Associated Student & Faculty Senate Board Meeting.

Cal State May Cancel Spring Break

by John Purcell
Managing Editor

A proposal that would effectively eliminate Spring Break for the 1988-89 school year at CSUSB was discussed Tuesday at the Associated Students weekly board meeting and at Tuesday's Faculty Senate meeting.

The intent of the proposal, initiated by President Evans and brought to fruition under the direction of Vice President of Academic Affairs and Professor of History, Dr. Robert Detweiler, Faculty Senate President John Craig and Associated Dean of Academic Services, Steve Prouty, was to end the school year a week earlier so that students seeking summer employment would not be at what Detweiler called "a competitive disadvantage to other students looking for summer jobs."

Since the proposal met with opposition at both the Associated Students Board Meeting and the Faculty Senate Meeting Tuesday, Detweiler stated he will recommend against it.

"I met with the A.S. Board and they had a lot of opposition to giving up the Spring Break. On Monday I'll make a recommendation to the Administrative Council that they just continue with the same schedule," said Detweiler.

A.S. President Steve Hekman was unavailable for comment on Detweiler's late announcement.

Until 5 p.m. Tuesday, Detweiler had stated he would recommend either staying with the current calendar or adopting the proposed new calendar.

The proposed plan would have scheduled Priority Add-Drop and Walk-Through Registration during finals week, March 21-25.

Spring Break would have been eliminated and classes for Spring Quarter would have begun March 27, two days after the end of Winter finals.

Prior to Detweiler's decision, Hekman and A.S. Vice President Curtis Bayer expressed opposition to the proposal.

"What bothers me," said Bayer, "is that they had the audacity to work on a major change without informing us."

"I think all it shows is there is a definite lack of student-administration representation in areas dealing with student life that are as critical as this," Hekman said.

Detweiler said that several other methods of shortening the schedule were looked at but given the fact he was unwilling to shorten class time, the spring break option was the only viable method.

A number of methods were suggested at the board meeting, including shortening the winter break and beginning the school year earlier. These methods were found impractical since both would mean starting the winter quarter, and then going on a two to three week break for Christmas and New Year's and then resuming classes, according to Detweiler.

The proposal will be brought up at Monday's 10 a.m. meeting of the Administration Council.

A.S. will state its position on the issue there. At that time Detweiler will make his recommendation that CSUSB continue under the current calendar.

Evans initiated the proposal because of his concern that students who seek employment during the summer to finance their education, could have difficulty acquiring jobs since students from other schools may have already flooded the labor market.

He also noted that graduating seniors are anxious to get into the job market and might be disadvantaged by the current schedule.

The Associated Union Board pointed out, as Detweiler had during an interview Friday, that this may not be a problem for students at CSUSB since a large percentage of the student body works throughout the school year.

"I personally don't feel it's that urgent a matter because a good number of students have jobs and go from attending school and working, to just working," said Prouty.

Craig said he saw the proposal as something brought up in order to help the students. "If we did away with Spring Break it becomes a tradeoff. At this point we are trying to find out what the students really want. Would this be a service or would it not be a service?"

EDITOR'S CORNER

Have you seen the signs, have you read the ad, have you heard my screams? Yes, that's right. The Chronicle needs dependable staff writers!

Do you ever look at the newspaper and wonder why an event didn't get covered or wonder why a story about something from another campus is filling up space?

Well, the answer is simple. We need more reliable reporters than we have now.

If you're planning on a career in journalism, writing for the newspaper is a great way to get experience and fill your string book. Or, if you don't know what you want to do after graduation you might consider writing for The Chronicle and see if journalism interests you.

Also, while I'm on the subject of writing, we have a number of letter's to the editor this week. That's great. We want student feed back. Just remember that letters need to be typed and turned in by noon on Wed. the week before publication. You should sign your letters, if you would like your name withheld write that on the letter.

Students should keep in mind that letters to the editor are opinions of the person writing them not those of The Chronicle Staff.

That's about it for this week. If you're interested in writing for the newspaper come in and fill out an application. Only those willing to work hard, attend staff meetings regularly, and be reliable need apply. By the way, if anyone sees any of my lost staff writers wandering around, tell them to come see me.

Red Ribbon Week Creates Conflict

To the Editor,

Last week we, as a campus, celebrated "Red Ribbon Week", with concentrations on easily available drugs such as alcohol and marijuana.

All around campus red ribbons were seen on trees, cars, posters, boards and students. It seems that drugs are on the way out and purity is on the way in as more and more students wake up to the dangers of drugs.

Informing the students of knowing "when to say when" is a fine idea, but before we can properly educate our students, we must first set a good example ourselves.

Beer ads abound in the Pub, from light fixtures to neon signs. An insert in The Chronicle recently supplied every student with a free calendar promoting Bud light.

If students walk from the library to the pub or vice versa in early mornings, a sharp eye must be kept out for the beer trucks wheeling in their booty.

And practically every student harbors a favorite Spuds MacKenzie T-shirt.

Seems that the papers should have advertised "Say no to private drugs" week or "Say no to unadvertised drugs without a cute mascot" week.

Minors will get drugs and booze as easily as legal adults. Rather than try to suppress a fact, the school, in its campaign, should remove alcohol literature and advertisements from public places. What's wrong with a Coca-Cola sign? Or maybe a big ad for Cheetos? Rather we are subjected day in and day out to alcohol advertisements all around us, and in school yet!

I have nothing against alcohol, in fact, I am finishing off a wine cooler right now as I write this. Would you consider that drinking on the job? Well consider it an investigation into the story that I am writing. A story about the wasted time, money and effort poured into a bottomless pit that will not be filled until the school makes the first move. My high school never tolerated beer ads, so why do we?

Sure, Spuds is cute. But I doubt he'd drink a beer. And you won't see him with a red ribbon either.

Offense Taken

By Sigma Article

Dear Editor,

The Greek associations at Cal State are a major part of our campus. Most people that you meet are in or considering a sorority or fraternity or are a little sister or sweetheart. The Greeks are proud of their own association & their fellow Greek brothers & sisters.

Sigma Chi's article in last week's edition was a disgrace not only to the Greeks, but also to women. It is comments like "These girls come to party seriously, we better be well supplied not to mention well rested." that give little sisters a bad name.

Believe it or not men, we did not become little sisters to party seriously with you or use up your strength.

Keep your strength to yourself & use it for something worthwhile. Proud to be Greek.

Sigma Chi Article Meant No Harm To CSUSB Women

Miss "Proud to be Greek,"

I'm sorry that you were offended by Steve's article on Little Sigma's. I apologize if it came across as being patronizing. Unfortunately, you obviously did not read further, because if you had, you would've certainly seen statements such as "outstanding women", "Little Sigma's have contributed greatly", and "they have made our chapter what it is today."

I guess its obvious you are not a Little Sigma because otherwise you would know of the integrity and respect we give these ladies.

