ASB Senate meets

Priority registration considered

By Ray Byers

"Members of the ASB Senate should get priority in registration. I feel we are entitled to it and it would attract qualified people into student government...otherwise, the only thing you get out of being in student government is the 'buzz' of being in it," Doug Cole said.

The subject under discussion at the ASB Senate meeting Nov. 16 was whether the members of the senate should press their case for registration priority to enable all members of the senate to schedule their classes so they would all have a specific hour to meet when none of them would have a class to attend.

John Atkinson, facetiously suggested that if they were trying to attract people, perhaps each senator should be paid $50.00 a quarter and see who they could attract.

"I think we should just pick an hour when everyone is free, even if it is before or after school hours," Atkinson said, "Everyone knew the responsibility they were taking on when they ran for office."

Cole said he accepted the responsibility, but would also like to have the registration priority.

Fred Deharo, ASB vice president, informed the senate that while a registration priority would be nice, it was not possible. He cited a report released by the chancellor's office which stated that priorities for special interest groups were not advisable since special interest groups make up approximately 25 percent of a college student population and all of them wanted priority in registration.

After comments by several of the senators, Deharo brought the discussion to an end when he told the members that they would not get registration priority, but if they wanted to try they could have an ad hoc committee draw up a resolution to that effect. The senators agreed to this and a committee consisting of Doug Cole as chairman; Jim Gallen, Mike Messer and Mario Inzunza, as members was appointed.

Jim Austin, editor of the Pawprint, was at the meeting in response to reports that the newspaper was not cooperating with the senate.

It was the consensus of the senate comments that the Pawprint should print more news on campus and student activities and less information on candidates for local political office.

Austin stated that the information on local politics had been carried because he thought the student would be interested. He said the reason many of the ASB and other school functions had not been reported on was due to lack of knowledge and people. Many times the paper was unaware of an activity and with the limited Pawprint staff, it was virtually impossible to cover everything.

Austin made the suggestion that the ASB and other groups make sure the newspaper was informed of any activities taking place and if the Pawprint was unable to cover the story, it might be possible for someone in the group to write an item on it for publication.

"We try to get the activities in, but we can only cover so much and people can bring things in," Austin said.

"The Pawprint can't be held totally responsible, they're not," Rick Napier said, "maybe we should be taking things to them."

Deharo said he had told John Norris, ASB activities director and Len Ehret, ASB publicity director, to work more closely with the Pawprint and keep it informed on the activities taking place.

Austin told the senate that the rearranging of the campaign statement by Mark Womack in the Oct. 29 Pawprint was accidental. (Womack has contested the election for Freshman Class President as a result of the statement as it appeared).

The ASB Election Committee is re-writing the election code at the present time which will take into consideration anything like this occurring in the future Deharo said. The revised code should be finished by the start of the Spring quarter, but they could use a little help and asked if there were any volunteers to help.

Other business conducted during the meeting pertained to:

— Appointment of Jane Heister as President Pro Tem during any absence by Deharo.

— Appointment of Jane Heister, Jim Gallen and Art Milward as permanent members of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

— Kim Warner was appointed a member of the Senate Rules Committee and John Atkinson was confirmed as the chairman of the committee.

— Approved and sent to the Appropriations Committee for action, a request from the Alumni Association for a $130.00 donation.

ASB wants you

The fall quarter is almost over, and there are still positions in the ASB student government that are still unfilled. Sources within ASB have expressed concern about the small number of people seeking ASB positions. The following are some of the vacant positions waiting to be filled:

Student Services Committee: One (1) chairperson and seven (7) voting members. Committee responsible for all ASB student services - Book Co-op, Carpooling, and all evening services.

Sports Committee: One (1) chairperson and ten (10) voting members. Committee responsible for allocating all AS monies for various intramural sports and purchasing sports equipment.

Student Union Committee: One (1) position available. A voting member of the committee. The Committee is responsible for all aspects of the Student Union facility.

