmen, sophomores and juniors are especially encouraged to attend. Your club participation will help you meet other Administration majors and professors, find out about job prospects - and it will also look great on your resume.

Bring yourself and a friend! Take advantage of THIS opportunity!

sideration. They must be included in the mental health program."

Myers' talk will be of special interest to persons involved in help-oriented programs, said Dr. Christopher O'Hare of the Cal State psychology faculty, who is arranging the lecture.

The psychologist is mental health consultant to the instructional and counseling staff of Los Angeles area elementary schools, Riley School for Pregnant Teenagers and the nursing staff of the South East Health Center.

He has served as consultant with the national Educational Testing Service, and the Los Angeles departments of probations and adoption.

Published next year will be a book written with L. M. King and F. T. Price, "The Black Child: Psychosocial Issues," available now in its preliminary form and currently used as a text at UCLA.

The lecturer, born in Panama, received his A.A. degree in behavioral sciences from the Canal Zone College in 1966. He was awarded a Latin American Scholarship which brought him to Claremont Men's College.

After graduating cum laude from Claremont, he earned his doctorate in clinical psychology from UCLA in 1974.

Music recital scheduled

Charles Talmadge, senior music major, will perform five selections on the piano in his senior recital Sunday, April 25 Cal State, San Bernardino.

The public is invited to attend the recital, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Lecture Hall of the Physical Sciences Building. There is no charge.

Talmadge, son of Margart and Eugene Talmadge, San Bernardino, has played the piano since he was seven and is currently studying under Marie Astor.

He plays cello with the Riverside Symphony, sings baritone in the Collegiate Chorale organized by Roger Wagner, and is organist and choirmaster at San Bernardino Valley Church of Religious Science.

He expects to graduate with a B.A. degree in music from Cal State in August.

For his recital Talmadge will play "Sonata No. 9 in C major, Op. 103" by Prokofiev; "Sonata in D" by Haydn; "Prelude and Fugue in B minor," by J. S. Bach; "Saraband" from Pour le Piano by Debussy; and "Early Morning Bath" from Holiday Diary by Britten.

Talmadge attended Cal State, Fullerton prior to coming to the San Bernardino campus in 1974. He has been president of the Concert Choir and member of the Chamber Singers here.

Prickly Pear Extends Deadline

The Prickly Pear has extended its deadline to include your manuscript.

Editor Christie Heslep said the response has been so overwhelming, the staff decided to add one more week in order to gather all the remaining gems of literature floating round the campus (and forgotten desk drawers) that haven't already been turned in to LC 248 (the English Department office).

"They have until next Tuesday (April 27th) to get their work to us."

PawPrint sources have even heard that the college literary magazine is so deluged with material, it might be printing every poem and short story that comes their way.

So now is the chance to see your work in print.

Send it in while the presses are still hot (and don't forget to include your name, address and phone number).

"Deerslayer" Next in Bicentennial Series

It's back to the buckskins for the third offering of the Library's Bicentennial film series. James Fenimore Cooper's "The Deerslayer" will be shown at 11 a.m. Tuesday, April 20, and again at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 21, in the Listening Facility on the Library's fourth floor.

Featuring Lex Barker, Rita Moreno, Forrest Tucker, Cathy O'Donnell and Jay C. Flippen, "The Deerslayers" points up exciting adventures in America's early years.

A frontiersman raised by Native Americans, Deerslayer and his friend Chingachook, their chief, battle against greedy white men.

If you're surfeited with Native Americans and forest warfare, come along and see this one anyway. Have you ever seen a lousy motion picture with Forrest Tucker in the cast?

And again you're reminded that you can watch flaming arrows, superb marksmanship and America growing up while munching your lunch. Library rules against food and drink are suspended for these film showings only.

Fencers and Fencing Fanciers Invited

The Cal State Fencing Team will be holding periods of free fencing in the college gym on Sunday afternoons from 1:00 to 4:00.

Both the standard practice equipment and the newly arrived electrical gear will be available for practice.

Everyone is invited to attend and those who have been a member of Harwood's fencing classes during the past are invited to participate.

Wanna be editor?

Applications for the position of PawPrint editor for 1976-77 are now available in the Dean of Activities office.

