Does Kaiser Redline Medical Services to Blacks?

The Black Voice News

RICHMOND

African Americans are angry over plans to cut back a Kaiser facility and plan to protest what they call an example of medical redlining, a denial of services to low income and minority communities.

"We are getting support from the NAACP, the Muslims, the homeless, Black community residents, and even the Soul Brothers Motorcycle Club," said Deborah Campbell, an African American who works as a nurse at the Richmond Kaiser clinic, which includes a "stand by" emergency room.

Kaiser started to roll back services in 1995 and now plans to turn the ER into a limited hour clinic to handle minor injuries. Richmond, about 44 percent Black, does not have a full scale hospital. At the "stand by" emergency room, patients, half of whom are Blacks, are only "stabilized" and then taken to other hospitals outside of the city.

The problem is high crime rates and many persons with low incomes or no health insurance coverage have strained resources in Richmond. Patients can not be refused ER treatment. Plans to reduce services at the facility have ignited charges that Kaiser cares more about serving suburban Whites than inner city minorities. The Kaiser facility in Oakland is also slated to close down. But Kaiser facilities in Walnut Creek, San Rafael, and Santa Rosa are not endangered.

Blacks said they want the facility expanded, and a petition drive has been launched. "Kaiser couldn't choose a worse time to further slash emergency care. This would be a dreadful loss to the Richmond community," said Rose Ann DeMoro, executive director of the California Nurses Association.

Campbell agrees: "Patients needing emergency care are still going to come here." But if the changes are made the staff will only be able to call 911 and wait for an ambulance. "People walk in here now. We have gun shot wounds and poor people without health coverage. Some are in critical condition. I remember

Brown Celebrates Laborers on Labor Day

The Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

Congressman George Brown (center) with Francisca Garmon (left) USWA Co-Chair and Cathy Shearer, President USWA Local 7600 (right) to thank them for their recent support and their commitment to organized labor during this Labor Day weekend.

△ Congressman Brown Announces INS for San Bernardino

Congressman George E. Brown, Jr. (D-San Bernardino) announced that San Bernardino has been chosen as the site for a new immigration and Naturalization Services (INS) building. The General Services Administration (GSA) issued a notice of intent to award the lease of an INS building to the City of San Bernardino.

Brown said: "This is exciting news for the City of San Bernardino and for my congressional district. Locating an INS facility in San Bernardino to serve the people of the Inland Empire will provide conveniently located services to those now driving to Los Angeles and Orange Counties for services, as INS clients travel shorter distances."

The City of San Bernardino will construct a new 43,632 square foot building at 655 W. Rialto Avenue. The site will allow parking space for 145 cars.

Public Employees Association Sues City of Riverside

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

The Public Employees Association of Riverside County (PERC) has filed suit against the City of Riverside charging bad faith negotiations.

Mary Grillo, Executive Director of PERC, said the City "has conducted a campaign of harassment, bad faith, threats, and a complete unwillingness to deal fairly with their employees."

"The City has stalled city employees for more than a year. They continue to act like petulant bureaucrats rather than responsible public officials," Grillo said.

Among other things, Grillo said, the City illegally cancelled negotiations after employees protested at the "All American City" ice cream social.

"They want to sit around and have ice cream and tell themselves how great they are while workers go without a contract and are treated unfairly," Grillo said.

"We need less ice cream for the Mayor and more money for they employees," Grillo added.

The lawsuit charges that the City has conducted negotiations for more than a year-and-a-half without any intention of settling within a "reasonable period of time" which is required under State law. In addition, the City has engaged in union busting tactics and threats against employees.

"Some employees have been contacted by the City and told that there will be layoffs if we persist in demanding pay raises for employees," Grillo said. "This is illegal conduct and shows the lengths the City will go to keep employees under their thumb."

"We are here to tell the City that we will not be intimidated and we will not back down in the face of their threats," Grillo added.

Black Americans' Health in Trouble

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By Claud Anderson

According to Dr. Herbert C. Smitherman, Jr., Assistant Professor of Medicine and Director of the Center for Urban Health at Wayne State University/Detroit Medical Center, the health of Black America is in trouble. Several factors are indicators of the level of health and well being of a community; the number of physicians produced by and serving that community, as well as life expectancy and infant mortality rates.

Dr. Smitherman believes that Blacks are in trouble on nearly every medical front. Black males are the only group in America whose average life expectancy has declined. The average Black male's life span is 58 years, while the life span for White men and women is 79 and 82 years respectively.

Within the Black community, the infant mortality rate, which is the death rate among infants under one year of age per 1,000 live-births, is 2.5 times higher than in the White community and rising. Blacks have a 30% to 100% higher death rate for 13 of the top 125 causes of death in the United States.

To this bleak picture add the fact that Black doctors are being forced out of practice at an alarming rate by the integration process, HMOs, and the rising cost of malpractice insurance. Thus, like their patients, Black doctors are at risk too.

Attorney Derrick Humphries, who represents numerous Black health care professionals, estimates that about 65 % of this nation's Black doctors are on the verge of bankruptcy.

