The Cal State Chronicle is partly funded by an annual allocation from the Associated Students to cover the costs of printing and expenses. The remainder of the funding is generated by the Chronicle itself. It is distributed free to students and the community. The Chronicle is published under the control of the CSUSB Media Commission. It is published weekly during the school year - excluding quarter breaks and summer sessions - for a total of thirty (30) issues.

Advertising requests should be addressed or directed to the Advertising Manager at the address and number below. The Chronicle accepts advertising in good faith, but makes no warranty, and does not check advertised goods or services for validity.

Story contributions from students and faculty are welcome. Copy deadlines are the Wednesday at 12:00 noon preceding the date of publication. Copy received after that date will appear in the Chronicle on a space-available basis. Letters to the Editor must be written in good taste, and must include the writer's name, address, phone number, and signature.

All submitted copy must be typed, and double spaced. Editorials and/or commentary that are unsigned represent the majority opinion of the Cal State Chronicle newspaper staff. Signed editorials, commentary and cartoons reflect the views of the author or artist, and not necessarily those of the Cal State Chronicle.

Editor's Notes

What's in a name? More than you might think - especially if it's yours.

Names are something our society simply takes for granted - as with night and day, greasy McDonald's hamburgers, and the Angels losing the American League playoffs. And yet, there is such a variety of names that it boggles the mind (and sometimes the eyes).

They can be common, drawn out, classy, dashing, confusing, laughable, or just plain different. In this editor's case, I prefer the term unique. While the first name of Elrond isn't something you casually hear walking down the street, it is a name that not many people forget . . . once they've figured it out.

And here lies the problem.

It takes forever for people to figure out my name (much less pronounce it, much less spell it, etc.). And while I pride myself on being a somewhat patient person (I'll allow a minute for my staff to laugh), it gets quite tiring after the first ten screw-ups . . . and even more so after the first fifteen misspellings - which brings me to the point of all this rambling.

You see, one of journalism's cardinal rules is SPELL NAMES CORRECTLY. People read a newspaper to find names of people they know - or their own names. And when a name isn't spelled right, look out. Fire and brimstone were never like this.

So what does this have to do with the last six paragraphs? Simple: I hate seeing my name spelled wrong! Of course I'll understand a few typos . . . but when it gets to be consistent, that's when my eyes turn red and grow brightly. After all, I am quite proud of my name - it's different, unique, and quite memorable.

Of course, I've only felt this way for the last five years or so - fourth through tenth grade were not the easiest years for my moniker.

I also like to see my name in print - luckily, the gremlins haven't gotten ahold of that one yet. So what I'm trying to say is take care when you're addressing someone, or writing a letter or card - it may not seem important, but to the person whose name you're mutilating, it means a lot. I don't know about you, but I'm quite proud of the little word that I'll always be associated with.

OK, OK, I can hear it already: you all are saying to yourselves, what's this guy's problem? What's his ego trip? He's writing an entire column about a misspelled name! Since there's no more point in rambling about it, I'll just show you how bad the constant mutilation of my name has gotten. After all, I don't think anyone else has a top five list of name misspellings - but here we go, anyway, in order of most repeated times:

- 1.) Elrod
- 2.) Elron
- 3.) Elroy
- 4.) Elmond
- 5.) El Ron (the Spanish version, I believe)

Wanna talk about my middle name now?

the Writer's Corner

The Writer's Corner is a weekly feature of the Coyote Chronicle, spotlighting short stories and/or poetry from Cal State San Bernardino students and faculty. Interested students or faculty may bring their work(s) to the Chronicle Office, located in the Student Union. The Chronicle editors oversee all submissions, and decide which works shall be published.

A LIFE STORY

My blood shot eyes are testimony of the rough night that I have had, filled with empty promises and all the drinks I could stand, as I stumble home, in a stupor I supposed if it was really worth it or even apropos, The story of my life came and went at happy hour, with little or any pertinent living desire I live on empty voice and tired, only to awake as the morning before...

FUTURE NOTE

Why I use to remember a bright shiny sun up in the sky and trees that grew everywhere, but the sky has been black and the land so barren that it is sometimes seems their only dreams I fear,

It is too late for what ifs
It is too late for what might have been there is only time for the now and then...

SOUL

I fold my hands and reach to the sky...

By John Cloud

DELUGE

You...(and what more?) need...
(but what?) love... (but how?) cry...
(but why?)
Does it still hurt?
Is the pain of love a tender or bitter piece of life/
What have we lost
that we love so deep Yet move not deep but shallow
Within each other's lives?

Can you remember moments of blazing, blinding truth...
or moments of black, pungent lies?
How can we get so lost in our/each other's shadows...
following,
tripping,
falling,
losing,
wasting time...

Is that all there is?
Why does it have to be so hard or so heavy?
We forgive and we forget-sometimes but that is not the answer
We make amends and feel "fine" again but that doesn't cure the fever
I know it still burns-hot, ill
It is a sickness a blight a cancer

Love hides tonight
And where are you then?
Is it because the beginning of the ending is always a sad thing?
Is it because life is too short to share?
Do we barely have enough time to mend the cracks?
Love seeps quietly leaving a puddle of a life.

Feathers fly: World not big enough for both of them?

Letter to the Editor

I'm conveying this unpleasant communication to the editors of the Chronicle, not in the interest of promoting censorship in any way, but in the hope of arousing a modicum of human decency and self-restraint in having selected "The Shrinking World" for publication in the Chronicle! 5 November, 1986)

It is a sad commentary on our college community when we limit our intellectual pursuits to sibling rivalry which leads to murder at one extreme and fornication with respect toward operating room table manners at the other! No doubt the author will one day regret publishing these obscene thoughts, for the umbilica cord of time will strangle and squeeze such misguided creativity and hopefully allow the metamorphosis from the voracious caterpillar to proceed to the butterfly stage.

I accept and defend your right to publish this garbage but I would hope you would recruit less aberrant mentalities to pen for you in the future. This feature story was the only article I have ever found offensive in the Chronicle.

W.A. Novahom

Writer's Response,

"Aberrant mentality" is a very difficult thing to measure. If everyone else thinks like you do, however, than I certainly do hope that my mentality is aberrant.

Sure, the story was a little dicey at times, but so was Frankenstein, The Fly, and all the rest of what has been a tremendous genre of literature. Of course I'm not comparing my work to theirs, but I would hope that if there is some sort of tradition involved, that I was able to contribute to it.

As for 'human decency', well it is people like you who screw up the world with guilt by trying to make things so god-awful pious. Where does it stop? Are you going to come into my house some day and stop me from watching the Newlywed Show? Works of literature stand alone. They should not be subject to moral guidelines, they are not mini-bibles, they are slices of life.