April 23 is the last day to file for the job. Candidates must have a 2.0

GPA, be of Junior standing and must obtain two letters of recommendations from former instructors or employers.

Further information may be obtained by calling 887-7409.

Mike Hughes,

Vice-President Candidate

My Class standing is Freshman. I have been active in student body government since I started attending classes at Cal State last Fall. I am currently taking Pol Sci 100, the class in student government offered here on campus. I am treasurer for the Inter-Organizational Council; I am vice-chairman of the Veteran's Club; and I am a member of the Social and Good Times Association, for which group I fill the position of advertising secretary. Within the I.O.C. I am a member of the Club Chartering Committee, the Executive Council, the committee to put on Spring Fling '76, and am a member of the Constitution and Rules Committee, for which I have been involved in extensive study of not only the Student Body Constitution and Bylaws, but also Robert's Rules of Order, the framework of rules that governs the operation of our student Body Government, as well. I have been a constant observer of our student body Senate meetings and have familiarized myself thoroughly with its operation.

I am a member of the Cal State Fencing Team and my outside interests include membership in the San Bernardino City Bagpipe Band.

Jane Cecil,

Candidate for A.S.B. Treasurer

I would like you to consider my qualifications for this office. I am presently completing my second year in AS Government on the Student Senate as a senator-at-large. Listed are my reasons why I feel that I am qualified to hold this office next year.

This year I have served as Chairperson of the Appropriations Committee, which is one of the two permanent Senate Committees. I have been responsible as the Chairperson to meet on a regular weekly basis and at all times know the status of the ASB funds. The Appropriations Committee is responsible for reviewing all financial requests submitted to the AS Senate. As Chairperson it has been my responsibility to research each request individually so that the Committee can make recommendations to the Senate for consideration. This involves keeping a current ASB budget for the Senate and Executive Cabinet. This year I initiated an efficient method of informing the AS officers of the status of the ASB monies. A full report is reproduced each week and distributed to all AS Senators so they will know the effect of any allocations made in the Senate on the status of the ASB Budget.

As Chairperson I have also attended Executive Cabinet meetings on a regular basis so that Senate decisions that need ratification can and are explained. My attendance record for the Senate is perfect, minutes are on file to verify this. I have worked closely this year with various ASB Committees and Campus Departments, including Activities Committee, Publication Board, I.O.C., Child Care, Sports Committee, and Student-Services. Also Disabled Students, EOP, Bookstore, Music and Drama. A great deal of money is budgeted each year and as our student population increases so does the budget. You need a responsible person that not only understands what is involved in dealing with a large sum of money but is available daily, five days a week. This means that you would have a treasurer available to sign purchase orders, check disbursements and to check on the posting procedures, or just to answer the questions of interested students who wish to know where their money is being spent. According to the AS By-laws the Treasurer shall be a member (non-voting) of all AS Committees that deal with AS funds. I am familiar with this responsibility as I mentioned above that I have as Chairperson of Appropriations Committee this year performed in this capacity. In accordance with the AS By-Laws I shall furnish the Senate and Executive Cabinet with quarterly reports which has not been done in the past, with the exception of the reports I furnished this year for Appropriations.

I feel that with my experience the past two years working with the Senate, that governing body on campus that initiates the spending of ASB monies (your money), that I am qualified to be your Treasurer. I fully comprehend the responsibilities this job involves and am willing to fulfill those obligations.

Jeff Baker,

Candidate for A.S.B. Vice-President

Energetic government is the solution to many of the problems now facing CSCSB, and energetic government can only be achieved by electing individuals to office who are willing to put forth a lot of time and energy. I am willing to put forth my time and energy towards making the office of ASB Vice President a full time job.

As a Political Science student I know the problems of administering a government and although I haven't served in office before I have studied the ASB government at Cal-State thoroughly and I feel I could do the best job as Vice President of this school. My main attempt will be to close the gap between ASB government and the students on this campus.

My major issues are more activities on this campus for students and more services for night students.

I strongly urge you to vote because this is the one voice in government that you as a student have. . . Vote Jeff Baker for ASB Vice-President.

Dorothy Glover,

Write-in-Candidate for Sr. Class President

As a candidate for Senior Class President, I would like to concentrate my efforts on expansion of services for the Evening Students who comprise 37 per cent of our student population. Also I feel there is a need for more activities that involve the whole student body rather than a select few.