THE HARVEST ANALYSIS

There is a direct relationship between Black health and the general status of Blacks in society. Without good health it is impossible to study, work, or function up to capacity in today's increasingly competitive society. Therefore achieving optimum health is necessary if Blacks are to rebuild their families, communities and a strong economic and political base. Black doctors are an important factor in the health of the race, yet they are under siege and in jeopardy on many fronts. This predicament is exacerbated by the problems created by an inadequate educational system, physicians trained in foreign countries and other government policies.

The public school system, where most Blacks receive their primary and secondary education, are in disarray.

Within the Black community, the infant mortality rate...is 2.5 times higher than in the White community and rising.

Schools lack adequate resources, are dysfunctional and produce students who are unable to compete for highly competitive college positions. Without a college degree there is no hope for aspiring young Black doctors to get into medical school. This educational inequality, combined with the attack on affirmative action, has resulted in several medical schools with zero Black student enrollments. Subsequently, Blacks, who are a major part of the population, represent only a minor part of the physicians in this country. The Black doctor is at risk of suffering the fate of the Black pharmacist and becoming extinct.

Another threat to our Black doctors is international medical graduates (IMGs), who are physicians trained in foreign countries. IMGs are allowed, as a public policy, to stay in this country only if they practice in under-served areas for a period of time, after which they are granted permanent residence or citizenship, which then enables them to practice anywhere in the country. Due to this public policy IMG providers, who are often motivated by the lure of a green card and permanent residence status, often do not act in the best interest of the communities they serve. These doctors are currently inundating our Black communities. The damage of this public policy is twofold: it leaves Black communities open to insensitive doctors; and it aids in the decrease in medical school enrollment among Blacks who, as medical practitioners, could better serve their own communities.

Like many other prominent leadership institutions within the Black community, Black doctors are coming under biased and unfair scrutiny and competition. As hospitals merge, frequently the Black health care professionals are laid off or fired, but the hospitals retain the patients the doctors brought with them. Hospitals that primarily serve Black communities have been closed, relocated or privatized, leaving Black doctors and the Black community few places to go where they are wanted. Black doctors also often find themselves facing inquiries from the IRS and the treasury department, revocation of their medical licenses and even jail sentences for activities that are standard in the medical field. These blatant inequities drastically reduce the number of Black doctors practicing today and will seriously erode the quality of care and attention Blacks can expect from their health care providers.

Black Americans are the country's oldest and most underserved population. Health care for Black Americans could be improved by: expanded health insurance for families, the unemployed and underemployed; enforcement of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to eliminate racist practices that impede health care delivery; health care education to Black America; immigration policies that cease to prioritize immigration of Asian and European ethnics; and acknowledgment that Black Americans built the foundation of this country and deserve a greater measure of health care.

If Black doctors do not plan, unify and work together with Black communities, IMG and biased practices within the medical and governmental establishment could be the death blow for good health and medical care for Black Americans.

Woods Contends in LA Street Race

Tim Woods

On Sunday, at the 2nd annual Los Angeles Street Race, Tim Woods, 23, will drive his Ultra Wheels Spec Ford Ranger Truck in the hopes of not only winning but also adding to his points as he travels toward racing in the Winston West and/or Craftsman Super Truck race next year in Fontana.

If successful, Woods will be one of just a very few Blacks to enter the big leagues of racing.

Woods has grown up with racing. He started in the little go carts at commercial tracks before graduating to the heavier, larger professional go carts, complete with helmets and gear; traveling up to 100 miles an hour.

Woods' love for racing stems from his grandfather, the late Timothy Woods of Riverside, whose race cars were the best in the business. So good that in 1997, a car he sponsored was inducted into the Drag Racing Hall of Fame. It was his grandfathers AA Gas Super Charged Class 1941

Ohio UGRR Opposes UGRR Legislation

The Black Voice News

BALTIMORE

The Ohio Underground Railroad Association (OURA) voices opposition to Senator Mike Dewine's recent legislation introduced on May 12, 1998, Senate Bill 2070 - Underground Railroad and Cultural Program. This bill appears to be specifically designed to promote the Cincinnati UGRR Museum as a premier research facility and tourist attraction at the expense of taxpayers throughout the nation. Although the bill provides for public funding for any nonprofit organization, in fact, the bill requires a public-private partnership with 80% of funding from private sources. Small grass-roots organizations cannot possibly meet this standard. In addition, OURA has been confused with the Cincinnati initiative. "We want to make this very clear. OURA has never been or is currently affiliated or associated with the Cincinnati UGRR Museum, even though we have been approached by their officials. The Underground Railroad Movement was a vast network of people working together for a common cause. It's story cannot be told by a single voice", said Kathy Nelson, State Coordinator of OURA. The Ohio Underground Railroad Association (OURA) is the foremost research organization in the state dedicated to the study of the antislavery movement in Ohio. Formed in 1995, this all volunteer, grass-roots organization consists of scholars, researchers, and activists who donate countless hours investigating and documenting Ohio's rich Underground Railroad history. The group includes a State and Regional Coordinators from all part of Ohio who orchestrate the research efforts in the eighty-eight counties. If you are interested in assisting OURA in its research efforts, contact OURA State Coordinator, Kathy Nelson at (614) 868-1246. We encourage anyone interested to participate in the 3rd Annual Ohio Underground Railroad Summit on October 17 - 18 in Sandusky, Ohio.