Publicity Committee: Three (3) voting members of the Committee. Committee responsible for publicizing all ASB services and activities.

Judicial Board: Four (4) voting positions open. Board responsible for arbitrating, any and all disputes within the ASB. The Board has final authority in arbitration.

Anyone interested in any of these positions contact the ASB Trailer at 887-7494, or drop by and fill out an application.

News for vets

The Veterans Affairs will host two Health Careers for Veterans seminars at 1 and 3 p.m., Nov. 24, in the Lower Commons. The seminars will be conducted by Ken Buchanan, a MEDIHC Counselor from Operation MEDIHC.

Operation MEDIHC is a project conducted by the California Department of Health, in cooperation with the U. S. Public Health Service, Health Resources Administration, and Bureau of Health Manpower. MEDIHC stands for Military Experience Directed Into Health Careers.

The MEDIHC Program is a program to help military personnel and veterans who have worked in the medical or health fields continue with their health careers. Eligible veterans for this program are those men and women who have received health training in the military or any ex-military personnel who are interested in a civilian health career.

The program is also designed to assist hospitals, health agencies, and others who can employ veterans. Links are also maintained with training programs and institutions that offer opportunities important to career development.

The project further sends a listing of eligible veterans who made application to various hospitals, medical officers, etc. throughout the State and hopefully a person would be contacted for employment through this listing.

Election Committee overruled

By Jim Austin

The Election Committee decision to hold new elections was overturned by the ASB Judicial Board. The decision was rendered by the only member of the Judicial Board, Robert E. Olson, associate justice, who conducted a personal investigation of the issue.

It is not known at this time what areas were investigated, but Olson ruled that the complainant, Mark Womack, did not make his complaint within the 24-hour limit "as set forth in the By-Laws, section 9, paragraph 7, subsection C."

Thus the Board "...rules in favor of Mr. (Joe) Baldino (who was elected Freshman Class President) and finds the Election Committee in violation."

Doris "Cookie" Pallard, chairperson of the Election Committee, when contacted said, "The Election Committee feels that some kind of by-laws should be written up so this type of thing won't happen again. The Committee still feels the same way (that it) did the right thing."

George M. Cohan life subject of film

George M. Cohan was born on the 4th of July. And if that isn't enough to make him a fire cracker, nothing is. James Cagney plays the Cohan role in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," today's offering at 1 p.m. in the Library's classic film series on the fourth floor.

Is it a good film? Let's let three 1942 film critics decide:

LIFE Magazine, June 15, 1942, had this to say: "... Kinetic Jimmy Cagney ... Cagney's performance may win him the 1942 Academy Award." (It didn't Greer Garson won it for "Mrs. Miniver.")

The New Yorker, June 6, 1942, put it this way: "... As a resume of the Cohan career, 'Yankee Doodle Dandy' is a complete delight, an extravaganza of tunes the country has most liked for decades; as a private portrait of the actor, something intimate or revealing, it is dubious and out of drawing."

Time, June 22, 1942, said: "... It is a remarkable performance, possibly Cagney's best, and it makes Yankee Doodle a dandy."

The story is told in flashback as Cohan visits the White House and President F.D.R. prior to being awarded the Congressional Medal for his support of the war effort in World Wars I and II.

An interesting note: Life reported that on opening night of the film on Broadway, Warner Brothers sold the first night tickets for war bonds. Cheapest seats sold for $25. Highest went to 88 moviegoers for $25,000 a piece.

And that was before inflation! For those who miss the 1 p.m. showing today in the Listening Facility on the Library's fourth floor, they can drop by tomorrow. Same show at 10 a.m.

Lunches are OK.
The seats are free!

Faculty wives to conduct fund drive

The Cal State Faculty Wives Club has a self-perpetuating scholarship fund which is responsible for awarding scholarships to CSCSB students totaling $200 or more annually.