I feel I'm aware of the problems and possible solutions of Evening Student because I am employed in the Evening Services office in the Library which is open Monday through Thursday 4:30 - 8:30 p.m.

I have also been active in student government as a Junior Senator for the past year.

As an up and coming senior this is my last chance and yours to make good use of your student body fees.

Candidates for Office — Vote Weds. or Thurs.

Robert d'Silva,

Candidote for Sr. Class

I am running for this office because the needs of the new Senior class are not being met.

It is my sincere hope to do the following in the upcoming year:

1. Expand the car pool service.
2. The cafeteria hours should be expanded for the evening students.
3. Gymnasium hours should be expanded more for the evening students.
4. Make the Student Government work for the students.
5. More movies for the students.
6. More recreation on weekends for all the students.
7. Publicize the Book-coop.

Therefore I ask for your support on election day (April 21 and 22). Finally I am looking forward to serving the Senior-Class next year.

John d'Silva,

Sr. Class Vice-President Candidate

It is my sincere hope that next year I will be able to represent the Senior-Class as Vice President. As Senior-Class Vice President I plan to accomplish the following:

1. The expansion of the car-pool service for the Senior-Class.
2. Open the cafeteria for more evening services.
3. Open the gymnasium till 10 p.m. M-Th.
4. Request more news articles on student government.
5. Make the student government responsive to the needs of both day, and night students.
6. Bring more movies to the college campus.
7. More recreation for the students on the weekends.
8. Try to create more publicity on the book-coop service.

It is my sincere hope that through these services the Senior-Class will remember their Senior year as being the most memorable of their years here at Cal-State.

Please vote for me on April 21 and 22.

Diane Glyn,
Write-in Candidate for Soph Class President

I am a "write in" on the ballot for the office of Sophomore class president.

I will bring more activities to the CSCSB student body and make sure activities planned are made known public to the entire college campus!

The 1976-77 academic year is sure to be a year filled with the activities all students at CSCSB have been asking for!

These activities depend on you; WRITE ME IN!

Thank you.

Tony Brown

Sr. Class Senator Candidate

I am a Political Science major. This is my first quarter here at Cal State. I am an ex-Catholic seminarian. I am a Libra. My G.P.A. is 3.13. I have held several class offices before both in high school and in College, I am 23 years old.

What is the price of education at C.S.C.S.B? Is it a mind, a soul, one's ground of being even? And if so, why? Is it because it is a state funded college and not a private one? Does it boil down to the aphorism of whoever pays the piper gets to pick the tune? Will my success as a student and a candidate depend on how well I can charade the conservative right wing values? I ponder the above questions as I decide on whether or not I wish to run for senior class senator. Then with regard to the administration I wondered just how much pepperty is involved in the working of the campus on a whole. For instance the screening of candidates for class offices; how much hand does the administration have in it? The amount the administration has in it will determine the degree of freedom students have as an independent voice. My prior questions can only be answered by a personal surmise on my own observations. And I suppose I could use other opinions to throw light on the issue to afford myself other views.

State Colleges were set up, it seems, to give students of limited income the opportunity to pursue higher education. Colleges are set up for students to be educated not as camps of a particular political and moral orientation. Colleges are institutes of education not of indoctrination. And as such there is an emphasis on freedom, an element vital to growth. A college is a place to gripe with problems and conflicts, especially in theory in order to handle them in practice; therefore both and all sides of every issue should and are exposed equally in time and effort and degree. This fosters a termperment of tolerance and understanding in the educated college graduate.

A concentration camp on the other hand is concerned with conformity and has already made up the answers. The questions are not even brought into play because the concentration is in getting the answers down throats. Freedom in any form must take itself along with dissent away outside. A concentration camp asks for minds to stamp and to close rather than to stimulate and to open.

The educated mind is being asked everyday to make the leap above in order to judge or objectively and arrive at truth. There can be no established framework or boundaries not even if the builders pay to sustain the minds. The truth is truth like a rose is a rose is a rose. Thus the mind

Paul G. Martinez,

Candidate for Jr. Class President

As the only candidate for Junior Class President, I feel my interest in representing the Junior Class as well as my experience in politics deserves your vote. I would encourage all students to vote and take an active interest in our ASB Election, and I would truly appreciate your vote.