I am proud of our Little Sigma program; it attracts many of Cal State's finest women. At no point do we ever consider patronizing our Little Sigma's. They mean a great deal to us.

Unfortunately, you quickly tried to find the 'Bad' in a fine organization. It's a shame.

Also Proud to be Greek
AND Proud to sign my Name!

Curtis Bayer,
Sigma Chi

Scholarship Helps Bring Student Closer To Broadcasting Career

On the wings of my cumulative scholarship from the Country Radio Broadcasters, David Earl Moravee of Fontana seems closer to realizing his hope of becoming a radio broadcaster.

A senior communication student at Cal State, San Bernardino, Moravee was awarded the scholarship based on a written presentation, his scholastic achievements, recommendations from university professors and his work at the university's new campus radio station, KSSB.

Moravee was responsible for persuading the campus station's supervisors to add country music to the programming format which has included jazz, classical and rock and blues since KSSB went on the air a year ago. Although his

Speed Racer and Astro Boy Animation Series Returns

Speed Racer and Astro Boy, two of the sixties' most popular animation series have returned and are being published monthly by NOW Comics!

Speed Racer, created by Tatsue Yoshida, and syndicated to U.S. television from the mid-1960's to the late 1970's, was recently acquired by Coca-Cola owned Columbia Pictures Merchandising through Color Systems Technology, Inc., which plans to release the original shows for the summer of 1988.

In addition to the full-color monthly comic book published by Chicago-based NOW comics Columbia has plans of developing a comprehensive merchandising plan which could include toys and other character licenses.

As part of this revival, NOW Comics was awarded a license to publish a full-color comic adaptation with all new adventures featuring the 17-year-old Speed Racer, his girlfriend Trixis, his buddy and mechanic Sparky, younger brother Spridle and pet monkey Chim-Chim. See "Comics", Pg. 14

Cumulative G.P.A. Not Considered for Job

Dear Editor,

I have recently applied for an "On-Campus" job, but to my dismay I was turned down because I didn't have a 2.0 GPA last quarter. Certainly my grades were below average last quarter, however my cumulative GPA is well above 2.0.

I feel that this is a great injustice, regardless of my cumulative GPA and the qualifications I may have, I still remain unable to receive an "On-Campus" job.

In my deepest opinion, if a person is a full-time registered CSUSB student, and has the necessary skills, then that person should receive employment, period. Dr. Evans, Steve Hekman can you help me?

Ambassador Society Does Not Represent Entire Student Body

To the Editor,

I am writing with regard to the Oct. 21 article, "University Ambassador Society Formed."

As a member of the student body that this group supposedly represents in such a "dynamic" way, I have some serious problems with the article.

First of all, in the article, "Wilson" says that regular students can speak with an Ambassador to tell them their concerns. I try to keep up on things, but I guess I missed the announcement that told when and where this would take place. Or is the reality of the matter that the administrators will be hearing only 19 individuals opinion's?

Secondly, and most importantly, it makes me ill to think that the administration would stoop to favoritism to smooth over some of its more unseemly press. Miss Brown seemed totally ignorant to the fact that the BSU was in essence bribed to keep its mouth shut when, "the University agreed to pick up the bill." Or is it possible that the university has a new policy of buying lunch for all possible new members of every club on campus? This would certainly seem the equal thing to do.

I am glad that "Mr. Mata" feels that he is "at the top," but while he and his 18 esteemed buddies are rubbing elbows with the brass, I hope he remembers us little people.

Signed,
A Troubled Student.

HOW MUCH MUST WE ACCEPT!

Over the last decade students have had to accept many setbacks to access in higher education. Now the industrial wage commission (WC) has proposed a subminimum wage for full-time students under 21. Students who need to work while attending college would be paid on 85% of the minimum wage. Help to make the student voice heard. Letter writing campaign will begin next week. Participate in shaping Government decisions.

Associated Students Week-end Retreat

The Associated Students held a retreat from Oct. 2 thru 4 in house rented house in Arrowhead. More than 25 people were present, including members from the A.S. Executive Board, Board of Directors, Review Board and Committee for Clubs.

According to Holly Carmack, who organized the weekend, the retreat was a great success!

So, what does this retreat have to do with you, right?! Well, for starters, the retreat gave the A.S. a chance to make some important decisions as to where they are headed. These decisions will have a big impact on student life when the campus starts its expected growth.

The A.S. has decided that the students should have a say in all aspects of university life, including everything from services to building development.

This growth in A.S. will give more students (YOU!) a chance to get involved with the school and the community. The A.S. wants more members on different boards around campus so the student voice will be heard!

The A.S. plans on setting a form of action soon so that they can start working on all of these new goals.

Dr. Diane Riebeth Returns to Lecture

by Robert McLaughlin
Chronicle Staff-Writer

Dr. Diane Riebeth—Lecturer in Chemistry, is not the typical PhD stereotype of a withered old woman who can practically cast evil spells with a glance. Rather, she is a mere 28 years old with a penchant for learning.

After graduating from CSUSB in 1981 with BA degrees in Chemistry and Biology, she headed straight to UC Riverside to complete her PhD.

Riebeth considered UC Davis and UCLA for her first four years, but chose CSUSB because of its size. "Here you are a person and not just a number in a computer," she said. "The other schools are just too huge. Here you can have more personal contact with professors."

An avid science enthusiast in high school, she was offered a chance to participate in a research project with Dr. Dennis Pederson and Dr. Richard Goodman. The project lasted five years, and Riebeth was involved with two of them, studying proteins from bacteria living in Arrowhead Hot Springs, a place supposedly too hot for them to prosper as they did.

This gave her an excellent chance to learn the lab techniques and see what research is all about from the inside. Riebeth describes it as "a most enriching educational experience."

Her activities while at CSUSB were fairly limited by the fact she had two lab classes at once, but Riebeth did manage to hold down a job, keep in touch with her high school friends and participate in the Philosophy Club.

Going on to a doctorate has its advantages over quitting after an MA or BA. With these degrees one can only expect a technician type of job, and maybe teach at the high school level.

Riebeth was not satisfied with her knowledge in the field after graduating CSUSB. "I wanted to know more, I'm still eager to learn. Chemistry and biology are ever-advancing fields," she said.

Along with many of the chemistry and biology professors involved with other important campus work, Riebeth will hold the position of Lecturer in Chemistry during her one year stay here.

After that year is completed, she may consider teaching at the college level, or enter into applied research involving teamwork with other chemists, biologists and scientists in biotechnology or pharmaceuticals fields.

Riebeth started out as a chemistry and biology major and stuck with it throughout her school attendance. It is not surprising that her father taught jr. high school science.

Riebeth received her PhD in September. She gave her final dissertation on Inorganic Anti-Cancer Drug Interactions with DNA. She found it a very enjoyable subject. The PhD was a long-term, time consuming goal of hers, finally realized.

