CSUSB
Week Recognizes Women's Roles in History

by Theresa Ross

National Women's History Week is being celebrated this week, beginning March 2 and ending March 8. This annual event is scheduled to include March 8th, a date proclaimed "International Women's Day" around the turn of the century. This day was established to recognize the tremendous part women played in the organized labor movement.

Throughout history women have been early leaders in every movement that led to progressive social reform securing their own right to vote in 1920 to leading our country's underground railroads, and later the civil rights movement.

National Women's History Week was designed to encourage the study of women who have contributed to civil rights and human rights. Stories of these courageous women will hopefully inspire others to contribute their own special talents towards our fight for equal opportunity for all.

Women have made many advances since they won the right to vote in 1920. Today women are the majority of our campus, and now comprise 56.7% of our nation's workforce. The "gender gap" is now a deciding factor in our national elections. In 1982, three of our country's governors were elected by female voters. Women are now becoming political leaders and are now playing a major part in the social reforms that are necessary to safeguard our country's future.

In the United States only 78% of our families are comprised of a working father and homemaker wife. Today 25.6% of our nation's families are headed by single mothers. Our society has failed to adapt to these drastic changes, making the "American Dream" impossible for increasing numbers of our children.

The inequalities in wages is of grave concern, with the lowest average now earning $6.08 per hour while the lowest rate for women is $3.35 per hour. Unfortunately 80% of our women are employed in low paying occupational categories that offer few if any benefits and little reward for superior performance.

"Women: Builders of communities and dreams"

Nationally 46% of households living below the poverty level have an absent non-custodial father who pays no child support. The fact that only 19% of divorced fathers continue to pay child support three years after a divorce has forced many families to turn to our government for financial help. The fact that a mother can earn much more money on AFDC than she can from contributing her labor has locked many of our country's families in poverty, and the despair of depending on government for support. Unfortunately, the plight of older women is equally severe.

"Women: Builders of Communities and Dreams" is the theme for this year's week of study and reflection. The Cal State Campus Organization for Women has scheduled a week of inspiring lectures who will share their knowledge with us. We are all affected by the "feminization" of poverty, since society is put at risk when increasing numbers of our country's future leaders are being supported by women who can not afford the "luxury of work".

Scheduled speakers for this week include Dr. Dorothy Motten, assistant professor of Communications; Evelyn Wilson, Mayor of San Bernardino; Judith Rymer, Executive Dean of CSUSB; Shanna Clark, City Clerk for San Bernardino; Wilma D. Carter, Rialto Board of Education member; and Susan Reddy Butler, from the American Association of University Women.

Saturday, CSUSB will host a Business and Professional Women's Conference in the Cal State Commons from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Club Meeting

The next meeting of the Gay and Lesbian Union will be held on Tuesday, March 11 from 12:00-1:00 p.m. in Student Services 171. We will have a presentation on "Political Action" from a representative of P.A.C.E., Political Action Coalition for Elections. We will discuss political activities. Students, faculty and staff are encouraged to attend. For more information, contact faculty advisor Dr. Craig Henderson, Dean of Student Office, 887-7524.

Hunger in America

by MCtuse E. McDowell

The National Student Campaign Against Hunger has launched a new program to combat hunger in America. The campaign has set up an Action for Community Transformation (ACT) has been established to provide financial assistance to student projects, as well as a summer expedition to Africa for students with the most effective way to solve hunger in America. ACT is made up of three components: a resource center for organization; a speakers bureau that includes experts dealing with hunger problems and an incentive fund that will provide small grants for projects that require financial assistance.

San Bernardino Sees the Appearance of Two Astronomy Exhibits

by Melrose E. McDowell

Two astrological exhibits are currently on display at the San Bernardino County Museum until June 1st. The first, "Our Changing Planets: Landforms on Earth and Beyond", is a series of photographic images showing the effects of earthquakes faults, wind, water and man upon the Earth.