Furthermore, this was supposedly the only thing that offended you enough to write, well it also happens to have been the fourth story that I have had published this year. Did these other stories pass your morality test? I hope not.

Sincerely,
J. Dean Grotke

Cops too big for their boots?

Letter to the Editor,

Here we go again, another chance for the Cal State campus police to pat each other on the back and show the world what a great job they're doing fighting crime. At Cal Straight? Drugs? They must be kidding.

Sure, their recent indulgence in Drug Awareness is something that is generally applaudable, but why are they wasting their time here? Furthermore, I've had enough of these guys patting each other on the back. There are just too many Cal State police who seem to take great delight and merriment from being able to strap down already-poor students with useless and needless tickets. Anybody who doesn't believe it doesn't know squat about the issue, so forget it. I personally have been threatened, struck, threatened some more, and verbally abused for infractions as minor as a tail light being out. Sure you could be like one of these gluttonous fiends and lean over breathing heavily and say "I think you've got a bad attitude, boy", but hey, when every other cop in America is willing to warn you about minor infractions before ticketing you, and Cal State cops don't, then you begin to wonder if our cops are just plain bored or something. Poor guys, there just isn't enough crime going around. What's a matter? No donut shops within a ten-mile radius?

Seriously though, policemen who abuse the public that they are sworn to serve and protect are doing a great disservice to both the public and to their fellow officers. Why can't they think twice before handing out spurious and useless tickets that are a drain of both time and money? Why not? It seems these specific officers of whom I speak are intent on proving my theory that many people who become cops, do so because they have a built-in sense of inferiority and need the badge in order to advance some sort of recuperative authority complex.

Think twice next time you decide to pull me over, especially if I'm not speeding, not drunk, and not endangering the public in anyway, because I'm likely to tell somebody where they can shove their piss'ant ticket.

With compassion for good people who happen to be police officers,

Jeff Grotke

Rebel letter inspires response

A rebuttal to the "Sandinista Rebel", whose letter appeared in the 11-5-86 issue of the Chronicle.

First off my friend if you knew of the struggle the Sandinistas are fighting for you would not use the title so loosely.

Second, as a competent Chicano student on this campus, I do not need any of your one-sided information spoon-fed to me. I have more than enough information already on the racist policies of this campus.

These include the lack of tenure support for minority faculty, the misappropriation of E.O.P. funds by this administration, and their obvious preference of dogs over potential minority students, to mention just a few.

As for standing up to this administration, that is both stupid and needless. It is harder to assassinate a shadow than someone in the limelight. The administration believes in the family concept. If you attack one, you attack them all. They prefer character assassination and the threats of financial and academic loss rather than negotiations on any issue that might oppose their regime.

But fear not brother rebel, THE STRUGGLE CONTINUES!

November 4 was a banner day for "law and order"

by J.F. Nesmith

Tuesday, 4 November 1986 was a real banner day for law and order proponents in this state. At last, we the voters were able to show our spleasure with Governor Moonbeam's attempt to politicize the State Supreme Court. The voters of California responded to the pro-criminal Bird Supreme Court by running her and her cohorts out of office. Below are just three case histories which lend justification to the ouster of Rosie and the Supremes:

1. Victim: Robin Samsae, Age 12, Murdered:

Robin was on her way to a ballet lesson in 1979 when she disappeared. Her decomposed body was found in a remote mountain ravine in L.A. County. Rodney Alcala was convicted of her murder and sentenced to death. During Rod's trial, evidence was presented that he had sexually assaulted and almost killed an 8-year-old girl in 1968, attacked a 13-year-old girl within two months of being released from prison, and just four months before killing Robin, had raped, beaten, and sodomized a 15-year-old girl.

Ruling: Death sentence and conviction reversed by Rosie, Grodin and Reynoso.

Reason: Because the prior sexual attacks on young girls were not similiar enough to the murderous attack on Robin. The most important dissimilarity, according to Rosie and the Supremes, was that "Robin was killed while the earlier victims were not."

2. Victim: Amy Sue Seitz, Age 2, Murdered, Raped, Tortured.

Amy was abducted from outside her Camarillo home by Theodore Frank, age 42, released from a mental hospital six weeks prior after a 20-year history of child molesting. Amy was forced beer, her nipples ripped off with channel lock pliers, strangled, and left in a ditch. Pliers which matched the little girl's wounds and Ted's diary were discovered in a search which had been approved by a judge. In the diary, Ted stated, "I want to give pain to these little children. I want to molest them. I want to be sadistic. I want to hurt them." Ted was convicted and given the death sentence by an Orange County jury.

Ruling: Death sentence reversed by Rosie and Cruz Reynoso.

Reason: Search warrant was too broad in scope which allowed the police to seize the diary.

3. Victim: Michael Messer, Age 17, Tortured and Murdered.

17-year-old Michael Messer accompanied an acquaintance, Michael Leach to a remote fig orchard. When they got there, Leach demanded money from Messer. Although Messer gave the money to Leach, Leach then stabbed Messer 48 times with two knives while Messer begged for his life. Leach then cut Messer's throat. A Fresno County jury convicted Leach of torture-murder and robbery-murder and Leach was sentenced to death.

Ruling: Death sentence reversed by Rosie, Grodin, and Reynoso.

Reason: Not only because the jury was instructed not to consider sympathy for the killer but also because the court found evidence did not necessarily show that the killer intended to inflict extreme pain. The 48 stab wounds, said

Reynoso, Rosie, and Grodin, could only indicate that the victim was very difficult to kill.

As a last-ditch effort to save Rosie and the Supremes, leftist organizations in Los Angeles claimed that Grodin, Reynoso and Rosie were victims of discriminatory actions on the part of white conservatives. The leftists claimed that since Grodin was a Jew, Reynoso a Mexican-American, and Rosie supposedly was a woman, that they were being picked on. These leftists, were as usual, full of the stuff that makes the grass grow green.

Since the gas chamber in California was last used, almost 20,000 victims have been murdered in California. If the same 20,000 persons had been killed in South Africa, one can bet that the liberals in California would have been screaming for justice. Strange what hypocrits these leftists can be.

Do you know the definition of a conservative? It is a liberal who has just been mugged.

Uni-Phi plans bowl-a-thon

UNI-PHI INVITES YOU...

...To attend our weekly meetings every Tuesday from 12-1 p.m. in the sump located in the student union. The basic purpose of Uni-Phi is to provide a platform for increased awareness among disabled and non-disabled students on this campus.

