Dr. Juan C. Gonzales
Named Assistant to Campus President

by Patrice Bolding
Chronicle Staff-Writer

Dr. Juan C. Gonzales, who is currently finishing his UCLA research on undergraduate students with a minority background, will begin work as President Evans' new assistant on November 1, 1987.

While Dr. Gonzales' education and study focus on academic support for underrepresented low-income and minority students, President Evans insists that he hired Dr. Gonzales to assist in "policy studies," and to help "with staff work, speech writing and chairing committees and task forces."

"He didn't get the position because of his ethnicity, or the problems that occurred last year," Evans says, referring to the racial climate he was entering. "It was in our budget to have an administrative assistant, says Evans, yet he waited five years to hire one because "I couldn't justify it to myself." He claims the university's increased enrollment and thus his additional workload were the reasons for Dr. Gonzales' appointment.

The 158 candidates for this position were eventually narrowed down to six by the Search and Screening Committee. The six candidates including one woman from Redlands (her title unavailable), a Dean from Long Beach, a Vice President from Claremont Colleges, a consultant working in the Long Beach Chancellor's Office, and Dr. Gonzales who is working on the staff at UCLA. The final candidate, Dr. Louis Gomez, a Dean at Craftman Hills College, declined candidacy because his current income is higher than the proposed $40,000.

"I'm looking for an opportunity to be at an institution that's growing—that presents different challenges and opportunities," said Gonzales in a recent interview. When asked if he knew of the racial climate he was entering, he answers, "I broached the topic with the committee. I did my own homework, and I asked different questions."

"There's an opportunity here that may be well suited for me," he continues. "Being a person in the trenches of minority, a community member, I can make the administration aware of other options."

Dr. Gonzales received his Ph.D. in Educational Psychology at the University of Texas at Austin, and his M.A. in Bilingual-Bicultural Education at the University of Texas at San Antonio, and his B.A. in Latin American Studies from Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas. He is currently a consultant at the Thomas Rivera Center in Claremont, California, conducting a review of Texas colleges to improve the minority student's experience. In short, there are national impediments over which we educators have limited control.

The allegations resulted in a federal investigation, and finally, a truce between Evans and the Westside Action Group (WAG), a community organization made up primarily of black businessmen, who were contacted by the Black Faculty and Staff Association after no headway was made between the staff and Evans. According to a Sept. 1, 1987 article in The Press Enterprise, an agreement between Evans and WAG was signed August 4, 1987, stating that the two parties would work more closely for the betterment of the university.

Minimum Wage
May Be Changed

by E. Quinn Kirkpatrick
Chronicle Staff-Writer

The Industrial Welfare Commission has proposed a plan that would allow employers to pay students under 21 years of age 15 percent less than the minimum wage.

The plan, proposed in September, would increase the state minimum wage to $4.25 per hour, and create a $3.40 per hour sub-wage for some tipped employees. A recent bill raising the minimum wage to $4.25 per hour has been passed in the state legislature, but it is expected to be vetoed by Governor Deukmejian.

"It looks like the intention of the legislatior is to get more jobs for college students," said political science department member Dennis Mahoney. While lower wages would influence many employers to hire students under 21, this creates two classes of workers, college students and non-students.

Dr. Richard Moss here at CSUSB explained that when the minimum wage is raised, three things will happen. First, some people will earn more. Second, some people will earn more per hour, but work fewer hours, leaving their income the same. Third, some people will lose their jobs or find it more difficult to get one. "There is a consensus that more would benefit (from the increase), but it is difficult to make comparisons."

There is speculation that an increase in wages would raise prices, canceling the benefits of a higher minimum wage. Dr. Moss pointed out that, as most people work for substantially more than minimum wage, price increases would be much less than wage increases.
Have you seen all the Red Ribbons around campus this week? Have you wondered what they’re for? They’re a way to make college students aware of the alcohol abuse problem. Many people are familiar with drug abuse. However, alcohol is also a “drug.” The term often used today for addictions is substance abuse, since there are now so many different forms of abuse. Alcohol is a poison and it kills brain cells. If used the wrong way it can be as harmful as drugs.

College students are under a lot of stress. Classes, homework, tests and jobs can overload a person. A few drinks can often relieve this pressure. After a hard class or test, the pub is a good place to socialize with friends and get rid of tension.