Status Of Women

There will be a meeting to form a campus Commission on the Status of Women Tuesday, March 4, from 2:00 to 3:30 p.m. in the Lower Commons. At this meeting we will define the issues such a Commission might consider and establish a steering committee to direct the Commission's efforts. All members of the campus community are invited to attend and become members of the Cal State San Bernardino Commission on the Status of Women.

Scholarships Available

The Association of Hispanic Faculty and Staff is offering three $100 scholarships for the 1986/87 academic year to currently enrolled students with a grade point average of at least 2.5. Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office. Apply now—the deadline is April 1, 1986.

Dean Search Enters Semifinal Round

by Melissa E. McDowell
The search for three candidates to fill the positions of deans on campus continues.

J. Cordell Robinson, Associate Vice President of Academic Personnel, reports that the three committees assigned to pick deans for the schools of Humanities, Business and Public Administration as well as Social and Behavioral Sciences have selected semifinalists from resumes received since November.

"The selection process has been moving along smoothly," says Robinson. "The only trouble we are having now is all the things happening during March." He explained that members of the committees have other things going on such as finals, spring break and registration.

"Because March is proving such an awkward month, we decided to push our target date ahead into April," Robinson added. "But within the committees themselves things are going very smoothly."

Dr. Stella Clark, acting dean for the school of Humanities, is among the semi-finalists for that position. Dr. Piero, acting dean for Social Sciences, chose not to submit a resume and therefore is not trying for the position of permanent dean of that school.

Robinson says applications have come from all over the county and many were from the Cal State system itself. "Each committee made significant efforts to ensure women and minorities were not overlooked," he said. "Business is, unfortunately, the only school where some women are not semifinalists."

When the committees have reached their decisions on the finalists, they will be asked to attend an open forum on campus. Only those faculty are asked to attend and ask questions.

In order to increase participation in the selection process, the forum will be held in the Student Union.

Robinson asks that anyone with suggestions on how to improve involvement with this stage of the selection process contact him in the office of Academic Personnel.

Forensics places at yet another tournament

by John Purcell
Members of the CSUSB Coyote Forensics team attended the 1986 Raisin Center Forensics Tournament hosted by CSU Fresno Feb. 21-23.

The seven member delegation consisting of members Steve Cogen, Karen Eilers, Steve Kemp, Elvis McClain, Berrie Moreno, John Schaefer, and Matt Webster came home with four second place trophies. Eilers won a second place trophy for her performance in the individual event of Junior Varsity Extemporaneous Speaking.

McClain won second place in Junior Varsity Persuasive Speaking. And the team of Moreno and Webster each won trophies for their second place finish in Duo Dramatic Interpretation.

According to Director of Forensics, Mike Hope, "The team of Moreno and Webster has done consistently well in competition. Their success is due in no small measure to the excellent coaching provided by Dr. Amanda Sue Rudinili." Dr. Rudinili is Professor of Theater Arts. She has really helped us make our duo interpretation team excel in this competitive event," Hope said.

The debate team of Kemp and Schaefer posted a 3-3 record in 1.V. debate and just missed breaking into the elimination rounds of the tournament.

The small team's success was the best percentage-wise of any of the fourteen teams at the tournament. They finished seventh in the overall standings, besting such prestigious teams as CSU Hayward, CSU Sacramento, UC Santa Clara, and Stanford.

Market Research Opportunities

Do job opportunities seem limited? Come and see Robert Hellman, President of Field Management Associates as he speaks on job opportunities in the field of Marketing Research. Mr. Hellman will be the guest speaker for the Cal State Marketing Association meeting March 5th at 12:00 noon in the lower commons in the Pine Room (125).

Mr. Hellman received his Master’s degree in History at Long Island University and completed his undergraduate work at Lafayette University, Pennsylvania. After several years experience as the Project Planner for a major marketing research supplier called A.H.P., he opened a Riverside franchise of Field Management Associates—which is a marketing research firm.

His presentation on Wednesday will include a discussion of three levels of marketing research and the job opportunities available in each of these areas. The lecture will be open to the general public. Students who have not yet chosen what direction to take in terms of their career are particularly encouraged to attend.

