CSUSB
Summers over, even though it's hard to believe with this weather (hey it's California). The end of summer means school, classes, exams and hard work, right? Well, at least for some of us. For me it means instead of trips to the beach, I spend my time in The Chronicle. We've all been working hard to get the first issue out and now here it is. Things have been hectic these first few weeks, but we did it.

I've been given a lot of good suggestions by students, faculty and administrators, along with my own new ideas. During the year I'll be implementing some of these in the paper.

I'd really like the whole campus to be involved this year. There's so much going on around the campus, and the paper is a great way to find out what's going on. If any faculty members, are interested in a faculty corner let The Chronicle know - let's get one started!

Our campus is expanding each year. A big part of this expansion is our Greek system. We want to hear from you too!

And I know this year's freshman aren't going to just sit back. Freshman orientation gave new students the chance to see how to get involved.

Associate students have some great plans to serve the students this year. With leaders like Steve Hekman and Curtis Bayer, A.S. should have a productive year.

A.S. Productions has already given us Fall Fest and some good bands in the pub. Upcoming events promise us even more fun.

So, if anyone has any suggestions, or articles for the paper, feel free to come in and see me.

Good luck to everyone this year.

The Chronicle Promises a Year of Quality
by John Purcell

This is my third year on campus and my third year with The Chronicle. Two years of writing for The Chronicle might not seem like a long time. And really it isn't. It is longer than any other member of the staff, though.

No, that isn't much to brag about, considering the amount of respect The Chronicle has earned over the last two years. So why then, do I bring it up?

When I entered this university a couple years ago and sought advice from a professor on what classes to register for, I also asked him how to go about writing for the paper. He said it was simple—walk over to the office and say, "I wanna write." But that wasn't all he said.

"The Chronicle," he continued, "is probably the single largest embarrassment to the campus. He didn't stop there, either.

"Every year there is a new editor who brings in a new staff," he went on. "And one group supports him and another doesn't, so they fight all year long. At the end of the year the editor leaves and takes all his supporters with him. Then another editor comes in and brings his group with him." It's hard to believe that all this could be a fact.

But it can be, if you take the rights and live up to the responsibilities. The Code requires that the newspaper have the power, a power derived from the readers' confidence in the newspaper's good faith and responsibility to the best journalistic standards.

This year, I guarantee, will bring about a greater improvement in the quality of The Chronicle. By exercising our rights and living up to our responsibilities we'll climb another step up.

Freshman Orientation

Becoming a freshman in college is often a scary thing. After working toward being a senior in high school, you end up at the bottom again.

This year CSUSB Freshman had it a little easier thanks to freshman orientation weekend. It was a great way to find out the answers to all the questions they'd been wondering all summer. The theme for the weekend was "My Future's so bright I gotta wear shades."

Sandy Weiser, Coordinator of Special Events and New Student Orientation, coordinated the event with the help of student leaders. The freshman arrived Saturday morning and were welcomed by President Evans and Associated Students President Steve Hekman. The rest of the day was filled with helpful workshops. These (workshops) helped students learn where things are located on campus, how to change majors, add a class, make a health center appointment, and other things even those of us here for awhile already may not know.

Saturday night a dance was held at the Serrano village pool and then students spent the night in the dorms.

Sunday was club day. Freshman had the chance to inquire about how to get involved in campus activities. The clubs had booths to answer questions and the Fraternities and Sororities signed up new members. Associated Students donated Dreyers ice cream and caps which kept everyone cool on a hot day. Sunday ended with some games and a demonstration called Freshman Simulation which presented the freshman with every obstacle they might encounter in college. Standing in line for an hour and finding out you have to go somewhere else. Realizing bad grades can put you on probation.

The weekend was a success and concluded with new friends and less questions for many. The day of classes was a lot less nerve wrecking for several freshman.

Fall Fest 87'

Fall Fest welcomed CSUSB Students back to campus Thursday September 24th. Bands played in front of the Creative Arts building. Various clubs had booths set up. Some sold food and drinks or offered information. The credit union was available to answer questions on student loans. And even Spuds Mackenzie was there. Associated Students Productions, sponsor of Fall Fest is off to a great start and promises future events this year.

Governor Signs Financial Aid Law

On Wednesday, September 16th, Governor George Deukmejian signed into law a California State Student Association (CSSA)-sponsored bill which deletes an unconstitutional financial aid law, designed in the late 1960's to keep low to middle income students from participating in campus rallies and demonstrations.

Senate Bill 1414 authored by Nicholas Petris (D-Oakland), received bi-partisan support throughout this year's legislative session, due in part by the CSSA's request that a legal opinion come forth as to the constitutionality of the code. The State Legislative Counsel ruled that the law was unconstitu­tional, based on "lack of substantive due process and an infringement of free speech."

"We knew that neither the legislature nor the Governor wanted laws on the books which penalized only low income students" said Sherry Skelly, CSSA's Sacramento Legislative Director and lobbyist for the bill. "That's why we have education codes dealing with suspension and expulsion and they apply to all students, not a segregated law."