Think about the times you’ve spent drinking all night with friends and had to get up early for class the next day. You just can’t function the same. You aren’t alert Hangovers can be miserable. It’s possible to get so caught up in drinking and having fun that pretty soon you start missing class and your grades go down. Don’t say “it can’t happen to me,” because it happens to too many people. That’s why we have programs like Red Ribbon week. We need to be aware! Take a good look at your party habits. After all, we’re going to school to make our lives better not shorten them. People who know me will read this and know that I like to party as much as other people. But, I also see the problems that are out there. Too many times I’ve seen friends and myself drive when we shouldn’t. With Halloween this weekend there will be a lot of drinking at parties and concerts. Don’t drink and drive this weekend. Take a friend’s advice and let a sober person drive or call a cab. It may save a life and it might be your own.

Remember to wear your Red Ribbon all week.

Way To Go Ronnie

by John Purcell
Managing Editor

Way to go Ronnie! With his press conference last Thursday, the man who at least partially succeeded in fulfilling his 1984 re-election promise of "Bringing America Back," succeeded in dropping the ball back to a position much like it was before he became president. Ronald Reagan was the kind of president America needed after Jimmy Carter.

Carter weakened America in its defensive capabilities and, more importantly, the perception America gave to the rest of the world. Reagan's biggest weapon during the 1980 election was the threat that if he lost, America would face another four years of Jimmy Carter.

He painted Carter as weak. And, if Ronnie came off looking like a warmonger, so what? The common perception at the time was better a warmonger than a wimp.

Reagan boosted defense spending. Then he turned to the economy. He wrought havoc, allowing the economy to skyrocket, while making small gains in the other areas of the economy.

And, by 1984 things looked pretty good. Unemployment was still too high, but the economy was expanding. America's defense capabilities were at high levels. We could finally, as Reagan promised, bargain with the Soviets from a position of strength. Reagan was overwhelmingly re-elected.

Then, after marching all the way down the field, he stood on the one-yard line. Everyone cheered, waiting for the big score, waiting for the moment when the unemployment rate would finally drop, waiting for those arms agreements to come about, waiting for the day we could again fire our military muscle and command respect from the world.

The wave roared through the stadium, louder than that of the crowd at the Metrodome for the game seven of the World Series. Reagan came out of the huddle. Then he dropped back 90 yards and punted.

First there was the Iran arms scandal. Whatever happened, whoever blew it or didn't blow it, whatever the real story is, the one truth that we can be certain of, is that Reagan screwed up. First of all, the government should never have had any arms agreements—yes, even if the people who were getting the weapons pledged an overthrow of the Ayatollah.

Most fifth graders would know enough not to give weapons to a country likely to use them against us.

Of course that wasn't the whole of it. Reagan then did one of two things. Perhaps he should have stepped forward and said, "I failed. I've been to war with the Iranians, he promised, but didn't blow it."

Then he dropped back 90 yards and punted. 90 yards to parachute, while making small gains in the other areas of the economy.

Some economists would suggest that the economy will improve because Reagan is finally doing something about the budget and trade deficits.

The point is that Ronie starting to look like Jimmy Carter. The Ronie we voted for in 1980 and re-elected in 1984 would have been able to get Robert Bork—or Mickey Mouse—into office.

Yes, Mickey Mouse might be a better choice. But what all this adds up to is an observation about the President's power. More and more, it is waning. Four years ago, Reagan had appeared not to be associated with the sinking of a couple of Iranian ships after an attack, not to be associated with the United States. And he certainly couldn't have taken 48 hours to retaliate.

Robert Bork did not deserve to become a member of the Supreme Court. And, the Iranian navy would probably not have been the right thing to do. But Reagan would have had the power to do it in a few years ago. And while he might not have gone to war with the Iranians, he certainly would have retaliated more forcefully.

Would accept a tax increase. But he didn't rule it out. If Reagan accepts the tax increase he could be making an even bigger mistake than the one he made in Iran.

After being perceived as a strong "Over my dead body"-kind of president for seven years, Reagan is showing weakness. This might have a very detrimental effect on the economy.

If the rest of the world sees a president losing confidence in America's ability to repay its debt, there could be large scale panic.

Evaluation Forms For Campus Jobs Created by Vida Makmoom

This year one of the new and better changes on campus is the student evaluation forms, which the Education Equity Committee (EEC) and The Placement Center have created. This new policy, which was set in motion the week of Oct. 12, 1987, deals with the performance of student assistants at work, and their ability to adjust to new working conditions.

These evaluations are provided through the Career Planning and Placement Center at the student's request. After the form is requested by the students, a file is made, which contains the form the student assistant's supervisor evaluates.

Lynn Moss, who is in charge of the Placement Center, thinks that these evaluations will make the student assistants more responsible for their jobs. As a result of such policies, many Student assistants gain support through the university.

