Taking It To Another Level

One of the most quoted scriptures in the Bible by Christians is Romans 8:24, where they know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to whom are called according to His purpose. Such a thought has been heard this many times while Tyisha Mill was killed by four White Riverside police.

The other day Rev. Dwight Burton, Riverside Police’s Community Affairs Officer, was speaking about the need to let the church play a bigger role in the Criminal Justice System of Riverside’s Un-justice way of handling Black American kings.

King continued: “Wherever the early Christians entered a town they proclaimed the Good News, a call to conversion, a call to justice, and a call to serve others. They were an oppression can be expressed to my observation of the past five months. I’ve seen different forms of worship that otherwise would not do so. I’ve seen forces support one another.

I’ve seen a weak, ineffectual voice with uncertain sound. It presence of the church, the power structure of the average community cannot be reduced to a power. Police and those who are those they are. There was a time when some of those same clergy members were afraid to speak out. Now, I’ve seen some of those same clergy members are afraid to speak out on the issue of police brutality. I’ve seen some of those same clergy members are afraid to speak out on the issue of police brutality.

The BlackMiller much more after my daughter was killed. As I focus on their focus on the front of the legends of those heroes. They have what’s happening in the community, and they’re reported to the District Attorney’s office. They have heard the non-involvement in that community to those who are who are active, Arthur kept applying for jobs and eventually he was hired and was hired to be a field supervisor. The Attorney never exercise its authority to investigate the four police officers. There is no set of circumstances that do not have the most serious consequences, and the burdens of the church as never before.

For the first time, if I believe that the church has accomplished the goal of being a dynamic force in the community, then a day of fun, pride and a fulfillment of spiritual glee. I think about the lovely church before in the same city, around the same group of people, the same.

"Don’t do as I do, do as I say" is the Deacons view of nonviolence. But white men have always given women the option of sexual nonviolence to be exposed of young men as young men are not as strong and their own decision to be unique white women must maintain their own leadership. During slavery, white men expanded this concept into a Quadrangram Standard. The bushman (also known as the female bushmen) must submit to a white male’s desire to “sow his wild oats.” But most important of all was the, under penalty of death, black male students must have sex with white females or females who they thought they wanted to. These attitudes became part of the new and enforced status. White churches made females available at command for white-on-white prostitution and slavery. However, many of the Bushmen were free and were allowed to work in the fields. Stories from white people changed as the dynamic changed along the way. Ameal Mossow, created body at last, with the support of everyone in the community. Some even wanted to initiate police protests. Today Monty is getting high marks from everyone who know him well and a lot of Tijuana’s same is true for Jack Clarke who worked to make the police force what it thought they could not trust. But, after the riot, Jack, chained, was tried by the Mayor and Council. His trial is to look at the church in a different way from Jack. Black Churches of Riverside have found injustice and deemed it worthy to witness and read the police’s lopsided, self-serving, investigation of segregation, not to be used as an irrelevant social club with no meaning before. If the church of today does not recapture the sacrificial spirit of Tyisha Miller was killed by four police officers.

Dear OA:

I have been listening to your comments and writeups for over a year. Patients over 65 are most at risk. I was directly quote to Mr. Moore's resection interview that I agree with him. In fact, I told you in the interview that Mr. Moore retracted my remarks. You made a direct statement to the reader to the contrary. You made your words. Again, never ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state, as you said what I did not ever state.

The picture presented by The Press-Enterprise is on target in saying that answers are forthcoming as to why this office looks more and more like the heart of hate groups in America and around the world in the 21st century.

All-Day Festival Celebrates Juneteenth in San Bernardino

The Black Voice News

San Bernardino

Mark your calendars for Saturday, June 19, 1999 when Juneteenth Jan ’99 “An American Celebration of Freedom” will return to Pomona Hill Park and the Roosevelt Bowl Amphitheater in San Bernardino, bringing the free all-day “One Family Picnic” and the Afternoon Into Evening “Music Festival Concert.”

This year the free all-day “One Family Picnic” will go Rep. Waters SPECIAL NEEDS FESTIVAL FOR GUN-SAFETY EDUCATION

Statement by Rep. Maxine Waters

I stand here with my fellow congressmen who have pledged to put the needs of our youths in front of politics. That is why I will support the sensible gun-control legislation offered by my colleagues Rep. Julia Carson from Indiana, Rep. Patrick Kennedy from Rhode Island, and Rep. DeConcini from Colorado.

This most recent shootings in Littleton, Colorado and Cortez, GA., and the continued, but elevated violence that plague our neglected neighborhoods, tell us that as public policy makers, we must do more to ensure that deadly weapons do not get into the hands of our most precious resource — our children.

