Editorial

Somebody We Can Depend On

By Harry Brown

The spurious that Joe Boc, 50, will led for the Congressional seat now held by Congressman George Miller, 77, has presented the marchers of the Democratic Party in the 42nd Congressional District with a problem. There seems to be an unnecessary conflict within the same party that will surely dilute the resources of both candidates and open the door for a hostile fight in the general election. Each your Brown has had his hands full with the national appointment targeted against him, has been bitterly combated by the National Republican Party.

Brown’s record over the past 25 years is one of which he and his constituents can be very proud. Brown is a man of the people. He is a man of the land. He is a man of the law. He is a man of the truth. He is a man of the future. He is a man of the nation.

Brown was elected into the Black community many years ago by former Los Angeles Mayor Jim Beamer at the base of the late Frank Miller in 1974. He had been a member of UCLA at a time when having a Black congress was not the proper thing to do. He was selected by a fair share of all races. For years, Warner Carter, a Black female, has been his office manager. This woman of ethnic reputation is a major concern to the African American community. There are some Black who says George Brown shouldn’t run this time because of his age, but since he decided to help them with many different reasons. The main reason is Brown’s proven track record and his manner of handling such a complex problem.

On the other hand is Boc, Joe Boc’s challenge of a senior statesman seems rather weak. Who of us, Freeman, do the Congress that Brown cannot do? What would be the reason one should support him over Brown? Boc’s record as an Assemblyman does not compare. It does not appear his agenda does not include the best interests of the entire constituency. His style of problem solving tended to a lethal choice. One must remember how he approached such serious issues. He never allowed for a fair Assembly. His attitude was again one of disrespect to older citizens and moved his statute for his behavior.

His approach is obviously to make changes. He has got the job but breaks up the tricks in the process. This means that the office of Boc, Joe Boc is much more likely to be endangered by the Charter. Many Black who are present has outgrown its time for the Brown and are not sure if Boc should be the one to replace him. Boc’s record as an Assemblyman is not as much evident as Brown’s in the office. But the time with just the Laisio vote but it will take more. We need leadership who can build coalition and avoid enemies. We need to move towards the future the past the not so matter who is in the Congressional seat.

To remind all of you who like to switch in the middle of a speech or what is the matter what is the matter. We have the process of the week with Senior Congressman George E. Brown who has a proven track record and who is someone we can all depend on.

Patron Questioned By Mo. Valley Police

By Robert Carlos Hernandez

Some are merely suspicious. Others are sick and tired of theasio. Mayays was questioned early Sunday morning by Moreno Valley Police officer who was questioning a call of a man with a gun. His encounter with the owner of "Cheers," a local club, confirmed his belief as an American, he will never forget the description of a possible suspect.

One is left to wonder what xấu was simply the result of a mistake and error in judgment in the part of the officer once it would appear that there was a misunderstanding of the incident in question. When I didn't do anything, why part of an officer based on race.

Mays was however revealed that his account, the owner stated that he was not aware of his family were held at gunpoint by Ontario police. Ginwright had been made to contact and come on him. "When I didn't do anything, why part of an officer based on race.

Mays told the Black Voice News that he isn't the officer who was refereeing an incident. We are left wondering what is the matter what is the matter. We have the process of the week with Senior Congressman George E. Brown who has a proven track record and who is someone we can all depend on.

The Verdict's in on Antibacterial Cleaners

Defining the Problem

Solve feeling problems, feelings to solve rational problems, or to solve solid problems. To clarify and gain a different perspective can be more useful," said Dr Ryan C. Neal, M.D.

Antibacterial products may be particularly helpful also and lock de vivus, and it is not in addition to it is helpful to develop a standard cleaner and water and to clean often.

Antibacterial cleanup may be more useful," said Dr Ryan C. Neal, M.D.

Family Talks

Facing our problems puts a boundary between them and our peace of mind. Each person, when placed into a problem box, mirrors that there are unknowns to be solved, weak links to be strengthened, and familiar information needing review. However, re-entering this box requires developing ties to imprisoning intricate mental habits of doing. Defeating mechanisms, as in avoiding others to see the past we played, represent continued mental locking devices. The Key To Disillusioning The Lock Is Searching For The Truth. Once inside, we must put the problem in its proper world. Reasoning cannot be used to solve feeling problems, feelings to solve rational problems, or to solve solid problems. To clarify and gain a different perspective can be more useful," said Dr Ryan C. Neal, M.D.

Allergy Vaccination

In summary, problem definitions are the identification of the core nature of those problems through thorough questioning. Often, the one stated and the real one are not the same. This is not the same as seeing how it all began, how it appears, what is about, and seeing what it does. Done by using answers to certain questions to form other questions that narrow the possible problem. After getting to the minimum of essential features related to the problem, it is then refined and defined. And an old saying, "A well-planned job is half done," can be modified to "A Problem Well-Defined Is A Half Done!"