As each class year begins at CSUSB new policies, like the student evaluation forms, make life as a college student much easier. The university is trying harder and harder to improve campus life at Cal State San Bernardino, and these innovations are definitely a helping hand!
Cal State To Host CSSA Conference

The October meeting of CSSA representatives was held the 16, 17, 18. Brought up at the meeting was Senate Bill 195, which places restrictions on the increase of the State University Fee. In the late seventies, the governor initiated student surcharge fees in addition to student service fees to pay for the university system. After the university fees increased dramatically over four years, and as much as 300% in a single year, SB 195 was passed to place restrictions on any increases. In addition to incorporating the student services fee with the governor's surcharge in the budget-making process for the Cal State University system. Students have been guaranteed that fees would not rise above 10% with SB 195 in place, but the bill expires in 1990. Students registering in CAR this spring will be paying an 8.6 increase in the State University fee using the SB 195 methodology. The increase will be in full effect fall of 1988.

The November CSSA Conference will be hosted by CSUSB on Nov. 7 and 8. There will be representatives from all nineteen campuses in addition to special guests. Anyone interested is encouraged to attend the conference and the committee meetings. While voting is reserved for Board members, active participation in the discussion is encouraged. There is no charge for the conference, but if students would like to join the board for breakfast or lunch on Saturday, or brunch on Sunday there will be a charge for food. Students are encouraged to speak with John Richardson, our CSSA representative, in the Associated Students office for further information.

A.S. Budget to Benefit Students

The Associated Student Government (AS) represents the student body. The operating budget for AS during the 87-88 year is $270,000. Students pay $30 a year for AS. The majority of the budget goes toward student services. AS underwrites checks cashed at the bookstore, so that students may cash personal checks of up to $20. AS also wholly funds the Committee for Clubs.

There are also student emergency loans up to $125 that AS finances. AS had input in the renovation of the pub and is also involved in the future expansion of the Student Union. AS Productions, which has a budget of $46,000 puts on special events, live entertainment and comedy nights on campus. AS also represents students in the Cal State system by CSSA representation, which provides input for students in the California government. There are also lobbying for students in the California government. There are also campus-wide committees AS is involved with and works with providing direct input into new policy, the faculty and administration. Anyone can be involved in AS whether they are an elected representative, student assistant, or committee member.

The Associated Students office is in the Student Union. If there are any questions or you are just interested in the services, or serving on a committee, stop by anytime.

The following scholarships are available to enrolled disabled students at Cal State San Bernardino:

- Kaiser Permanente scholarships and Honorariums (two $500 and several $100)
- UNI PHI Club (two $125)
- Thomas Cummins Memorial (one $500)

Jello Speaks in December

AS Productions is arranging to have Jello Biafra speak on his poetry and lawsuit December 3rd in the Upper Commons. Jello Biafra is best known as the lead singer of the now defunct punk band the Dead Kennedys. A few years ago he ran for Mayor of San Francisco. He gained most of his notoriety by being charged with distributing harmful material to minors via a reproduction of a painting put in the Frankenchrist I.P. Jello was recently acquitted of the charges. There will be a question-and-answer session with the audience after he speaks. Any information regarding this event may be obtained from Brian Wood, AS Productions Chair, or Curtiss Smith, Entertainment Chair.

The A.S. Book Exchange (Co-op) is now returning Money and/or Books to students who Brought Books to sell. Please Come Pick your money or books up as soon as possible! The Next Exchange will begin With a Book Take-In Final Exam Week.
Sigma Chi Welcomes Newest Little Sigmas

Women, Women, Women. Just look around campus and you will know that with Cal State San Bernardino's location in the Southland, not all of them will be of the intelligence, congeniality, and appealing personalities usually associated with the pretty ladies. Also inside this group are a number of the most outstanding party women in California. You find these women attractive, but whether sorority life is for her.

Fraternity initiated twenty-five years ago, the Alpha Delta Pi sorority's open rush. Open rush, which begins when formal rush ends, is a means by which interested young women and members of the sorority can get acquainted, enjoy entertaining atmosphere, and easy manner. Open rush parties have an informal theme and are held periodically throughout the year. The vaters are warmly welcomed by all members of the sorority, refreshments are served, and a short skit is performed. If a young woman feels comfortable with the sorority, she may become a member. Alpha Delta Pi sorority's open rush will be held at Arrowhead Lanes on Orange Show Rd. at 6pm. Come watch the action and sponsor your favorite Pi!!!

