CINCO DE MAYO CELEBRATION PRESENTS:

THE CHRONICLE April 30, 1986

MACLOVIO PEREZ

Jorge P. Moreno.

Traditional customs are passed down from generation to generation. Through these customs the past is relived, dying flames are kindled, and the man is made conscious of why he's here.

On May 5, 1862 Mexican troops under General Zaragoza, outnumbered three to one, defeated invading French forces of Napoleon III, in the Battle of Puebla. This being one of the first battles leading the nation towards Independence.

As part of our culture we have come to celebrate this special event in history that demonstrates that the desire for freedom and justice will forever dare man to stand up for what he believes.

So, in an effort to try to share with the community a little piece of Mexican culture, M.E.Ch.A. with the appreciated help of co-sponsoring clubs and organizations have put together a special package that we hope you will enjoy.

"Hispanics in the Media" will be at the heart of the Cinco de Mayo observance at CSUSB, Friday, May 2.

The public is invited to meet Maclovio Perez, KCBS-TV weatherman and host of Channel 2's "Kid Quiz" show, at noon on the university's Lower Commons Patio. He will speak briefly about career opportunities in the media for Hispanics.

In addition, Sr. Emerenciano Rodriguez, Consul de Mexico, will talk to the public about the significance of Cinco de Mayo.

Open to the public from 11:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., the celebration will feature live music by Mariachi Tequila and the jazz band Latin Society. Dance entertainment will be provided by Ballet Folklorico Mixcoacalli of Colton. Food and refreshments will be available for purchase at several booths.

Art work created by Cal State Chicano Art Students will be on display and arts and crafts furnished by several community organizations will be on sale.

In addition to public festivities, more than 300 students from Colton Junior High, and San Bernardino, Eisenhower and San Geronimo High Schools will be bused to campus for a day of activities. They will tour the campus, learn about the university and meet a panel of Hispanic members of the media, including Perez and Miriam Hernandez of KCBS-TV, Phil Torres of The Sun, Ron Gonzales of the Riverside Press Enterprise and Rosario Leal of Radio Kinse. The university now offers a Spanish broadcasting major in the Communication Department.

The participating clubs and organizations are: Association of Hispanic Faculty and Staff, Special Events, Student Services, 7-UP Company of San Bernardino, Chicano News Media Association, La Esperanza Market, CSUSB Chicano Art Students.

M.E.Ch.A. cordially extends their invitation to all the students, school staff, and the community in general to participate in this annual celebration, in hope that all will have an enjoyable experience.

Seniors Make Cap/Gown Reservations

Both faculty and students may begin making reservations for their commencement caps and gowns at the Bookstore, Monday, April 28. Faculty must place their orders by Friday, May 9, while students have until June 6 to order their regalia.

The complete set of cap, gown, hood, and tassel will cost a faculty member with a doctorate $16 rental. The charge for a master's set is $14. The Ph.D. hood or gown is only $8; the M.A. hood or gown is $7. For a cap and gown, with no hood, a faculty member pays $8.

Candidates for a bachelor's degree will pay $13.35 rental for a full set; for master's graduates, the fee of $25.85 also includes the hood. A master's hood, cap or gown may be rented separately.

Announcements for the June 14 commencement also are available at the Bookstore.

Golf Tournament

Monday, May 5, the Cal State, San Bernardino Golf Tourney will be held at El Rancho Verde Country Club in Rialto. This is the second year the Physical Education Department and Alumni Association have worked on this tournament (renamed this year from Joe Thomas Invitational). The format is four-man select shot. Check-in time 11:30 a.m., tee-off of at 12:00 noon, with a shot-gun start. The entry deadline is Thursday, May 1; fees are $75 per person which includes green fee, cart, golf shirts, tee prizes and buffet after the tournament. For entry forms or information, call Alumni Affairs, 887-7811, or P.E. Department, 887-7561.

Car Rallye

by Mario Unser III

It is nearly time for the Recreational Sports Department's annual thrill-seeking event, the infamous Coyote 500 Car Rallye. This year's contest will be on Thursday, May 8th, starting at 6:30 p.m. from the dorm lot. All that is necessary to enter is a driver, a vehicle and a navigator. There is no entry fee! For those who may be wondering, a car rallye is not a race, but instead a test of navigating skills and the driver's ability to maintain a safe (given) average speed. Experience is not necessary but, of course, your car should be insured and in good working condition. We will be there, will you?