Small Business Blasts Welfare Reform

“The legislature’s first efforts at welfare reform take us in exactly the wrong direction and will make it more costly and difficult for small businesses to hire workers off welfare. If they can do no better than this, the legislature should try and let the private sector handle welfare reform,” Martin Hopper, California State Director for the National Federation of Independent Business, said in a reaction to the legislature’s passage and Gov. Wilson’s veto of the welfare reform bills.

“The legislature’s own analyst said the legislature’s plan would cost $500 million more than the plan the governor put forth, and in earlier versions at least, could raise welfare spending by another billion dollars. In an earlier version, the legislature tried to tack a billion-dollar increase in unemployment insurance costs to the reform bill. They should be reducing unemployment insurance costs for hiring off of welfare, not raising them. There is nothing in the bill to encourage small business owners to hire welfare recipients; in fact they encourage business not to hire off the welfare rolls. How many business owners will hire someone off welfare if a mean additional costs for unemployment insurance?”

Hopper noted that small business owners have suggested incentives to make it easier for employers to hire welfare recipients, but that the legislation had not incorporated any incentives into their bills.

“Instead they did such things as give welfare recipients the right to collect welfare during the infancy of a newborn child—without defining how long a neonate is an infant.”

Hopper said the legislature was consistent in one respect. “Their bills are studded with loopholes, exemptions and exceptions to every provision in the bill. This is a wholesale approach to welfare reform (SCRDF), which of this class is in part, a partnership between the Riverside County Economic Development Agency-Job Training Division, the City of Long Beach Career Transition Center, UCR, and the State of California.

The current economy is creating a class of educated displaced workers who frequently are unable to keep up with the increasing demands of computer technology in their industry. A solution has been found to retrain these employees so that they are once again on the cutting edge. The SCRD gives retraining in Windows Application Development to dislocated workers who are in long term unemployment, recently laid off, or have been affected by a plant closure.

“Computer training is the trend in everything. We try to give the students more computer skills to make them employable again,” said Sheldon Liska, Associate Director of the UC Extension Center.

The course is for a month, eight-hours-a-day, hands-on, intensive computer training course. Instructor Cleveland Smith has created the course to meet the changing needs of the computer industry; and participants are selected by a variety of eligibility and computer aptitude criteria. The project is designed to reach students about the current computer industry, practices, program methodology, and techniques.

Q&A With Pastor Woods

Revelation 20:15 says the devil is cast into the lake of fire with the beast, anti-Christ. Wasn't he already there?

The Lake of Fire?

Racism, hypocrisy, adultery and anger. Sounds like the ingredients for a night-time soap opera, but in fact, these are just a few of the topics tackled in the first ever American African Devotional Bible. Written by more than 200 of the most respected African American Christian scholars, leaders and pastors in the country, this is a unique new work, expounding upon the Biblical text, but making it relevant to modern day life.

This Bible is a new way to repackage the "gospel" for African-Americans who are striving from church to church a long time. A few years ago, the African-American Heritage Bible illuminated the contributions of Blacks in the Bible spanned theological debates on Biblical African versus European Interpretation. In 1993 The Black Chronicles by P.K. McCary translated the Bible word for word and sparked an early controversy on using Exodus to explain the Bible. In June, Associated Press reporter Sonja Barisic wrote a story entitled "Black Churches Are In Crisis." In it, she discussed the concerns of Black clergy who gathered for a Hampton, Virginia symposium where they complained of outdated worship practices, of non-Black clergy not taking the lead inBlack churches as a result of interdenominational cooperation, of lack of full-time preachers to head churches, etc. To add to those problems a low church attendance. A 1995 Gallup poll found showed only 35% of Blacks attended church regularly compared to 70% in a 1980 poll.

The world's leading Bible publisher, Zondervan Publishing House (a division of HarperCollins) created this Bible, comprised of 250 daily and 52 week-end devotionals tailored to the essence of Black culture. To accomplish this feat, Zondervan enlisted the aid of the Washington, D.C.-based Congress of National Black Churches (CNBC) which represents over 19 million people and 65,000 churches from eight Black religious denominations to coordinate the composition of the devotions. According to the American Church Society, more than 20 million Bibles are sold annually worldwide, with $50 million in sales in the United States alone. This Bible retails for $19.95 and is available nationally via such chains as B. Dalton Bookstores, Walden Books, and Christian Family Bookstores.

Question & Answers

QUESTION: Dear Pastor Woods; Revelation 19:20 states the beast and anti-Christ are cast into the Lake of Fire. Later in Revelation 20:10 it says that the devil will be chained for 1,000 years. Then Revelation 20:10 says the devil is cast into the lake of fire with the beast, anti-Christ. Want to be right there? Pat. San Bernardino

ANSWER: No Revelation 19:20 says the beast (who is the anti-Christ) and the false prophet were cast into the Lake of Fire. After 1,000 years of being chained, and after the last hour is known to mankind, the devil is cast into the Lake of Fire to join the beast (anti-Christ) and the false prophet. Them they will be "bitterened day and night forever."