She still has difficulty addressing her ex-teachers by their first names, but she has been more than welcomed by the staff. "Everyone has been super to me here," she said.

"CSUSB has prepared me very well for graduate school. I've had plenty of helpful experiences here," Riebeth said. "I had a good time here as a student, and it's good to be back."

Scholarship Offered In Recipe Contest

College students can win thousands of dollars in scholarship money by creating a healthful recipe that uses Sweet 'N Low and can be prepared without a conventional kitchen.

The "Sweet 'N Low Grade 'A' Recipe Contest" features a Grand Prize of $5,000, First Prize of $2,000 and Second Prize of $1,000. University, College & culinary school employees who are members of The National Association of College & University Food Services are also eligible to win $2,000 in scholarship money for their schools to be used for education or training.

The recipes must be suitable for preparation in a residence -hall room using only small appliances such as a toaster oven, blender, wok, compact microwave or small refrigerator. They will be judged on the basis of healthfulness, taste, originality, ease of preparation and appearance.

Posters with entry forms and complete rules are being sent to food service directors at more than 600 colleges that are members of The National Association of College & University Food Services. Entry forms are also available by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope by Dec. 15, 1987 to: Sweet 'N Low Entry Form, P.O. Box 1910, New York, NY 10116.

Entries must be postmarked by Dec. 31, 1987 and received by Jan. 10, 1988.

"Leadership Workshop III" Aids Developing Leaders

Students seeking an opportunity to develop their leadership potential are invited to attend the "Leadership Workshop III" to be held on Saturday, Nov. 7 from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

"It is a unique experience for students to learn leadership skills and meet student leaders one on one," said Sharon Headrick, workshop planning committee member and president of CSUSB MEChA.

Included in the $5 conference fee is attendance at three different workshops (see list below) a luncheon keynote presentation, a packet of materials related to leadership and organizational materials, and a chance to interact with student leaders, sharing ideas, concerns, or plans.

This year's event is patterned after two previous workshops. Serrano Village Resident Advisor, Angelos Lambis, had this to say regarding the day...

"After experiencing previous leadership conferences, I now believe that great leaders are made, and not born..." It is the goal of the planning committee that this program will aid developing leaders.

The conference planning committee was selected from a group of top student leaders who had spent numerous hours guiding their own organizations according to Tami Bakewell, Student Life coordinator. "Previous workshops had focused in what the staff felt was important, these workshops reflect what the student leaders told us they need which will hopefully result in a more relevant experience."

This year's committee members are: Ben Adams, Stacy Cohen, Sharon Headrick, Angelos Lambis, Sharon Crouse, Mike DeGrasse, and David Pavao.

All students, current leaders or not, are invited to attend the workshop. The topics to be included are:

- Public Speaking for Leaders
- Marketing your Organization
- Fundraising
- How to Run Efficient Meetings
- Goal Setting for Clubs and Organizations
- Team Building and Communication

Interested parties should contact the Student Life Office at x7404 to receive a registration form, or to receive more information.

CSUSB Offers Selective Service With Registration

Paying for a college education is tough these days. Rising tuition costs mean that getting a loan is now a necessity for many students. If male students at CSUSB are applying for a federal loan or grant they need to know about registration with Selective Service. Registration is a requirement for a federal student loan and a number of states have also linked registration with state student aid.

Some states even deny entrance into a state school without proof of registration or charge out-of-state tuition rates to nonregistrants. Fourteen states now require registration as a prerequisite for enrollment or student aid, and the number is growing.

Not only is registration a requirement for student aid, but it is also a prerequisite for federal employment - and in some cases state employment. Two more reasons to make sure young men know the facts and are registered.

As the cost of a college education continues to escalate, so do the chances of paying for that education with a loan. Don't miss out on any benefits which you may be entitled simply because you were unaware of the registration requirement.

CIA Recruiters Avoid Confrontations This Fall

Central Intelligence Agency officials have decided to recruit this fall at the University of Minnesota's Twin Cities campus and the University of Colorado's Boulder campus, both of which were the sites of violent clashes between protesters and police last year. The CIA also moved a planned recruitment session at the University of Wisconsin at Madison up by a day after receiving word of a planned student protest organized by members of the Progressive Student Network.

About 15 PSN members discovered the switch at the last minute and disrupted the interview office for about 20 minutes, but then left without further incident. The planned protest went on the next day despite the schedule change. About 75 protesters at the student union heard speeches, vied with about 20 College Republican counter-protesters, and then marched to the administration building. There, the students shut down financial aid windows and other areas, but left before police were called in. A teach-in on CIA covert activities was held in several classrooms afterward.

CIA recruiters did carry out their interviews at Louisiana State University's Baton Rouge campus Oct. 1, despite an all-night vigil held by about 40 students and a march to the career placement office the day of the interviews. That demonstration led to the arrest of five students for attempting to disrupt the recruitment.

"Teke's of Our Lives"

by Benito

This week the family adds spice in the form of 24 lovely sweethearts. The young ladies are Syndy Angel, Suzanne Barbosa, Jennifer Bilyen, Amy Bott, Patti Calloyhan, Stephanie Concelro, Kim Carpenter, Sue Choiniere, Dana Francis, Kim Freeman, Stacey Lubey, Shannon McWeeney, Donna Momow, Michelle Pearson, Felicia Ramirez, Michelle Rebullosa, Michelle Saleeb, Kim Schnepf, Shawna Smith, Laura Sousa and Sandy Sturlaugson.

On the sports side, The Tekes "Crunch Bunch" battled the Road Warriors on the gridiron. The Teke defense was led by a phenomenal rush attack by Jeff Nishkian (who recorded four sacks) on Kurt Beardemphl. Their pressure forced a couple of interceptions. One led by Mike Shea and a 60 yard interception by Rex Hollifield.

The offense was highlighted by some awesome receiving by wide receiver Kevin B. Varneer, one for a touchdown. George Bradshaw also connected with Art Paz for another touchdown as the Teke "Crunch Bunch" went on to win 20 to 6.

In the daily life of TKE Darin discovered that water is not gin and gin is not water, but it all comes up the same. B.J. continues to monopolize the scene as he claims he may of found a match, at least for the time being.

The rest of the gang still refuses to admit to any commitments, although some seem obvious. Tom K. is still trying to get that piece of food out from between his two front teeth, more on that next week. Still no word from "SI", although rumor has it she may be pregnant.

Yes, Kurt has had the same deep voice since he began talking, the doctors say he will be going through puberty shortly, so we may be hearing some cracks and squeaks in that flawless voice. On a sad note, Derek's mother passed away, and everyone has given him their deepest condolences.

Next Week: Politics takes the forestage as new officers are inaugurated. Johnny and George, the race between bugs, and Kevin's quest for Brent's infamous record.