Uni-Phi is planning a bowl-a-thon to raise money for two 125.00 scholarships to be given out each quarter of the academic year to a disabled member of the Uni-Phi club. The bowl-a-thon is to be held at San Hi lanes on Nov.20 from 11-1 p.m. If you would like to bowl with us, pick up your sponsor sheet in PL 101. Everyone is welcome. Uni-Phi will pay for the cost of three games. If you can't bowl with us, we would appreciate it if you would consider sponsoring those of us who will be coming around in the near future. Uni-Phi invites you to join us.

Anti-Defamation League sends telegram to Reagan

New York, NY...Burton S. Levinson, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, in a telegram Oct. 27 to President Ronald Reagan urged that our government sever relations with Syria and impose appropriate sanctions against her for attempting to sabotage and El Al jet with over 200 Americans aboard.

Mr. Levinson also commended the President's initial step in recalling the American ambassador to Syria. The telegram is as follows:

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, is pleased that the Administration has recalled its Ambassador to Syria in protest against Syria's attempt to sabotage an El Al jet with over two hundred U.S. citizens aboard.

In the wake of the irrefutable evidence of Syrian guilt as well as the decisive action taken by Great Britain, the nation to actively support the U.S. in its raid against Libya, we believe that the U.S. should take further steps. We urge that our government sever relations with Syria and impose appropriate sanctions against her.

Your Administration has admirably led the fight against international terrorism. Now is the opportunity, through these steps, to demonstrate that allied coordination to counter state-sponsored terrorism is feasible, that nations supporting terrorism act with impunity.

Careers: Why people get fired

October 28, 1986...The October issue of BUSINESS WEEK CAREERS magazine reports that about 10% of new employees are either fired or strongly encouraged to resign within the first six months on the job. Instead of learning from bitter experience, you should be aware of the most recent reasons new employees don't work out. Among the reasons included in "10 Reasons People Get Fired" are:

Failure to fit in—There's a "corporate culture" to every company, usually the reflection of management perceptions. If you're fired for not fitting in, don't think it's the end of the world, or your career. You're better off in a job where you do fit in.

Overselling Yourself and Your Qualifications—This may help you get a job, but it won't help you keep it.

Bad Chemistry with Your Boss...

There are so many subtleties that determine why two people get along that it's often hard to predict. It's OK if you don't like the boss, but if the feeling is mutual, watch out.

Office Politics—New employees can unwittingly be a part of a power play. Extra-friendly co-workers can be truly wonderful people, or they may be lining up a new ally.

During your first months on the job, try to circulate among all groups. Bosses can be quicker to fire for political sins than for skill problems.

A company will often fire new employees during their probation period if there are any doubts about their ability to perform the job. Be aware of the most common reasons for being fired, and you can prevent it from happening to you.

The Coming Crisis: America's Troubled Economy

William Proxmire comes to Cal State

"The Coming Crisis: America's Troubled Economy" is the subject of a talk to be presented by U.S. Senator William Proxmire at 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 13 at Cal State, San Bernardino.

Known for his "Golden Fleece" awards for frivolous use of federal funds, the maverick senior senator from Wisconsin will appear in the university Recital Hall. Tickets are $5 in advance and $6 at the door for general admission; $3 in advance and $4 at the door for students with identification. Information and reservations may be obtained by calling the Cal State Special Events Office at (714) 887-7407.

According to the National Taxpayers Union, Proxmire has the best record in the U.S. Senate for holding down spending during the past four years and the overall best record for the past 13 years, since the organization has been keeping records.

Entering his 30th year as a U.S. Senator, Proxmire filled the vacancy left by the death of Senator Joseph McCarthy in 1957. He received national attention during his re-election bids in 1976 and 1982 when he accepted no campaign contributions and spent less than $200 on each re-election attempt.

Proxmire also is renowned for his attendance at roll call votes. While the average U.S. Senator has missed more than 900 of the 8,800 votes taken since April 1966, Proxmire has answered every one.

The Wisconsin Senator is the author of several books, including "Can Small Business Survive?," "Report from Wasteland," "America's Military-Industrial Complex," "Uncle Sam, Last of the Big-Time Spenders," "You Can Do It!" and "The Fleecing of America."

Proxmire's appearance at Cal State is co-sponsored by the Associated Students' Special Events Committee and the university's Intellectual Life Committee.

Farwell named new VP

by James Yarrow

Effective October 13, Leonard Farwell was named the campus Vice President of Administration of Finance. The move was made in response to the continued increase in enrollment at CSUSB, which, at this time, has exceeded 5,000 fulltime equivalent units (FTE) as determined by the Student Census.

President Evans explained in a recent interview that each college with a student population over 5,000 is entitled to two vice presidents. Farwell has been appointed to this position formally only since mid-October, but has been fulfilling the duties of the job for some time.

Included in his job are: the budget, campus planning (expansion), public safety and physical plant operations (grounds, building maintenance). The latter three responsibilities were taken on when James Urata retired earlier this year.

According to Evans, the new title does not actually represent a change in his position, status, or pay. It does, however, allow him to be more effective as a management level administrator. Evans explained that when dealing with a vendor, it helps to have a title that represents the person's true position. Simply put, vendors know who they're dealing with when it's a state university vice president, rather than simply a business manager.

In an interview with Leonard Farwell, he revealed that his stated objective when he applied to Stanford University for his MBA was the job of business manager, a post he has filled here for over 24 years. His first taste of management in an educational setting was over 33 years ago when he was enrolled in the Antioch (Ohio) College work/study program. At that time, a student was required as a part of their education to spend a portion of the year in class, and a portion of time in an actual job setting. His second job in this program was that of bookstore manager, where he developed a close working relationship with the campus business manager.

On application to Stanford, he admits he had no idea what was really involved in the position of business manager. But since that time, he has served in numerous posts in and around education. He has worked in Industrial Relations at Bendix, working on union contracts; in Personnel Classification with an aircraft parts manufacturer, and even for a mail order company answering complaint letters. Before he came to CSUSB, he worked at UCR as the Budget Officer, before that he worked as Assistant Business Manager at Scripps Oceanographic Institute, a high powered research institute in San Diego, which is now known as UC San Diego.

Farwell was the second person hired at Cal State. He said candidly, "the President needed someone to buy the furniture." That was back when Cal State was in the early planning stages and the office was out on the Imperial Highway. Cal State has come a long way since then, and so has Farwell.

Looking to the future, he said "Our biggest problem facing us is the problem of space. The new two-story faculty office building will not help with this problem. It's a good challenge, but hard for the campus to live with. The area most affected by the crunch is the evening enrollment. 44% of Cal State's fulltime enrollment attend after 4 pm. We have an agreement in the works for night classes to be held at Cajon High School. Portable classrooms may also be required. If everything goes as planned we will be able to occupy our next classroom building in 1990. The recent passage of Proposition 56 should enhance the chances of that happening."