Introducing the New Delta Sig Pledges

On October 11, 1987 the Eta Beta Chapter of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity initiated twenty-five new members into the Delta Sig fraternity. They are: Rod Babcock, Brad Cadorph, Dean Clark, Brian Cottrell, Frank Cuocatana, Mark Curzon, Andy Gallardo, Jim Grand, Mike Grifffen, Chris Hack, Dan Hochver, Jim Ignacio, Paul Janeway, Tim Komitor, Richard Long, Ben Martinez, Mike Nakatsu, Anthony Oleas, Jason Plooy, Brian Sturky, Chris Thomas, David Timms, Joseph Trayler, Gary Valera, Donald Vailes. The active members of the Eta Beta Chapter are very proud of these new pledges taking on the challenge of becoming Delta Sigma Phi fraternity men.

At this time everyone in Delta Sigma Phi would like to thank the women of Alpha Delta Pi for their hospitality and the Greek houses and pledges good luck in the 1987-1988 school year.
CAREER-ORIENTED Government Scholarship Awarded to Sophomores

CSUSB sophomores interested in a career in government service at the federal, state, or local level are invited to apply for a 1988 Harry S. Truman Scholarship. Established by Congress in 1975, the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation operates an ongoing educational scholarship program designed to provide opportunities for outstanding U.S. students with potential leadership ability to prepare for careers in government service.

In April 1988, the Foundation will award 105 Scholarships nationally. The deadline for all 1988 applications is Dec. 1, 1987. CSUSB can nominate three students for the 1988 competition. The scholarship award covers eligible expenses up to $7,000 per year for the junior year, the senior year, and two years of graduate study.

To be eligible, a student must be a full-time sophomore working toward or planning to pursue a baccalaureate degree, have a "B" average or equivalent, stand in the upper fourth of the class, and be a U.S. citizen or U.S. national heading toward a career in government.

Interested students should submit a letter of application, a statement of career plans, a list of past public-service activities or other leadership positions, a current transcript, and a 600-word essay discussing a public policy issue of their choice to Carol Goss, Political Science, Truman Scholarship Faculty Representative, in FOB 204, by Nov. 15.

Discussion Group on Novelist Ayn Rand's Objectivism Forming

Dr. Steven Levy of CSUSB's Department of Management is seeking individuals interested in establishing an Ayn Rand Discussion group on campus.

Ayn Rand was a novelist/philosopher whose works such as The Fountainhead profoundly influenced the lives of many people, such as Alan Greenspan, head of the Federal Reserve Board. Aside from her radical and immense contributions to philosophy, she has also had a major impact on political systems worldwide. Margaret Thatcher has acknowledged the strong influence of Rand's works on her political views.

The discussion group would address such topics as how Rand's philosophy (Objectivism) has been helpful or harmful to society, how individuals have applied Objectivism to their own lives and with what results. Interested people with a limited knowledge of Rand's works would also be helped to better understand Objectivism at the discussions.

Levy hopes a few seriously interested people will get in contact with him and coordinate their efforts. Possible speakers associated with the Ayn Rand Institute may be invited to CSUSB to address topics such as "Objectivism and its Application to Ethics in Business."

If any students, faculty, or staff are interested in beginning a discussion group, and perhaps a club later, contact Levy at 887-4924.

Serrano Village Elects New Officer's

Wick will be responsible for keeping order during the meetings and referring to the constitution whenever necessary.

The office of secretary was filled by Carmen Rodriguez, and Aaron Watson is the club's new treasurer.

Jim Grant is vice president, and will be in charge of all committees. These committees will include a food committee and an activities committee.

Jack Olds was elected Serrano Village president. In Olds' speech he promised the residents "lots of fun, good ole fun." Olds plays basketball for CSUSB and is a communications major.

With all the dedication and qualifications of the Village's new council, this will undoubtedly be a successful year for Serrano Village.

Children's Center Provides Many Services To Faculty and Students

by Jane Cole

CSUSB's Children's Center is hard at work providing a rich learning environment for the children of CSUSB faculty and staff.

Students enrolled in six undergraduate units of four graduate units will receive first priority enrollment for their children. While CSUSB faculty and staff receive second priority, one hundred children are enrolled in the Children's Center. Seventy-five percent of these children attend preschool, between 7:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. This preschool is comparable to many local schools. The high level of teaching is apparent as 40 percent of graduate students go on to accelerated classes in elementary schools.

The center offers extended day care from 12:30 to 6 p.m. and small group activities are designed around learning centers.

Evening child care is also available until 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Supervised study halls and remedial instructions are available.

The Children's Center offers two payment plans. Subsidized child care is available for parents who qualify. The California Department of Education has established a sliding scale. For parents who do not qualify for subsidy funds, full-cost child care is available at competitive and reasonable rates.

Having anywhere from 10 to 12 employees, the Children's Center is a good source of experience for many students. Work-study positions are available for students with experience.