The club mainly finances its scholarship fund by a unique joint exchange of holiday greetings by all members of the college community, instead of sending individual greeting cards to each friend.

To participate, all staff, faculty and students are invited to send checks in care of Phyllis Blackey, 19110 Knollwood Ave. Rialto 92376 or via Robert Blackey, Dept. of History, AD-140, payable to the Cal. State Faculty Wives Scholarship Fund before Dec. 15. Donations received on or before that date will ensure that names of donors will be included in the holiday greetings sent to all contributors and that donations will be included in this year's addition to the scholarship fund.

Student banking problems are different. Their bankers should be, too.

That's why Bank of America has Student Representatives close by at offices near major college campuses in California. They're always students or recent graduates themselves. So they know all about student banking problems. And how to solve them.

They know all the ways our College Plan™ can help you, too. So why not stop by and talk things over. Our Student Reps can make your banking easier.

Winter registration in progress

There is still time to enroll for the winter quarter at Cal State, San Bernardino, Cheryl Weese, admissions officer for the college, announced last week.

Applications will be accepted for all undergraduate degree programs and all graduate programs except the M.S. in clinical psychology.

Prospective students whose application forms are received at the college by 5 p.m., Friday, Dec. 3 will be given a regular priority number for registration. (This helps the student to get the classes he needs.)

However, new students will be accepted through the winter registration period, which is Jan. 3 and 4, Weese said.

Applicants submitting their papers after Dec. 3 must make an appointment to see Weese and will register in the last period on Jan. 4.

Weese urged students interested in attending Cal. State this winter to submit their application forms (and $20 fee) immediately. Transcripts from prior colleges or high schools can follow, she said.

Transfer students from community colleges which are on the semester system can begin the winter quarter at Cal. State early in January, while completing the last few weeks on the prior campus, Weese explained. This will eliminate their staying out of school from the close of their semester until the beginning of the spring term at Cal. State April 4.

Mid-term high school graduates or seniors also may enroll for classes at Cal. State. Weese can explain the provisions for dual enrollment by seniors.

Special assistance for veterans recently discharged or those getting an "early out" to attend college is available from Henry White, the college's veterans affairs officer, or Rick West, the Veterans Administration representative on campus.

Individuals uncertain about their prospects for attending college and wishing some one to talk to are encouraged to contact the Center for New Directions in the Student Services Building. Informal counseling is available there without the necessity of first enrolling in the college.

The Child Care Center will now continue to serve Cal. State students this winter, with pre-registration starting now and ending Dec. 8.

Children ages 2 to 12 are cared for at a cost of 70 cents an hour. The rate is adjusted on a sliding scale for certain qualified parents.

The center is open from 7:45 a.m. until 6:15 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 5:15 p.m., Friday.

Registration forms are available from the dean of students office in the Student Services Building.

The college will be closed on Thanksgiving and also the following day.

Metrics taught here

Cal State, San Bernardino is offering an extension class in the use of the metric system. This practical workshop experience is designed for everyone.

This includes educators, health service employees, homemakers, engineers, students, firemen; in fact no one is excluded.

Meetings are set for 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., Friday, Dec. 3; 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Saturdays, Dec. 4 and 11, in Room 52 of the Library Building at Cal. State, San Bernardino.

Dean Hane, the instructor, who is mathematics coordinator for the Riverside County Schools, assures prospective students that they need not be a mathematician to take the course. Only prerequisite, and that's not official, is third grade arithmetic.

Cost for the one-unit education course is $22. Registration is at the first meeting or in advance through the Office of Continuing Education at Cal. State, San Bernardino.

Fundamental issues

By Jim Austin

Some of the more basic political issues concern things like democracy versus dictatorship, freedom versus tyranny, private interests versus the public interest, capitalism versus mixed economy versus socialism (of various stripes). The resolution of such issues is contingent upon the resolution of the more fundamental moral issues. This is why little is accomplished in political dialogue where people submerge each other with memorized facts and get nowhere.