Make a point to attend this informative lecture Wednesday, March 5th, at 12:00 noon in the Lower Commons Pine Room.

This Is Your Student Union Take Advantage Of It!!

by Shewna McLean
Did you know that you, as students, pay for the Student Union? The majority of the operating budget comes from Student Union fees collected from all students at registration. The Student Union is a non-profit corporation run by a Board of Directors as an auxiliary of CSUSB. Because the Union receives no state monies, even the building itself was paid for by student funds. Thus, students, this is your Union!

The Union is an important part of many students' college lives. Without it, many of us would not have a place to eat, meet, work, or just hang-out. How familiar are you with all of the services located in your Union?

S.U.M.P.
The Multi-purpose room, or SUMP, is used for dances, receptions, orientations, festivals, and guest speakers (remember Wally George?). The SUMP is the largest meeting room on campus besides the gym.

Information Counter
At the Information Counter are literature racks for on- and off-campus activities. S.U. Staff stationed there handle ESCAPE signs-ups, after hours service, and general directions to anyone needing help.

Offices
Associated Students, The Chronicle, and the Book Co-Op are also located in the Union.

Services
Also located in the Student Union are pay phones, a copy machine, lockers, and a computerized information board.

Patios
On mild days, students can sit on the patio near the snack bar and in the atrium under colorful umbrellas.

Comfort, relaxation, recreation, food, meeting areas, or a place to work: the Student Union serves many functions to us students. So spend more time there, after all, it belongs to YOU!
Whatever Happened to Sunday Drivers?

by Randy Smith

Some time ago Motor Trend ran an article describing the habits of many drivers. After viewing these habits myself, I felt compelled to make a list of my own "auto antics" that apply to a lot of fools who drive with a license of a cereal box top.

No-Passers-those people like to drive a pulsating 45 mph while someone is behind them, and then, when somebody attempts to pass them, their sudden acceleration becomes a top-fueler and they speed up to 60 or 65. I realize that this is sometimes as unconscious a reaction, but there must be millions of people out there who like to do this sort of thing everyday. Maybe they are employed by some car company to test throttle response and driver awareness under highway conditions.

Left-Laners-They're similar to the no-passers except they like to stay in the left-lane and maintain a speed of 45 mph. Driving under the speed limit is fine, but I think the left-lane is the wrong place to do it.

Blinkerites-Don't you love people who like to make turns without signaling? Turn signals are not an option, they are there for a reason.

Freeway Beasts-knew it never ceases to amaze me how people will spend all morning getting dressed and still be dressing in the car while driving. Maybe we should just live in our cars since we also eat in them half the time.

Over-the-Road Informers-I want to know how these people can read the newspaper and watch the road at the same time, not worrying about the cars they cut off in the process.

Gapaters-It's true that space should be allowed between cars as a safety measure, but two miles? I guess you'd never have to worry about smoke fumes from that diesel in front of you.

Blinkerettes-As the name suggests, they are related to the Blinkerites, but the Blinkerettes like to turn on their turn signals on you about two miles before they turn. And if they never turn, it's even worse.

Four-Way Stoppers-Even been the first person at an intersection, only to be the last one to leave? Have people forgotten what is right and left?

Tailgaters-I hate people who like to ride the bumper of the car in front of them. They act as if riding your bumper will bring the wind velocity to an equilibrium with their car's aerodynamics. Come on-this isn't a race. I like to hit the brakes when people do this, but maybe that's being too nice, they deserve more.

Color-Blinders-Since when did red mean "GO"? Everybody's in such a hurry that even if it's yellow two miles in front of them, they zoom through the red when they get there.

This is only a handful of the antics that I could think of. After all, I've got to start watching the road, there may be somebody else on it.

Movie Review

"Bedroom Eyes" doesn't deserve a second glance

by John Purcell

An incredibly rotten piece of filmmaking came out last Friday. It's called Bedroom Eyes. The movie is about a stockbroker who, on his nightly job, stumbles on to a house where the most bizarre things go on. He is attracted to the window by a flashing red strobe light. After witnessing an exceptionally lewd act he hears someone coming and runs back to his car.