After 24 years here at Cal State, Farwell has a lot to remember. His daughter now is a Product Supervisor over the WordStar Word Processing Program; his son is a graduate student at Penn State, working towards a Law Degree; his wife an alumnus of UCR, working there as an admissions counselor.

In closing, Farwell said, "I would like to add that I am very appreciative of the excellent staff in the administrative departments. They are excellent managers and their top quality staff make my job much easier."

Pre-Law Conference set for November 13, at UCLA

The 17th annual Pacific Pre-Law Conference is scheduled for November 13, 1986, in the Grand Ballroom, Ackerman Union on the UCLA campus.

Representatives from 60 law schools throughout the United States will provide program literature and information about admission procedures, requirements, and the various programs offered by each school. Students from all Southern California colleges and universities are cordially invited. Admission is free!

This conference will also provide students an opportunity to hear a panel of attorneys representing various careers in law share their own experiences and insights about a career in law.

This event is co-sponsored by the UCLA Placement and Career Planning Center, the Pre-Law Society, and the Undergraduate Students Association Council (USAC) 2nd Vice President's Office.

College radio goes out on a limb

by Kim Schnepf

When was the last time you heard Siouxsie and the Banshees or the Smiths on 99.1? Probably not recently, if ever. College radio stations are playing more of these new bands while commercial radio stations cater to the top 40 audiences.

Airplay on college radio gave bands like U2, the Police, and REM their first steps toward the success they profit from today. College D.J.'s are continuing to give new bands their chance to be heard. If they didn't we would not have our next set of Depeche M.O.s and Oingo Boingo's.

College radio is free from pressure that advertising revenue brings. The D.J.'s can play what they want to play. Money is what concerns commercial radio directors. Most blues, jazz, ragga, ethnic and new age music are not part of these station's programming.

The punk movement that came to America from Britain in the 1980's seemed to spark college stations popularity. The new sound did not fit into the rock station's format. College stations quickly put the music into their programming.

Students who work at college stations learn what it's like to work in the broadcasting business and yet can play what they choose. Although there is a big difference between college formats and commercial programming, students get hands-on experience.

The one thing many students find in working at college stations is that they get spoiled. Having all the freedom they do, makes it hard to get used to working under someone else's "rules" on what to play. However, some students just work as D.J.'s so they can play the music they like or have fun.

College radio has become such a success that new bands often take their new releases directly to them for airplay. Commercial stations keep track of groups that become popular on college radio. Some college stations won't play any commercial music and some even refuse to play a band once it's signed with a record label.

Stations around the United States have different ideas about format. Some go to the extreme, for the outrageous and new. Others just enjoy their freedom away from commercial sounding music.

College radio's influence has been gradual over the past few years. Since it has taken time to catch on, it has stayed new and hasn't become another college fad. If college radio catches on and gains more attention, it may be forced to change.

Maybe as college radio station D.J.'s and directors graduate and continue in the business, they will bring new style to the present format. But for now, people who like reggae, blues, and new music, may have to be satisfied with turning on their local campus stations: stations like the new CSUSB radio station, KSSB. Maybe the next U2 or Police will be discovered right here on our campus.

John Irving to speak at Loyola seminar

Best-selling author John Irving will make a rare West Coast appearance with cartoonist B. Kliban and 30 other successful writers at Loyola Marymount University's annual writing conference Saturday, November 15, and Sunday, November 16. The conference, titled "Writing for Your Life VII," is a celebration of professional opportunities in writing, including lectures, readings, workshops, screenings, a champagne brunch, and a student writing contest.

John Irving, author of six novels including The World According to Garp, The Hotel New Hampshire and the current best-seller The Cider House Rules, will offer a lecture and attend a special reception and book-signing session for attendees during the conference.

B. Kliban's wacky books, such as Never Eat Anything Bigger Than Your Head, and his off-beat, feline-themed t-shirts, calendars, posters, and greeting cards have become a staple of college students and humor-lovers across the country since the mid-1970's. Kliban will share his experiences as a professional cartoonist and humorist in a formal lecture during the conference.

Other featured participants sharing their recent works and experience during the LMU conference include "Twilight Zone" story editor Alen Brennert, noted grammarian Richard Mitchell, fantasy writer and president of Science Fiction Writers of America Jane Yolen, and novelist and L.A. Times book reviewer Carolyn See.

Registration fees for the two-day conference (including all meals and materials) is $75 for adults and $20 for students. For additional information on the conference and contest, call (213) 642-3549 or 642-2854.

Gallery hosts "unusual" art

An unusual exhibit of "naive" or "primitive" paintings executed by three prominent contemporary artists, including former San Bernardino resident David Settino Scott, will be unveiled Thursday, November 6 at CSUSB.

Other artists whose work will be on display at Cal State include the Reverend Howard Finster and Gaylen Hansen, according to John Nava, professor of art and director of the Art Gallery.

"We are very fortunate to have the work of Reverend Finster's calibre in our exhibit because he is considered to be one of the foremost artists in the genre," remarked Nava. "Scott and Hansen, who are more sophisticated artists, have chosen this manner of painting because of its innocence and off-beat aesthetics.

"The title of the show is reflective of the artists' renderings which tend to be eclectic combinations of Old Master imagery with objects and visions from the surrounding environment," he continued. "Instead of copying directly from art sources, the artists rely on memory, incorporating formal and stylistic elements which have impressed them most." Scott's interest in art began while he was touring with the U.S. Navy. The Reverend Finster is a fundamentalist preacher who utilizes his art to express his religious convictions. Gaylen Hansen is a well-known artist in the northwestern U.S. who is becoming significant as he ages.

The exhibit will be on display until December 4, in the Art Gallery.

Waites performs in Recital Hall

By Seth DeLord

Returning to her old stomping grounds, former CSUSB instructor, Althea Waites, a critically acclaimed solo pianist performed a crystal-clear set of music which included works by J.S. Bach, Franz Liszt, and Florence Price, who was the first black woman to be recognized as a composer of symphonic music.

Reflecting the mood of Price's Sonata in E minor, Waites performed in a bright floral gown of African design called an agbada.

Easily the highlight of the performance, which was well received, but unfortunately, poorly attended, Price's work reflected a strong nationalistic flavor in its treatment of Afro-American folk themes and idioms.

The E minor Sonata is regarded to be a brilliantly crafted piece, and Waites did it justice, approaching it with the mix of delicacy and aggressiveness that is vital to the pieces effectiveness.