The Teke football team recorded its third straight victory as they downed the Tokay Gang 26 to 0. Brent Johnson, in his first appearance as quarterback, moved the Teke "Crunch Bunch" flawlessly down the field. Johnson hit George Bradshaw on two long passes as Bradshaw easily burned Tokay defenders. Rex Hollifield also made an excellent diving catch, then rolled into the end zone for the score. The Tekes fourth touchdown was caught by Rod Cherland on a release over the middle of the field. The only conversion was made on a Johnson to Varner Pass to the back of the end zone for two points.

Again, the Teke defense was phenomenal as Pete Gostlin and Jeff Nishkian pressured the Tokay quarterback into two interceptions by Hollifield and Mike Shea. Thus far this season the Tekes have out scored their opponents 58 to 6. The advantage in this game was given to the Tekes from the beginning due to fantastic fan support.

This week, this column will begin the first of four profiles on Teke graduating seniors. The first, Brent Johnson, has lived in San Bernardino his whole life. Brent is the youngest of three children, he has two older sisters. He is a legacy to family tradition. His family owns Home Lumber, which was begun by his grandfather back in 1947 and now it boasts a thriving business. Brent has worked there since he was a young lad and someday he will take over the operation.

Brent began his college career at the Humboldt State University, where he remained for only a quarter. He came back to San Bernardino, but decided he wanted to go to a place near good snow and great skiing. So he went to the University of Nevada at Reno, but ended up becoming interested in scuba diving. There, he dove the freezing Lake Tahoe. He maintained an interest though, and earned a rescue diver status through the PADI diving organization. Brent has dove the world famous Cayman Islands and plans on experiencing Cozumel, Mexico in the spring.

After a year at Reno, Brent came back to Cal State San Bernardino where he founded Chi Tau Omega with four other gentlemen. Chi Tau Omega went on to become Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Brent loves any kind of sporting activity and he regularly participates on his church's softball and basketball teams. He also invades the Colorado River whenever he has free time to both water and jet ski.

Brent's love for competition has made him a great competitor, and everything he does is one-hundred and fifty percent. So when he was asked to play quarterback for the Teke football team he took on the challenge even though he had never played the position before. The result was a 26 to 0 victory in his first outing.

Brent is an emotional, intense and sensitive person who strives for the best life has to offer. He loves San Bernardino and plans to remain in the valley where his proximity to the beach, mountains and river suffices his needs.

Finally, the tall-tale of any person lies in their heroes. Brent idolizes two people that have crossed his path in this world. One of those is the romantic tough spy, James Bond, of which he owns videos to all his movies. The second is his father, who exemplifies the perfect family man, who is a non-drinker, owns his own business, is very athletic and is in tip-top shape at 50 years old. Brent Johnson, graduating Teke.

This week in Teke by Benito.

The Historical Alpha Delta Pi

ADPi would like to take this time to tell the students and faculty of CSUSB a little bit about our sorority's history.

The national history of Alpha Delta Pi is a long and illustrious one. ADPi was the first sorority for college women, founded on May 15, 1851 at Weleyan Female College in Macon, Georgia. Originally started as the Adelphean Society (from the Greek word "Adelphos", which means sister) the name was changed in 1905 to Alpha Delta Phi when the sorority decided to become national. In 1913 the name was changed to Alpha Delta Pi because of continued confusion with a fraternity of the same name. Alpha Delta Pi never ceased to exist even through the most trying times of American history. During the Civil War, ADPi continued even though the senior class of 1867 at Wesleyan college had only nine members. In 1929 ADPi became an international sorority with the installation of Beta Zeta chapter at the University of Toronto in Toronto Canada.

Alpha Delta Pi now numbers over one hundred and thirty active chapters throughout the United States and Canada.

The Eta Kappa colony of ADPi was founded in the spring of 1986 by seven outgoing women who shared a common ideal of what a sorority should be like. Since then Eta Kappa has grown to include thirty five members and three alumni. In February the official realization of our founders' dreams will occur with our colony's installation as a chapter and the formal initiation of all of us pledges to the ranks of active members of Alpha Delta Pi.

Except for Susanne Everhart (our only real live active!) all members of Eta Kappa are pledges and wear ADPi's official pledge pin. The pledge pin, fashioned in gold, bears the Greek letters Beta Upsilon Alpha. These stand for the old Greek phrase "Boethia uper allelon", which means "we live for each other." We live for each other, our open motto, reminds us of the strong bond of sisterhood which gives our sorority meaning and life that has sustained ADPi throughout its 130 year history.

New pledges of ADPi were formally introduced to family and friends at a presentation ceremony held Sunday, October 25 in the lower commons. The ceremony was held to formally introduce family and friends to the new ADPi pledges to Alpha Delta Pi sorority and its members. Following the ceremony members of ADPi met to carve out halloween pumpkins for the other Greek houses on campus. The pumpkins were then delivered with candy and best wishes to the

The Sigma Chi "Teeter Totter" Marathon" November 4

Up and down, up and down...or is it down and up? No matter which way, it's Sigma Chi's third annual "Teeter-Totter Marathon."

More than 50 members and pledge brothers will participate in the 48 hour marathon beginning Wednesday Nov. 4 at noon in front of the Pfau Library. Proceeds from the event will again be donated to the Cleo Wallace Center, a non-profit treatment center for emotionally disturbed and behaviorally disordered children and adolescents.

Crazy? No, charity! Since its inception in 1985, the Sigma Chi "Teeter-Totter Marathon" has raised more than $1,700 for the Cleo Wallace Center, including $1,000 last year. This year, our event will definitely be bigger and our goal is to make $3,000 for the children of the center.

Some will sit, others will stand, even others will sleep on the teeter-totters, but for two straight days, through bitter cold CSUSB nights and breezy afternoons, the brothers of Sigma Chi will ride two teeter-totters simultaneously.

Don't teeter around, Sigma Chi will appreciate your support of the Biggest and most worthwhile charity event of the year.

Delta Sigma Phi Pledge Responsibilities

Another successful Delta Sigma Phi rush with the largest group of pledges on campus has just been completed. However, the pledges have a long road to go until they become active members. The process of becoming active members will be the most challenging, exciting, and fun 14 weeks of their lives.

Pledges will participate in various community services such as volunteer work at the Children's Center and fundraising for the March of Dimes. In addition, they will participate in such exciting social events such as: The Halloween Social (the most incredible event to hit the Greek System at CSUSB), Active Night, (the famous Tommy's Run, and The Delta Sig Christmas Bash.

At the conclusion of the 14 week pledge period, the pledges of Delta Sigma Phi will both realize the uniqueness involved in the brotherhood and hereupon be ready for active initiation into Delta Sigma Phi.

New Game Puts Soap Opera Fans To The Test

Soap Opera Facts and Figures

A soap opera is the generic name given to a daytime television drama with continuing storylines.

Daytime dramas were nicknamed "soaps" because back in the days of radio, soap products were introduced and sold through the medium of serialized daily stories.