County Administrator Retires After Allegations of Misconduct

The Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

A week after being put on administrative leave, County Administrative Officer James Hlawek has chosen to retire. His decision comes after allegations of misconduct, and is effective immediately.

Regarding the allegations against Mr. Hlawek, the Board is unable to provide any details at this point. Chairman of the Board Jerry Eaves stated, "Suffice to say, we are in an awkward position. We understand the public's concern regarding this matter, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating this issue and they will release information as appropriate. The County is fully cooperating with all aspects of the investigation." Deputy Administrative Officer Carol Shearer was appointed today to serve as interim county administrative officer. "It is without a moment's hesitation that the Board of Supervisors entrusts these duties to Carol, who has an exemplary record of high level management service with the County.

Supervisor Jerry Eaves

"We take our responsibilities to the citizens and employees of San Bernardino County very seriously, and will not allow this matter to supersede their best interests. We would also like to reassure the public that the soundness of our County organization has not been compromised.

We have many fine people working for the County of San Bernardino and they continue to provide the finest public service in the nation. At this time, the Board of Supervisors would like to express our confidence in them to continue to get the job done as they always have," stated Chairman Eaves.

Saluting Laborers on Labor Day

We want to take this time to salute people who contribute so much time to improve the quality of our living standards here in America. These are the unsung heroes who toil our fields, who put food on our tables, the factory workers who provide machinery and equipment to assist with our daily tasks; they are the medical care workers and their supporting staff who care for us when we become ill, they are the educators who spend countless hours sharing knowledge to expand our capacity to reason; the construction workers who build our homes, highways and office buildings; the environmental service workers who clean-up after us; the clerical workers who prepare our written communication, greet our customers and receive phone calls; the delivery workers who transport our products for easy access; the gardeners who manicure our landscapes and countless others who toil day in and day out for their loved ones.

We must never forget the struggles of our forefathers who labored under conditions that we would not tolerate. We stand on their shoulders of sacrifices. We reap the benefits of their struggles to obtain employee benefits that some employers are now taking away. We must not fall asleep at the wheel and allow this to happen. Since President Reagan busted the Air Traffic Controllers big business has placed organized labor under attack. They have rolled back wages, taken away some paid holidays, reduced the sick leave hours and in some cases refuse to hire full-time employees so they will not have to give employee benefits. The unions must reassert themselves and Take Care Of Business.

One of the first and greatest African American union organizers was A. Phillip Randolph of the Porters Union. He made Presidents change their minds by bringing huge numbers of workers together in demonstrations. Because of his ability to organize, he was the mastermind of the great March on Washington D.C. when King gave his famous "I Have A Dream" speech, 35 years ago last week.

Let us take the time this Labor Day and thank the many who gave so much, instead of viewing this as a day just to enjoy the beach.

Laborers of America, we salute you!

Woods Dream for Winston West

Willy's that peaked Woods' interest.

At the age of 14, in 1988, young Woods raced his first professional go cart. He didn't win that race but he did go on to build the points necessary to be considered a serious contender. The bug bit him and he started working hard. In 1988, he won the Laverne Grand Prix. By 1989, he was champion of both Tri C-Carter's Jr. 3 and Southern California Carter's Association. Woods had the most points out of a series for the year after adding up all his races.

In 1989, he also won the Huntington Beach Grand Prix.

Still racing but more time being spent on his studies at Mt. San Antonio College (Mt. SAC), Woods sacrificed his sport for the sport of football. He excelled there, the team was undefeated 12-0, they were California State Community College and National champs.

It was his success in football that changed the direction his life was travelling, he got a scholarship to Virginia Union College in Richmond. "I had to decide to sacrifice or to stick with racing. I can't afford to lose points so I turned the scholarship down," said Woods. He couldn't give up his status of Second in "rookie of the year" points and Fourth in "overall points in the north."

"My goal is by next year to race Winston West and/or Craftsman Super Trucks," he said. With support from his 3-year-old daughter, Dominique (his biggest fan), his sister, his mother and father (Mr. and Mrs. Timothy (Lenny) Woods, Tim Woods will meet his goal starting on Sunday. The main race takes place Labor Day around Figueroa in Los Angeles

Family Talks

Joseph A. Bailey, II M.D.

Discrimination, originally a purely good word, has been tainted by the "racism" association. At first, it meant to sift out and then to separate by putting a space between what is sifted out. An example of this occurring naturally is when children at play voluntarily separate into male and female groups. What was discriminated was judged apart by real differences. To do this required noting and comparing differences. In this sense, all of us discriminate everyday as we go about separating apples from oranges as well as the bad apples from the good apples.

Harder to work with are qualities, as when a court judge must discriminate and discern between deliberate and accidental offenders by weighing motives and character. Whereas discrimination emphasizes the power to distinguish and select the true, the appropriate, the excellent, Discernment stresses either accuracy (as in reading character or motives) or having an appreciation of something (e.g. of art) or seeing what is almost hidden.