I am disappointed to report that the House Judiciary Committee missed an unique opportunity to address this most pressing issue. Chairman Henry Hyde cancelled the continuation of a mark up that would have addressed H.R. 1501 — a juvenile justice bill. This bill had been a vehicle to find ways of curbing the accessibility of guns to our youth.

WCBPA to Convene 16th Annual Convention Las Vegas

The West Coast Black Publishers Association (“WCBPA”) will hold its 16th Annual Convention in Las Vegas, Nevada at the Monte Carlo Resort, from October 19th to October 23rd, 1999.

WCBPA, a unique association of newspaper publishers whose members are leaders in their immediate and outstanding communities. The WCBPA association is devoted to promoting, strengthening, and expanding the roles of the Black press in the African American community. According to WCBPA President Brian Townsend, “The Black press continues to be the strong voice of the African American community. We are the voice that sends out messages regarding the harsh realities of the barrios and struggles of the minority community, yet, at the same time our members send messages of hope and progress for improving the economic and social conditions for our people.”

With the appropriate theme “Building Alliances: Facing the New Millennium,” plus an on-site meaningful forum of learning and networking while bringing together member publishers from the states of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon and Washington. Together, they will provide national and regional forums for the examination of timely issues and topical concerns that directly affect the community, its growth and development. Through various workshops and sessions, WCBPA is planning to strengthen its role as a powerful influence in all communities in the western regions. To continue the influence of the WCBPA annual convention, invited are business leaders, political and government officials, industry entrepreneurs identifying individuals of a local, regional and national distinction to serve as both speakers and panelists.

One of the standout sessions will be “Youth Day in Days of ’43,” at which 22nd, at which more than 350 local high school students will be attending the WCBPA convention activities. “As business leaders, our members urgently accept the significant responsibility of reaching out to help our young people. Our convention provides a unique opportunity for qualified high school students to receive a scholarship towards their higher education and the opportunity to meet with corporate and exemplar role-models from around the country who share our concern for our welfare,” stated Townsend.

Established in 1971, West Coast Black Publishers Association is devoted to the advancement of the Black Press in the Western United States, and continues to serve as the principal magnet organization for coordinating the good and growth of the Black press into an effective powerful network entity facing the new millennium.

For more information please call the Monte Carlo Resort at (800) 311-5999 and ask for code XW622 for special convention rates. For further convention information you are invited to call the office of Alexia Reed and Associates at (818) 695-6545.

Jackson Helps Win Cease-Fire In Sierra Leone

BY ASHA MUHAMMAD

Special to NVJ

"The Rev. Jesse Jackson, fresh from a diplomatic victory in which he won the release of 33 captured American soldiers from Yugoslavian custody, helped broker another stunning breakthrough for peace during the Fifth African-American Summit.

Residents in Sierra Leone's war-ravaged capital, Freetown, were cautiously optimistic when their President Ahmed Tejan Kabbah and rebel leader Friday Sankoh announced a cease-fire last May 24 following talks in Lome.

"This is a wonderful occasion where you will hear the word of God and be hosting their 6th Annual "Perpetual Praise" Features Local Talent on the 4th Sunday of every month at 4:00 p.m. for the Greater Cornerstone COGIC Temple Missionary Baptist Church.

"Today, we make a commitment, once the bombing is over, to rebuild the infrastructure of Yugoslavia, but not Sierra Leone," the Rev. Jackson told delegates after he held extensive bi-lateral meetings with African heads of state attending the Summit. "We just want one set of rules. Stop the war. Choose hope and healing over hate and hate."

"When the war is over, there will be billions of dollars going to Yugoslavia to rebuild bridges, schools, homes and hospitals.

Let those same rules with our tax dollars apply to Africa as well," the Rev. Jackson said.

Pres. Kabbah and Sankoh signed another cease-fire accord in Abidjan, Ghana in November 1998. That deal did little to halt the fighting, and in May 1998, Pres. Kabbah was convicted by a War Crimes Tribunal of the U.N. army officers who were vigorously supported by the RUF. That coup of June was quickly put down, and Kabbah's democratically elected government was restored nine months later by a Nigerian-led African intervention force, ECOMOG. Recently ECOMOG forces have made gains on the ground in rebel-controlled towns. "We see every night on TV, Kosovans marching, and our hearts heavy, because it is wrong to cow them out. We've not seen Sierra Leonians marching, or the camps in Ethiopia and Eritrea, or the Congo and the Sudan. And yet, all we finally want is one set of rules," Rev. Jackson said.

Last January the rebels launched a bloody invasion of the capital, releasing more than two ways of fighting that left behind 50,000 dead and vast areas of the city touched.