"It's plantation music, but you can make it noble," this she said to emphasize its roots, but noting that it was much more than that. The strength of the show, however, came out of the nobility that Waites managed to convey during what was, at times, a very moving performance.

"It's communication," Waites said. "All art is communication, and sometimes, music can be the highest form of communication."

Waites, who taught at CSUSB from 1979 to 1983 (back when it was CSCSB), returned to Cal State at the behest of Arthur Moorefield, the chair of the music department.

delicacy of sliced morsels of chicken, button mushrooms, snow peas and bamboo shoots.

These luncheon entrees are also offered on the dinner menu. For those who are early diners the Twin Panda serves an Early Bird Special from 3-6:30 p.m. The meals range in price from $5.95 to $7.25. A banquet room which holds 40 is another feature offered by Twin Panda.

A mere five minutes from CSUS3, Twin Panda is located at 4295 North Sierra Way in San Bernardino. Though the ambiance is cool and languid, the service, if you are in a hurry, is deceptively fast. This couple emerged from the booth a scant thirty minutes after being seated for a sumptuous lunch. Overall, the Twin Panda restaurant rates a batch of bear hugs.

"The Far Side"

to be in LA

It's breakfast time in Los Angeles and people who read their newspapers over coffee are reaching for scissors to clip "The Far Side" cartoon by thirty-six year old Gary Larson. But Los Angelenos aren't the only ones who appreciate the nationally syndicated cartoonist's macabre sense of humor. Larson's single-panel work, which focuses largely on scientific subjects, appears in over 400 newspapers across the country and can be found tacked on bulletin boards, taped above water coolers and magnetized on refrigerator doors all over the nation.

What's behind Gary Larson's bizarre but popular view of the natural world? When the weather in cloudy Tacoma forced the youthful tadpole collector indoors, he read Kipling and the Tarzan books. That early interest in jungle creatures and ape-men is still apparent in his work. Biological science courses which he enjoyed in highschool and college introduced him to the scientific method, evolution, extinction and animal behavior—now frequent subjects of his lampoons. Years of nurturing scaly pets and friendship with the curator of reptiles at the Seattle Zoo may account for the frequent appearances of snakes in his panels. Primarily, "The Far Side" is attributable to Larson's self-described "active imagination."

Larson likes the fan mail he gets from scientists. They may occasionally quibble with his habit of putting words in the mouths of cows or attributing contemporary human feelings to dinosaurs, but they find in Larson a kindred spirit who appreciates scientific lore even when he is poking fun at it.

Nearly 600 of Larson's cartoons are included in a special exhibition, "The Far Side of Science," opening at the Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County on November 15, 1986.

The exhibition contains cartoons dealing with a wide range of natural history topics including evolution, extinction, animal behavior, early man and the scientific method. They cover a range of humor from the hilarious maverick penguin singing "I've gotta be me" to the poignancy of the elephant on crutches saying "They did what with my leg?"

The Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County is located at 900 Exposition Boulevard. It is open six days a week, Tuesday through Sunday (closed Mondays) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Parking is available and there is a cafeteria on the premises. For admission price, and more information, please call (213) 744-3411.

New book features life of Castro

Fidel Castro: NOTHING CAN STOP THE COURSE OF HISTORY was published in late September by Pathfinder Press in New York. It is the longest and most wide-ranging interview ever granted to U.S. citizens by Cuban President Fidel Castro.

The interview that produced the book was conducted by Dr. Jeffery M. Elliot, a professor of political science at North Carolina Central University, and U.S. Congressman Mervyn M. Dymally of California, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Their discussions with President Castro in Havana produced over 25 hours of taped conversation. These frank exchanges cover dozens of topics.

The topics include — U.S.-Cuban relations, South Africa and apartheid, the role of Cuban troops in Africa, involvement in drug trafficking, the Olympics, and more. In addition, the book reveals much about the life of Fidel Castro, his relations with the Cuban people, and his views on Cuba itself.

Pathfinder Press has published three collections of Castro's speeches, a collection of the speeches and writings of Nelson Mandela, and books by Malcolm X and leaders of the Sandinista revolution in Nicaragua.

The book will be available in local bookstores or by mail from Pathfinder Press, 410 West St., New York, NY 10014.

Excerpts from book:

Fidel Castro: Nothing Can Stop the Course of History an interview by Jeffery M. Elliot and Congressman Mervyn M. Dymally

Apartheid

Professor Jeffrey M. Elliot: In recent months, South Africa's system of racial apartheid has drawn considerable criticism...Do you envision an end to apartheid?

Fidel Castro: Apartheid is the most shameful, traumatizing, and inconceivable crime that exists in today's contemporary world. I can't think of anything else as serious - from a moral and human standpoint - as apartheid...the survival of apartheid is a disgrace to humanity.

Not a single, effective, practical measure has been adopted against South Africa, really pressuring it to put an end to the apartheid system. The United States has systematically opposed all sanctions against the South African regime...

If, in compliance with the universal condemnation of apartheid, South Africa was effectively isolated, economic sanctions were implemented against it, and everyone were to support them, South Africa's apartheid system would come to an end.

Drug Trafficking and Cuba

Congressman Mervyn M. Dymally: Regan administration officials have testified before Congress that the government has concrete evidence of a Cuban-Columbian drug connection. Is Cuba actively involved in drug trafficking?

Fidel Castro: It's absolutely impossible for the U.S. government to have a single shred of evidence of this kind...If we stick to facts, during the last twenty-six years, Cuba's record in this regard has been spotless. In our country, prior to the revolution, drugs were used, sold, and produced. The very first thing the revolution did was to eradicate that problem. Strict measures were taken to destroy marijuana fields and to strongly punish all forms of drug production and trafficking. Since the victory of the revolution, no drugs have been brought into Cuba, nor has any money been made from drugs coming from anywhere else...

Cuba is the place most feared by drug smugglers. Although our country has been blockaded by the U.S. and has no obligation to cooperate with the United States on this or any other problem, Cuba has stood sentinel against the traffic in the Caribbean - as a matter of self-respect, a simple question of prestige and moral rectitude.

Nicaragua and Central America

Congressman Mervyn M. Dymally: Let's turn to the issue of Nicaragua. Can the present conflict be resolved through peaceful negotiations? Is a peaceful settlement possible?

Fidel Castro: I'm absolutely convinced that it is...

As long as the United States continues to believe blindly that the Sandinista revolution can be defeated by a combination of actions by mercenary bands and economic difficulties, and that Salvadoran revolutionary movement can be crushed, the United States will not be willing to search seriously for negotiated political solutions in Central America. This is my firmest conviction.