Spring Enrollment Tops 6300 Students

The largest spring quarter student body, 6338 students, was recorded on census date, Friday, April 18, reports Registrar Jo Ann Von Wald. The figure represents a 13.8 percent increase over spring quarter last year.

The full-time equivalent figure of 4673.2 students is a 12.4 percent increase over spring 1985. The strong enrollment pattern continuing in all quarters gives the university an average annual FTE of 4783.17 for the year. The figure is important in the budgeting process. The university's budget goal for the current year was 4600 FTE.

Humanities has a New Dean

Dr. Beverly Hendricks of Cal State, Northridge has accepted the post of dean of the School of Humanities at Cal State, San Bernardino, announced Dr. Robert Detweiler, vice president for academic affairs.

Dr. Hendricks earned her Ph.D. and M.A. from Northwestern University and her B.S. from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. She has published extensively in language arts education and has been an advisory editor for Communication Education and Western Journal of Speech Communication.

Although her appointment here is effective Sept. 1, Dr. Hendricks will be on campus throughout the summer and plans to relocate here by July 1. She will visit the campus Friday, May 9 to meet with department chairs.

She currently is acting associate vice president for graduate studies, research and international programs at Northridge. She is on leave from Cal State Los Angeles where she is professor of speech communication. Dr. Hendricks also served as acting associate dean for graduate programs and acting dean of arts and letters at Cal State, Los Angeles, where she was responsible for organizing the university's new School of Arts and Letters. She was a CSU administrative fellow in 1981-1982.

M.E.Ch.A Holds Awards Banquet

by Jeff Grotke

The M.E.Ch.A. program will be awarding two one hundred dollar scholarships at the Association of Hispanic Faculty and Staff's First Annual Scholarship Awards Banquet and dance on Friday, May 9, 1986 in the University Commons.

The evening, which is open to the public, will begin with a social hour, followed by dinner from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. After dinner there will be a dance featuring the live music of "Night Life" from 9:30 p.m. to midnight. Tickets are $15 per person, or $25 a couple. Reservations should be made by Friday, May 2 by calling 887-7673.

The scholarships are open to any continuing Cal State student with a 2.5 grade point average and two letters of recommendation from either a professor in the student's academic major, or an employer. Candidates need to also submit a one page autobiography and schedule an oral interview. The deadline to submit applications is May 2. They may be dropped off at the Cinco de Mayo celebration or in the M.E.Ch.A. mailbox in the Student Union building.

Test Your Nutrition I.Q.

What you don't know about good eating may be dangerous to your health. The following nutrition quiz will help you to separate nutrition fact from fantasy. By the way, don't feel bad if you do poorly on this quiz. The correct answers surprise most people.

How Many Teaspoons Of Sugar Are In Each 12-Ounce Bottle Of Pepsi?

- a. 2 teaspoons
- b. 4 teaspoons
- c. 8 teaspoons
- d. 10 teaspoons

Answer: 10 teaspoons. Drinking a bottle of soda is like drinking artificially flavored seltzer water with 10 teaspoons of sugar dissolved in it. In fact, soda pop is the largest single source of sugar in the American diet. We get 10 times more sugar from soda pop than from candy!

Which Of These Foods In The Typical Fast Food Meal Contains The Most Sodium?

- a. cheeseburger
- b. apple pie,
- c. milkshake
- d. french fries

Answer: Believe it or not, the cheeseburger packs over seven times the sodium of the french fries. Even the vanilla shake and the apple pie are shockers. They contain two and four times as much sodium as the fries, respectively. The fries just taste more salty, because the salt is on the surface. People who are trying to cut back the amount of salt - or sodium - in their diet should realize that high-sodium processed foods don't always taste salty.

Which Of These Two Foods Contains More Fat And Calories?

a. Slice of Sara Lee Cheesecake

b. Wendy's triple cheeseburger

Answer: Cheesecake is not a low-fat food, but, at 240 calories - of which 60% is fat - the cheeseburger pales next to the triple cheeseburger. The Wendy's creation weighs in at 1,040 calories with about the same percentage of fat as the dessert. The triple cheeseburger is truly a "coronary bypass special".