Fibber McGee and Molly starred in the first on-air soap, which was broadcast in 1925, "The Smith Family."

60 Million Viewers Tune in Daily
- 70-80 percent are women
- 20-30 percent are men.

College students make up 20 to 30 percent of all soap opera viewers.

Soaps are among the most regularly taped programs on VCRs.

Viewers strongly identify with the characters and become addicted to the plots and cliffhangers.

There are no re-runs.

Famous personalities who admit to being "hooked" on soaps:

- Oprah Winfrey
- Gerald and Betty Ford
- Sammy Davis, Jr.
- Carol Burnett
- Aretha Franklin
- Don Johnson of "Miami Vice."

Cincinnati, October 26, 1987 — Sixty million devoted soap opera fans can finally put their knowledge to the test with a new question-and-answer card game introduced by The United States Playing Card Company. Called "Soap Opera Challenge," the game goes on sale in supermarkets, gift, toy and drug stores nationwide beginning this month.

The soap opera games available represent the longest-running and most popular programs: Guiding Light, All My Children, General Hospital, The Young and the Restless, As the World Turns, and Days of Our Lives.

Susan Black, marketing manager for new products for The United States Playing Card Co., said, "It's all there in the cards. The sizzling romances, the surprising plot twists, the excitement and the intrigue."

Each game contains 54 challenge cards with more than 300 questions and answers from the program's story lines. Two or more people may compete, and there are also solitaire instructions.

The questions and answers in "Soap Opera Challenge" are arranged in six categories that are common to every soap story line:

Love Affairs and Friendships: Marriage, divorce, love affairs, old and new friendships.

The Family Tree: Who begat whom? Are you my mother? Relatives and those pretending to be relatives.

Characters and Circumstance: Doctors, lawyers, long-lost relatives and their outrageous pasts and personal secrets.

Death and Disappearance: All types: accidental, natural, self-inflicted, fake demises, sudden disappearances.

It's a Crime: Murder, espionage, theft, sabotage, deception, anything illegal.

Challenge Plus: Outrageous questions that will stump even the most devoted soap opera fan.

"Soap opera mania cuts across all ages, incomes, sexes and educational levels. We anticipate a strong demand for the games from fans who will want a 'Soap Opera Challenge' for each of their favorite shows," continued Black.

"Soap Opera Challenge" was the brainchild of Kate Curran, a devoted Massachusetts soap opera fan who spent months researching the questions for each of the daytime dramas in the series. All the questions were reviewed for accuracy by the licensing directors of ABC, Columbia Pictures, Taft Merchandising and producers and writers of the shows.

The United States Playing Card Co., founded in 1881, is the world's largest manufacturer of playing cards. They produce Bicycle, Congress and Bee, the card used by most of the world's casinos.

Suggested retail price for each "Soap Opera Challenge" is $3.99.

CSUSB Takes Pride In "Red Ribbon Week"

After several months of hard work and dedication, CSUSB students and faculty put together a great program that saluted "Red Ribbon Week."

Cal State has grown to become an influential supporter against alcohol. The university as a whole worked hard to make CSUSB students more aware of alcohol and the devastating problems it can cause.

Last year CSUSB devoted an entire week for alcohol awareness by tying red ribbons on trees here at Cal State San Bernardino. This year staff and faculty members along with the help of the county, planned another week for alcohol awareness. This year's programs and events have had just as much of an influence as last year's. Who knows maybe even a better one! The week began with many interesting and beneficial events. First, on Monday, Oct. 26, there was an information table set up in front of the PFAU Library at 10 a.m. There were flyers and pamphlets distributed to students as they headed for their classes early in the morning. Along with the information given out, there was also free seltzer for those students who had a little bit of a thirst!

Secondly, on Monday afternoon at four, Sandie Cross spoke in the Sump on "Alcohol and Marijuana." This was a very informative event.

Finally, for the first day of alcohol awareness there was a CHP sobriety check for CSUSB students at 5 p.m. in the sump.

On Tuesday Oct. 25, there was a CSUSB all-stars-vs-community police basketball game in the gymnasium.

A week in paradise awaits bidders on the Ski Dazzle Celebrity Auction's Hawaiian package. This getaway for two begins with three nights in an ocean view room at the Halekulani, Honolulu's most elegant resort hotel. A AAA—rated five-diamond, five starred luxury resort located on the beach at Waikiki, the Halekulani offers a stunning backdrop of Diamond Head. The winners will continue on to the big island of Hawaii, where they will spend four nights in ocean view accommodations at the exotic Sheraton Royal Waikoloa, with its view of Hawaii's majestic volcanoes and private beach on the Kona Coast. Round trip airfare is included.

Another tropical paradise awaits those who bid on Ski Dazzle's Mexican getaway. Winners will enjoy six days and five nights at the Westin Las Hadas, a luxurious Morrish style fantasy resort best known as the setting for the hit movie "10" with Bo Derek and Dudley Moore.

Cal State Victory Improves Hopes for NCAA Soccer Playoffs

by Brian Murphy

Cal State San Bernardino all but clinched its first NCAA Division III soccer playoffs berth on October 28, 1987 with a hard-fought, 4-2 victory at Claremont.

This win was one of the most important of the season for the Coyotes, now 11-1-3, who solidified their No. 1 ranking in the West Region. Last year, CSUSB was kept from the playoffs because the NCAA takes only the top four teams from each region, and the Coyotes were fifth.

Cal State is ranked No. 7 in the nation.

"I'm glad to be recognized," said coach Carlos Juarez. "Our chances of making the playoffs look very good right now."

Wednesday's game was a very physical one, to say the least. The referee handed out four yellow cards and ejected two players for fighting, one from each team, including Cal State's Hugo Bustamante. Said Juarez, "The game certainly was physical, but it wasn't dirty play. The fouls that were committed came naturally as both teams were running very hard."

Cal State dominated the first half with its defense holding Claremont to only three shots on goal.

Coyotes forward Jerry O'Hara, a junior from Fontana, broke open the game at the 5:28 mark of the first half by curving a direct kick over a defensive wall and into the top of the net.

Cal State opened its lead to 2-0 when halfback Kent Edwards shot a 25 yard bullet into the top of the net at the 14th minute of the half.

The Stags answered back soon, though, as R.J. Romero took a pass from teammate Darrin Miller and put the ball in the net past the diving goalkeeper, Randy Green. Green helped keep the ball on the home team's side of the field as he consistently punted it from his penalty box to the other.

Throughout most of the second half, Claremont was knocking at Cal State's door but was unable to get the ball into the net. Said Claremont coach Steve Davis, "We had plenty of opportunities to score, but their defense out played us. They deserved to win."

Bill Allsop and Steve Trapani were among the most active Cal State players in the defensive end.