The former 20 year old law allowed college campuses to pull financial aid for up to two years for any behavior the campus president or administration felt was inappropriate. CSSA was promised to action by an incident last year at Cal State Fullerton where students would not participate in a rally against Tom Metzger, member of the White Aryan Alliance, who had been producing pro-nazi propaganda films on campus.

A similar federal statute was struck down by a U.S. District Court decision in Illinois involving a student and the university board of trustees. The California Student Aid Commission also supported deletion of the code.

Before you choose a long distance service, take a close look.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money. Think again. Since January 1987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct-dialed out-of-state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1 800 222-0300. And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere to anywhere, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.

The on-campus excitement is definitely on the upswing at Cal State. The Greek System has truly had a strong impact on many incoming freshmen, as well as a number of seasoned upperclassmen. The brothers of Sigma Chi, now supporting their first full year as an international fraternity, are confident on having an outstanding one. Firstly, we would like to recognize and thank the men of Delta Sigma Phi and Tau Kappa Epsilon for their fine performance in the fall rush and wish them the best for the school year. The women of Alpha Phi and Alpha Delta Pi also deserve some praise for their fantastic support of the fraternity, as well as for their own rush programs.

Sigma Chi has already planned a tremendous list of events that will keep the Greek system hopping all year long. Not only are we going to knock your socks off with the exciting "International Party", but we are going to bring back the infamous "Black and White Graffiti Party" for another night of barbaric fun.

It is expected that Sigma Chi will again own the best Little Sister program with more than twice as many "Little Sigmans" as last year. As with the build up of the sororities on campus and the enhancement of the Little Sigmans, Sigma Chi's "Derby Days" is bound to be a week to remember. On a bit of lighter side, Sigma Chi will also serve up a couple of the most fun-filled formal dances, being the glamorous "Sweetheart Ball" and the fascinating "Founder's Day Formal". Also when it comes to charity and especially raising money for The Cleo Wallace Center Sigma Chi is doing it up BIG this year...but we don't want to give away any secrets.

Yes, this year at Cal State, San Bernardino, Sigma Chi believes in the old Sig proverb, Class...it's not just something you go to.

Coyotes Battle To Hold No Loss

By Matt Pollack

The Cal State Coyote men's soccer team battled to a 2-2 tie last Wednesday. Pomona led 1-0 at halftime, but the two teams scored three goals within a span of two and one-half minutes to record the game's final tally.

At 20:48 in the second half, high scoring Jerry O'Hara put CSUSB on the board with a follow-up of goal, described the sudden flurry of scoring as "one of those things where they (Cal Poly Pomona) were leading 1-0 and we were dominating the game. We went in and scored two quick goals to get us up and they managed to score another right away."

The Coyotes, whose record remained without a loss at 4-0-3, will travel to play UC San Diego tonight and Cal State San Diego on Sunday.

Coaches announced the winners of its Hole-In-One contest, held Sept. 24. The winners are: Todd Andrews, Robert Glasser, James Trapani and Gary Wick.

Men's Volleyball in 1988

Cal State San Bernardino will field a Men's Club team in volleyball for the fourth consecutive season in 1988. The Intercollegiate Athletic Program at CSUSB does not currently sponsor a Men's Volleyball team. The club team provides students with the opportunity to play competitive men's volleyball.

Recruitment for team members is done only among students already enrolled at CSUSB. Funding for the program has come from a combination of fundraising and IRP money.

Prospective opponents for the 1988 season include the University of California at San Diego, Chapman College, University of La Verne and the University of California at Irvine.

Those interested in joining the team should contact Dr. Chris Grenfell in the Physical Education Department - 887-7561 or 7565.

Professors' Perspectives
Add To Comm Program

by C.J. Hasenjager

Professors Belle Edson and Thomas Nakayama bring to the communication department a classical approach to the study of communication and perspectives that will expand the theories element of the department.

Both professors' area of specialty deals with rhetorical studies. When asked for a definition of rhetoric they agreed it is a hard concept to define. They agreed that the study of rhetoric focuses on the ways that communication functions in social and historical aspects.

Both professors have definite ideas about how they would like to contribute to the communication department at CSUSB.

Nakayama’s goals include building an interest in the critical approach to critiquing the media such as films and the mass media.

His special interest in the history of public address which encompasses the different approaches that have been used throughout history to argue issues and persuade people.

To build an interest in these areas, Nakayama has ideas for new course offerings. He is currently teaching a special topics class, “Race and Media.” The class will first wrestle with the problem of what the terms “race” and “mass communication” mean. Then they will look at how race, racial differences and racial stereotypes are portrayed in the media.

Edson also brings to the department a classical approach to the study of communications. One of her first plans is to develop a strong forensic program that operates effectively.

“I bring a unique perspective to the department because I’m a feminist and a rhetorical theory person and director of the forensic program. I have many different hats that I can wear to contribute to the department,” Edson explained.

Edson explained that too often the act of speech and communication is left to the unconscious mind. Bringing it to the forefront of her students minds is one of her main goals.

“I think communication is the most important behavior...but we leave it up to chance a lot of the time,” she said.