Carob Candy Bars Sold In Health Food Stores Are Much More Nutritious Than Regular Milk Chocolate Bars.

- a. True
- b. False

Answer: False. Both candies are loaded with saturated fat, the kind of fat that increases the risk of developing heart disease. In a chocolate bar, the fat comes from the ingredient cocoa butter. In the carob bar, the fat is hidden in the palm oil. Granted, the chocolate bar does contain caffeine, but the amount - 6 milligrams - is only 1/20th the amount of caffeine in a cup of brewed coffee.

WALK AMERICA Commences at CSUSB

by Jeff Grotke

The Cal State Lower Commons was the start/finish line Sunday when the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation staged its annual fundraiser, WalkAmerica. The walk, using the theme "That's What Friends Are For", took place in more than 1000 communities and was participated in by more than 1.5 million Americans. More than 1500 people took part in the San Bernardino area.

"It is great fun, taking a walk and knowing you are doing something so worthwhile for yourself and for others," said John Sharp, activities advisor and Cal State's TeamWalk coordinator. This is the second year that a Cal State team has participated in the walk. Last year the team, consisting of 14 people, raised $931 in pledges.

"In addition to the camaraderie and fun, it is a wonderful community service project for clubs and groups. This even provides high community visibility demonstrating the organization's concern and commitment to the community and the future," Sharp adds. "We urge everyone, students, staff and faculty to join WalkAmerica."

Radio station KMEN held a live broadcast from the commons during the walk and other entertainment was furnished by Bull Moon, a jazz band, and by Fresh Start, which covered blues material.

The March of Dimes is a national voluntary health agency which is dedicated to the prevention of birth defects. It was originally founded in 1938 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to combat the outbreak of polio. After polio was eliminated from the roster of health threats, the organization redirected itself in 1958 towards a broader and more complex threat to national health - the problem of birth defects.

In pursuing this goal, the March of Dimes has given support to many leading institutions across the country, and has spent much time publicizing new advances in health care. In addition, they have tried to make the public more aware of what they can do to prevent birth defects.

Since 1957, a vast amount of information about the types and causes of birth defects, and their treatment and prevention, has been brought to light. The March of Dimes has been in the forefront of these efforts, playing a major role in the areas of genetics, prenatal diagnosis and therapy, and modern health education.

The March of Dimes supports more than 500 medical researchers each year. Among the latest advances in birth defects prevention and treatment are a new use of ultrasound, developed under a grant to Yale University School of Medicine, and an innovative new treatment that is saving babies from respiratory distress syndrome, a complication usually associated with premature birth.

Golf Team Ts Off JOIN HANDS ACROSS AMERICA

by Randy Smith

It's seven o'clock in the morning, a cool sixty five degrees and the wind is gently caressing the leaves as the birds quietly sing in the trees. You look off in the distance and spot your target. Choose your weapon and crack, the ball is on it's way. It lands perfectly, rolling to a stop in the middle of the fairway, eighty yards from the pin. Sound good? Well if you're like most of the weekend golfers out there, it's just a dream. But for nine CSUSB students, this dream is an everyday reality.

In only their first year as a team, the Cal State golf team has done well in compiling a 7-9 record. "I think it's excellent for the first year, especially since we've been playing Division one, two and top three teams."

They, like the tennis teams have started out playing a tough schedule in order to as coach Price says improve. "Better competition brings out better play: we started out scoring in the 420's and now it's in the 380's." And next year, "we plan on playing a tougher schedule," continues Price.

Since Cal State doesn't have a golf course, the golf team calls Arrowhead and El Rancho Verde their homes. Arrowhead is a 6,300 yard course and Coach Price feels "it's tougher and definitely tighter than Rancho Verde." Next year he hopes to play at the same course. "I'd like to keep it the way it is now," adds Price.

As far as the team prospects for next year go, Cal State will be very fortunate to have all nine players returning. Having all nine players will greatly add to the strength of Cal State's golf team, which Coach Price feels is the fact that "the kids listen well, they work hard, and they want to improve. The only thing that hurt us was being a first-year program," included the coach.