Discrimination, discernment, and Insight (depth of discernment) are especially needed when there are complexities and ill-defined characteristics pertaining to people or events. This requires, as a result of discipline and training, noting subtle differences. In racial matters, racists, and especially bigots, only make distinctions about pigmentation. Their attitudes prompt hatred, prejudice, and racial discrimination against their scapegoats.

DISCRIMINATION

This typically takes the form of denying victims the rights and privileges enjoyed by others, whether in employment, housing, education, or activities of daily living.

Since 1866, the commonest ranging use of unfair treatment has been in Overt (by e.g. violence); Tempered (e.g. disrespect, segregation in education); Masked (e.g. the deceptive hiring, pay, promotion, and status aspects of jobs); and Concealed (e.g. secretly blocked access to adequate schooling materials, library facilities, housing, and certain cultural opportunities) ways. Other masked and concealed methods include failing to provide socially acceptable outlets for youthful energy and jobs for those who need them. All of these evil methods have created on-going social handicaps for victims.

In contrast to other forms of discrimination, racial discrimination spends an emotional and rational component. The emotional part is impulsive while the rational component is calculated, deliberate, and destructive. Both aspects are fashioned into institutionalized (a well-established system) racial patterns. These patterns are associated predominantly with attempts to maintain a double standard "law and order" or to control the economy in some manner -- both to the benefit of racists. In effect, the in-group says "You will play the game according to me."

In summary, racial discriminations are those actions of hateful prejudices which provide an advantage for the in-group and ensure a disadvantage for the out-group. Discrimination and prejudice are each a cause of the other.

Readers, What's On Your Mind?

MDA JUST AROUND THE CORNER

In a few days, we'll mark the end of summer with celebrations of Labor Day. I hope everyone in greater Los Angeles will remember that the holiday weekend also means it's time for the Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon to benefit children and adults affected by 40 neuromuscular diseases.

Your local MDA chapter is holding a variety of events during Labor Day weekend to help "my kids." Come on out and meet some of the people who are volunteering and working so hard to speed the fight against these deadly and debilitating diseases. And be sure and watch the Telethon on KCAL, Channel 9, on Sept. 6-7.

Your support will help MDA continue providing clinics, summer camps for "my kids," wheelchairs and braces, and support groups for family members, as well as research that's rapidly leading to treatments and cures. On behalf of your neighbors served by MDA and a million other Americans with neuromuscular diseases, thanks and God bless you.

NO CONFUSION ABOUT CLINTON

This latest round of silliness about the President is unbelievable.

Why is their confusion? 1.) His decision to bomb was crystal clear. 2.) His statement to the American Public about the Lewinsky issue was crystal clear. 3.) The feelings of the American Public about the Lewinsky issue are crystal clear. i.e. THEY WANT AN END TO IT NOW! 4.) The opinion polls of the American Public are crystal clear -- we're mature enough to distinguish between the President's job and his private life. 5.) What the American Public wants is crystal clear: We want important issues dealt with, rather than some psycho spending 40,000,000 dollars of our hard earned money trying desperately to justify his own existence!

We want the Congress and President's Office to be concerned with and be dealing with the issues of: 1.) International Terrorism 2.) The horrible drug problem 3.) The trashing of our Environment. The killing of 8,000 animals per year, by poachers, in our National Park, because Congress won't spend money for more Park Rangers to arrest them. 4.) The teenage crime problem 5.) The Social Security problem 6.) The International Monetary crisis 6.) the crisis in Child-Care because of forcing mothers to get jobs 7.) Madmen like Saddam Hussein ready to bomb the world 8.) Proliferation of atom bombs by nutso developing nations 9.) the crisis in education because of lack of funding 10.) And the continuing, non-stop corruption of our Congress as it wastes billions on pork-barrel spending for dumb projects in their home states. Is all this really difficult to grasp?

Saving Private Ryan: A Missed Opportunity

By William H. Smith, Ed.D.

Steven Spielberg had an opportunity to make a historical contribution to healing racial wounds in America. He passed it up. To ignore the fact that 1.2 million African Americans served in World War II, with tens of thousands giving their lives for a country that relegated them to second class citizenship and questioned their membership in the human family, is morally problematic.

Americanism is joined through the popular notion that those who saved the world from Axis tyranny during World War II deserved the respect and gratitude of their peers and succeeding generations. By omitting even a single reference to African Americans in his epic movie, Mr. Spielberg has reinforced the popular, but inherently racist notion, that only White Americans spilled their blood, demonstrated the courage, made the sacrifice, and, therefore, are worthy of this country's praise and gratitude.

In what likely will be the major cultural event of the year, and perhaps the largest theatrical production of the decade... one that will impact millions of Americans this year, and tens of millions of Americans in the coming years, a very racist notion is being promoted and maintained -- that the enormous sacrifices and courage displayed by America's World War II generation was exclusively that of White Americans.

