President Lets Racism Cloud His Mind On Drugs

Douglas H. Ginsburg, recently withdrew his name, after much pressure, for the nomination to the highest court in our land. President Ronald Reagan, a supposed fighter of illegal drugs, said until the end, Ginsburg was honored and it was a loss that within the last eight years, he used illegal drugs. "The boys will be boys attitude."

Reagan's defense of Ginsburg's drug use shows how racism makes you lost all sense of rightness. He admitted when Flack was not confirmed by the Senate he would get someone who, that was just as unequaled. Reagan would neither a conservative racist, drug user on the Supreme Court than to do what is right.

The reason we cannot clean up the drug problem in the United States is because of weak leadership emanating from the White House, who speaks with a forked tongue. Nancy Reagan runs around the country telling school children that illegal drugs are wrong, and her husband defends a drug user. We wish to point out and make it perfectly clear, everyone in the 1980s did not see drugs. In the Black community, drug abuse was not accepted by the leadership, nor the achievers. It wasn't until, recently, younger Blacks, some who weren't even born in the 60's began openly admitting drug use.

Ronald Reagan, Senators, and other so called conservatives tend to accept the conservative-only role when it relates in: voting rights for all citizens, equality of the races, Martin Luther King holiday, Thurgood Marshall's incorporation of the constitution and support of apartheid in South Africa, to name a few.

In all of the above, Reagan and his cronies were involved. Reagan didn't feel he needed a voting rights act, and as long as the Supreme Court nominee thought the same way, drug use or any other character flaws were alright. Equally of the mass should not be, if so the nominee was against equal employment, drug use was okay. Reagan was against the Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday, to commemorate a great hero, who died fighting for changes in law as interpreted by the Supreme Court, but Reagan supported a nominee who would destroy these rights, and opposes the fact be used illegal drugs. Conservatives, who do Reagan's dirty work, blamed Thurgood Marshall for saying the constitution wasn't written for Black people. (how could it, it considered Blacks: 3/5 a person) however, they support an admitted drug user for the Supreme Court to serve with a man of his caliber, who would most assuredly vote against whatever Marshall was for. Reagan, Dole and others support both in South Africa, who will not grants the indigenous people the right to vote in their own land, they would all think alike. There is a big difference. Racism doesn't feel we needed a voting rights act, and as long as the Supreme Court no~inee thought the same way, drug use or any other character flaws were okay.

We maintain a conservative racist in the worst combination there is. The White House thought just because a Senator was White and from the South, they would all think alike. There is a big difference. Racism makes us lose all sense of rightness. The conservative southerners have learned how to separate the two.

The message the President just gave the world is very disturbing. It appears the President has placed a blindfold over his eyes, and forgotten that life is encouraging youngsters to say "NO", he encourages them to say yes. This is a forked-tongue approach.

If a citizen has a problem with drugs, he or she should seek help. Many people have been given marijuana and used cocaine, however their use did not make it okay. In addition, we should expect more from citizens who strive to be on the highest court in our nation. The President's seat should never be used to support something illegal.

The Riverside City Council race is over, the winners have been decided, and the losers have spoken. Good planning, estate commissioners and well informed council members have worked in concert with developers, to make Riverside the beautiful city it is.

We hope the City Council members will remain individual, but remember for the good of the city, the best cooperative efforts are needed to continue to make the city the fastest growing city in the nation.

Moreno Valley News

The City of San Bernardino, Joe Prunoz, City Attorney have come under fire for asking Councilmember Valerie Pope-Ladvln, on conflict of interest matters. Other Councilmembers have somehow been drawn into the fight, and for 96 minutes the sad Councilmember Norman Miller, and Esther Estrada reportedly railed him over the council during a council meeting. Estrada suggested changing the city charter to allow council members to use outside attorneys at taxpayer's expense.

Pena's opinion said Pope-Ladvln should not cast a vote that may broaden the scope of a council committee that is studying the Police Department's effectiveness. Pena said that would be a conflict of interest because Pope-Ladvln has been charged by the police with fraud and grand theft in connection with a land transaction.

We have a City Attorney, who follows the law, and who believes in the Constitution's provision for Black people, (how could it, it considered Blacks: 3/5 a person) however, they support an admitted drug user for the Supreme Court to serve with a man of his caliber, who would most assuredly vote against whatever Marshall was for. Preparation Vital When You Seek A Loan

Whether you're looking to apply for a business or personal loan, you'll fare better if you've already established a relationship with your banker, supply the loan officer with all needed information, and make the best of the personal presentation, according to the November issue of Black Enterprise, Black America's guide to success.

Loan officers are more inclined to give money to a regular customer. "Get to know a key person before you need money," says Warren Smith, executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Boston Bank of Commerce. Smith suggests that loan officers introduce themselves to the branch manager when they open a checking or savings account.

Before you sit down to discuss a loan, says Black Enterprise, contact the officer in front of him or her to explain why you are looking for a loan, and open a checking or savings account.