Among the nine returnees will be Gary Dechsle and John La Rose, both of whom Price feels have a chance of going to nationals. Dechsle, a junior is averaging 76 and LaRose, also a junior is averaging 77. Price feels that they, along with the rest of the team, will continue to improve as the year progresses. "We plan on being better every year," he adds. Only time will tell, but given the team's performance this year, next year's team looks to be right on par.

By Steve Karen

Hands Across America is coming on Memorial Day weekend, Sunday, May 25. An event in which over ten million Americans will participate by joining their hands together from New York to Los Angeles. What is this all about you ask? Well, Hands Across America is an attempt to raise money to help support the hungry and homeless people here in the U.S.A.

The U.S. Conference of Mayors reports that (in 81 percent of the cities surveyed) the demand for emergency food assistance is expected to grow this year. And it is estimated that up to 2.5 million persons are homeless and the number of homeless, particularly families with children, is growing. But you can do something to help. To make a pledge and join the line, call toll-free 1-800-USA-9000. A contribution of ten dollars will give a participant a place in line and a commemorative certificate, while a twenty five dollar donation will also include an event t-shirt.

For thirty-five dollars or more, the participant will receive the certificate, T-shirt, place in line, visor and commemorative pin. Local cities, such as Redlands and Riverside, will be along the four-thousand mile route, so as to give all of us here in the Inland Empire a chance to show our spirit, and support the line. Celebrities such as Bill Cosby, Kenny Rogers, Pete Rose and Lily Tomlin have already pledged their support for Hands Across America, and this is your chance to become a part of history in an event that has never been tried. Let's just hope it doesn't rain!

Director Cement's refusal to take the western commando-style invasion forces, as well as the Cuban Che Guevara-style revolution - iciting efforts seriously is in its way as serious a comment on the international state of political affairs today as "Dr. Strangelove" was of the nuclear threat in its day. The film deserves the attention of the American public as well as film historians. It would be areal shame to see this commendable work of art ignored, and my personal prediction is that this film will find a cult following over the next year or two, particularly in the videocassette segment of the film market. The greatest homage I can pay to "Water" is that I wish I'd written it.

One thing worth adding here is that George Harrison really is emerging (from "Time Bandits" and "Life of Brian" through this current effort to the upcoming Sean Penn - Madonna film "Shanghai Surprise") as a film producer of some significance. For those of us who appreciate the quality and vision of the films he's had a hand in, his work is a welcome addition to the film marketplace.

Water, Rated P.G.- 13, is Currently playing in the San Bernardino area.

Kaplan. The father of test prep.

No lie! Stanley H. Kaplan was the first. And nearly 50 years later, he's still the best in test prep.

Kaplan will chop down any fears you may have about taking the SAT, LSAT, GMAT, MCAT, GRE, NTE, CPA, or others. His test-taking techniques and educational programs have helped over 1 million students boost their scoring power and test confidence. He can do the same for you.

So if you have "presidential" ambitions, call Kaplan. And prepare with the expert.

How much do you need to go to college?

The most difficult test some students face this fall isn't getting into college. It's paying for it. Because for many students, financial assistance such as scholarships, grants, work-study programs, and family resources don't cover the bill.

That's why Chase offers four different educational loans, with affordable interest rates and flexible repayment plans.*

What's more, you don't even need to have an account with us. Chase makes loans to qualified students and parents throughout the U.S. And we usually process your application within 24 hours.

Alpha Phi Colony

Initiation

by Elrond G. Lawrence

Cal State's first sorority became "official" on Saturday, April 19, when an afternoon reception capped off weekend activities that turned 34 girls into active members.

Pledge pins gave way to "shiny" gold active pins, and initiates learned secrets of the 114 year old sorority, but the highlight of the weekend was the formal introduction of the new Eta Beta Chapter to CSUSB.

Also participating in the events were six alumnae initiates—mothers who were allowed to initiate with their daughters as Alpha Phi alumnae (a one time only chance).

The Saturday afternoon reception was open to immediate family members of the initiates. Other invited guests included CSUSB President Anthony Evans, and fraternity presidents Daniel Healy (Delta Sigma Phi) and Richard Mercado (Sigma Chi Omicron).