The most basic of all moral issues is between the two theories of morality, altruism and egoism. Altruism holds that an act is morally worthy to the extent that it benefits (materially or otherwise) others. It holds that we all have a duty to others, that the obligation is binding regardless of one's wishes, desires or interests, and that selfishness is evil, to be tolerated, if at all, as a grudging concession to pragmatic considerations.

Egoism holds self interest as the purpose of morality and considers it evil to demand that action be motivated by anything else.

One can think of all kinds of reasons to act in self-interest. After all, it is one's self that is enjoying the benefits. But why should anyone be altruistic? Attempts to answer that question usually break down to circular reasoning or contradiction.

Answers such as "because it's right," "because one should," "because it's a duty," etc. fall into the first category. The other kind is an appeal to self interest ("It'll make you happier!") which contradicts the assertion it's attempting to support.

Thus this most fundamental issue is not one where reasonable men may differ. Reason is entirely on the side of egoism. Indeed altruism originated from primitive times where mysticism was in full force and supernatural punishment was threatened against the disobedient (You'll roast in Hell!).

Notwithstanding all this, altruism is accepted by practically everyone as morality. Most people are unable to conceive of a different moral code. The idea that one can pursue an action motivated entirely by selfish considerations in full moral rec-

Letters To The Editor

PawPrint defended — again

Dear Editor,
More on THE ATTACK!
I challenge Sydneye Moser-James to write an "original, creative, intelligent commentary" on anything and submit it to the PawPrint.

Sydneye, (Pardon the informality) where have you been for four quarters — obviously there was something in the PawPrint that maintained you as "an eager and faithful reader of each edition."

You must admit that this is not one of the more lively campuses, possible because the vast majority of the students are commuters and seek their entertainment or whatever elsewhere. This is not really the fault of the PawPrint editor, Dan Clint, Dave Fowler, or even Kommander Korn.

We are a diversified group of people. Some, like you, are strictly analytical intellectuals. Others, possibly just as academically serious, like a little humor and fun to relieve the monotonous strain. Some of us are exhibitionists who enjoy entertaining you on the sidelines. If you choose not to watch, listen or read, that's your prerogative. I for one am grateful that the world is filled with so many different kinds of people with such a vast range of ideas, whether good or bad.

Quite frankly, a more humorous attack on the PawPrint, et al, would have been less offensive to me — but I would never fault you for your lack of humor.

Possibly, Sydneye, you might contribute some ideas on how to make activities more attractive to a greater number of students. Your ideas just might stimulate interest and produce greater participation. It does seem like the same persons keep doing things and I guess that in itself is good — at least things aren't completely stagnant — and the same people doing these things do enjoy themselves and that's not all bad, either. I say join with them or assist them, obviously you have some ideas or you would not have been so critical.

Marilyn Goldstein

Critic rebuffs critics

Dear Editor,
Thank you for your prompt response to my letter in the Nov. 9, 1976 issue and for printing a listing of your staff members. Such a masthead is a standard component of all legitimate publications and should never have to be requested. I also wish to commend you for the somewhat improved content of the Nov. 9 and Nov. 16 issues. They were not great journalistic breakthroughs by any means, but better than previous issues. The articles by Mary Martin, Kerry Kugelman, Barbara Baird, Jim Austin and even Dave Fowler's review of Three Men on a Horse (by golly, the boy is not illiterate), were interesting and reasonably well written. (Fowler should stick to reporting and leave the light humor to someone else.)

You suggested in your Nov. 9 response to my letter that I was looking for "heavy weight," intellectual material. This is not correct. Lightweight material has a place in a well balanced presentation of news, commentary, and general interest material. But there is no reason why "lightweight" material cannot be well written, creative, and of interest to more than a handful of special interest people. Even material for particular interest groups is okay if balanced with other articles for the rest of us.