Teacher assistants are also employed to work in classrooms under the direct supervision of a teacher. The Center employs only state certified teachers to prepare and implement all of the curriculum.

The Children's Center is funded by several key sources. Of course, the main part of the Centers budget comes from the State Department of Education. Eight percent is from the office of Children's Nutrition, ten percent from parents fees and the final seven percent is from the Associated Students. This year each Cal State Chico's Children's Center received $10,000 to use for much needed repairs and maintenance. Our Center has been able to replace old equipment, buy new toys and replant grass. Pat Dortch, the Center's director explained that this grant was an important addition to the budget because, "Things here have been held together with bubblegum and paperclip."

Pam Dortch believes that it is important to closely involve parents in the education of their children. Each quarter a special seminar is held for parents. The next seminar will be the next semester, on drug awareness.

Our Children's Center provides many services to everyone on campus such as the Children's Center and the faculty. Most importantly the Center provides a rich learning environment for children.

Double Feature - A Halloween Story

Frank Barnes was having one hell of a night.

At the moment, he was slowly shuffling up a walkway to a small white house in Haven, Tennessee (Pop. 4,182). It was a misty Halloween night, and Frank was definitely in the mood for some trick-or-treating.

Or, rather, Tornant, the Demon from Hell, was in the mood to...well, scare the devil out of someone. You see, Frank Barnes was not quite looking like himself this night. Two weeks ago, he had landed a part in what New Wave Pictures had already termed "the horror spectacle of the 80's...and 90's." The movie was simply titled "The Demon," and Frank had won the title role.

And that was what had brought Frank Barnes to Haven this chilly night— and, in a way, it was also what had brought him to this quiet, suburban (and probably white-people only) neighborhood.

He had arrived in Haven on October 30, two days before Halloween, and was having a good time, as he made his way to the end of a seemingly deserted cul de sac.

"So what're you gonna do 'Trick or Treat,' Frank said, trick-or-treating, and finally coughed up the energy to speak. "I was just having some fun. You see, there's this movie..."

"Trick or Treat," it said, and Frank stood there, transfixed, and the Red Demon from Hell laughed, and walked to the next house.

At the moment, he was slowly shuffling into the house, and froze.

"Hey, don't eat too much—you might get sick,' Dykstra said, and walked away from the 'dragon.' It was a misty night, and the fog around the building's foundation. It'd do my work for me. I'll only have to stand there. I'll only have to stand there."

Frank stood there, transfixed, and finally coughed up the energy to speak. "I was just having some fun...You see, there's this movie..."

"I don't care about your movie, person," it said. "All I care about is getting compensated for my lost time.

"Are you sure you wouldn't be interested in some vacuum cleaners, perhaps?" it hissed. "I'd only stay a few minutes, and then it would all be over.

"Are you sure you wouldn't be interested in some vacuum cleaners, perhaps?" it hissed. "I'd only stay a few minutes, and then it would all be over."

Martha replied, with a piercing screech, the force of which caused the Demon from Hell to jump back. In that instant, the door slammed shut.

He heard at least three deadbolts lock, and the sound of screaming echoed from inside, and then faded away.

The Demon from Hell laughed, and walked to the next house.

By midnight, Frank had terrorized more than 30 houses— and had become quite drunk, as he had walked into a Seven Eleven and the clerk had instantly run out the back door. So, he'd helped himself to a fifth of Jack Daniels.

I've got to do this more often, he thought. Suddenly, the sound of sirens filled the air again, as he made his way to the end of a seemingly deserted cul de sac.

One more house, he thought to himself, and I'll call it a night.

He walked up to the house. It was a two story home, with faded paint, and of a shabby wooden construction. It was, Frank realized, not unlike the Bates Manor in the movie "Psycho." What an out-of-place shack, he thought, as he noticed a thin stream of blue fog around the building's foundation. I'll do my work for me. I'll only have to stand there.

He half-run to the fog-shrouded doorstep, and rapped the wooden door with a brass knocker.

"Trick or Treat," Frank said, and froze.

"Oh, I'm sure you were," it said, and smiled, revealing a mouthful of fangs. Frank's eyes widened, as the creature stepped toward him. "Now I'm going to have some fun with you, little brother. It's time to pay the fiddler." Its claws clamped shut on Frank's shoulders, and it began to pull him into the house, chuckling.

"Trick or Treat," it said, and now Frank Barnes knew what it was to scream.

It pulled him into the house, and the door slammed shut.

"Cut!" Mike yelled. "Print it!"

Mike stared at him a moment. "You're doing a hell of a job," he said to his star. "You sure had me convinced that you're a demon.

"You might, say, sir, that I've had some experience with this sort of thing," it replied.

