Summers over, even though it's hard to believe with this weather (hey it's California). The end of summer means school, classes, exams and hard work, right? Well, at least for some of us. For me it means instead of trips to the beach, I spend my time in The Chronicle. We've all been working hard to get the first issue out and now here it is. Things have been hectic these first few weeks, but we did it.

I've been given a lot of good suggestions by students, faculty and administrators, along with my own new ideas. During the year I'll be implementing some of these in the paper.

I'd really like the whole campus to be involved this year. There's so much going on around the campus, and the paper is a great way to find out what's going on. If any faculty members are interested in a faculty corner let The Chronicle know - let's get one started!

Our campus is expanding each year. A big part of this expansion is our Greek system. We want to hear from you too!

And I know this years freshman aren't going to just sit back. Freshman orientation gave new students the chance to see how to get involved.

Associate students have some great plans to serve the students this year. With leaders like Steve Hekman and Curtis Bayer, A.S. should have a productive year. A.S. Productions has already given us Fall Fest and some good bands in the pub. Upcoming events promise us even more fun.

So, if anyone has any suggestions, or articles for the paper, feel free to come in and see me.

Good luck to everyone this year.

Chronicle Promises a Year of Quality

by John Parcell

This is my third year on campus and my third year with the Chronicle. Two years of writing for The Chronicle might not seem like a long time. And really, it isn't. It is longer than any other member of the staff, though.

No, that isn't much to brag about, considering the amount of respect The Chronicle has earned over the last two years. So why then, do I bring it up? When I entered this university a couple years ago and sought advice from a professor on what classes to register for, I also asked him how to go about writing for the paper. He said it was simple—walk over to the office and say, "I wanna write." But that wasn't all he said. The "Chronicle," he continued, "is probably the single largest embarrassment to the campus."

He didn't stop there, either. "Every year there is a new editor who brings in a new staff," he went on. "And one group supports him and another doesn't, so they fight all year long. At the end of the year the editor leaves and takes all his supporters with him. Then another editor comes in and brings his group and then we have no continuity. The staff never worked like a real newspaper staff is supposed to."

My first year at The Chronicle was proof of the professor's good judgement. He was right on target with his assessment of the paper. There was bickering among the staff. Members of the staff usurped or were accused of trying to usurp power from each other. Staff members called editors incompetent. Editors called staff incompetent—or the entire staff—incapable.

With all that bickering, usurping and incompetence going around, it's easy to see why we've been considered an embarrassment.

Last year's version of The Chronicle was a tremendous improvement over the previous year. The in-fighting was still there. There were strong disagreements and at least one violent outburst. But The Chronicle was better for two major reasons.

First, it had an editor whose top priority was to change The Chronicle from a rag to a newspaper. Second, for all in-fighting, there was a will among the staff to lay out copy where before, it had been thrown down on the desk. Another "Flaw" the professor pointed out was that the paper was totally independent. The Chronicle answered to no one.

I had been disheartened as the professor went on about The Chronicle's shortcomings to the point where I considered not applying. Then I heard that word, "Independent."

"What an opportunity!" I thought. Coming from a high school where being allowed to wear jeans was a privilege, a chance to work for a newspaper that didn't have a teacher dictating what you could or couldn't write was exciting.

Maybe it's not up there with the greatest stars, like Viascheslav Gordcnev, it's something to be proud of, if you take the rights and leave the responsibility. The Code requires that the newspaper not only be the platform for the students, that they are the custodians (not the source) of the newspaper's power, a power derived from the readers' confidence in the newspaper's good faith and responsibility to the best journalistic standards.

This year, I guarantee, will bring about a greater improvement in the quality of The Chronicle. By exercising our rights and living up to our responsibilities we'll climb another step up.

A.S. President, And Vice President
Welcome Students

Welcome fellow CSUSB Students,
As your Associated Students President, I don't need to remind you to have a good time this year, enjoy your college experience and make a lot of friends! There's a lot more to going to college than classes. DON'T LET SCHOOL GET IN THE WAY OF YOUR EDUCATION!!

Here at CSUSB we're lucky to have some of the finest faculty and staff in the Nation. Along with the finest faculty and staff comes one fine Student Government! We are here to serve you. Take Advantage of what we have to offer.

Steve Hekman
A.S. President

Pure Excitement! That's the only adequate means of describing the feeling on this campus. Speaking on behalf of the Associated Students, and myself, welcome to Cal-State, San Bernardino-the New and Improved version!

It's been a productive summer in Associated Students. The newly remodeled pub is but an example of your money working for you. The future holds a proposed ATM continuing entertainment (and more of it) and growth in our overall services.