Mr. Spielberg chose one of the gate keepers of World War II history, acclaimed novelist and historian Steve Ambrose, as a chief advisor for this film. Mr. Ambrose speaks on national television and other media about the interviews he has conducted with World War II veterans. He talks about the film, Saving Private Ryan, being their story. My question is how many African American World War II veterans did Mr. Ambrose interview and did he interview any of the exceptional African Americans who participated in D-Day? If not, why not, if so, why is their presence excluded? The national media takes its cue from the experts, so it was not surprising to see the intimate focused discussion with D-Day veterans on ABC's Nightline only include White veterans. There are a number of African American D-Day participants still alive. I will gladly share their names and validation of their participation. Sadly, it seems, my wife's analysis has a degree of accuracy... that for the overwhelming majority of White Americans, Black Americans simply don't exist, unless, of course, they impact White lives in ways that are negative or outside the arena of sports.

Understandably, untangling the messy monster of race prejudice as it was practiced during World War II could not be explained in depth within the story line of Saving Private Ryan. Race Healing 101 was not the objective of the movie. However, Mr. Spielberg as a Jew was very clear, as he should have been, about establishing Jewish participation in the heart of the sacrificial efforts in the war. From the opening scene where the Star of David grave marker is prominently in view as the first symbol of the ultimate sacrifice for America, to the Jewish private whose character is regularly a part of the story line, either wise cracking about his rabbi, taunting German prisoners with the fact that "Ich Ben Jew", Spielberg assures that every viewer is fully aware that Jews played a key part in the World War II victory. And in case you missed the point, in the closing scene at the memorial cemetery the aged private Ryan makes his moral statement in a shot in which he is framed by a Star of David on one side and the Cross of Christ on the other. This is a good thing. Too often the stereotypical reflection of Jews in relationship to World War II is only from the perspective of the Holocaust - Jews in need of saving, not Jews as a part of the rescue.

Wishfully, Mr. Spielberg could have broadened his inclusiveness to all who served. Even a minor scene of an encounter by the ranger squad sent to rescue private Ryan with some of the African American medics, sappers, or engineers, who were all present in the Omaha Beach theater of action would have been a powerful healing gesture. It would say to the 30 plus million African Americans today, yes we know you were there, yes we know you suffered and sacrificed too, yes you too are Americans as defined by service to the preservation of democracy. And those affirmative statements would be a balm for our present collective efforts at racial healing.

There is a film that tells the story of African American participation in World War II. It presents the story of an extraordinary group of Americans who, despite intense discrimination, served with extreme bravery and a collective moral courage that has only been equaled in American history by the Civil Rights Movement. This film which cost less than 1% of the budget of Saving Private Ryan packs a thousand fold impact of moral energy to help lead America toward realizing E Pluribus Unum, out of many one. African Americans in World War II: A Legacy of Patriotism and Valor was commissioned by the now disbanded Commemorative Committee On World War II within the Department of Defense with additional support from the producers, ComTel Productions, Inc. of Marlborough, Massachusetts. The film was completed last year and has had limited showings across the nation sponsored by the National Minority Military Museum Foundation and ComTel Productions, Inc. The film presents the stories, corroborated by historians and first hand accounts by participants, of the efforts of the 1.2 million African Americans who served, fought, and died under the American flag and the salute of the "Double V", victory over fascism abroad and victory over racism at home. In one of the documentary's closing scenes, Vernon Baker, the only living African American of seven designated recipients of the Medal of Honor for service in World War II fifty years after the war was over, tearfully shares "we fought, we served, we weren't appreciated." Sadly, Saving Private Ryan continues to insist this statement is true.

About the Writer: William H. Smith, Ed.D. is an educator and media producer. He is president of ComTel Productions, Inc.

Harlem Renaissance is appearing at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art through October 19, 1998. There will be a two day symposium on Saturday, September 12th and Sunday, September 13th beginning at 9:30 a.m. There attendees will get answers to questions as: What was the Harlem scene in the 1920s and 30s? Why did artists, writers, and filmmakers of various cultural backgrounds focus on modern African American life in their work? How did artists, writers, and musicians working in the United States, Europe, and the Caribbean contribute to a cultural explosion that still echoes in cultural expression today?

The symposium takes place in the museum's Bing Theater and is free for everyone. Parking is available in the lot across from the museum entrance at Wilshire Blvd. and Spaulding Avenue. For more information, call (213) 857-6512.

The exhibition will place the creative and cultural renewal of African American art within the broader context of twentieth-century art. This multifaceted account of the Harlem Renaissance will demonstrate relationships between the various art forms, examining the period not simply as a period confined to a few square miles of Manhattan, but as a historical moment of global significance, with connections to Europe (especially Paris), Africa, the Caribbean, and other parts of the United States, in particular Chicago and the Deep South.

Does Kaiser Redline Medical Services to Blacks?

this one man who had some acid thrown on him. They see this as their hospital," she said.

Campbell said the issue has racial overtones because "if you look at the rest of (mostly White) Contra Costa County they have better service."