But, unfortunately, that is just the beginning. To go further into the plot would be to give the film much more than it deserves because it is a stretch of the imagination to even say the story has a plot. I should, however, make note of one of the actresses. Her name is Barbara Law and the stars as the women Mr. Ross, our stockbroker turned peeping-tom, comes back night after night to watch through the conveniently open window. Barbara Law probably puts on one of the worst acting performances I have ever witnessed. However, I should also note that the film isn't one which calls for the acting talents of a Meryl Streep or even a Bo Derek. It merely calls for her to remove her clothes in numerous scenes. I must stress my feelings of sadness for her since, at the beginning of the film her credit said, "Introducing Barbara Law as Jobeth." This leads me to believe that it is her first major acting role. Law should pray that very few directors and casting agencies see her in this film because, if they do, it will surely be her last.

Believe it or not the film is supposed to be a mystery. However, the mystery is a very small one and, though it is supposed to be the big storyline, it seems secondary—actually fourth or fifthary—to the almost continuous perp se the film is. Bedroom Eyes is definitely one to pass on.
Are You Covered?

Don't wait until it's too late! Many of our students have no health care insurance. Basic health care needs must not be put at the Health Center on campus. However, for some unfortunate reason, a student requires hospitalization or other medical services not provided by the Health Center, she or he can end up with some staggering medical bills. To help students with this problem, the Health Center offers a student accident and sickness insurance plan through a private insurance company. This plan is designed to provide coverage for emergency situations, while keeping the cost as low as possible. It is basically a hospitalization plan, since it is assumed that students will use the Health Center for their basic medical care, and use the insurance only for those services not provided on campus.

A number of conditions are specifically excluded under this voluntary insurance plan. These are detailed in the brochure. It is important to note that any medical condition that existed prior to purchasing the insurance will not, repeat, will not be covered. This insurance does not cover hospital expenses, but it certainly helps. Student coverage is effective from March 26 to June 15 for $41.50, or from March 26 to September 15 for $83.00. Coverage is also available for a student's spouse and/or children. The plan has a Basic Benefits portion that covers up to $2,500.00. Expenses above this amount are covered for 80% (the student pays 20%) after a deductible of $100.00. The maximum coverage for any one illness or accident is $20,000.00. The benefits and exclusions of this plan are explained fully in the brochure available at the Student Health Center. Be sure to read it carefully and understand the coverage before purchasing the insurance. Keep in mind that this insurance can only be purchased until April 25 to cover you during the Spring Quarter. Don't procrastinate-check it out today.

Just a Reminder: March 5th is the day you can get free dental screening on campus. Loma Linda University School of Dentistry students and faculty will be on campus screening for prospective California Dental Board patients. No appointment is necessary, and it takes about 15 minutes. You may qualify for up to $300 worth of free dental work. Stop by Room 219 in the Upper Commons between 11:00 and 2:00 and 4:00 to 6:00. They will also be located in the Student Union lobby from 2:00 until 4:00.

HOW TO BATTLE DATE RAPE
by Jackie Wilson
On Thursday, February 20th in the S.U. Senate Chambers, "Avoiding Acquaintance Rape" was the topic presented by Joan Wells, Executive Director of the San Bernardino Rape Crisis Agency. This program was sponsored by the Cal State Organization for Women.

Mrs. Wells brought up some interesting facts about date rape, noting that men pay more attention to a female's behavioral messages rather than their verbal messages which can imply exactly the opposite of the other. The behavioral message that you send in a situation increases the possibility of the other person acting on it. She also pointed out that when a female is in a date situation and at anytime she feels uneasy, she should get out of that situation as soon as possible. Recognizing dangerous signals and behaviors and responding appropriately can prevent a rape.

Pay attention to your gut reactions and feelings. It is a fact that 1 out of every 4 college women have been victims of rape or of attempted rape and that 90% of these women knew their assailants prior to the attack. For more information and literature on acquaintance rape, please contact the San Bernardino Rape Crisis Agency at 1875 North Hospitality Street or at 882-5291 or 1-800-222-7273.