Speakers were heard during the reception as well, the most notable of which Alpha Phi International President Nancy DeVoe and President Evans. Evans caught the attention of the crowd by stating that Cal State "wants to work more with all its Greeks."

Near the close of the ceremony, gifts were given to the new chapter, while gifts from the chapter were given to advisors. Only one thing was missing in the ceremony—the signing of the charter, which had gotten lost in the mail. When it arrives, a special time will be scheduled so all charter members (also known as Alpha Class) will be able to sign it.

The colony began ten months ago on June 9, 1985, the date of their first pledging. The chapter still has 12 pledges, who will be initiated at a later time.

Members initiated on April 19 were: Evin Ashworth, Teresa Baca, Mary Ann Baca, Elva Baeza, Stephanie Comadena, Becky Carranza, Mary Carranza, Denise Daversa, Delane Davis, Debbie Dowell, Lisa Elias, Ronda Hill, Lisa Hudson, Kellie Lee, Michelle Lopez, Stacie Lucas, Cheryl Luther, Rebecca Mares, Laurie Marscher, Gracie Martinez, Rajean Mayberry, Sandy Meith, Laura Mihal, Kristine Miller, Lissa McDonald, Stephanie Nash, Tina Rapucchi, Robyn Reiter, Staci Saunders, Linda Scaramella, Jill Traina, Yvonne Villa, Lisa White, and Jackie Wilson.

In addition, Sandra Comadena, Shirley Beaudett, Patricia McDonald, Elsie Mayberry, Judith Nash, and Mary Quansstrom were initiated as alumnae. The Alpha Phi Sorority was founded on October 10, 1872, in Syracuse, New York.

Catching Up with Delta Sig

Well, it's that time again. Time for Bikinis, shorts, softball, and yes, new pledges. Delta Sigma Phi fraternity would like to introduce you to its future, our Delta pledge class. Jim Arensdorf, Chris Bowers, Cliff Corning, Rob Curtis, Dave Gabonay, Doug Gonzales, Steve Penn, and Steve Schindler. If you happen to see one of these people, please stop them and say, "Hello—I saw your name in the paper."

Delta Sig has also been seen around campus a lot lately. You would have had to have been up early in the morning to see them at the 5K-10K "Heart Run." They right, in the morning. Also, they are participating in two softball leagues. In the co-ed league, Delta Sig, Sigma Chi, and Alpha Phi sorority are all on the Greekdom team. Delta Sig is also in the man's league. If you would like to come out and watch, the co-ed games are on Wednesdays at 2:45 p.m., and the men's league games are on Fridays at 4:15 p.m. Please come out and support us.

Delta Sigma Phi would also like to welcome its new officers: President Dan Healy, Vice President Jeff Lafrenz, returning Secretary Elrond Lawrence, and Treasurer Will Hart.

New Plant Operations Director

David DeMauro of Alta Loma, director of maintenance and operations for the Alford School District in Riverside, will become director of plant operations at Cal State, San Bernardino April 15.

He will succeed James H. Urata, who is retiring from the position and the university later this spring.

The director is responsible for building maintenance, heating and airconditioning, grounds maintenance, custodial services and the motor pool. Administrative responsibilities also include direction of a staff of approximately 75 employees, budgeting and compliance with federal, state and local codes and regulations.

Certain traditions are always in style.

A Few Minutes with Penni

It should at this time be common knowledge that the Associated Student Body went in favor of Penni Overstreet. I want to take this time and space to thank each and every one of you that supported me with your help, advice and votes. Although I did not win a seat in A.S. government, I have pledged my help and support to the incoming president.

It is my desire to see changes made in favor of the students of this University. This can only be accomplished if we all come together to support our A.S. government.

In the past I have heard numerous complaints that the A.S. is not doing anything for the students; if this is true, then we as students are also at fault for not supporting them as we should.

Again, I want to thank those of you who had enough confidence in my abilities and sincerity to give me your votes. Remember, a goal can be accomplished only if we work together.

High-density development worries S.B. school board

by Jim Long

SAN BERNARDINO -- Southern California contractors aren't just raising a lot of houses and apartments in San Bernardino these days. They're raising concerns by San Bernardino City Unified School District Board of Education members over who will occupy those homes.