Claremont camped out on the Coyotes' side of the field for the first 30 minutes of the second half, but O'Hara then showed his skills in a magnificent way. He took a pass from Edwards and proceeded to dribble through and around four defenders plus the goalie and popped it into the net to record his second goal of the day.

"I felt good out there," said

O'Hara, who added to his own single-season scoring record with his 23rd and 24th goals.

"My timing was good and my second goal came tough but I was pleased with the results."

Hector Uribe scored Cal State's final goal on a short shot with 7:47 to play.

Cal State San Bernardino travels to Las Cruces, N.M., this weekend for the Las Cruces Tournament. Its first opponent will be Trinity College. National sixth-ranked Glasboro, N.J., also will be there. Said Juarez, "There is still a chance of not making the playoffs if we don't do well at Las Cruces."

Western Region Competition Includes CSUSB Soccer Squad

The first-ever post season invitation for Cal State San Bernardino's soccer squad was accepted by the university today. In the initial round of West Region competition, the Coyotes will face the University of La Verne on Friday, Nov. 6. The game will be at the UC, San Diego soccer field at 11 a.m.

The Regional Final round will be played on Saturday, Nov. 7th at the UCSD soccer field. Game time is set for 1 p.m.

The bid comes in the midst of the Coyotes finest season ever, the squad is currently 12-2-3. The Coyotes face the Master's College in their final regular season game on Wednesday in Newhall.

CSUSB along with La Verne, St. Thomas of Minnesota, and UCSD comprise the Western Regional field. CSUSB has played only one competitor set for the Western Regional. The Coyotes defeated the UCSD Tritons earlier in the season 2-1 in overtime.

More Hiking Activities Planned

The CSUSB Hiking "Bug" is creeping up again. Consult your campus display boards this fall. Up-staged events will soon be listed. For those who missed our latest activity - and I know it's bugging you only to read about it - just imagine yourself in a forest of rain fresh and spiced filled air. Try to listen to the gurgles of a creek while you balance yourself over a broken tree stem and some not so sturdy rocks...

Speaking of club activities - and it likely sounds real "buggy" - no membership fee is required. You always may bring family and friends along on our walks. As you approach those "heavy" midterms - did you know that hiking really begins circulating the oxygen through your brain? Hiking really brings tangible results for I just created this new little bug. I hope it will catch you! If it irritates you - find your way to PL 54 where each Monday at 2 p.m. we plan more funfilled, inexpensive explorations of our beautiful local mountains. It's where the "bug" can really shape you up! I am looking forward to meet you!

Comedy Night

A Big Success

by Chris Duva
Chronicle Staff Writer

They came, they saw, they made us laugh. On Thursday, Oct. 29, Associated Students, the Student Union, and Budweiser sponsored CSUSB's fourth comedy night. As part of an ongoing program to provide CSUSB students with high quality entertainment, A.S. Productions recruited several fine young performers from the greater L.A. area. The comedians never failed to deliver, and kept an audience of 120 people laughing for about two hours.

Comedian-Magician Alexander Raguzi opened the show with a dazzling combination of slight of hand and classic stage illusions. Raguzi, a veteran of such popular spots as The Comedy Store and The Improv, captivated the audience by producing live doves from just about everywhere, levitating his assistant above the stage, and by performing feats of psychic ability. His exceptional mixture of magic and comedy set the tone for the entire evening.

Next on stage was David Feldman. Feldman, a regular at The Comedy Store and guest on "The Tonight Show," delivered a 45 minute monologue of non-stop laughter. His individual style of humor was warmly accepted by the audience.

The final performer of the evening was Steven Greenstein. Greenstein, who performed here last year, is a regular at The Improv and has appeared in such movies as "Tough Guys" and "The Bear." Throughout his act, Greenstein demonstrated that he is not only a fine comedian, but a talented musician as well. By combining the music of the harmonica and the violin with his offbeat sense of humor, he produced a unique and entertaining performance. However, the audience seemed a bit disappointed by the brevity of his act. Greenstein, unlike Raguzi and Feldman, played for less than half an hour. Being the headlining act, such a short performance left the audience feeling a bit cheated that they did not get to see more of this man's talent.

The job of organizing last week's comedy night was handled by A.S. Productions and began in September. Anheuser Busch, Zeltzer Seltzer and Eagle Snack's also helped sponsor the show.

An average show costs about $800 to produce. Opening comedians usually receive $200 to $300 per performance with the headlining comedian receiving slightly more depending on experience and popularity. Ticket and drink sales covered about $400 of the show's production cost with the rest of the money coming from the Associated Students activity fund and the Budweiser sponsorship. In the future, A.S. plans on holding comedy events in a room with a larger seating capacity. This expanded capacity will help generate the revenue needed to offset production costs.

As some of you may have noticed during last week's comedy night, no alcoholic beverages were served. This is due to the observation of drug and alcohol awareness week. A.S. Productions is planning another comedy night for Nov. 19. This event will be held in the S.U.M.P. and beer and wine will be available through the pub.

Magician Lee Grabel Is High Style Entertainment

"Do Not Believe All You See Or Hear!" an original program of entertainment and lecture by the Dean of American Magicians Lee Grabel, will be presented in the Student Union Multi-Purpose Room Nov. 12 at 8 p.m.

This will be an original two part program. Part One is high style entertainment with sophisticated deception, audience participation and great theater. Part Two is a lecture exploring the psychology of deception.

The fundamental secrets of the magician were not invented by the magician, but by mankind. The magician has merely taken these principles, procedures if you will, and by dressing them in mystery, fantasy and the make believe of the theater, and with your help, has turned these principles into entertainment. Through camouflaged pseudo-intellectual reasoning, innuendoes and half truths it is possible to turn 'black into white.'

A skilled speaker, politician, attorney, etc. can argue any side of a debate. The famous 18th century dramatist and wit, Oscar Wilde made such a claim. He was challenged by a theater critic of that day to such a debate. The subject was to be "Which came first, fact or fiction?" Wilde was to take the position that fiction came before fact.

One of the examples Wilde used was that the London fog did not exist until the 14th century. There was no mention of the London fog prior to this time, in literature, poetry or folklore, so the fog simply did not exist, until a poet romanticized it. Wilde reasoned that fiction created the London fog, then it became fact, therefore fiction came before fact.

In the theater we fantasize, and our imagination takes over. The common consensus is that imagination sees what is not there. But intellectually speaking, imagination is the capacity to see what is there. Einstein saw what was there.

Grabel demonstrates that if you will take certain liberties with your intellectual imagination, you will see deceptions in their most subtle forms.

Grabel does not expose 'tricks' per se, but he explains many of the fundamental principles that are responsible for our deceptions. Grabel gives his audience examples of how they are subjected to these principles of deception in everyday life. You are influenced by little noticed statements and physical movements and shape, which are not sufficiently distinguishable to be perceived or remembered, yet form the basis under which you are deceived. These same principles are traced into politics, advertising and into all walks of life. You will laugh when you discover how easily you have been deceived.