The Chronicle
March 5, 1984
Dear Mable:

I feel so adolescent. I've got a full-blown crush on this person in one of my classes. I lose my mind whenever this person is near and cannot keep my eyes from looking. It must be equally uncomfortable for the both of us.

I've tried drawing nicely and making intelligent input during class, to no avail. But, the other day we made eye contact and what seemed to be an advance was made but I became nervous. She said "no," I have a boyfriend I made but I became nervous.

My friends tell me I should ask her out. They insist the worst she can say is no or she can go out with you. Either way is better than not knowing at all. Besides, there are only three weeks left in the quarter.

Mable

Dear Mable:

Someone is trying to drive me crazy. I've had my tires slashed three times since Labor Day, and in my fuel tank, and most recently death threats. I've got two possible suspects; my ex-boyfriend or my father's murderer. (My father was shot when I was 16 and his murderer is out on parole.) I've approached my ex, but he denies all. But he recently showed up at my place of employment and was transferred closer to my home. He used to be so rational and sweet. I can't believe it would be him.

The police already suspect my father's murderer, should I also approach him myself?

Signed,
Ready to Drop

Dear Ready:

You're in quite a predicament. First of all, be sure to utilize every safety measure available to you to ensure your well-being, as well as those around you. Secondly, yes, you should alert the police to your concerns regarding your ex-boyfriend. It's a thin line between love and hate, an old cliché but appropriate. He may not be the culprit but, you'll be that much safer if the police are aware. Lastly, try to stagger your daily schedule. This will keep you from being a sitting duck and more apt to notice frequencies of situations and people. Be careful.

Mable

Dear Mable:

I am currently a student here at CSUSB. I have a rather large crush on this girl in the dorms, and I think that I'm in love with her, but I have a problem. I'm gay. She is aware of this, and we've spoken many times about "us" a lot, and we are both confused. I am afraid to change my lifestyle of fear that our relationship won't last when she graduates, and she's afraid the change of lifestyle won't last. I'm so worried. My friends object to me seeing a girl and her friends the same about a gay man. What do we do? Please help us!

Sign me,
Secret Lovers

Dear Secret Lover:

This is a very touchy subject for a mere advice columnist, but I think the answer is very simple. You believe you are falling in love, and I can only answer her feelings are the same. If this is the case, do as your heart tells you, and not what your/her friends tell you. As far as changing a lifestyle, and keeping it there, well, if you both are willing to make a go of it, then your love for each other should pull you through. If you feel I haven't answered your question, perhaps the two of you should visit the counseling center on campus. They're trained professionals and it's free. What can you lose?

Mable

Dear Mable:

I am a dorm student, and I have a huge crush on this guy who lives in the Shandin dorm. He is so cute, and I find myself so nervous every time I see him. It seems that he is always everywhere I look. When I am at lunch or dinner, I sit where I can see him, even though I lose my appetite when I see him. We exchange glances always, and he once said hello in passing at dinner. I couldn't believe it. From my room, I can see him lay out in the quad, and I can't help but look stupid by staring when he walks by. I don't know if he's going out with this girl he's always with or not. I'm too shy and scared to ask him to lunch or something. What do I do? Thanks, and be flattered you asked.

Signed,
Intersted in Tony

Dear Interested:

I love letters about people who are head-over-heels for someone who doesn't know the way the other person is feeling. It sounds like you care about him very much, but you don't know how to express it. How does he feel about you? The two of you are waiting for an advancement from each other. So my answer would be to the both of you (Tony if you are reading), one of you two need to take the initiative and get to know the other! What a waste when two people lose out to shyness of the other. Good Luck.

The contract has been awarded to David Richards Construction. The company made a bid of $54,212 and is awaiting the final approval by the CSU office in Long Beach.

Work on the booth is expected to begin Spring Quarter, according to Dr. Jandt, head of the Cal State communications department.