The board members have visions of an abundance of new apartments and other types of low-cost housing rising in San Bernardino. They call it "high-density housing" and they don't like the connections they make between it and schools, especially San Bernardino's.

Board members Marlon Brown, Chuck Christie, Elisa Diaz, and Larry Neigel believe that "high-density housing" waters down the academic strength of a school system.

"As a rule, if you deal with high-density housing, you deal with transients and high dropout rates," said Christie, who is a professor of public administration at CSUSB.

That's not what the board members want in San Bernardino. They worry, though, that Southern California contractors are offering housing that will lead to cases of high transiency and dropouts. This could increase a negative image of San Bernardino schools that board members are already trying to fight.

"We don't have people in this community who are education oriented," said Diaz.

One way to battle the negative image now, as well as in the future, is to work for "positive" kinds of housing, according to Neigel.

"If we want to create a mix of students who mix well and blend well, (we must) see if we can influence (the contractors) into positive development," Neigel said.

The board members think a positive move would be for contractors to add housing that lures settlers into establishing themselves more firmly in city schools than other kinds of housing. Single-family homes are often mentioned by board members as such a lure.

"Clearly, you'll have more transiency in high-density areas," Christie said.

Said Brown: "Our (San Bernardino's) growth is coming from two families living in a home. It's coming from people moving from Rialto into low-cost housing. That's not the best quality of students to have."

Surrounding the board members' district are several other school districts that have the kinds of housing board members want in San Bernardino. In Rialto, for example, 76.3 percent of the housing units are owner-occupied, according to Census tracts issued by the U.S. Department of Commerce in 1983. Many of those homes are single houses and more have been built since 1983.

'As a rule, if you deal with high-density housing, you deal with transients and high dropout rates.'

--Charles Christie

In Redlands, where Census Tract records list the average home's value at $72,000 (San Bernardino's is $51,600), 66 percent of the homes are owner-occupied. Again, most are single houses. Fontana has 70 percent of its housing units occupied by owners.

San Bernardino rates lower than all three of those cities in each category. Its median house price is the lowest. So is its rate of owner-occupied homes (59.4 percent), according to the 1983 Census Tract.

School Board members in San Bernardino realize where their city stands in comparison to its suburbs, like Fontana, Redlands and Rialto. Christie said that because of the way Redlands is structured, with its abundance of single houses and concentration of professionals, more value is placed on education than in San Bernardino. He was not the only board member to make that point.

Brown thinks Christie's beliefs are also seen by potential settlers of the San Bernardino area.

"This causes people to say, 'What kind of group do I fit in?'," said Brown.

Board members say they've worked with San Bernardino's City Hall to gain support that might sway contractors to build housing with the future of city schools in mind.

City planning Aid Greg Gage said that there was only so much the city's planning commission could do to spark "positive development." To go beyond the commission's regulations and "arbitrarily" provoke such change "would be un-Constitutional," Page said.

"What kinds of students, what kinds of parents they are, the planners can't regulate that," said Gage.

That leaves San Bernardino Board of Education members hoping the contractors' were are enough to attract families who have good students.

Not up to expectations

Lottery funds short

by Elrond G. Lawrence

In October 1985, California entered the "gambling" business.

With the emergence of the California state lottery that month, citizens had the chance to make their dreams come true. At the same time (or so lottery supporters claimed) California's educational system would profit as well, since the bill that introduced the lottery conceived it as a way to help the funding of California's schools. In the midst of the lottery campaign, supporters claimed a "large percentage" would go directly to the aid of California education.

Five months have passed since the lottery came into being; the question now asked by Californians is whether the lottery is keeping its promises. "Our schools win, too," its banners cry, even though the phrase is usually overshadowed by the large green-and-yellow lottery herald. But how much, if any, have the schools won? And in regard to a more local concern, can students at California State University, San Bernardino, expect to see any results from education's "winnings"?

Earlier this year, the month of February saw Cal State receive its first installment of funding from the lottery—in the form of advanced authorizations for expenditures, which allow for funding in three areas. The funding, broken down into these three areas, includes: $25,650 for master teacher stipends, $19,520 for master teacher scholarships, and $15,892 for computing support for instructional access.

The final portion of the lottery funds included $128,816 for instructional equipment replacement, and an additional $12,693 for instructional access computing support.