"Mike. Call me Mike." "Tor."

"I thought it was Frank," "Nickname."

"Oh. Well, we'll start up again in about twenty. You know." Mike said, leaning closer to the demon, "you keep up the good work and we might be talking Oscar."

"I appreciate the compliment, Mike," it said. "But I already expect to get a lot out of this when we're finished."

"We'll be throwing one hell of a party," Mike said.

"Sounds tasty—I mean, sounds good," Tor replied.

Mike stared at him a moment. "OK, Mike."

Actors, Mike thought, as he walked away from the "demon." They're all psycho.

Theatre Arts Contributes to Halloween Fair

by Kathryn Ramirez
Chronicle Staff Writer

CSUSB's Theatre Arts Department will be a major contributor to San Bernardino City Library's Halloween Fair on Oct. 31 from 4 to 8 p.m. Cynthia Olson, of the children's department of the library, said she is very "grateful that San Bernardino's Theatre Arts event is participating in this event."

Members of CSUSB's Theatre Arts Department will present a fairyland and storybook land section during the fair. This section will not be scary as it is geared towards the younger preschool age children, Olson said.

There will be a Fairy Queen and many other fairy and storybook land characters with which the children can talk.

"When you take into consideration that we don't drive any slower than 15 mph, this presentation is quite convincing," Olson said.

Continuous cartoons will also be available at the Halloween Fair. These cartoons are non-scary for little children, Olson said.

Each organization will sponsor games, tables or presentations for children of all ages, Olson said. Each organization will sponsor Norton Air Force Base will present a "Soot Belt Convincer." The Convincer demonstrates the effects of a collision at 5 m.p.h.

"When you take into consideration that we don't drive any slower than 15 mph, this presentation is quite convincing," Olson said.

Continuous cartoons will also be available at the Halloween Fair. These cartoons are non-scary for little children, Olson said.

Two movies will also be shown in the large auditorium. At 4 p.m., "Dracula" will be presented, and at 6:30 p.m. "The Bride of Frankenstein" will air. A brief intermission between the two movies will allow time for a costume parade. Each participant in the parade is given a ticket, making them eligible for a prize drawing. Available prizes will be books, cameras and possibly a bike.

A Haunted Room will also be presented with showtimes at 4, 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. Each show consists of story-telling and will be about a half hour long. Olson said this room may not be suitable for younger children as it will be "as scary as we can make it."

Everything is free as San Bernardino City Library is trying to make this a "community alternative to trick-or-treating—a safe alternative!" Olson said.

The Halloween Fair will be at San Bernardino City Library, 555 W. 6th Street. All events, except the movies and the Haunted Room, will be conducted in the parking lot on the children's side of the library.

Death Of The Horned God

He puts his pipes aside
As Earth prepares Her Son
For Eternal Sleep

No joyful music can brighten
The inevitable Death, He is about to experience

As She covers Her Lover with the Eternal White Blanket,
He begins to shed the horns that have adorned His horns with autumn beauty

As Her Son dies,
Her tears fall hard and cold
As Her Son dies,

Waterpolo Defeated By Iona

by Ron Carter

A waterpolo match between CSUSB and Iona College, of New York, ended in troubled waters for the Coyotes. Iona won the game 2-1 with the ball after an unimportant like contact call was made on a Coyote player.

The Coyotes had been down to six players since early in the first quarter when Jim Bickers was ejected for fighting.

"Apparently Jim was being held down under water by an Iona player and he retaliated," said Coach Bruce Brown. Both players were ejected from the game. Cal State fell to 0-3.

CSUSB Continues Its Winning Season

by Brian R. Murphy

Jerry O'Hara and Hector Uribe teamed up for a total of four goals as the 12th ranked Coyotes soundly defeated visiting Dominican 6-0 on October 17. Uribe starred the game quickly as he took a pass from Bret Baker, dribbled deep into Dominican territory, shot and scored at the 2:27 mark of the first half. O'Hara then kept up his scoring rampage with his two goals coming within less than 1 minute of each other. The first on a follow up of Kent Edwards shot and the second on a one-on-one with the Dominican goalie, Ercole Giuseppe. O'Hara also had two assists.

Tod Maps kept things alive with a diving header at the 23:23 mark of the first half. Uribe's second goal came in the second half as he booted in a short cross from Stephen Trapini. The Coyote defense played an amazing game by holding Dominican to one shot on goal while CSUSB amassed 8 shots of their own.

This win brought their record up to 9-1-3.

Coming off a 6-0 win over Dominican, the Coyotes were ready for anything. They proved this as they squatted Santa Cruz 6-0 on October 18, 1987. Jerry O'Hara led the team with two goals, both assisted by Hector Uribe who scored one himself by chopping the ball over Santa Cruz goalie, Walter Dodz.