Kaiser has no plans to reduce services at the facility in Walnut Creek, where the population is 90 percent White. Residents from other suburbs such as Lafayette (93 percent White); Orinda (92 percent White); Moraga (89 percent White); Danville (82 percent White) and Alamo (93 percent White) also use the Walnut Creek Kaiser.

Meanwhile the Kaiser in Oakland (45 percent Black) will close; and the facility in Richmond (44 percent Black) will be cut back. Residents from San Pablo (21 percent Black) also rely on the Richmond facility.

Class is also an issue. In Oakland, 18 percent of the residents are in poverty and that includes 30 percent of related children under age 18. The Richmond Kaiser is located in a Black community. In Richmond, 11 percent of all households earn under $10,000 a year and 26 percent of related children under age 18 are in poverty.

According to Kaiser's 1995 Patient Discharge records filed with the state of California 38 percent of Kaiser Oakland's patient discharges were African American and 49 percent were White. So Whites had a discharge percentage share of 17 percent greater than their proportional representation in Oakland. Blacks, on the other hand, had a discharge percentage share 6 percent less than their proportional representation in the community, according to the California Nurses Association.

This results in a total "Health Care Representation Gap" of 23 percent between Oakland's Black and White populations, the CNA reports.

Richmond Blacks and city officials are upset because the city gave Kaiser tax dollars to make site improvements, including a toxic land clean up and the rerouting of streets. Kaiser promised to maintain its facility, said Richmond city officials who are reportedly considering a lawsuit against Kaiser.

Campbell said: "We have delivered babies in that "stand by" ER. People come in with a shortness of breath or chest pains and can't wait long for help. Sometimes it's full in the Oakland hospital, or at Summit and even Doctors Hospital in San Pablo. So we take people to Redwood City. I have heard people at Kaiser say 'we can't take care of every mother with a kid who is pregnant again. We can't always be here when the boys in the hood have a rumble.'"

Meanwhile, many of the employees at Kaiser in Richmond are Black. The clinic can refuse to treat persons who are not Kaiser members. But the "stand by" ER staff must see anyone.

The unit is still reeling from what occurred last year. On Feb. 12, 1997, Willa Hives of Vallejo drove herself to the Richmond Kaiser with chest pains. The staff was not able to help her. There was no room at the Oakland Kaiser. Several hours later, by the time she arrived by ambulance at Summit, she was dead.

Two other deaths soon after forced the state to inspect the Richmond and Oakland facilities. A report found inadequate staffing, and poor documentation, delays and the use of private autos for patient transport.

Kaiser officials have said they may close the Richmond facility. To provide a full service ER, Kaiser would have to reopen the entire building which closed in 1997 due to a low patient level. Kaiser plans to transfer ER services to another hospital, probably Doctors Medical Center in San Pablo.

The Oakland Kaiser is slated to close in March. The Richmond Kaiser was built in 1995 to replace an older facility, one of the first Kaiser hospitals to open in the state. In patient service ended in Richmond in 1997.

The CNA wants Kaiser to upgrade the Richmond facility rather than close it down. In Oakland, all of Kaiser's emergency ob/gyn patients go to Alta Bates Medical Center in Berkeley.

Our Bodies

Ernest C. Levister, Jr., M.D.
F.A.C.P. F.A.C.P.M.

Dear Dr. Levister: I am 12 years old. My class is studying the heart. What can you tell me about it?

P.K.

Dear P.K.: How many times have you stopped to think how important your heart really is? Most of us just take the heart for granted. We expect this muscle to work 24 hours a day seven days a week without so much as a potty break and no less a paycheck. The news is filled with the latest advances in treating the heart when it goes bad. We track how many heart attacks there are, and by what percentage they decline. But a look at the human heart in health reveals an array of impressive statistics. They remind us how incredibly rugged the heart is, perhaps an incentive to keep it in good shape.

Gotta Have Heart

For example, the average human heart expands and contracts, that is it beats a hundred thousand times every day. In doing so it pumps close to 2,000 gallons of blood daily. In a 70-year lifetime an average human heart beats more than two and a half billion times.

The heart has four chambers, four valves, and a complex and resilient electrical system. And it is a communicating structure, sending and receiving blood through a 12,000 mile network of arteries, veins, and capillaries of varying size in a split second.