Thank you,
Paul G. Martinez

must be free to make the leap at truth, justice and understanding. I am me. If I change or grow in to something other than what I am it will be through an act of volition, not coercion. I like who I am and where I have been going. I move not to be changed by pressure alone.

I refuse to pimp white capitalist values. I don't subscribe to ebony bourgeoisie. Anything that resembles a chocolate flavoured American apple pie is not me. My stance as a black man is for freedom, dignity, respect on my terms and the right to define myself and my values. The president of the B.S.U. to whom I am in debt, bless her heart, has assured me of her and the B.S.U.'s support and aid in campaigning. I support the B.S.U. and all other black organization that helps my race. I love my black community and try to contribute to it and look to it for warmth and inspiration at times.

I am, however, very much aware of own uniqueness and individuality which affords me some independence and a voice of my own. If I am elected I'll be supportive of the B.S.U. and be a voice for all student especially minority student concerns. This is not so noble because any policy or issue black related will affect every black no matter how independent or individual. My point however is, I am me first and honest self-expression and true self-presentation takes precedent over being an exemplary black student or a B.S.U representative. I wish to thank the people who were kind and patient with me. And I will forget the??? who were not, God bless them.

Philip D. White,
Soph. Senator
Candidate

As your Sophomore Senator I would like to emphasize and support activities which appeal to a wider spectrum and greater majority of the students here at Cal-State.

I feel our student activity fee could easily give greater benefit to the entire Associated Student Body.

I would also like to see active representation of student interests in faculty-student policy-making.

I would appreciate your vote at the polls April 21 & 22.

Nanette Jansen, Sr. Class Senator Candidate (picture not available)

Apathy among college students toward their Student Government is a major concern today. Young people who fought to lower the voting age to 18 have failed to exercise their right to vote in federal, state, and local elections; campus elections fall towards the bottom in a list of priorities. These same people, however, are among those to criticize their country, state, city and college.

Involvement, then, is the key to any improvements which are sought. I would like to become involved in the government of CSCSB in the capacity of Secretary of the Senior class.

I entered Cal State last summer, a transfer student from California Lutheran College, and Western New Mexico University. This fall I became a member of the Student Affairs Committee and have recently (in January) become the Chairperson. I am a Student assistant in the Dean of Students' Office which puts me in touch with students, faculty and staff. My major is history with a minor in business Administration; my GPA is 3.5. My goal after graduation is to attend Law School. I feel that my involvement on the Student Affairs Committee, my job, and my desire to serve qualify me as a candidate for this office.

Kim Warner, Candidate for Jr. Class Senator

As a Junior Class Senator candidate I feel that when elected there is much I can do to help, by voicing your opinions on what you would like to see happen on campus. I feel that there has been a decided lack of activities on campus this past year, and I would like to see this changed.

In the upcoming year I would like more dances to be held along with additional and better movies shown. Along with these I would enjoy viewing the intramural program improved with more people getting involved. Next year can be a very good year and I hope to help make it a good one, with your vote.

California historian will speak on Thursday

An eminent California historian, John Caughey, will speak at Cal State, San Bernardino in the afternoon, and at the San Bernardino County Museum in the evening of Thursday, April 22.

The Cal State appearance, at 3:30 p.m. on the Fifth Floor of the Library Building, is presented by the college as a bicentennial observance.

The college is co-sponsoring, with the San Bernardino County Museum Association, the museum talk, which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Both lectures are open to the public without charge.

Caughey's topic, chosen in recognition of the bicentennial, will be "Two Hundred Years Ago in Southern California." He will explore the events of the 1770s in California and bring his listeners forward to the present time.

Caughey taught California, western and American history at UCLA for 40 years, until his retirement in 1970. For one year, 1929-30, he taught at San Bernardino Valley College.

Among his numerous books are "History of the Pacific Coast," "California," "Their Majesty the Mob," "The Pueblo Water Right of Los Angeles," "McGillivray of the Creeks," and "Hubert Howe Bancroft, Historian of the West."

One of his books, "Gold is the Cornerstone," was re-issued in 1975 as "The California Gold Rush" and is cited by historians as basic to understanding that period in the state's history.