The contractor will provide state-of-the-art equipment, including turntables, cassette decks, reel to reel decks, a weather monitor, and an "on the air" light.

"The primary purpose of the radio station will be to support the instruction of broadcast courses in the communications department, particularly Communications 243 B (radio practicum), Jandt said. "When not in use by a class, the equipment will be available to all students for use under supervision."

Among other duties, the general manager will have to create and maintain a budget for the station, set goals, and keep logs. Other responsibilities include enforcing FCC rules and training the announcers. The position involves handling complaints, and overseeing station operations.

"College stations are traditionally more experimental in format and music." -- Dr. Jandt.

Tentative plans are to send the signal out via a local cable television company. San Bernardino residents will be able to get the station on a channel on their televisions. Proposed broadcasting time is between 8:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m. Cal State hopes to broadcast under the call letters KSSB.

"This is step one," Jandt said, "but it is an important first step. It will get us going."

Jandt is adamant that the station be operated on a professional basis. Applications are being accepted or on-the-air announcers, a music director, and a general manager. Initially, these positions will be unpaid. So far, Jandt has been besieged by students wishing to be on-air personalities.

The program director's duties will include planning programs, public service spots, and maintaining the scheduling.

"We've been collecting records for the past six months," Jandt said. "The sound is predominantly progressive, because smaller record companies provide free albums to college radio stations.

The program director's duties will include planning programs, public service spots, and maintaining the scheduling.

Eventually, the station will broadcast news, and subscribe to a wire service. The university has already received many pre-recorded programs, such as "Women's Life", "Radio España", "Dance Music International", and "Man and Molecule."

"Round Table" talks "are designed to provide enriching experiences for the university community as well as the general public."

I would have been much more enriched had I been given the opportunity to ask questions or comment. Several statements were made that I did not fully comprehend that needed clarification. I feel with issues as this, that it is important for the audience to participate and to be heard. I hope we will have this opportunity in future panel discussions.
It's kind of like Nursery school for University freshmen

by Jackie Wilson

The High School-University Program here at CSUSB makes it possible for high school juniors and seniors to get a "headstart" on college before leaving high school. Students get the chance to sample university life on a part-time basis. Appropriate university courses may be taken at times convenient to a student's high school schedule.

The Admission requirements for this program are as follows: 1) Junior or senior class standing in high school; 2) A 3.0 or higher GPA in all high school work, beginning with 10th grade; 3) A recommendation by your high school principal or his/her designee; 4) A good test score on the ACT or SAT. Adequate high school preparation in prerequisite courses where they are applicable.

Fees for this program are $3.00 per quarter, and students receive all the regular student services. New students are charged a one time fee of $2.50 for a student ID. A parking fee will be assessed. All fees are to be paid at time of registration and the final exam schedule. The bulletin contains course descriptions and programs offered here at the University.

New students to the program are required to attend an orientation meeting on March 25th, which will be required. The meeting will be given after admission to the program.

For more information, applications, and a list of the courses available, call Ms. Marina Kyriazis at 887-7756 or at AD-192.

Assassin O-Gramps?

by Steve Kerr

Ugh! You scream, as you are aquired in the face from all sides by water gun armed assassins. Well, don't be alarmed—it's only the Tokay assassins on another bit, and it's all in fun.

The Tokay Assassins can be hired out by any dorm resident to put out a "contract" on any other dorm resident. The idea is to raise money for our dorm, Tokay. The contracts will be sold in the upper common Thursday, March 6, and Friday, March 7.

A good description of the victim is required, plus any additional information you can provide, such as class schedules, or where they hang out on campus. The game will begin on Friday night, March 7th. Boundaries start at the steps of the Library and end at the parking lot in back of the dorms. No hits will take place inside of dorm rooms or outside of the Library area. Assasins will be advised not to take out your anger on the assassins themselves, as they are just fellow students who may be caught up in the program. The assassins will be given a black rose, courtesy of the Tokay Assassins, and a card with a memorandum that will be given out the contract. So, if you want revenge on someone, you will be able to find a contract for anybody in the dorms that you want to hit. So, if you'd like to get somebody in the game during these hot spring days, this is your chance.

