Grays Matter To End DD DoD Footdragging On Contract Awards For Blacks

The House Committee on Armed Services on Thursday approved an amendment by U.S. Rep. William H. Gray III (D-Pa.) to the direct the Department of Defense to carry out previous legislation and an executive directive to date at least 5% of its procurements and research and development funds to minority firms and historically Black colleges and universities (HBCUs).

Gray, the Depart- ment of Defense has conceded that its efforts to date to increase minority contractor participation in HBCUs and minority firms in procurement and research and development programs have been inadequate.

"In a memo to the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, "Sugary" Leonard Signs Multi-Year Contract With Coors

Earlier this month I read an account of a speech delivered by the executive officer of a major American manufacturer of photo­graphs. In my sorority, the CEO had not discussed the issues of quality control, responsibility, or the importance of keeping his company's marketing and servicing programs. At the end of his talk, a member of the audience asked, "What has happened to American industry in recent years?" The CEO replied, "It seems that the 400 largest companies are in a state of stagnation, and that the medium-sized companies are doing better than the large ones."

Any of these companies has a high proportion of minority employees and a strong market share in overseas markets. The Japanese corporation that produces machines that are superior to, not because of, its expensive technology, and better served than their own, has become a standard model of American industry in recent years. It seems that the CEO's answer to the question was "What is the future of the 400 largest companies?"

A recent book by a group of the largest companies was titled "The 400 Largest Corporations: The Growth and Stagnation of the World's Industrial Giants." "The 400 Largest Corporations" was considered to be the "good" companies because they dealt with the "products" of the world with great care and confidence.

Drunk Driving Detection Program More Than Just A Sobriety Checkpoint

A crime reduction program implemented November 2, com­prising 17 San Bernardino Police Officers from the specialized units of the Multiple Enforce­ment Team, Traffic and Commu­nity Response Unit is focus­ing on more than getting the drunk driver off the road. Operating on the premise that the majority of crimes are com­mitted by individuals under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, San Bernardino Police expect to make an appreciable impact in the reduction of crime, such as, burglary, ro­bery, domestic violence and traf­fic collisions as a result of the DOJ checkpoint program.

I believe that this union between the school and a student group at the college can do some things that will ease the transition for those who will be future Cal State students. Present at the ceremony were San Bernardino High School’s BSU, which included President - Chris Walton, Treasurer- Hardy Brown Jr. and Vice-President - Darryl Jerigan.

CSUSB’s Black Student Union President Pamela Brown feels the program will enhance the education of the high school students, while giving the college students a sense of purpose by helping the younger people. A Night Of Flight With Dr. J

The Future Foundation is in association with the UCLA Center of Perfor rming Arts who will host a Tribute to basketball’s Julius Erving, Saturday, November 28th at UCLA’s Pauley Pavilion, beginning at 7:00 p.m., Mayor Tom Bradley will join John Wooden, Jack Nicholson, Bill Walton, Jerry West, Joe Smith and Bill Russell, among others in paying tribute to this legendary athlete.

The event will serve to raise funds for The Future Foundation, as well as UCLA’s “Young Black Scholars” effort. The Future Foundation was formed in 1983 and offers underprivileged young people of all ethnic backgrounds the opportunity to develop athletic skills, while learning the principles and “Steps to Success” concept as taught in the Foundation’s Program. Five years, for more than 500 kids annually have been exposed to mastering the fundamentals of sports and a successful direction for one’s life through the program.

According to the Foundation’s Executive Director Noa Naulls, “Dr. J”’s lifestyle exemplifies the same qualities stressed during sessions of Camp Fundamental. “Julius is living proof that excellence in sports is best when as an individual’s lifestyle reflects a moral excellence of the soul and a Godly spiritual guidance. We feel honored that he has chosen to host his farewell tour and respect him,” Naulls said.

Meanwhile, Julius Erving, who’s been a director of the Foundation for over 10 years, is excited about returning for an event other than doing combat with the Lakers. “I’ve battled the Bulls, the Rockets and Willie’s old team, the Celtics, but the biggest fight of my career has been to return for an event other than doing battle as they strive for academic excellence of their bodies, mind and spirit. The Fundamental Foundation scores high marks for providing the vehicle to bring these elements into reality,” Erving said.

Among the sponsors of “A Night In Flight with Dr. J” are A&M’s Jerry Moss, Dr. Jerry West, and Librasport. Tickets for the event are $15, $25 and $35 and are available by contacting (213) UCLA 101 or Tektrum.