A new book, soon to be released, is "Los Angeles, Biography of a City," written with his wife, La Ree Caughey.

Caughey was technical director for two Paramount films, "California" and "Copper Canyon."

He served as consultant from 1949-65 for the California State Lands Commission. He assisted the Department of Justice with historical information on the use of the California coast in Spanish and Mexican times, relative to the question of whether the federal government should have the tidelands.

As a consultant in another legal case, he contributed historical information involving the water rights of the Los Angeles river.

For 32 years, Caughey served as Review. He is a past president of Pacific Coast Branch of the American Historical Assn., the Organization of American Historians and the Western History Assn.

Among the fellowships he has received are a Native Sons of the Golden West grant providing a year's archival study in Spain on Spanish North America; and stipends from Princeton and the Rockefeller Foundation for research on western hemisphere history.

In 1971 he was given the Henry Raup Wagner Award by the California Historical Society.

Sports car rally planned

The Social and Good Times Association of Cal State San Bernardino, better known as SAGTA, better known as those drunken burns that hang around the Racers Tavern have decided to throw a rally of the sort that involves automobiles and stop-watches.

These raggedies have been having so much fun trying to find their way home after a hard night drinking they have decided to share the fun with you.

SAGTA President Dave Fowler, after he had been dragged out from under a table and slapped awake, informed the PawPrint that this madness will be held on April 24, 1976, Saturday, and will commence with a drivers meeting at 1 p.m. in the CSCSB parking lot, with the rally to start at 1:30 p.m. The rules will be explained and fees, $2.00 per car, will be collected.

The rally will be run on a very informal basis. Classes are scheduled for stick shift and automatic transmission, and occupants are limited to two, one driver and one navigator.

All the equipment required will be a wristwatch and a speedometer that works. Prizes will be awarded in both categories.

This event is strictly a seat of the pants affair with rules of some indefinable sort and possibly Tee shirts will be provided for Rally participants.

SAGTA also wishes to take this opportunity to invite everyone to its regularly scheduled club meetings on Wednesday nights at 8:00 at the Racers Tavern. (Our meetings coincide with student-faculty night so we can take advantage of the low priced beer.)

Softball season rolls on

By Rt. Hon. Katzenjammer, Esq.

The scouting reports have finally come in from the first week of exhibition action in Softball.

In a tight 15-7 dual, the SOB's (School of Business) edged Montezuma's Revenge. MR got off to an early 4-2 lead, but gave up 11 (eleven) runs in the 3rd and 4th innings to put the game out of reach. Coach Marla Myers of the SOB's was particularly pleased with the slick fielding of Dave Runner (yes, that is his real name, just like Monte Pearson) but is looking for a deal for center fielder George Epps. She was offered two towels and a can of dog food by The Kazoo Stooges but turned down the offer saying she couldn't morally rip off the Stooges like that.

Montezuma's Revenge had some hitting and fielding problems, but otherwise looked pretty good. Right now they need only to increase their sociopathic tendencies. Mary "Killer" Abrahams was fined by Coach Katzenjammer, Esq. for smiling too much. They did unveil one bonifide ball player in Val Devlin who drove the SOB's crazy with her deft fielding. Jim Roessler was the MR's other bright spot hustling for everything in sight.

The Kazoo Stooges were scheduled to play but their opposition was scared by the competition. A valid scouting report cannot be given at this time, but rumors persist that they graze their players before each game.

The Sweathogs at this time are an unknown quantity, but we hope to see them when the real season starts.

This week's play gets underway for Co-Ed Volleyball triples and Co-Ed tennis. There is still time to get involved so don't be left out.

Golf tournament set

By Wanda DeWitt

Those dastardly duffers, the pros from Dover, are back again this quarter ready and willing to take on all comers in intramural golf competition. The course this quarter will be "El Rancho Verde", located on Country Club Drive in Rialto. All contestants must play 18 holes, scratch golf.

The Dover Boys, Roy, Monte, Effrem, Jack and Ben, literally tore up the course at Sunset Dunes last fall and will tee off as the favorites.

In order to compete, one must play 18 holes on any day between May 1 and May 9. All scorecards, signed by a witness, must be submitted to the Intramural Coordinator by 5:00 p.m. Tuesday, May 11. Green fees are $4.00 mid-week and $7.00 weekends.