While Cal State's total funding amount of $202,571 may seem like a large amount of money, it is only a fraction of the total lottery-funded budget allotted for the entire California State University System. The entire budget, adopted by the CSU Board of Trustees for the fiscal 1985-1986 year, amounted to $13,136,000. According to Robert Detweiler, Cal State's vice president of academic affairs, lottery funding is given to each California school system or district in one large sum; that system or district, in turn, distributes the money to its schools according to enrollment.

So how significant have the lottery's contributions been to CSUSB? Detweiler, in a February interview, termed the money "helpful" but also noted that it isn't quite the life-saving force that lottery supporters expected it to be. According to Detweiler, the funding amounts to less than 1 percent of Cal State's total operating budget of $7 million.

A large problem with the funding is that there simply isn't that much from the lottery budget to give to education. Fifty percent of all proceeds go to paying lottery winners, while 16 percent goes to supporting the game itself (publicity, producing tickets, etc.)

So the lottery is indeed backing up its promises — although Cal State officials admit there is always room for improvement. And with an uncertain future for next year's funding — with the circle of winners increasing with different games — only time will show if Cal State, San Bernardino, can become one of the "big winners."

Kelly Lange offers tips for success to students

Kelly Lange

Before her public appearance last Sunday, Kelly Lange met privately with communication majors to give insights on the career of broadcasting.

Lange arrived 15 minutes late, but wasted no time getting down to business. Her first suggestion was "Never be late!"

She knew right away what the students wanted her to talk about, (how to get a job) and began by summarizing her successful career.

Lange came out West in 1966, and like everyone else, couldn't find a job.

"It ain't easy! There are thousands of people trying for the same job," she said.

She finally got her first job as a helicopter traffic reporter for KABC radio by winning a contest for the position. She also noted that she cheated on the contest by disguising herself and auditioning twice.

Interesting enough, Lange said getting a job doesn't depend on who you know, what you look like, or how much money you have; it's what you know and how you present yourself that counts.

Lange stressed the importance of having a well-rounded education to go with a degree.

Lange strongly suggested getting a job while in school; not just any job, but one that is in the student's career field.

"If you want to be in television, don't get a job in newspapers," Lange said. "Get a job in T.V., even if it's sweeping floors. Start small, get your foot in the door, and work your way up."

WATER

by Michael Heister

"Water," one of the current releases from George Harrison's Hand Made films, is simply too good to be ignored.

Some film critics I've read have been put off by the wide range of political, religious, and cultural values the film topedoes with such whimsical flair, because (I suppose) they were so busy looking for their message that they didn't want to see the film's message shine through. And that's too bad, because the film is good enough to evoke comparisons to "The Gods Must Be Crazy," and the anti-war classics "Duck Soup" and "Dr. Strangelove."

Director Dick Clement brilliantly wove together slapstick and ribald with enough intellectual humor/political commentary in this comedy set on a small British controlled Caribbean island too poor for anyone to notice to place the film on the same level as the African yarn mentioned above. Rather than relying on documentary style, used well in "The Gods...", Clement took a page from the notebook of Duck Soup director Sam Wood— who in his 1928

Marx Brothers classic, viciously and effectively lampooned war by simply refusing to take it seriously —Clement refused to take seriously the rampant military imperialism and crass materialism of both the major capitalist and communist powers.

The film opens with Cascara's British governor Micheal Cain popping his head up over a lush ganga garden, offering a sample of his latest hybrid weed to a pair of appreciative natives, who pay homage to the governor's botanical efforts with the style of wine connoisseurs. Two rebels alias electronic musicians take over the state-run radio station and sing the praises of revolution, urging the people to take to the streets. The people promptly ignore the rebel call, and after capture and conviction the Governor commutes their sentence because the jail has't been painted yet.

The plot thickens with the arrival of a commercial filming crew from a huge American conglomerate, there to talk to the American people about their efforts to draw vitally-needed non-Opec energy from a single oil well on this God-forsaken island—a well which in fact had never produced a single drop of oil. While playing around with the equipment, the well spouts some of the tastiest natural water going: "We've struck f—ing Perrier!"