During the 1950's Grabel was America's Greatest Magician. At the height of his popularity, he 'retired' to his ranch in Northern California to unwind from years of traveling and producing the Great Illusion Show of that time. During his retirement he was submerged to the needs of the business world, but now due to a renewed interest in his past, he is again in the spotlight with a fresh and invigorating display of his artistry.

VARIETY magazine calls Grabel "...one of the theater's outstanding personalities" and Charles Schulz, creator of 'Peanuts' said, "...a sensational entertainer."

Les Wedman, from At the Movies said, "I've seen it but I don't believe it...Grabel is out of this world." The SAN FRANCISCO NEWS said, "Lee Grabel, a head line event."

Grabel's "Do Not Believe All You See Or Hear!" should prove to be the season's outstanding event. Tickets can be obtained from the A.S. Box Office or by phoning 887-7496. Brian Wood who is in charge of advance tickets sales said advance sale tickets are discounted, so it is advisable to purchase your tickets soon.

Faculty Shown Wealth Of Computer Options

by Debbie Hollihan

Bitnet. Electronic mail. Graphics software. Statistical packages. CSUSB faculty members learned that a wealth of computer resources and instructional aids are available when the Computer Center hosted Faculty Day on October 23.

Computer Center staff members organized the event to show faculty that "Computing and computer services are not limited to computer science people," according to David Neighbours, associate director of academic computing.

Workshops were held during

A display of the IBM interactive video computer system was given. The system can be used as a teaching aid in subjects such as nursing, chemistry and business.

Interactive videos operate by a laser disk with desktop monitors which have pressure-sensitive screens for each student. Students react to information presented by touching the correct response on the monitor screen. Computer Center staff members hope to

Faculty members were introduced to the uses of graphic software to prepare overheads and handouts as teaching aides.

The Bitnet computer network, which allows faculty to communicate and exchange information with their colleagues at other universities in the United States and abroad, was introduced during one workshop.

CAR, the computer assisted registration system, was also explained.

Two round-table discussions on mainframes and microcomputers were held. Neighbours moderated the discussions which were set up to "Try to talk to people about how they use computers, what they use them for and what uses they would recommend to other faculty members."

generate interest in the system by demonstrating it to faculty.

Faculty Day was originally planned to be held before classes started, according to Neighbours. It was changed so that new faculty members who may not have been on campus then would have an opportunity to attend.

Frank Slaton, associate director for operations, said that various open houses have been held in the past, but this was the first one held specifically for faculty.

"Because we are getting new faculty every year, we will have to do this on a yearly basis to keep them informed," Slaton said. The Computer Center will probably hold Faculty Day in the fall each year, he added.

Fulbright Scholar Peter Scheplern spoke to students and faculty October 21 about the narrative codes and structures of American television fiction. Scheplern offered insights into the differences between Danish and American film making after the lecture.

Scheplern, an associate professor at the Institute of Film Studies at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark, is teaching this year at the University of Southern California School of Cinema-Television.

Scheplern, whose work is primarily in film and the narratology of film, spoke about understanding narrative in film.

Film narratives are constructed with organizational devices and structures that are used to present a desired viewpoint to the audience, according to Scheplern.

To understand narration in film, it is necessary to be aware of the three levels of narrative form utilized in film—narrator level, action level and reality level. The first level is the narrator level in which the audience is aware of certain elements in the movie but the characters are not. Scheplern used as an example the music played in a movie which only the audience hears.

The next level, the action level, is "the universe where characters know of each other's actions or could know," said Scheplern.

The third level, the reality level, is one in which the audience knows reality is being twisted or looked over for the sake of plot or pace.

"The reality contradicts our common observations," said Scheplern. He said that the three levels never mix, that the levels are never mistaken for one another. "We should analyze films as moving through all these levels."

Following his lecture, Scheplern talked about the differences between American and Danish film industries. Scheplern pointed out that the two systems are very different.

Films made in the United States are profit based, he said, while in Denmark, films are rarely made for profit. Danish films are subsidized by the government, allowing for an average of 15 films to be produced a year.

"Entertainment films based on normal business principles creates a different type of film," said Scheplern in reference to commercialized films in the United States. He added that in Europe, film makers can allow themselves greater artistic freedom since the films are not made solely for profit.

Of the American film makers, Scheplern expressed a great admiration for Steven Spielberg and Woody Allen. He cited Spielberg's talent for "great storytelling" and his ability to infuse all things American into his movies. Scheplern expressed even greater admiration for Allen. "Woody Allen is a real genius, a fantastic literary talent," he said.

Temp Fix Complete on Pool

by Dan Berens

The campus pool, which was vandalized during Labor Day weekend, has been temporarily repaired.

The damage was discovered on September 8 by CSUSB police. The observatory room window had been broken and the room was flooded.

The observatory is an underground room that swimming instructors and coaches use. The pool can not be used without a window or a cover to keep the water out.

David DeMauro, head of the physical plant department, said the university does not want to spend money on another glass window, only to have it broken again. What the university wants to do is replace the window with a high-density, poly-carbonate plexiglass.

Only one company in the country makes this type of window which would cost approximately $6,000, according to DeMauro. It would take 60 days to have the window installed.

The pool has been repaired temporarily by putting a stainless steel plate over the window opening.

The university considers the observatory room a luxury item and plans for a new window have been put off until funding is available for the high-density plexiglass window.

Captain Harris of the CSUSB police said that coverage around the pool has been increased, both by car and foot patrol.

The CSUSB police are continuing their investigation, however, at this time they have not discovered who was responsible for the vandalism. A blunt instrument was found at the scene which they think is what was used to break the window.

The pool is open for students enrolled in swimming classes. Free swimming is Mon, Wed, Fri, 12-1 p.m.

effective way to deal with their particular problem.

From 8 to 9:30 a.m. the Counseling Centers sees students on a walk-in basis. Students can drop in for information, to make an appointment or talk about a problem.

"We tend to look very much at what we can do to help you solve your own problems," Kazlo explained. Counselors might suggest classes to take or workshops to help students cope with their situation.

Workshops and counseling sessions are available that deal with stress management, study habits, difficulties in concentration school or career "burn-out," anxiety reduction, depression, parenting and the personal loss of death or divorce.

"People don't want someone to tell them what to do," Kazlo said. "They want encouragement, guidance and suggestions on things they can do to deal with their problems. You are quite capable of getting out of your problems."

The Counseling Center is a confidential, caring place for students who need assistance in dealing with a problem.

The Center is located in Physical Science, room 227. Hours are: Mon and Tue 8 a.m. - 6:30 p.m.; Wed, Thur, Fri 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. For appointments or more information call 887-7437.