Olympics

Congressman Mervyn M. Dymally: Finally, what about the Olympic Games? Does Cuba intend to send a team to the 1988 Olympic Games in Korea?

Fidel Castro: There's been no decision in this regard. We've raised with the Olympic Committee the need to share the Olympic Games between the two parts of the Korean territory. If the Olympic Games are held in a country where a bloody war once raged - a war in which inflicted deep wounds on the Korean people then those Olympic Games, as they have been planned will be sectarian. Rather than creating unity, they will divide...

So far, the Olympic Games have served to parade the rich, industrialized countries' wealth, good nutritional standards, and excellent technical capacities. How many medals have been won by athletes from the Third World, from those countries that lack sports facilities, physical education and sports instructors, and proper nutrition for the children and young people from whose ranks the athletes must come?...Every four years, the Olympic Games measure the inferiority of the Indians, blacks, yellows, and mestizos and the superiority of white society, even though it is the U.S. Blacks who win most of the medals for the rich, white, industrialized society of the United States.

Applications being sought for research posts

Deadline for Applications: January 15, April 15 and August 15, 1987

The National Research Council announces the 1987 Resident Cooperative, and Postdoctoral Research Associateships Programs for research in the sciences and engineering to be conducted in behalf of 26 federal agencies or research institutions, whose laboratories are located through the United States. The programs provide Ph.D. scientists and engineers of unusual promise and ability with opportunities to perform research on problems largely of their own choosing yet compatible with the research interests of the supporting laboratory. Initiated in 1954, the Associateship Programs have contributed to the career development of over 4000 scientists ranging from recent Ph.D. recipients to distinguished senior scientists.

Approximately 450 new full-time Associateships will be awarded on a competitive basis in 1987 for research in: chemistry, earth and atmospheric sciences; engineering and applied sciences; biological, health, behavioral sciences and biotechnology; mathematics; space and planetary sciences; and physics. Most of the programs are open to both U.S. and non-U.S. nationals, and to both recent Ph.D. degree recipients and senior investigators.

Awards are made for one or two years; senior applicants who have held the doctorate at least five years may request shorter tenure.

Stipends for the 1987 program year will begin at $26,350 a year for recent Ph.D.s and be appropriately higher for senior Associates. A stipend supplement approximately $5,000 may be available to regular (not senior) awardees holding recognized doctoral degrees in those disciplines wherein the number of degrees conferred by US graduate schools is significantly below the current decade. In the 1986 program year these areas have been engineering, computer science, and space-related biomedical science.

Reimbursement is provided for allowable relocation costs and for limited professional travel during tenure. The host laboratory provides the Associate with programmatic assistance including facilities, support services, necessary equipment, and travel necessary for the conduct of the approved research programs.

Applications to the National Research Council must be postmarked no later than January 15, 1987. Initial awards will be announced in March and April (July and November for the later competitions) followed by awards to alternates later.

Information on specific research opportunities and federal laboratories, as well as application materials, may be obtained from the Associateship Programs, Office of Scientific and Engineering Personnel, JH 608-D1, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20418, (202) 334-2760.

AIDS is nothing to joke about

Health Corner
by Sunnie Bell

Although humor is sometimes used to promote reader interest, it can't be included this time. The subject is deadly. Oh yes, there have been jokes made about AIDS...directed at groups who comprised the majority of cases. But those shortsighted folks who have laughed had better re-evaluate their joke material. U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop reports that... "AIDS will probably increase and spread among people who are not homosexual or intravenous drug abusers."

Since AIDS was identified in the U.S. in 1981, the media has carried increasingly detailed information on it, describing what it is and its manifestations. Most people now know that AIDS is an acronym for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, meaning that it is a non-genetic collection of indicate a diminished capacity to fight disease. The public keeps it at somewhat of a distance, but there is a point of knowledge between complacency and hysteria that should be achieved.

Early symptoms of AIDS may be flu-like and include tiredness, fever, diarrhea, night sweats, and diminished appetite followed by weight loss and widespread lymph node enlargement. More definitive symptoms include malignancies such as Kaposi's Sarcoma (an unusual skin cancer usually found in older men) and primary brain lymphomas, fungal infections such as monilia in the mouth and the esophagus, protozoan infection such as Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia and toxoplasmic brain abscesses. It is estimated that in 1991, fifty-four thousand U.S. deaths will result from AIDS.

The origin of the AIDS virus appears to be related to the green monkey of Africa; forty percent of them have viral antibodies similar to what is now known as HIV, or Human Immunodeficiency Virus. Not necessarily causing illness in the monkey, it apparently mutated out of that population into humans and presented a double problem. Not only was there no natural immunity in humans, but it destroyed the immune system itself, making mechanisms that normally intervene to contain a new virus inoperative.

The extremely long incubation potential for AIDS...up to six years...is not only frightening, but creates enormous epidemiological challenges. Intimate sexual contact is the most frequent and sure method of spread. Dr. Koop states that...absolute certainty (of avoiding AIDS) means that you and your partner have had a mutually faithful monogamous sexual relationship for at least five years... "In a culture fresh out of the 'sexual revolution', this statement is profound. The best method of protection for those who cannot abstain from sex and who have questionably monogamous partners is unfailing use of rubber contraceptives, and condoms in both hetero, and homosexual relationships. AIDS has been spread by bisexual men into the female population from which it reaches the strictly heterosexual male population. It's not difficult to see that sexual promiscuity has permitted AIDS to gain such threatening advances.

AIDS education programs are being prepared by the professional staff of the Student Health Center, and are soon to be presented around the campus of CSUSB. In fact, one session was held last Thursday evening for the Dorm Residents. Other sessions will be offered to Greek organizations, faculty, and staff members. It is of utmost importance that these sessions not be viewed as geared to the homosexual population only. With AIDS presenting a broad threat, it is critical that thorough knowledge for prevention be presented to everyone. Research has provided much information on the virus itself, its effect on the human body, and on preventative measures. However, development in treatment is lagging. New drug therapies such as AZT have serious side effects and unreliable long-term results. The best way to stop AIDS is to control its access to new hosts. This is done through prevention accomplished by educated cooperation of susceptible hosts. Please attend these meetings on campus. Precise announcements of places and time are forthcoming.

Reminder!! The relaxation group meets every Tuesday at 1:00 in the student Health Center. Join them and learn how to get "un-stressed" before final exams. Contact Dorinda in the Health Center if you have any questions. An appointment is not necessary; drop in, but remember to wear comfortable clothing.