Simultaneously, a British minister decides to relocate the people of Cascara—almost all decedents of shipwreck victims, with the exception of the more than 14 children the island's priest has sired—to another nearby British possession and make a mint using the island as a nuclear/toxic waste dump. Caine's discovery of the island's prized bubbly, a secret the American conglomerate kept very poorly, and the Crown's indifference to the island set the stage for Caine to join the revolution (and then there were three, plus a nutty environmentalist tantalizingly played by Valerie Perrine), and compete with Britain, Cuba, and the U.S. for control of the island under the bright lights and slick oversensationalism of the slick western media, who by now were poking into every nook and cranny on the tiny island. The Cubans, like the Brits and Yanks, show no interest in the island until they hear that a huge American conglomerate is busy drilling oil again. The Cubans, to explain, do not know it's mineral water the Yanks are after.

The French, fearing a threat to their Perrier, land a commando squad to knock the well out of action. From here, where else can this comedy go but to the floor of the United Nations in New York for some rock/raggae concert diplomacy from the rebel musicians and a backup band which includes rock luminaries George Harrison, Ringo Starr and Eric Clapton.

Interlaced with this hodgepodge of international intrigue/gunboat diplomacy is Brenda Vaccaro's wild performance as the Governor's bored Guatemalan sexpot wife, and a surprise showing by Jimmie Walker (J.J. of the old Norman Lear TV show "Good Times" and famous at one time for saying "Dy-no-mite!") as the sole DJ of the state-run radio station.

COMEDY CABARET

Three professional Los Angeles comedians will perform in a "Comedy Cabaret" at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, May 8. Appearing in the SUMP, the performers each are considered to be rising, young stars and are pursuing acting careers as well as comedy.

Headlining the act will be Marsha Warfield, who recently signed a contract with HBO. She has appeared in television sitcoms "Family Ties" and "Cheers" and was seen as a teacher in the movie "Mark."

Howie Gold, who is seen on "Hardcastle and McCormick," has been a guest on the television shows "Solid Gold" and "Thicke of the Night." In addition to performing at a variety of nightclubs, he has appeared as an opening act for several musical artists, including Cyndi Lauper and Culture Club.

Paul Provenza also has served as an opening act for concerts, including Diana Ross at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas. He has appeared on "Late Night with David Letterman" and "The Tonight Show" as well as in guest spots on "Dynasty" and "One Day at a Time."

This cabaret-style evening will feature several comedians and an outdoor beer and wine bar sponsored by the Alumni Association (no-host, of course!). Join students and alums for a fun night of live entertainment.

Opposition to Fee Referendum

Editorial

It seems that the student government at Cal State San Bernardino would do good as politicians.

They have become the most unresponsive group of slaggards to ever hold any office of responsibility.

At a time when most people have to work their way toward a degree; they proposed a fee increase in A.S. fees.

An increase that would benefit the few that can afford to use the snack bar and be supported by those who work and live off-campus.

It is about time, the student government started to work on lowering fees not increasing them.

Terrence E. O'Malley

Why a Fee Increase ??????

RESPONSE

Dear Mr. O'Malley,

In regards to your letter dated April 23, 1986, it is the consensus of our government that you have sighted many inaccuracies in your response to our newspaper article in last week's Chronicle.

First of all, the goal of our fee referendum is not to benefit the "...the few who can afford to use the snack bar...", but to enhance campus life through the services we provide to ALL students. These services include such things as our Child Care Center, funding for the no-interest emergency loans, check cashing privileges at our book store, the Book Co-Op, funding for the on campus student clubs, and many other worthwhile services.

Our goal through the proposed fee referendum is to save our existing programs as well as instigating programs to further benefit and enrich our student population. In response to your statement that the Associated Students should start to work on lowering fees, the fee has never been raised in the history of the school's existence. In other words, our fees are the same as they were when Lyndon B. Johnson was the nation's president!

In addition, if you have ever cashed a check at the book store, bought or sold a book at the Co-Op, attended a Special Event, joined a club or organization, or even read the Associated Students newspaper, The Chronicle, you have taken advantage of the services we provide. Without our needed fee increase, programs such as these, like our national programs, will be cut from the budget. If you would like any further information, please come in and see us at our offices located in the Student Union.

Sincerely,

Herrick Johnson, Administrative Director, from the Office of the President