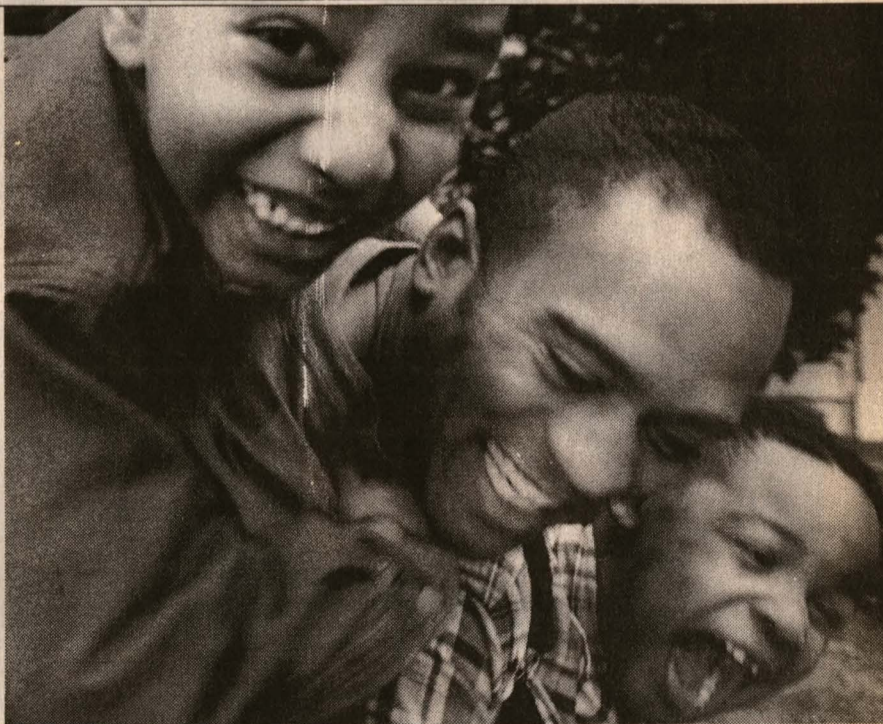

Protecting the heart is extremely critical for African Americans. Heart disease and high blood pressure are more common in African Americans than in White Americans. The death rate for cardiovascular disease in African American males is 40% higher and 70% higher for females than for their White counterparts. The high death rate is influenced by genetic and social factors, such as poverty, poor diets, and yes, racism.

You can protect your heart by getting plenty of exercise. Participate in a sport that raises your heart rate. Say no to drugs and cigarettes. Eat a healthy diet, watch your weight and minimize negative stressful situations such as fighting or frequent feuding with friends and family. Stay away from negative peer pressure or gang related activities. Learn to deal with conflict by talking things out and seeking help before your problems get out of hand.

So it is that our heart draws little attention until it falters. Start early, take care of your heart, your life depends on it!

Dr. Levister holds a F.A.C.P. and F.A.C.P.M. He owns a private practice in San Bernardino and welcomes reader mail concerning their bodies but regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters. Your letter will be incorporated into the column as space permits. You may direct your letters to Dr. Levister in care of Voice News, P.O. Box 1581, Riverside, CA 92502 or visit his website at <http://www.eee.org/bus/levister>.

Youth Corps Volunteer Graduates Chaffey College as Radiology Tech

The Black Voice News

MORENO VALLEY

After 850 hours of volunteer service as a tutor for 10 to 12-year-old boys at Arlanza Elementary School in Riverside, Michael Batchelor finished Chaffey College with a radiology technician certification and has started his career at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Batchelor served as a Corps Mentor for Riverside County's Neighborhood Youth Corps - 2000 (NYC 2000), a program in which minority men, ages 18 to 25, serve as positive male role models for boys who are socio-economically disadvantaged at Arlanza Elementary School. "Michael quietly gave of himself, professionally and as a leader who was always focused and well liked by the students," said Arlanza's principal, Rosa Gallardo.

After completing the program, Batchelor received a $2700 education award to help him pay for school. As a member of the corps, he went through a comprehensive with food and transportation costs. Batchelor practiced reading training program and then worked in the school for 20 hours a week, receiving $100 a month to help him daily with one boy who could not read. "In 9 months he was finally able to read one of the Goosebump novels that he had only seen other kids read," said Batchelor.

The Corps Mentors also help the boys develop their social skills. "Hanging around us mentors, the kids seemed to emulate us," Batchelor said. "Eventually, they gave us firm handshakes and looked at us when we talked."

Among those measuring the success of the program is Dr. Ronald Hughes, a professor in sociology for California State University at Fullerton. "Preliminary data definitely shows that the academic performance and the behavior of the proteges has improved," said Hughes. "There is also a reciprocal impact in that the Corps Mentors grow from the responsibility."

Batchelor encourages others to apply for this year's program. "It was one of the best decisions I've made in my life to get involved in the community," he commented.

Riverside County residents who are interested can call Garth Mackzum at (909) 955-6461 for an application or for details on one of two orientation meetings on September 15, 1998 at 9 am or 5:30 pm at the Riverside County Department of Community Action.

SBA Pre-Qualify Loan Program for Small Business

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE/SAN BERNARDINO

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has recently announced the nationwide availability of a SBA Pre-Qualification loan program whereby small business owners can pre-qualify for a loan backed by the SBA before approaching a lender.

"This program is already available for minority and women business owners in Orange, Riverside, and San Bernardino counties," said SBA District Director Sandy Sutton. "We have successfully used this program to do 84 loans for a total of $8.5 million to minority business owners and 28 loans for a total of $2.7 million to women business owners."

Under this program, selected non-profit and for-profit groups work with small business loan applicants one-on-one to develop viable business plans and credible loan packages. Once SBA finds the borrower to be eligible and creditworthy, it issues a pre-qualification letter to lenders indicating that the application appears appropriate for a SBA loan guaranty. The loan applicant takes that letter, along with a completed loan package, to a commercial lender to apply for a loan of up to $250,000 backed by a SBA guaranty. SBA approval decisions reflect normal loan standards and are based on the borrower's key financial ratios, cash flow, business and credit history and repayment ability.