In response to my critics in the Nov. 16 issue: Why you poor little darlings! You think you have been viciously castigated by "le grande bitch." Unfortunately, I am all out of purple hearts, and don't expect a new shipment before next October, but in compensation, I am enclosing several band-aids for your bruised egos and battered psyches. You can pick them up at the PawPrint office. Since you are so easily shattered, I hope that you confine your journalistic efforts to CSCSB and stay from places like UCLA, USC, UCR, UCB, and even most of our other State Colleges. You would be laughed off campus.

No cries of unfair comparison, please. Our small enrollment, limited funding, and lack of a journalism department is no excuse for printing anything that will fill space. If necessary, I would rather see a smaller paper with three well written articles. What a pity the "heroic" and "herculean" efforts have produced so little of merit. But to each of you who responded, a big Hooray! There hasn't been this much action in the "letters" column in a long time.

To Mr. Henke: While ignoring your intended jab, I must say that I was not aware that printed vulgarity was a function of intellect. I thought it was an expression of disgust. As for plagiarism, I would not care if half the paper was plagiarized as long as the references and sources are listed and credit is given to the original authors. Regarding the apathy charge; I am hardly an apathetic person, but rather possess infinite patience. My waiting a year, ever hoping for a better paper, before leaping to attack should be a case in point.

To Henke and Kommander Korn: Thanks for the invitation to join the Kazoo Band. Kazooing is probably more fun than badminton and won't rot your teeth. It is unfortunate that you felt a need to defend Korn and the Band. If you will reread my letter of Nov. 9, you should see that I made no reference to the Band at all, and it should be apparent that my attack was directed at the PawPrint, not at Korn personally. If I must spell it out, I wanted to know why Korn got so much coverage and the other students so little. Student apathy is not the answer. It is the responsibility of the PawPrint to get out and see what the hundreds of other students are doing and give them equal coverage.

To the self appointed spokesman for the Cal Class of 70: It is indeed commendable that you have chosen to enrich your dog Spot's life by lining his box with the PawPrint.

To Mr. Clint: Perhaps I can better communicate with you if I can just capture your style. Perhaps I can borrow (plagiarize?) your opening statement: "Tick. Tick. Tick. Caught . . ." Hummmmm, how about, "Tick, tock, Row the boat. Mother is eating lemon grass." Ahh, brilliant! Such style! Such originality! Of course it doesn't say anything and doesn't mean anything, but the cadence is great! And oh yes, whether it says anything or not, it is still worth 25 cents a column inch. Stick to your guns, Clint. There is a market for your ramblings. If you turned to poetry, and practiced long enough, you could become the Alan Ginsberg of the 1980's and make more money than all of your critics.

You personally were not accused of plagiarism. I am certain that Hayakawa, the semanticist, would hardly have approved of anything so poorly expressive as your article.

As for myself, nondescript or not, I have emerged, not from the grease pits, but from the chemistry labs. (Although it could be argued that there is a close resemblance.) If you spent last year "writing creditless, editorial ramblings, calling names and howling for written reactions" to no avail, perhaps it is because your readers simply failed to understand what you were saying. Perhaps the point of your articles got lost in the rambling and the readers were unable to find anything worthy of response.

Fundamental issues

itude is beyond what is considered possible to us lowly mortals.

Egoism does, however, manifest itself subconsciously. Though it hasn't been expressly advocated before it was formulated by Ayn Rand, whose philosophy I have accepted, it has been implicit in any rebellion against tyranny, any demand for individual rights and any belief in self esteem, self assertion and self preservation. (As opposed to altruism which leads to self denial, self abnegation, self destruction.) The statement about "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" referred to one's own life, own liberty and the pursuit of one's own happiness.

While virtually all political movements pay lip service to altruism, the most consistent exponents thereof are the advocates of totalitarian dictatorships (commies, Nazis, etc.). If, as altruism holds, a person's duty is to serve others, then it would follow that the "others" have the moral right to demand service from him. And further, those who speak in the name of those "others" (i.e. mankind, race, class, nation, community, etc.) have the right to enforce their demands at gunpoint. (There are no objective standards for determining who the "true" spokespersons are.)