The New Measles Requirement

Q. What's this measles requirement all about, and when did it take effect?

A. Executive Order No. 469 was issued from The Chancellor's Office of the California State University System to reduce the likelihood of outbreaks of these diseases on California State University campuses. Both measles and rubella (German measles) continue to cause disability and sometimes death in college-age individuals, so the aim is to prevent a serious outbreak and potential fatalities among students in the CSU system. It took effect as of Fall Quarter, 1986.

Q. Does this requirement apply to all students?

A. No. Only students who fall into the following groups: 1. All New students born after Jan. 1, 1957; 2. All students born after Jan. 1, 1957 who are applying for readmission; 3. All students who reside in campus residence hall, regardless of age; 4. All students whose primary and secondary education were obtained outside of the United States, regardless of age; 5. Students who are participating in: dietetics, nursing, medical technology, physical therapy and any practicum, student teaching or field work involving pre-school children or school-age children (including the Children's Center) or taking place in a health care setting, again regardless of age.

Q. What do you mean by "currently immunized?" I thought that measles shots were good for a lifetime?

A. Measles vaccines were introduced in the early 1960's, but were ineffective due to the use of a killed virus. Those vaccines were withdrawn from the market between 1967 and 1968. Since 1969, a live attenuated vaccine is being used. (Live attenuated vaccines means the vaccine contains a live but weakened virus that won't produce the clinical disease, but will produce immunity.) Rubella (German measles) vaccine has been available since 1969, and it is recommended that everyone receive the vaccination, not so much to prevent the illness as to provide protection for women of childbearing age.

Q. What do I have to do to comply with this requirement?

A. You must present proof of having been currently immunized or having antibodies to both measles (rubeola) and German measles (rubella). Acceptable proof could be a copy of your official high school immunization record, an official shot record, or copies of laboratory test results. A history of having had measles (rubeola only, not rubella) is acceptable if you provide documentation from a physician or public health nurse of the diagnosis and the date it was diagnosed.

Q. What should I do if I don't know whether I've had my shots?

A. The Public Health Department recommends where there is no history, and status is unknown, immunize. If the person has already been immunized, this will serve to boost antibody protection.

Q. How much will it cost?

A. The immunization is provided at no cost to the student.

Q. I hate shots! Does this mean I have to get two shots if I need them?

A. No. We give a combination measles-rubella-mumps vaccine in one injection.

Without documented proof you will not be permitted to register for subsequent quarters.

Q. What happens to me if I don't take care of this requirement?

A. If the Student Health Center does not receive documented proof of your measles-rubella immunization status within one school quarter of attendance at CSUSB, you will not be permitted to register for subsequent school terms. So we caution you not to ignore this. If you have any questions about this requirement, please call us at 887-7641.

While Luis Valdez may have captured the essence of the legendary Latino rocker on film, rock historian Mendheim, an associate at the University of Washington Ethnic Cultural Center, has offered up a book which goes far beyond the film in tracing the star's true life and the meaning of his music.

Valens, the book reveals, was the shy, poor kid from Pacoima and San Fernando, California, who grew up idolizing Little Richard and fashioned his first guitar from a cigar box and string.

Mendheim takes us through the future star's early life, the first performances at private parties, and the dances his mother Connie promoted at the American Legion Hall to pay the rent.

Members of the Silhouettes tell their stories. Mendheim chronicles the "Del-Fi Sessions" with manager Bob Keane, and explores the history and meaning of every single Valens song. Finally, we are toured through Valens' journey into the Big Time followed by his tragic death of Feb. 3, 1959.

Mendheim's life-long fascination with Valens provides the inspiration for this comprehensive rock biography.

"I was impressed with Ritchie Valens' voice, it was so crystalline, so beautiful. He sang "Donna," and I remember clapping so hard that my hands hurt," Mendheim said.

Mendheim was 12 years old when she saw Valens in December 1958, at one of the famous Alan Freed Christmas concerts immortalized in "La Bamba." Just two months later, Valens died in a plane crash with rock greats Buddy Holly and the Big Bopper, which became known as "the day the music died."

Mendheim never forgot that New York City concert. She began her serious research of Valens While studying Ethnomusicology at UCLA in 1969-70. She strongly sensed that the Southern California Latino community had not forgotten Valens, "but there was just no information. His music had been relegated to the back of the rock history class, he was put down." Valens' memory had been eclipsed by his companion in death, Buddy Holly.

Mendheim approached Valens' family members on research missions. When, in the late 1970's the book "Buddy Holly: His Life and Music" appeared with little more than a footnote for Valens, Mendheim intensified research for a book.

"No one else was doing it, I still had my old notes, so I re-established contact with the family," Mendheim said. Now 10 years later, Mendheim found Valens' family frustrated and annoyed by a number of foundering projects based upon his life. She wrapped up her manuscript in 1983. Featured interviews with the rock group Los Lobos and a review of the film "La Bamba" were completed just prior to publishing this summer.

"Daniel Valdez ("La Bamba" film co-producer) approached me about the manuscript, but I felt he wanted it to be managed by the family and friends, and I wanted to present a well-rounded view," Mendheim said.

Of the film, Mendheim said, "It was an excellent effort from a Hollywood perspective. As a 'purist,' I have some criticisms of the storyline because Valdez took dramatic license with the script, but I recommend seeing it."

Mendheim's book delves heavily into Valens' music, its roots, style and legacy.

Valens learned guitar from several sources including cousins John Lozano and Dicky Cota. Cota taught him "La Bamba."

"Ritchie's style was enhanced by mostly Black session musicians," Mendheim said. "Rene Hall, who orchestrated and arranged Valens' songs, contributed Valens' trademark heavily layered guitars and garage band sound."

But it was Valens' Latin musical roots, the "1-4-5 chord element in an eight beat measure," perfectly illustrated by "La Bamba," that distinguished his music, Mendheim said.

"Little Richard, if anyone, probably had an influence on Ritchie, as did so Bo Diddley.

Ritchie was bending in Bo Diddley's direction in his 'Live at Pacoima Junior High' album," the author explains.

Actor Lou Diamond Phillips captures the essence of Valens, an energetic young man who was very happy and close to his family. But Valens was more of a 1950's "hep talking, cool cat." Valens would occasionally drop to his knees on a song but was not a flamboyant "Elvis-like" performer.

"He was more of a 'troubador' on stage, like Cesar Rosas and David Hidalgo of Los Lobos," Mendheim said.

It is difficult to precisely trace the influence of Valens' music, but the first Latino rocker did leave a legacy. Chris Montez, whose hit "Let's Dance" topped the charts, openly admits he'd been influenced by Valens, as have Carlos Santana, and others like Freddy Fender, Rudy Martinez (of ? and the Mysterians), Sam the Sham, and a host of others from California, Texas and the Southwest, including Los Lobos, Mendheim said.

Ironically, in contrast to the film, Valens opposed agent Bob Keane's suggestion to record the song "La Bamba." Valens thought a rock version of the traditional Mexican song would be disrespectful to his culture.