Maxwell Rocks the Greek Theatre

Over 6,000 fans filled the Greek Theatre on Sunday evening to be thrilled and mesmerized by the new artist, Maxwell. For a new jack to hit the scene packing concert venues throughout the country, like a veteran offering superior performances, is indicative of the beginnings of a long bright future in the business.

Radio staples of his hit "Ascension (Don't Ever Wonder)" and the chart clinger "Summthin' Summthin'," in addition to his cuts on "Urban Hang Suite," on the Columbia label, has already dropped with a Prince-like stage presence. Maxwell played to the audience, gyrating, spinning, and cheered as Maxwell flexed his sex appeal and choreography, theatrics, and vocal challenges.

Maxwell and his ten piece band incorporated grooves.

Miki Howard

There is nothing standing in the way of his hunger for '70s retro-soul, soothing and supple "Sumthin' Sumthin,'" in addition to his cuts on "Nothing to Write About," with Terrence Trent D'Arby. Listen for Chaka Khan and Dinah Washington.

Miki Howard Don't Count Her Out!

The first time I met Miki Howard was in 1992. She had just completed a three album contract with Atlantic.

A deal that produced her '86 debut album "Come Share My World," in '87 "Love Confessions," and in '89 she will issue "Miki Howard."

After some label and contractual problems, Howard signed with Giant Records. 1992 began with the release of "Ain't Nobody Like You." While waiting at Sindee's in San Diego, for the first show to start, guests for the second show began arriving, setting off a commotion. The gossip mill began to turn and amongst the commotion, Howard released "Ain't Nobody Like You." While waiting at Sindee's in San Diego, for the first show to start, guests for the second show began arriving, setting off a commotion. The gossip mill began to turn and amongst the commotion, Howard released."Baby Be Mine," "Come Share My World," and "Love Under New Management," just to name a few.

Just when you think you have her down, she has a new occassion. Always entertaining and delighting audiences with her dynamic talents, fluid vocal stylings, and strong melodies and earthy rifts. And now with the release of "You Can't Count Me Out," on A&M Records, you can anticipate the maturation and development of an incomparable artist.

"Get Over You" is sure to be a favorite with a subtle autobiographical edge.

"Something I Never Had" and "Sunshine" are songs written by Howard and is a strong contender for the R&B charts. The album also features the Steve Wonder penned ditty, "Ever Little Thing About You," with Terrence Trent D'Arby.

It’s Not a White Thang

△ The heroes of the hard rock/heavy metal scene include faces of color

By Roberto Carlos Hernandez

These days, rock is not just for whites anymore. For many years, the stereotype was that heavy metal and its ilk was for “white boys” while music like punk had become more and more multicultural in lineup as well as flavor. Vernon Reid, founder of the Black Rock Coalition, took the electric guitar to new heights in the band Living Colour. Combining acid rock and funk styles, MTV got a taste of headbanging/Nubian style. Perhaps the increase in the ethnicity of various types of music spread when Public Enemy all but disappeared with the thrash band Anthrax. Or maybe they helped form their heavy metal band Body Count. Whatever this happened, the fact remains that black music (Industrial, alternative, rap/metal L.A. area bands, are) very Euro-American in origin, that has been gradually changing. Extreme genres of music (industrial, punk) have become more, and more multicultural in makeup as well as flavor. Three Waters Press released The Magic Lamp: How To Make Certain Your Wishes Come True, by Keith Ellis, the first goal-setting guide for people who have set goals.

In 1993 Yale University surveyed its graduating class and discovered that only 3% had written goals. Ten years later, Yale surveyed the same class and found that the 3% who had written goals had attained a net worth greater than that of the other 97% combined. The moral of this story is: Goals work—and almost nobody uses them. The Magic Lamp was written to solve that problem. Dozens of other books already published about goal-setting approach 3% of the population. The Magic Lamp written for everyone else. The theme is straightforward: Goals provide the motivation to keep you going toward where you want to go, but too often they don’t provide the inspiration to get you there. Wishes are different. They have impact—like being struck by lightning instead of by a lightning bug. They let you tap into a source of limitless possibility and boundless energy that gives you the power to accomplish what you might otherwise never have imagined.

Apparently, Ellis’ novel approach works. As explained by Dr. James Thomasson of Georgetown University, “Most finally in a practical guide to the process of existential self-actualization that philosophers tend to lose in a labyrinth of words and systems. Keith Ellis delivers a profound message with wonderful simplicity.” He is accorded by Craig Landrum, President of Bluebird Technologies, who says “My greatest wish is that I found this book years ago.”

Keith Ellis worked his way up the ladder by reading and applying every self-help book he could find. At the age of 28 he became the Chief Marketing Officer for a multimillion dollar computer company. At 34, he became President of his own company, Ellis Training & Development, when he created the nationally acclaimed seminar: The Science of Success Today. Today he is a successful executive and co-owner of an internationally known software company, Bluebird Technologies, and the author of the popular column BOOSTRAPPS, the first self-help column on the Internet. The Magic Lamp is available for $9.95 in fine bookstores or from Three Waters Press at 349 Turkey Ridge Rd. Suite 510, Boston, MA. Or call 800-357-LAMP (7357).