Shots now required at CSU

by Heidi Barlow

Measles and rubella immunizations are now a necessity for California State University students, according to Dr. James Savage, Health Center director. Students not providing verification by February 6 will be unable to register for spring quarter classes.

In 1985, measles and rubella epidemics hit many universities in the east and midwest. Therefore, Savage explained, the aim of immunization is to prevent an epidemic among CSU students.

Student health Services must receive documented proof of measles-rubella immunization from students by February 6, 1987.

This verification must show that the vaccine used was manufactured from live virus. Such a vaccine has only been available since 1969.

The following students are required to provide proof of measles and rubella immunization:

-New students born after January 1, 1957.

-Students born after January 1, 1957, who are applying for readmission.

-Students who live in campus dormitories.

-Students whose primary and secondary education were obtained outside of the United States.

-Students who are participating in dietetics, medical technology, nursing, or physical therapy.

-Students who are participating in student teaching, field work involving preschool or school-age children, or any practicum which takes place in a health care setting.

The Health Center will immunize students free of charge. Immunization hours are 9 to 4, weekdays, with no appointment necessary.

Words of encouragement for women

Health Corner:
by Sunnie Bell

A syndrome is a range of symptoms that, when viewed together, suggest a specific condition. A mysterious syndrome...experienced only by women...has existed prior to the Middle Ages. In fact, it's possible that it existed before the days of the Roman Empire. A cure has never been found...not even symptomatic relief. The profound symptoms include dripping palms, inability to speak coherently, cold feet (literally) and finally knees that shake and are magnetically attracted. The syndrome, variable in duration, is exponentially relative to time spent in a waiting area prior to a gynecological examination...especially the first one.

Well, my 'fellow' women, after all these centuries, we will at last search out a cure for Gynecological Examination Paranoia, herein called GEP. This shall be accomplished through revealing a sequence of truths. The first and most important one is that all women have felt the same way you do. There hasn't yet been the individual who cruised complacently into a clinic and leaped into position without agonizing over whether or not it would look stupid to leave socks on her bloodless feet. In fact, I have only recently come to a comfortable resolution on this issue myself...I leave them on, but that is a decision unboldly reached after many years of GEP and the births of two children.

The second important truth is that it is important to become acquainted with and personally responsible for your own body. At the Student Health Center, you participate in your own examination...actively learning techniques of both visual and palpated (felt by the hands) self-breast examination. In fact a general head to toe physical precedes the actual gynecological exam. Through participation and learning from the beginning, by the time the pelvic portion begins, it is likely that you will be surprisingly at ease. True, knee magnetism will probably still be there, but this is recognized and easily managed by the doctor or nurse who does your exam. For your comfort, maintain awareness that this is no different for these medical people than examining your ears...they're looking for physiologic indicators. This leads to the third important truth: you don't have to feel embarrassed. It's simply a common event to those who work in a medical office. The person who examines you will gently insert a speculum...a device to allow a view of the cervix (the bottom part of the uterus). Through the speculum a painless removal of a few cervical cells (the Pap Smear) will be done for microscopic examination at a laboratory. Then a manual exam of the vagina will be done with the other hand of the examiner on the lower abdomen feeling the outlines of the uterus and ovaries. Sometimes a rectal exam is done at this time too, depending on your age and the indications. The pelvic exam takes only about five minutes...not really worth working up a big GEP sweat.

An increasing number of abnormal Pap tests are being found in younger women...those in their teens and twenties. It's so important to find problems early...many times small cellular abnormalities can be taken care of right in the office. And as you know, early detection of a serious problem, yes cancer, is usually an indicator of a successful cure.

Since the GYN exam is something that must be faced again and again throughout a woman's life, you should know the fourth and final truth. It actually does get easier with time.

One more word about your part...be sure to talk. A big portion of the whole process is education, and without your questions and input, it's hard for the person examining you to realize your needs. Also as you learn more about your body, what to expect from it and the best way to treat it, you will gain confidence and security. Aha! I believe we've discovered the antidotes for GEP...confidence and security! They were in you all along!

So pull on those woolen socks and get yourself over to the Student Health Center. You'll be glad you did.

Soccer finishes strong, shuts out Long Beach

by Matt Pollak

As the CSUSB Coyote Soccer team was putting the finishing touches on a 5-0 victory over Cal State Long Beach, the 1986 soccer season was coming to a close. For the Coyotes and coach Carlos Juarez, the victory marked the end of an impressive season in which they defeated three NCAA Division I schools while posting a record of 12 wins and 7 losses.

Though the Coyotes were not selected as one of the four teams to go to the NCAA Division III Western Regional Playoffs (They finished fifth), they did record some impressive numbers this season. Along with the statistics, CSUSB displayed an exciting style of play.

"We had an outstanding season considering the fact that we had a tough schedule," coach Juarez said. The Coyotes defeated three of the NCAA Division I teams they faced this year which Juarez said was "very encouraging." He also stated that he plans to schedule games with four or five Division I teams next year.

Juarez said that his team had one of the toughest schedules in Division III, in the United States, however, they missed being selected for the Regional Playoffs. The top four ranked teams in the region were selected while CSUSB finished fifth.

Even with the difficult schedule, the Coyotes managed to record 11 shutouts in their 12 victories. This included a span of six consecutive shutout victories, encompassing a total of more than 540 minutes without allowing opponents to score a single goal. Moreover, the season goal average against the Coyotes was less than one goal per game.

"That was due to the total team defense that we played," Juarez said. He credited junior goalie Randy Green as the major reason for the defensive success. "He's a leader by respect. Everybody really trusts him," the coach added.

On offense, the Coyotes were led by Jerry O'hara's 13 goals while Mark Texter and Trevor Coleman finished second with six tallies. "We had a pretty balanced attack," Juarez stated.

The coach credited halfbacks Bill Alssop, Trevor Coleman, Kiko Montes and Van Sirisack with controlling the pace of the game for CSUSB.

"They did a good job for us in stabilizing our attack and controlling defense for us," Juarez states. By this, he meant that the halfbacks kept the ball away from the opponents and created possibilities on offense for the Coyotes.

Juarez said that his team has already begun training for the 1987 season. "During our offseason, we'll try to keep the team together; try to get them stronger and faster by training with weights," he said.

leagues. "In order to stay in shape, you have to play ten months out of the year," he said.

Looking forward to 1987 Juarez said, "Our goal for next year is to make the playoffs." He added that after this season's success, he hopes to see more people attending the Coyote's games in 1987.

Lady Coyotes take first-ever playoff spot, face La Verne

The Lady Coyotes volleyball team has received a post-season bid from the NCAA Division III playoff committee. The Lady Coyotes will face the University of La Verne this Thursday, November 13, at 5:30 at UC, San Diego.