Kaplan.

The rules of test prep.

No lie! Stanley H. Kaplan was the first. And nearly 50 years later, he's still the best in test prep.

Kaplan will chop down any pretenses you've got about taking the SAT, LSAT, GMAT, MCAT, GRE, NYE, CPA, or others. His test-taking techniques and educational programs have helped over 1 million students boost their scoring power and test confidence. He can do the same for you.

So if you have 'presidential' ambitions and are looking for a test prep expert, call Kaplan.

What Are Your Views?

For several months an Ad Hoc Committee of the Faculty Senate has been studying the relative advantages of the semester system and the quarter system. The Committee has asked for student input on this important subject. At this time 11 CSU campuses operate under a semester system and Dominguez Hills is scheduled to change to semesters in fall, 1986.

A box has been placed on the main Student Union desk for your responses to this survey and your thoughtful written statements on how continuation or change of the quarter system would impact on your education. Please respond.

Censorship: A Parental Responsibility Not Gov't's

Dear Editor:

What is censorship, well I consulted a dictionary recently to find out what they said. "Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary" defines censorship as "Anassessors and inspectors of morals and conduct." The first question arises in my mind—What are morals? Let's just browse over to the Merriam-Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary" definition is: "Assessors of principles of right and wrong in behavior: Ethical.

From this I drew that censorship is a moral way of looking at principles of right and wrong. The biggest problem with this is the single danger word in the sentence, Moral. What are morals? Are all people morals the same? Of course not, if they were we would all be exactly the same. So from this we could safely say that not all people have the same moral values, I feel that is a safe thing to say. So back to the subject of censorship, now if a person male or female, had no morals they would not care what they probably did and what they probably saw. Whereas a person, be they male or female, with a high degree of morals saw two people engaging in sexual activity on a street corner, they would quite possibly be offended, morally, whereas the first person in this hypothetical situation would quite probably not mind or really care in the least. From this I can say that morals are relative to the individual. Now if we took these two people and let them talk about morality to each other, they would quite probably disagree. One of them may like something and the other might not, what one of them tolerates the other cannot. A question might arise as to which one of them is right. The answer to which of them is right and which of them is wrong is very easy, neither is right and neither is wrong.

Society controls the pendulum, which way morality goes is usually up to the majority of society, this is not necessarily right or wrong, but the majority seems to have the power (by numbers). An example would be the majority winner in an election wins. But that does not mean that the winner of the election is the best qualified person in that election. By the same token just because a majority of people make a choice about the way society and its morality that it is necessarily right or wrong. Another example would be Prohibition in the early part of the century, the majority made the decision that alcohol was wrong so they banned its legal use for a number of years. Another example might be the protests against the military actions in South East Asia in the sixties, those people were the majority, that did not make them right or wrong, but being the majority they made the moral decision. Where is all this leading you ask, well the time has come. Music. What I may like my neighbor may not like, does that make him right and myself wrong, no, we both have different individual preferences in music. So why should I tell him what he or she should listen to, and why should he or she tell me what I should listen to. We being adults have the common sense to know what we as individuals like and what we as individuals do not like, does that make all other music that we do not like wrong, no. I do not tell the P.M.R.C. (Parents Music Resource Center) what to listen to and what not to listen to. I do not ask for labels telling that music might contain religious references. I might turn it around and ask that they label all christian music as "Music Containing Christian Lyrics", or "Music Containing Jewish Lyrics". That is absurd you say, look at the opposite, is that wrong, no it is not, but it is someone else's morals, the majority's morals, and not mine. The bottom line is if you don't like the music don't listen to it.

As for the parents of the world, it is your job to teach your children the way to look at both sides of the story, so they never grow up being too narrow minded or judgemental. We must educate the children so they will know what they as individuals like and what they may not like. Never tell me a story, that shows the bias built into a weak person, be aware and be open. For not all of you are alike in needs and desires.