Coyote goalkeeper Randy Green had one save again as the CSUSB defense held the visitors to just one shot on goal for the second game in a row.

"I'm proud of this team," said Head Coach Carlos Juarez. "The guys are really playing well and a lot of their passes are turning into goals. I expect us to go far in the playoffs," he said.

The 10-1-3 Coyotes travel to Claremont on October 28 and are still looking forward to the Las Cruces Tournament Halloween weekend in New Mexico.
ATM Approved For CSUSB

by Shannon Cowden

Yes, it is definite! There will be an Automated Teller Machine (ATM) on CSUSB’s campus. The questions are where and when.

According to A.S. President Steve Hekman, the Board of Directors last year approved the proposal to bring an ATM on campus, but now can not decide where to put it.

The Coyote Bookstore and the Student Union are the prime locations.

The bookstore provides easy street access and is well lit at night, but the union is more centrally located for on-campus use.

Hekman plans on presenting a proposal to the University Planning Committee for a new kiosk to be built specifically for holding the ATM. The kiosk may hold more than one bank’s machine and might be built near the bus stop on campus, but other locations are being studied.

The board is in the process of bidding banks to bring their ATM’s to CSUSB. A decision has not yet been made, but many banks are showing interest. The board is studying the prices banks charge, services they provide and their interest rates.

It may take up to three years to get a permanent ATM on campus, depending on where it is built. There may be a temporary machine set up in the union as soon as Winter Quarter though.

Students From Around the World Discover American Culture and Language in ACLP

Recently, about 35 ACLP students toured Los Rios Rancho, an apple orchard in Oak Glen. The students were treated to samples of a variety of apples which were peeled and cored on an antique hand-operated peeler. The ranch was decked out in full splendor—complete with pumpkins and jack-o'-lanterns. Los Rios Rancho was built in the early 1900s. Many of the buildings the students toured are original from that period.

Signs of Growth—Waiting List for ChildCare, New Degree Program, More Computers

Master's Offered In Health Administration

Cal State San Bernardino will offer a master's degree in Health Service Administration, making it the 12th degree offered. The degree is designed to provide advanced education and training in administrative and management aspects of health services. Dr. Thomas Timreck, coordinator of Graduate studies for the Department of Health Science and Human Ecology, describes the degree as a traditional Health Services Administration master's degree with a thesis or a non-thesis option. The degree is available to any graduate student who is interested in the health field.

Queue For Child Care

The Children's Center located on campus is this University's answer to child care for students and faculty. The Center offers a structured curriculum for children ages two to four years old. Priority admission is given to student-parents who are enrolled in at least six undergraduate units or four graduate units. Staff and faculty receive second priority, while community members receive third priority. The minimum hours any child can be enrolled is two hours per week for each academic unit taken by the parent plus time for daytime employment.

More Computers and New Hours in Center

Scanning pointed out that accessibility is available for students using the computer labs. Staff lab and facility support is available during lab hours. Operating instructions for the Apple Macintosh computers can be found in the Audio Visual department. A self-paced cassette tacon and accompanying floppy disk which gives instructions for use of the Apple Macintosh computers can be checked out.

Each year, more computers and services are added to the Computer Center. This year, we've added 43 more computers. Scanning explained. "That's almost a 50 percent increase." He added that a new lab, located in PL 52, is almost operational.

The Computer Center is open 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon.-Fri., 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sat., and 12 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sun. In addition, four labs in the Computer Center are open 24 hours to students and faculty with valid ID cards. To use the Computer Center after hours, students must gain access by contacting campus police.
What Drugs and Alcohol Cannot Do For You

To those who may recall the article last year during drug awareness week "Drugs can make anyone a loser." I am back to tell you how a year of being sober has been the greatest thrill in my life. I am back to tell you how a year of being sober has been the greatest thrill in my life. Hate to break the bad news to you, it is much better. I feel great inside and that I was not in jail. Sounds like I am enjoying life sober doesn't it? The truth is I am!

This past year of sobriety has been filled with more memorable and meaningful moments than I ever had when I was out there putting hundreds of dollars of cocaine up my nose or putting at the porcelain alter. Sure, it was fun when I started putting on the buzz, but that grew old fast and it wasn't fun anymore. The things I do in life now are fun and do not grow old. They do not grow old because I do various activities besides going to a bar or party weekend after weekend. I am doing new things everyday that I never had time for when I was drinking and doing drugs.

I want to share just a few of the many miracles that have happened to me in the past year. First of all, I received the best grades I have ever had since kindergarten. It was exciting to take a class and be able to apply what I learned to everyday life. Not like go to class, get high, and forget what I had just learned.