Nakayama grew up in Georgia and has attended different schools around the country and the University of Paris. He left academia to a yearning to live and work in Paris again. Growing up in a small town, he described Paris as “wonderful” to something to do at all hours of the day.

This is actually Nakayama’s second career. His first degree was in chemical engineering. He worked for a major chemical corporation for a year as a “well-paid grease monkey.” He was disappointed in his career choice and went back to school as an English major at Georgia State. That is where his interest in communication began.

His master’s degree in communications is being planned by the University of Iowa where he received his master’s degree in communication studies. Nakayama comes to CSUSB after teaching four years at the University of Iowa.

Edson received her Ph.D. in communications with an emphasis in rhetorical studies from the University of Denver. She had been teaching at Humboldt State in Northern California for the last three years.

Intellectual Life and A.S. Host Events

Communication department Professors Nakayama and Edson

is being planned by Intellectual Life. This year includes six comedy nights and bands in the pub. The program to campus, a view promoted by Weiser and Wood about their respective committees. A S. Productions was responsible for the Fall Fest on the first day of classes. Their future plans include a Red Ribbon Week to promote awareness of drug and alcohol related problems. One of six comedy nights being planned will be held during that week, according to Wood.

Additional plans by The Intellectual Life Committee include a Fulbright Scholars Series and a Nobel Prize Winners Series, according to Weiser. A Distinguished Faculty Series is being planned by Intellectual Life to give students a chance to meet with some of the distinguished faculty from our campus. It would be held in an informal setting, possibly over lunch, to give students the chance to question faculty in a relaxed setting, according to Weiser.

The Intellectual Life Committee consists of five faculty members, one from each school on campus, and two staff representatives from the administration. The committee is chaired by Dr. Amer Al-Ahraf, associated vice-president of academic resources, according to Weiser.

The committee's budget for this year is $16,000. The University contributed $10,000 and the remaining $6,000 came from student funds.

Many programs going on with lottery funds have strict rules that must be adhered to, according to Weiser. One of these rules prohibits charging students for these events. Speakers paid from lottery funds must also speak to students in a classroom setting in conjunction with their visit to campus. A.S. Productions was formed after the troubled Special Events Committee was disbanded last year by the A.S. Board of Directors. In August two sub-committees. The entertainment committee handles original programming such as the comedy nights and bands in the pub. The ethnic cultural committee handles requests from clubs and organizations for funding events over $500. Each sub-committee consists of three students, one member of the campus community at large, and one representative from the faculty, student services and staff.

There are positions open for students on the ethnic cultural committee, according to Wood. Although the member of the committee will give the campus community at large enough to be anyone. Wood said he plans on filling that position with a student to give the students the most control in deciding how their money is used.

Kaleidoscope is published weekly by the Department of Communication to augment classroom instruction. Inquiries and comments may be addressed to Kaleidoscope, care of the Department of Communication, California State University, San Bernardino, 5500 University Parkway, San Bernardino, California 92407.

Enhance Your Health

Health Center Welcomes You!

The staff of the Student Health Center wants to welcome you to a year of intellectual challenge and personal growth at CSUSB. The Health Center is here to help you learn how to protect and enhance your health so that your time here can be productive.

Many times students worry too much about exams, eat the wrong foods, lose sleep, or don't exercise enough. As a result, they become exhausted and get ill just in time for finals. This year, don't do that to yourself. Play it smart and concentrate on wellness and remember, the Health Center can help you in this endeavor.

Aside from the routine diagnosis and treatment of illness, the Health Center offers nutrition and diet information and counseling, men's/women's health care, and much more. Before you get too bogged down with school work, stop by the Health Center and learn how it can best serve you.

We encourage all students to use these services because in today's tight budgetary constraints, it is important that students use all available resources to save money and help survive the academic year. Health care is an area that can be very expensive unless you have insurance coverage and/or have access to free, or inexpensive health coverage.

Although in-patient services are not provided, the Health Center is just the place for all of you outpatient needs. To satisfy your curiosity, compare what we have to offer with outside sources and determine your savings.

The services that are available to all registered students possessing a validated student I.D. card include physical therapy, family planning and birth control information and service, immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, tetanus, and tuberculosis, premarital examinations, health education and counseling, and venereal disease information and treatment.

The Health Center also has a pharmacy which provides prescription medications at cost as well as many over-the-counter items.

Two physicians, a registered nurse, a pharmacist, a clinical aid, and four support staff members are available Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday and Quarter Break from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Health Center is located east of the Library between the Commons and the P.E. building. Come in or call 887-7641 for an appointment. I.D. cards must be presented before any service can be provided.

"HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS."

When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college. They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for little pay. Not me. My job takes just one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Yet, I'm earning $18,000 for college. Because I joined my local Army National Guard.

They're the people who help our state during emergencies like hurricanes and floods. They're also an important part of our country's military defense. So, since I'm helping them do such an important job, they're helping me make it through school.

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. Then, under the New GI Bill, I'm getting another $5,000 for tuition and books. Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard. And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back—up to $1,500 a year, plus interest. It all adds up to $18,000—or more—for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. SEE YOUR LOCAL RECRUITER FOR DETAILS, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-638-7600,* OR MAIL THIS COUPON.