Getting background information is what slows down the loan process, so "if a person is well prepared, that's impressive," says Smith.

While it's true many leaders aren't color blind, and that redlining is still practiced, "Get to know a key person, and introduce yourself," says Smith. "Our profit margins on these loans are miniscule - 2 to 3 percent from lending, so we want plenty of business." The November issue of Black Enterprise containing the article is available at selected newstands or by sending $1.95 to: Black Enterprise, 130 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10011.

If Shopping For Quality Carpet - Check The Warranties

You've probably heard that the way to tell about a carpet's quality is to check how dense it is made - "the denser the better," traditional wisdom says. But that's an old measure of quality. The most important and effective way to judge a carpet's quality and its potential performance on your floor is to look at the warranties that the manufacturer puts on that carpet. Read the warranties in detail and see just what is covered and what is not. You might be surprised to realize how little protection some of those warranties actually give you once your carpet is installed.

If you want to be sure that the new carpet you buy will stay looking good for years, shop carefully for the warranties, and other standard carpet warranties are important - but they don't give you protection against maring and crushing and other on-the-floor performance problems. For that kind of protection, you need a special performance warranty.

You can learn how to tell which warranties protect you against which problems in a free booklet from Armstrong World Industries called "Understanding Carpet Quality." This booklet is most helpful for anyone considering new carpet, and also indispensable for anyone considering carpet, or thinking about installing it, before your purchase. Ask for a free copy, write Armstrong Consumer Services, P.O. Box 3001, Lancaster, PA 17604. (Our profit margins on these loans are miniscule - 2 to 3 percent from lending, so we want plenty of business.)

King Remembered On 24th Anniversary

Martin Luther King II joined "The Dream Goes On: 24 Years Later," which was the title of a panel affair held in Clearwater, Florida to commemorate the 24th Anniversary of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s March on Washington.

Hundreds of the nation's and world's most outstanding leaders were in attendance to commemorate in song, verse, and dance, and set.

The event was sponsored by the "Evening in Celebration of the Arts Committee" of the Central American Forum.

Hans Jantschek, from the United Nations was on hand to support the cause and greet George Fernandez, Secretary General, JACOS, President of the India Railwayman's Union, and Member of Parliament in New Delhi, India. Fernandez was the site for Parliament while he was in jail with the largest majority ever in India's history, in 1975 Fernandez stood up for democracy.

Jantschek announced at that time, weeks before it was known publicly, that the President of Costa Rica, Oscar Arias, would win the Nobel Peace Prize. The reason stated was that he was the only country to have no army and because Arias was the winner of the Martin Luther King, Jr., United Nations Award.

Fernandez paralleled the lives of King and Gandhi, "Christ set the goal, and Gandhi did the tactics." he said, "give courage to the oppressed, and tried to bring about change in the heart of the oppressed. Without the change of heart there would be no change in the oppressor."

"Martin Luther King, Jr.," he continued, "provided courage to a people who have for centuries been oppressed." He said both men fought for a new society, a new world order, a vision he says has been forgotten.

"Unless there is a dedication to their work there is no hope for India, America or the world."

Dr. Rudman, from the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Non-Violent Social Change, Philadelphia, spoke of how King's thoughts were international, he transcended national boundaries. "It became clear he (King) was a world leader, so they had to kill him. They were afraid of the outcome of a mature world leader," he said. Rudman called for a return of non-violent solutions and called on all nations to petition the United Nations and call for the "21st Century of Non-Violence."

The program was outstanding. Chrisna Kami Kinkaid, dancer, known for her work in CAT'S and other Broadway Productions danced. Criminal Navigation gave a "Tribe to King," Bill Denby and the Los Angeles Gospel Jewels sang as did the famous Amanda Ambose. Ambose also performed, "Never Regret Yesterday," as a duet, and David Pommeranz's tribute was entitled "The Human Family."

The program ended with a $10,000 presentation to Martin Luther King III, and his cousin Derrick King for the Center For Non-Violent Change and the unveiling of an eight-foot portrait depicting Martin Luther King Jr., and Ghandi walking in a meadow with arms around each other's shoulders.

Actor Michaels Roberts, of Beverly Hills, and his wife Pamela were narrators for the event.

3.3 lbs. Presently I am only offering two dolls, one with long hair and one with short hair. The price is $34.99 which includes sales tax and delivery charges through UPS.

In conclusion remember, we do have the choice of changing dolls for our children of their own race and color. We need to consider the benefits of society. In the choices Black and Hispanic children are bombarded with images in movie, toys, books - that tell them theirs is not the preferred race.

Therefore, most heroes like Rambo and He-Man, plus our/busy authority figures such as policeman, teachers, and political figures are White. The message is that authority, beauty, goodness, and power most often have a White face. Our children can learn pride, and self-esteem through creative play, hopefully parents will agree and begin investing in their children's self-esteem.