In the local area the following intermediaries are available to assist in the application process:

- CDC Small Business Finance Corporation in Orange at (714) 978-1182.
- CDC Small Business Finance Corporation in Palm Desert at (619) 836-3855.
- CDC Small Business Finance Corporation in Riverside at (909) 352-5730.
- Long Beach Area CDC in Long Beach at (562) 983-7450.
- Southern California CDC in Whittier at (562) 698-2998.
- Southland EDC in Santa Ana at (888) 600-8855.

In the usual SBA loan process, applicants apply directly to a commercial lender before seeking an SBA guaranty, and SBA never sees the application unless the lender determines that it can approve the loan only with SBA's backing. The new pre-qualification process allows SBA to provide a loan commitment letter before a small business approaches a commercial lender.

SBA can guarantee up to 80 percent of a loan up to $100,000, and up to 75 percent of larger loans, with a general maximum loan size of $250,000. Small business owners and entrepreneurs who want to know more about applying for a loan under the program should contact the Santa Ana District Office of the SBA at (714) 550-7420.

BIG IDEAS TO SAVE SMALL BUSINESSES MONEY.

Southern California Edison has special programs to help small business customers save energy and cut costs:

SAVE ON LIGHTING. Cut your lighting costs by as much as two-thirds by using energy-efficient lights. Try compact fluorescents in place of incandescent bulbs and T8 lamps and electronic ballasts in place of standard 4- or 8-foot fluorescent tubes. And now you can save twice, with a rebate of up to $12 per unit to replace your old bulbs with these energy-efficient styles. Call for information.

SAVE ON EXIT SIGNS. Light-emitting diode (LED) exit signs cost $300 less to use over a 5-year period than the 20-watt bulbs used in standard exit signs. Now you can buy LED signs for less. Call for suppliers in your area.

GET AN ENERGY AUDIT. See where your energy costs are going — and where you can save. Get the Business Edge energy audit, complete it yourself, and send it in for a personalized profile and recommendations on how to save money — plus other useful information. The Business Edge works best for grocery and retail stores, hotels/motels, office buildings and restaurants.

USE THE INTERNET TO LEARN TO SAVE MONEY. Visit our newly redesigned website (www.sce.com) and find out how to save even more money. Learn about special rates, programs and services such as Edison CTAC, the Customer Technology and Application Center, which offers seminars, training, and product demonstrations for many types of businesses.

CHECK OUT SCE'S OTHER PROGRAMS. Visit www.edisonathome.com and discover programs for new home buyers, for energy-efficient appliances, for financing to make energy efficiency home improvements, for incentives to recycle your spare refrigerator, and more.

Call 1-800-736-4777 (English) or 1-800-669-4144 (Spanish) for details on these programs and start saving now.

1998 Men's Retreat Set for Oct. 22

The Black Voice News

BEAUMONT

Thursday through Saturday, October 22-24, 1998, Seed, Time, & Harvest World Outreach Ministries will present "Urgency to Commitment" Learn about God's Design for True Manhood and Successful Family Living.

If you are going through marital problems, poor communication with your children, or perhaps, dealing with single's issues or just want to improve your family relationships, this is the seminar to attend.

Speaker will be Dr. Robert Wilks, Jr., Pastor of Vine-Life

Christian Fellowship. Dr. Wilks is a dynamic pastor and conference speaker who has motivated men around the country to excel in the things of God. Come out and draw from his experiences and knowledge in the word of God. Your soul will be blessed by this special ministry. Recreational activities include swimming, jacuzzi, fitness facility, tennis, volleyball, ping pong and horseback riding.

Total Cost (4 in a room) is $135.00 per person, full payment is due by October 6, 1998. This price includes two nights, three days and five meals at the Highland Springs Resort in Beaumont. All monies are non-refundable after September 23, 1998. Deposit of $30.00 is due now.

Seed, Time & Harvest Church, pastored by Michael J. Weeks, and is located at 706 E. Foothill in the City of Rialto one block west of Pepper Avenue. For further information, please call (909) 820-7333.

The New Ontario International Airport

flightyears ahead! In concept. In design. In delivery. This is one airport whose arrival is quite a departure. Completed four months ahead of schedule. And more than $26 million under budget. It's a world-class gateway that's eight times bigger than the old terminal, and a million times better than anyone ever imagined. A complex where art and commerce come together in a design that's state-of-the-art for this century. And, for the next.

With 26 gates capable of handling more than 10 million passengers a year, the new Ontario International Airport is ready to take on an even larger role in handling Southern California's ever-growing passenger and air freight needs – as well as usher in a new era of growth and prosperity for the region. So fasten your seat belt, and get ready to travel into the future, First Class.

the new Ontario International Airport

Ontario International Airport is located off the I-10 at Archibald, and is served by these airlines: Alaska, America West, American, Continental, Delta, Northwest, SkyWest, Southwest, TWA, United, and United Express.