I would like to encourage any highly motivated individuals to look into Associated Students Board and committee positions. It's fun, looks great on the resume, and will give you a platform to show off your leadership skills!

Anyway, welcome back to school. I'm excited about this year and its possibilities and, believe me, Associated Students is too.

Curtis Bayer
A.S. Vice-President

Positions now open for the Associated Students Board of Directors:

Freshman Orientation

Becoming a freshman in college is often a scary thing. After working toward being a senior in high school, you end up at the bottom again.

This year CSUSB Freshman had it a little easier thanks to freshman orientation weekend. It was a great way to find out the answers to all the questions they'd been wondering all summer. The theme for the weekend was "My Future's so bright I gotta wear shades."

Sandy Weiser, Coordinator of Special Events and New Student Orientation, coordinated the event with the help of student leaders. The freshman arrived Saturday morning and were welcomed by President Evans and Associated Students President Steve Hakman. The rest of the day was filled with helpful workshops. These workshops helped students learn where things are located on campus, how to change majors, add a class, make a health center appointment, and other things even those of us here for awhile already may not know.

Saturday night a dance was held at the Serrano village pool and then students spent the night in the dorms.

Sunday was club day. Freshmen had the chance to inquire about how to get involved in campus activities. The clubs had booths to answer questions and the Fraternities and Sororities signed up new members. Associated Students donated Dairy Queen ice cream and caps which kept everyone cool on a hot day.

Sunday ended with some games and a demonstration called Freshman Simulation which presented the freshmen with every obstacle they might encounter in college. Standing in line for an hour and finding out you have to go somewhere else. Realizing bad grades can put you on probation.

The weekend was a success and concluded with new friends and less questions for many. The day of classes was a lot less nerve wrecking for several freshmen.

Fall Fest '87

Fall Fest welcomed CSUSB Students back to campus Thursday September 24th. Bands played in front of the Creative Arts building. Various clubs had booths set up. Some sold food and drinks or offered information. The credit union was available to answer questions on student loans. And even Spuds Mackenzie was there. Associated Students Productions, sponsor of Fall Fest is off to a great start and promises future events this year.

Ice cream, you scream, freshman scream for Ice-Cream.
Governor Signs Financial Aid Law

On Wednesday, September 16th, Governor George Deukmejian signed into law a California State Student Association (CSSA)-sponsored bill which deletes an unconstitutional financial aid law, designed in the late 1960s to keep low to middle income students from participating in campus rallies and demonstrations.

Senate Bill 1414 authored by Nicholas Petris (D-Oakland), received bi-partisan support throughout this year's legislative session, due in part by the CSSA's demonstrations. That's why we have education codes dealing with suspension and expulsion and they apply to all students, not a segmented few.

The former 20 year old law allowed college campuses to pull financial aid for up to two years for any behavior the campus president or administration felt was inappropriate. CSSA was prompted to action by an incident last year at Cal State Fullerton where students would not participate in a rally against Tom Metzger, member of the White Aryan Alliance, who had been producing pro-nazi propaganda films on campus.

A similar federal statute was struck down by a U.S. District Court decision in Illinois involving a student and the university board of trustees. The California Student Aid Commission also supported deletion of the code.

Before you choose a long distance service, take a close look.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money. Think again. Since January 1987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct-dialed out-of-state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1-800-222-0300. And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere to anywhere, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.

Sigma Chi Shares Greek Spirit

The on-campus excitement is definitely on the upswing at CSUSB. The Greek System has truly had a strong impact on many incoming freshmen, as well as a number of seasoned upperclassmen. The brothers of Sigma Chi, now supporting their first full year as an international fraternity, are confident on having an outstanding one. Firstly, we would like to recognize and thank the men of Delta Sigma Phi and Tau Kappa Epsilon for their fine performance in the fall rush and wish them the best for the school year. The women of Alpha Phi and Alpha Delta Pi also deserve some praise for their fantastic support of the fraternity, as well as for their own rush programs. Sigma Chi has already planned a tremendous list of events that will keep the Greek system hopping along with enthusiasm all year long. Not only are we going to knock your socks off with the second annual "International Party," but we are going to bring back the infamous "Black and White Graffiti Party" for another night of barbaric fun.

It is expected that Sigma Chi will again own the best Little Sister program, with more than twice as many "Little Sigmas" as last year. As with the build up of the sororities on campus and the enhancement of the Little Sigmas, Sigma Chi's "Derby Days" is bound to be a week to remember. On a bit of lighter side, Sigma Chi will also serve up a couple of the most fun-filled formal dances, being the glamorous "Sweetheart Ball" and the fascinating "Founder's Day Formal". Also when it comes to charity and especially raising money for The Cleo Wallace Center, Sigma Chi is doing it up BIG this year...but we don't want to give away any secrets.