Anything can be demanded, including one's life. After all, the highest virtue of altruism is to give one's life for others. Why can't those representing the "others" simply take it? There's another word which describes this situation: slavery.

Because practically all people regard altruism as the moral ideal those who are consistent are at a moral advantage over those who aren't. Those on the extreme left who want to enforce altruism by "direct action" (murder, kidnapping, terror, dictatorship) feel morally superior to liberals who want to "do it through the system," and who abjectly apologize for their very existence before the extremists. And conservatives who believe that people do have a duty to others but should be free not to do it are always on the moral defensive before liberals.

If dictatorship comes to America, it won't be because of nefarious conspiracies or historical necessity. It will be because the way was prepared by altruism which strengthens the totalitarians and paralyzes resistance.

Some milestones at Cal-Strait

Milestones Being Sold. Racer's Tavern, 1 year old, almost college bar, pinball arcade and SAGTA conference hall; for a profit. The tavern was the home of colorful characters, several city sports teams, car rallies, and numerous barflies. Opening in the dead of winter, the tavern's keg count quickly increased; became of the highlights of its time.

Transferred. Alan Apathy, 21+, student at Cal-Strait; to another college. Paranoid, Apathy feared that a repressive school administration and an incompetent faculty would badly damage his college career and condemn him to an unpleasant future.

Arrested. Pootha "Sam" Adhyatmanabhasa, 22, Mid-

Eastern student revolutionary; for selling opiated hashish to an undercover police agent. A man once attacked a student union building with machine guns and ousted the defending force with no casualties. When arrested, he claimed that he was trying to raise money to arm Cyrano Village residents in their battle against the Housingadim Army.

Exiled. Grynnyxx, 23 Martian years old, a Martian moralist; for failure to conceal an interventionist mission to Earth. Author of scholarly extracts, "When to Get Them First" and "Pinpoint Psycholhistory Application." The Martian was sent forward in time to one hundred years after the Terran colonization of Mars, when it is expected that isolation from home, family, and era, physical repulsion from the Terran destruction of the Martian atmosphere and ecology, joined to the social disgrace in which Grynnyxx will be, will prove to be appropriated punishment for letting the Terrans learn of the secret mission and undo the work done.

Removed From Office. Potted Palm, 24, flesh-pressing student body president; for failing a vote of confidence in the legislature. Palm, noted for his oratorical style and willingness to say hello to anybody, had failed to generate interest in his government programs and had irritated the opposition party with his bring-out-a-new-program-so-we-can-forget-the-last-disaster technique. It is expected that Palm will refer the matter to the courts where a decision might be reached by next June.

Laying Back. Captain Layback, 24, unemployed philosopher; of terminal joblessness, in Palm Springs.

Pickled. Big Cheez, 26, philosophastering student at Cal-Strait; from an overdose of Budweiser beer. Cheez spent few if any hours in class and many if not all hours in a closeby tavern. His unique talent, drawing people out to talk to him, allowed him to keep up to date on all campus gossip and news. His body was interred in the Biology Department, where it was found that no formaldehyde additives were necessary to its preservation.

Graduated. Dave "Dummy" Flowertop, 27, obnoxious, idiotic newspaper columnist and free lance writer; from kindergarten, for the fifth time. Flowertop's lower education career spanned a decade; during those exciting years, he submitted as school assignments some of the literary classics of our time, "How to Play Blackjack" (English) the movie adaptation of Aldous Huxley's "Ape and Essence" (Creative Writing), "If You Can't Say It, You Can't Think It" (Speculative Philosophy), the Racer's Tavern short stories (Journalism) and a play "Evolution of the Student Revolution" (Senior Project). It is expected that Flowertop's next career, improvisational religious martyrdom, will prove beneficial to mankind.