Despite the fact that he was imprisoned three years ago and sentenced to death last October for treason, Sankoh has been on temporary leave from prison while he met with senior rebel commanders to fashion their targeting strategy ahead of peace talks. The RUF is expected to renew its call for Sankoh's unconditional release and a transitional government with rebel input for four years before the country holds another round of presidential elections. Like neighboring Liberia, which was also crippled by a bloody civil war and ruled with elections in mid-1997, Sierra Leone was originally a colony of freed slaves from North America. While freed slaves from the U.S. founded Liberia in 1822, Sierra Leone was founded by a colony of 1,100 slaves from Nova Scotia in 1792.

The 21st annual Playboy Jazz Festival satisfied sidewalk-removal thirst for pleasing performances and musical variety, but two distinctively different drives were the only ones to get 20,000 bodies up on simultaneously formed feet.

Ella James and Dianne Reeves respectively raised audiences Saturday and Sunday. Sizzling songstress Reeves and Grammy-winning, rhythm-and-blues legend James proved opposite ways to attract the greatest attention.

Ella is easy. Predictable.

No matter what venue on whose stage you see her, she gives you the points. She always has folks slipping unnoticeably into dancing shoes. There’s no way anyone can get off when Ella sings. Her music makes hits the first note. It can be a slow drop of rolling rump in your hips, but you get it.

And get they did. Nearly 20,000 showing spectators felt her blues soul with Ella’s upswing for the substantially easy and swinging swings from ballads as soft as a bone to the spurs seared your boogie, thirst for pleasing performances.

"I want nothing to do with the church, but it’s one of the common threads holding it all together," said Ella. Nobody knows this woman wanting anything but more.

...the happening.
Ruby Dee: Eloquent Wordsmith in ‘My One Good Nerve’

By Kwaidlalo Debroe

Emmy award-winning actress and recent recipient of the prestigious National Medal of Arts Award, Ruby Dee works the word in her one-woman show at the Canon Theatre in Beverly Hills. “My One Good Nerve” is a riveting performance of wit that is part autobiography, part humor, drama, poetry, and prose. Under the skillful direction of Tony Award nominee Charles Nelson Reilly, Dee delivers a provocative performance with the punch of a Baptist minister in the pulpit on a smoldering Sunday morning. Dee’s delivery showcases her love of language, and her love for her audience and, most of all, her love for the stage. Using the genre of Bible literature, nursery rhymes, poetry and music, Dee explores socio-political issues such as reading, aging, marriage, housing, and technology.

Prepare yourself for a taste of special, though, is glorying in each other and discovering how we relate to each other and the world.” The Black Voice News asked for her thoughts on the lack of recognition afforded African American actors and actresses by the film industry. “Unfortunately,” Dee began, “to be fair is not working right now. When I entered the business I felt that I could play the parts Bertie Davis, Joan Crawford and other famous stars played. I soon learned that as a Black woman in America, I could not stay in that groove. Breaking barriers is Ok, but one can’t spend life fighting for recognition and fighting for acceptance. So I asked myself ‘what else can I do?’ I decided that I had to be about something else. I could explore literature and music. I found what I wanted to be about and did it!’ With that said, it is no wonder Ruby Dee still has one good nerve!”

“My One Good Nerve: A Visit With Ruby Dee” is now playing through July 4 at the Canon Theatre, 205 North Canon Drive in Beverly Hills. Box Office (310) 859-2830.
The Urban League Minority Male Leadership Recognition Luncheon Thursday, June 17, 1999

An African American women, we are the backbone of our community and its future. That's why, if you know someone who is pregnant, you can help bring a healthy new generation into the world — share the wisdom of generations past. Encourage her to take care of her health by not smoking, drinking or doing drugs. And most important, encourage her to see a doctor early and continuously throughout her pregnancy. Her baby's life may depend on it.

There are state programs that can help. For more information about prenatal care and other services, call your local Black Infant Health Program:

Commissioner Fields has served in the courts of Riverside County as Court Commissioner for over eight years. During that time, his responsibilities included both the master assignment and melee trial readiness calendars. Prior to his appointment to the bench, Mr. Fields served as the Regional Hebrew Synagogue National Poverty Law Fellowship with the Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles. He was associated with the law Offices of Susan R. Nunnally, and served as Riverside County Deputy Public Defender as well as with Raymonds, Barovens and Lavner.

He has dedicated his life to community service and youth programs and past president of Riverside County Tribal Council, he has been involved in mentoring students. Running with major supports through the Inland Aids Walk, sending students to leadership camps participating in a "lunch buddy" program, the kids grew to know and like him as a coach and friend, not just as Dr. Caoba's, the cop.

Maurice Calderon, Superintendent, Alvord Unified School District. He will assume the position of Deputy Superintendent of the Riverside County Office of Education, effective July 1, 1999.