My relationship with my family is better than ever! I am more close to my mother and father than ever before. Lots of love and communication have been the key. They trust me more now than they every did before. One of the greatest feelings that melts my heart is when my parents say "We are proud of you Sean".

The one thing I was really worried about was if I would have any friends. I have lots of friends, true blue friends. Friends that lend an ear, give advice, and are always there. Not those who only come around when you have the bag of cocaine or your buying the beer that night. I thank God for bringing so many "real" friends into my life that have made my life worthwhile.

I could go on and on with the great things in my life that you can be happy and successful without drugs and alcohol. I am, and very proud of it. There are lots of people who feel you if you feel you have or had a drug and alcohol problem like myself to help. So don't sit there and kill yourself, reach out! The Help is there in closing, I would like to thank a loving God who has kept me sober. A God, I never believed existed. I would also like to thank all those who have helped me on my road to happy destiny.

Love,
A happy and sober Alcoholic and drug addict,
SEAN

Call your mummy.

You remember. She was always there when you were frightened. And if you ever hurt, she was standing by with bandages. Wouldn't it feel good to talk to your mother again right now? Calling over AT&T Long Distance Service probably costs less than you think, too.

And if you have any questions about AT&T rates or service, a customer service representative is always standing by to talk to you. Just call 1 800 222-0300.

Sure, your schoolwork and your friends keep you busy. But call home and find out what she's wrapped up in.

Tips For Keeping Halloween Safe and Fun

Halloween is a very exciting time for young children. However, it can also be extremely dangerous. Trick-or-Treating has been a celebrated American custom for decades allowing children a night of their own for fantasy and goodies. In recent years children have become targets for some very disturbed individuals. Each year we hear of more children that have been drugged, burned, blinded, and killed from hallucinogenic drugs, foreign objects, and caustic materials in Halloween goodies.

We as concerned adults often wonder how and why such things could happen. I strongly believe that drug usage plays an important role in such tragic events. The use of drugs limits the individual's ability to think rationally and reduced inhibitions severely alters the determination of right and wrong.

The Children's Center strongly supports the united effort on our campus to reduce drug abuse. On Halloween morning our children and staff will be wearing red ribbons as a reminder that drug abuse affects everyone. I would also like to remind all parents to closely examine all goodies and discard homemade desserts, fruit, and packages that show any evidence of tampering.

The Children's Center wishes everyone a safe and secure Halloween.

"Maybe I'll go back for a master's degree. I'm only 20, so I've got a lot of time to think it over," he said.

Scheduled to graduate in December, 1988, Allsopp will be able to play another year on the soccer team. However, the 1988 season is far from his mind. With this season's team doing so well, Allsopp will be able to play Allsopp is concentrating on two things: continuing the team's current success and making a first-time trip to the NCAA Division III playoffs.

The players also came to the workouts in the right frame of mind. Allsopp stated that little problems that arose in the beginning were quickly resolved due to the positive attitude that the team exhibited. He says this has increased the feeling of unity among the players—a definite factor to success in any team sport.

As for physical health, Allsopp participated in triathlons during the summer to better his physical condition. However, he wasn't alone. The other players on the team, 14 returnees and 11 rookies, trained hard during the summer and entered the season in very good shape.

Allsopp says the team has been successful because the players came to the preseason workouts in great physical condition, were willing to take advice

"I expect this team to rise to the occasion when the pressure is on."
—Bill Allsopp
"Drugs" Can't
that marijuana cigarette. You might be the lucky one who doesn't develop an addiction, or even a psychological habituation. But drug use comes in black and white. You are either being affected by a foreign substance in your system or you are not. If you take a drug, your emotional, mental, and physical reactions are different than they would have been if you had not. At that point, your thoughts and decisions are not really YOUR own. They belong to the drug you took. It takes courage to find off the pressures from a drug-influenced peer group and from a world that makes demands on you greater than you feel capable of handling. But that courage is within you, and it's the only thing that will keep you being YOU. And you just the way you are plus the things you will learn and incorporate over the years is the very best product that you will ever have to offer this world. You can either bring good to the world, or you can take something good away from it. Using drugs is the best way to achieve the latter.

If I came on strong with this article, well, it was intended. There is a lot in the media now about drug abuse...a federal blitz starting up to support the "JUST SAY NO" campaign. But a figurative 'overkill' in the media sure beats a literal 'overkill' in the 'SAY NO' campa. But a figurative 'overkill' in the media sure beats a literal 'overkill' in the streets...and on the campus. Tryit. JUST SAY NO!