CSCSB acquires Heltzel book collection

Even as a child Henrietta Heltzel was quiet and introspective. When she finished high school in the mid-30's in Elgin, Ill., the dark-haired girl closed her door to her younger sisters and brother and to the rest of the outside world and moved with finality into the world of books.

Here she found her companions for life among classic figures in ballet, mythology, folk literature, poetry and fairy tales. She taught herself to read French, Greek and Spanish so she could be closer to these figures. Every day for 40 years she fell to their depths of despair and rose to their heights of ecstasy.

When Henrietta died at her sister's home in Pasadena in 1974, she left a collection of 1,410 books, which she had purchased from publishers all over the world and dating from 1620. Dorothy Heltzel, who then moved to Corona, contacted the library at Cal State, San Bernardino, which acquired the collection.

"This is an extremely valuable collection, one formed with care and taste," said Dr. Richard Switzer, Cal State dean of humanities.

Collections like this are becoming harder to find and acquire because of the increase in educational institutions which want them, he said.

"I only wish I had seen it before the college did — I'd have bought it first," Switzer said.

The Heltzel collection includes books with beautiful illustrations, such as those on Greek mythology with fine line etchings, and a small volume, "Sesame and Lilies" by John Ruskin, with exquisite calligraphy and delicately hand-painted flowers.

There are a number of small handbound books, many oversized books, limited editions of well known 20th century authors and 96 volumes of a French text, 'Societs des Anciens Textes Francais,' dating from 1876.

"Usually this text comes on the market in one or two volumes at a time. To see a close-to-complete set is really surprising," Switzer said.

Total value of the collection has not been determined. However, reprints alone of the French text series now cost $25 a volume and the first edition of a Malcolm Lowry's "Under the Volcano" would sell for $125, library bibliographer Peter Briscoe said. If the college tried to buy the individual volumes from a variety of sources, it probably would cost $10,000, he said.

A few of the fragile volumes will not be circulated, but the majority of the collection will be put into general circulation at Cal State as soon as it is catalogued.

Books at Cal State may be looked at or read in the library by the general public and may be taken out by other teachers and students under special circumstances.

Mozart to be featured

A Mozart piece described by Alfred Einstein as "a fountain of good spirits and fresh invention" will be featured in a Cal State, San Bernardino concert Sunday afternoon, Nov. 28.

The program of music by the Chamber Orchestra will begin at 8:00 in the Lecture Hall of the Physical Sciences building. Dr. Richard Saylor, Cal State Music professor, is the conductor.

In his book, "Mozart," Einstein tells a story about the man who commissioned "Flute Concerto No.

1 in G., K. 313."

"The second movement was so personal in concept, so completely individual in character" that he was unable to play it and asked for a revision.

It's the original version that will be performed, with Candice Mitchell as soloist.

Mitchell entered Cal State as a freshman a year ago. While at San Bernardino High School, she was a member of the all Southern California High School Honor Band. She plays with the San Bernardino Symphony and last summer was a member of the Redlands Bowl Orchestra.

The first performance of "Partitions," a composition by Dr. Saylor, will be performed by a chamber ensemble. It combines pairs of instruments to create a rich, instrumental fabric and incorporates vocal sounds as part of the texture.

Admission is $1.50. Children and students with identification are admitted free.

GOLF RESULTS

AMATEUR DIVISION:

The "Boys from Dover" had trouble getting their putters out of their bags during this year's tourney.

When watchful father "Ben" was asked about it he angrily mentioned something about the fact his boys spent most of last night smoking the green.

Walt Oliver (30) and Clark Mayo (32), the library's own "Hardy Boys," took honors in this year's tourney.

Well, "Ben," better luck next year!

PROFESSIONAL DIVISION:

Monte Pearson (18) and Andy Carey (18.5)(?) led the du bious professionals.

Monte, who doubles as a baseball glove in the off season, had no trouble with his putter and this led to a squeaker victory over Andy Carey.