Coyotes Battle To Hold No Loss

By Matt Pollack

The Cal State Coyote men’s soccer team battled to a 2-2 tie here last Wednesday. Pomona led 1-0 at halftime, but the two teams scored three goals within a span of two and one-half minutes to record the final tally.

At 20:48 in the second half, high scoring Jerry O’Hara put CSUSB on the board with a follow-up of scoring Jerry O’Hara put CSUSB one-half minutes to record the three goal within a span of two and one-half minutes to record the final tally.

Entertainment This Year

by C.J. Hasenjager

Dr. Joyce Brothers, a psychologist who became well-known through her radio and television "on-air therapy," and John Dean, Watergate "personality," are two of the speakers that will appear at CSUSB this year. Brothers will be here in November and Dean in January.

Both speakers will be sponsored by the Intellectual Life and Visiting Scholars Committee, according to Sandy Weiser, Coordinator of Special Events and New Student Orientation. Weser is one of two staff representatives on the committee and also handles the booking and arranging speakers.

Other entertainment slated for this year includes six comedy nights, a magician, and bands in The Pub most Tuesday and Thursday evenings. These events will be sponsored by A.S. Productions, a newly formed committee that handles Associated Students programming, according to Brian Wood, chair of the committee.

These two committees are responsible for the Fall Fest on the first day of classes. Their future plans include a Red Ribbon Week to promote awareness of drug and alcohol-related problems. One of six comedy nights being planned will be held during that week, according to Wood.

Additional plans by The Intellectual Life Committee include a Fulbright Scholars Series and a Nobel Prize Winners Series, according to Weiser. A Distinguished Faculty Series is being planned by Intellectual Life to give students a chance to meet with some of the distinguished faculty from the campus. It would be held in an informal setting, possibly over lunch, to give students an opportunity to question faculty in a relaxed setting, according to Weiser.

The Intellectual Life Committee includes faculty members, one from each school on campus, and two staff representatives. The committee is chaired by Dr. Amer Al-Ahraf, associated vice-president of academic resources, according to Weiser.

The committee's budget for this year is $70,000. The University contributed $10,000 and the remaining $60,000 came from student funds.

Enhance Your Health

The staff of the Student Health Center wants to welcome you to a year of intellectual challenge and personal growth at CSUSB. The Health Center is here to help you learn how to protect and enhance your health so that your time here can be productive.

Many times students worry too much about exams, eat the wrong foods, lose sleep, or don’t exercise enough. As a result, they become exhausted and get ill just in time for finals. This year, don’t do that to yourself. Play it smart and concentrate on wellness and remember, the Health Center can help you in this endeavor.

Aside from the routine diagnosis and treatment of illness, the Health Center offers nutrition and diet information and counseling, men’s/women’s health care, and much more. Before you get too bogged down with school work, stop by the Health Center and learn how it can best serve you.

We encourage all students to use these services because in today’s tight budgetary constraints, it is important that students use all available resources to save money and help survive the academic year. Health care is an area that can be very expensive unless you have insurance coverage and/or have access to free, or inexpensive health coverage.

Although in-patient services are not provided, the Health Center is just the place for all of you outpatient needs. To satisfy your curiosity, compare what we have to offer with outside sources and determine your savings. The services that are available to all registered students possessing a validated student I.D. card include physical therapy, family planning and birth control information and service, immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, measles, and tuberculosis, premarital examinations, health education and counseling, and venereal disease information and treatment. The Health Center also has a pharmacy which provides prescription medications at cost as well as many over-the-counter items.

Two physicians, a registered nurse, a pharmacist, a clinical aid, and four support staff members are available Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday and Quarter Break from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Health Center is located east of the Library between the Commons and the P.E. building. Come in or call 887-7641 for an appointment.

I.D. cards must be presented before any service can be provided.

Weekly Sunday Mass for Cal State
7:00 pm

Newman Club at Cal State
When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college. They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for little pay.

Not me. My job takes just one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Yet, I'm earning $18,000 for college. Because I joined my local Army National Guard.

They're the people who help our state during emergencies like hurricanes and floods. They're also an important part of our country's military defense.

So, since I'm helping them do such an important job, they're helping me make it through school.

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. Then, under the New GI Bill, I'm getting another $5,000 for tuition and books.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back—up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000—or more—for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. SEE YOUR LOCAL RECRUITER FOR DETAILS, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-638-7600,* OR MAIL THIS COUPON.