The Lady Coyotes received the bid late Sunday evening after playing in the UC, San Diego Invitational Tournament on Friday and Saturday. This is a first time ever bid for the CSUSB volleyball team.

In the tourney, CSUSB raised their win total to an all-time high of 26 versus only 11 losses.

"We played very well considering we didn't use our best girl because of injury," said CSUSB coach Naomi Ruderman. "I am very pleased with the bid, this is exciting because now our season is not over. In fact it is almost like playing at a different level because the teams we will face are the best around," added the coach.

The Lady Coyotes were defeated by the no. 1 and no. 2 teams in the nation (UC, San Diego and Menlo Park, respectively) but clinched the postseason bid by defeating Claremont College in three straight games.

The Lady Coyotes utilized freshman Heddy Li to replace the injured Laura Isbell, who has an injured ankle and is still questionable for the playoff tournament. Coach Ruderman said of Li, "Heddy played an excellent weekend of volleyball. She was consistent and played well all-around." Li is from Duarte and attended San Gabriel HS.

Ruderman also cited Bridgette Austin, Patty Reid, and Kim Ensley for strong outings in last weekend's tourney.

Thursday's match with the University of La Verne is crucial and a must-win for the Lady Coyotes since the post-season is single elimination. In the '86 season, CSUSB defeated La Verne in four games in September but lost two games to one in the Occidental tournament.

Maybe there is a substitute for experience.

After you're done with school, you face one of the hardest lessons in life:

Twin Panda worth the time, and the money

By John and Tammy Horton

If you're into exquisite Chinese cuisine costing a mere pittance, try a special lunch at Twin Panda.

With a maximum of kudos already awarded by a major newspaper critic and the Southern California Restaurant Writers, the Twin Panda needs nothing more to prove. Except, that is, by your own tastebuds.

Entering the large wooden double doors which face Sierra Way, a sparkling rock-rimmed pool greets you immediately on your left. Ushered from the plush foyer into the large primary dining room, you may have your choice of one of eight booths or nine tables.

Your formally attired waiter presents you with multipaged menu. The inside first page reveals a confident yet subtle expression in art of the restaurant's theme: two panda bears frolicking amid a forest of pastel blue.

Indeed nothing about the languid appearance of Twin Panda—in either decor or service—prepares a patron for the already acclaimed five star service and Sze-Chuan delicacies offered.

While Twin Panda sports some 16 luncheon specials, eight are $3.50, ridiculously low for a high restaurant so highly touted. Of these eight, you may have your choice between four chicken, two pork, two combination entree lunches, and one with beef.

Though all special lunches include the same side dishes, the preparation of entrees—each in the Sze-Chuan tradition—is distinctly different.

The Sweet and Sour Pork lunch served at one's table initially is a visual study in culinary contrasts. A candy-apple red sauce bathes golden brown, puffy deep-fried batter encased pork chunks. In the middle of this dlectable sight is a generous amount of stir fried green pepper wedges, white onion pieces, and carrot slices. Arranged neatly in the center of this colorful entree rests a smattering of tiny golden pineapple wedges.

In our opinion, it is the crafty arrangement of these tart vegetables and honey-like pineapple on the oval platter that provides the intermingling of subtle sweet and sour flavor. The sauce, though attractive and tasty, appears more a visual condiment and less an integral part of the actual flavor.

A generous mound of delicate rice, enhanced with egg, two small fried wonton, and one plump four-inch-long Shanghai egg roll—complete with red pepper and yellow mustard dipping sauce—complements the sweet and sour pork lunch, and others. Of course, the obligatory—and tasty—egg flower soup, Chinese tea, and fortune cookies are also served.

Equally as attractive a dish, the Almond Chicken is served with whole button mushrooms, sliced mushrooms, crisp pieces of carrot, celery and water chestnuts, and one inch chunks of chicken. It has a delicately flavored sauce which enhances this combination of foods.

Another entree to consider is their MooGoo Gai Pan, a stir-fried

Advertising Features

The Basic Format

Depending on the space available, we will make every attempt to place your ad in the location you choose. Please Note: The Chronicle is a tabloid size publication and total printing space available on a single page is 10x15 inches. Our columns are 2 inches wide. We request that all ad mats conform to multiples of our standard column widths.

Ad billing is based on the number of square inches in the mat and the number of times the ad is run.

Total Inches	Cost per Inch
0-25	$2.00
26-50	1.90
51-75	1.80
76-100	1.70
100-150	1.60
over 150	1.50

*Ask our sales representative about special discount package offerings that can yield substantial savings on advertising rates

For example, billing on an ad 4" x 3" published in two issues would be computed as follows:

4" x 3" equals 12 sq. in.
12 sq. in. x 2 issues totals 24 sq. in.
24 sq. in. x $2/in. totals $48.00

Cal State opens new campus in Coachella

by Suzy Zidbeck

This fall, Cal State opened up a satellite campus in the Palm Desert. This is the seventh such campus to be opened and this particular one happens to be an extension of the CSUSB campus.

Located about 75 miles from the CSUSB main campus, the satellite campus ("the Coachella Valley Center"), offers both upper-division and graduate programs. There are currently 300 students enrolled at the center and all are considered loyal coyotes.

Coachella Valley Center works closely with the College of the Desert in offering classes for freshman and sophomores. Almost all of the classes offered are late afternoon and evening classes because of the shortage of classroom space. As of now, the center is leasing a high school by night. But by Spring, they hope to have added three new buildings that will provide both classroom and office space.

The proposition to build this satellite campus first began 18 months ago and funding was finally approved in July. Classes began on September 25 and the standard quarter system that CSUSB runs will be followed. All registration fees are the same and once a person is accepted to CSUSB, he is also admitted to the satellite campus.

According to the Director of Cal State San Bernardino's Coachella Valley Center, Catherine Gannon, when CSUSB first opened in 1965, there were only 300 students enrolled. This doesn't mean that the Coachella Valley Center will become another main Cal State campus, but the area around the center is predicted to do alot of population growing in the future.

There is also the ITFS (Instructional Television Fixed Services) that has been established. Three classes at CSUSB are broadcasted down to Coachella Valley Center. Students at the center then telephone live to the professor of the class any questions they might have. They hope to have more such classes in the future, but initial testing is still going on. The results so far seem to be positive.

A few other campuses offer the experience of an extended campus. This is the seventh one in the state of California to be developed and most likely there will be more added. Any question or information you might want or need can be obtained by writing to Coachella Valley Center 43-500 Monterey Avenue Palm Desert, CA 92260