Andy, though somewhat disgruntled, did offer to "drive Monte home" after the contest.

Way to hang, Andy.

IN SEARCH OF "BIG FOOT"

You won't have to go to Mammoth to find "big foot"; there will probably be about 19 of them on the bus with you.

So, you could spend the time you might have spent looking for "big foot" doing a number of interesting things. Skiing, sauna, jacuzzi, watching girls, watching guys (and whatever these last two lead to) are just a few of the "groovy" activities you can "get off" on.

Yes, Cal State is going, by bus, to Mammoth. The bus will leave from the P.E. parking lot on Sunday, December 12 at 10:00 AM and return to the same place between midnight and 1:00 AM on Wednesday, December 15th.

You say you're interested, wellllll, then go to the activities office with the full amount of $29.99.

This price includes 3 nights lodging at the Chateau D'Oex and transportation up to Mammoth.

This trip is limited to the first 20 Cal State students and guests to register. The registration deadline is Monday, November 29th.

For information on equipment to bring, lift ticket prices, etc., contact Joe "Big Foot (?)" Long in P.E. 124, extension 7564.

FOOTBALL

Well, the lord again outscored all of our teams in both leagues, as all of the games were rained out.

If the skies are cloudy on Thursday, please go to P.E. 124 where our intramural director, and part-time religious leader, will be passing out St. Christophers, Stars of David and assorted other paraphernalia, the use of which may, hopefully, assure fair weather.

This week starts the play-offs. The games include:

2. Mickey Mouse Club vs. Raiders

Two big physical teams, this game will be rough. But, the M. M. C. Q.B. Jerry Trip, and number of talented receivers will be the difference. There is a big question, however, a very inconsistent M. M. C. defense. M.M.C. by 6 points.

3-PERSON BASKETBALL "B" LEAGUE

The Commodores led by Battling Bruce, the less than lovely Mike Hughes and Frank "Leaper" Rengal lost to the J.D.L. in 3 straight games last week.

Jim "Twinkle Toes" Roessler and the young and innocent Jim Given provided the offense, while Connie "Animal" Myers ate up the Commodores on defense, all of which led up to this one-sided affair.

Next week we will see the Chicago Bulls led by Hapless Gene Garver and Larry "Crab" Kramer against the unspeakable I Don't Cares, a team that is not led at all.

"A" LEAGUE

An Al Lariogne and Wayne Tarquillary led Cabinet beat Mark Womack, Charlie McKee and the rest of Manko in 3 straight last week.

Wayne Tarquillary scored almost at will on Greg Thompson and Ron Miller, while J. C. Wright, Al Lariogne, and the very strange Rich Price provided the good passes and defense which led to the very one-sided final outcome.

As for Ivan and the rest of Manko, go back to the drawing board and get ready for 5-man next quarter.

Next week starts the play-offs and the Incredibulls led by Mike "Pretty Boy" Preston and the voluptuous Walt Hawkins seem to be the team to beat.

The schedule includes:
Hotflashes vs. Crackers
Manko vs. Freshmen

Co-ed Intramural Softball

It was damn windy last Monday but Co-ed Intramural Softball play continued and will continue throughout the rest of the quarter. All Cal State students are welcome to play every Monday at 3 p.m. on the field.

Co-ed Intramural Badminton Doubles

Participants for the Intramural Badminton Doubles semi-finals were determined during tournament play last week. They are the teams of: Cathy Jackson & Chi Quang, Chris Grenfell & Deberry, Denise McGinnis & "T" and Bob Wheeler & Judy Pruet. Finalists will be determined this week in semi-final play, and those two teams will compete for the winning title on Nov. 30. Winners will receive an Intramural T shirt. Co-ed Intramural Tennis Singles
The standings of the Intramural Tennis tournament remained the same this week. Bod Randall is still holding the number one position. Behind him, in second place, is Mike Locklin.
