Now - a message to Presi-

that under the agreements in

Health Care Center Holds First Annual Dinner

The first annual dinner of the Island Empire Health Care Center (IEHC) was held at the Ontario Hilton.

"The goal statement says the IEHC is to provide quality medical care for the rural community," said Art Forbes, Executive Director.

The keynote speaker was Sandra Hicks Cox, Vice President and Regional Counsel of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plans, Inc. Cox spoke about why health care is essential. She said the state of health is in critical condition in the United States. Health care providers are struggling to deliver health care.

Physician are overworked, "we are deprived of liberty and too sick to pursue happiness."

She told there is $600 million between Medicare payments and costs, and if paid out as some hospitals have done, it would improve the problems. The problem is not limited to the MedCal population. The denials of a catastrophic illness on the middle-aged or elderly person can totally wipe-out people with a secure future. We can now expect more denials of younger people with the advent of AIDS.

"We can dismantle this nation's two-tiered system," by increasing support for the Island Empire Health Center.

Rides are available daily from public establishments such as restaurants and bars between Wednesday, December 24, and continuing through Friday, January 2nd, from 7:00 pm to 10:00 am.

The Care Unit of The San Bernardino County Hospital has offered the CareCab service for the past three years. The local program is part of the nationwide CareCab campaign which has provided over 57,000 rides during the holidays since 1980.

In spite of the increased awareness surrounding the hazards of drunk driving, people still drink too much around the holidays," says Dick Moorer, CareCab Program Manager.

Kaiser must remain in the forefront of medical service.

"America is on the move and health care is on the way up," she said, "there has been significant progress. Health care is no longer a closed domain. Nurses have entered into the equation, and patients rights are important."

We must demand health care for our community!

Mistress of Ceremonies was Eloise Gomez Reyes, Attorney At Law, with the law firm of Caran, June, and King.

The Friend of the Year Award was presented to Eloise Reed by Rosemary Colunga, Vice Chair of the Board of Directors.

One of his most unique creations is his masks. What makes these masks so unique is the variety of natural materials he uses and by the way he displays them on the wall. When the artist created all these masks he was influenced by the masks of African, Egyptian, and American Indian cultures. The combination of cultural designs, patterns and forms are visually evident in his masks. As an added enhancement to this exhibit one of these masks will be raffled off. You may purchase a raffle ticket at the exhibit. Viewing the works of Charles Bibbs should prove to be a rewarding and enriching experience.

Johnny Stewart Comes to the Inland Empire

The Brothet of the Late Great Billy Stewart

Grounded in gospel music, the product of a music teacher mother, and the good fortune of being born into a talented family describes Johnny Stewart, brother of the late famous Billy Stewart. (I Do Love You and the live version of Summertime.)

Johnny, started his career at the age of four. The four Stewart brothers, under the direction of their mother, who was a music teacher, performed all over his hometown, Washington, D.C. For five years they had their own radio show until brother Billy went on his own.

His brother, Johnny travelled all over the nation with his brother. His career was cut short, he thought, when he had to have a throat operation. Really it was and he went back to school, and obtained an AA degree in Electronic Technology. He designed memory banks for space craft. Two and a half years ago he came to California and was introduced to computer graphics. He got an excited he went back to school and is now proficient in the subject.

However, music is his first love and listening to him singing Summertime following the Black Voice interview brought back many memories. The only thing missing in Johnny's performance was the computer.

One of the first objectives I stress during my first series of lectures, discussions and tapes is that all, we are accountable to society, and the school is a training ground for the life to come. The school is probably the first place some children see required to follow a schedule, these schedule spell out each child's responsibilities. From K thru College and on, they must the schedule established by the people in charge, or fail. Some children fail to get to school on time, or be in their classrooms on time. Some fail to respect the rights of other students. Meanwhile they are developing a negative attitude toward themselves and the society at large. The student must be made to realize that a schedule is a fact of life. One is required in every-day living. Some schedules in the adult world are as follows: go to work, return home, watch TV, and go to sleep.

Then there are the house payments to made, car payments, rent, tax credit cards, etc. If these items are not paid on time, there is a penalty. We all must get to work on time and laws at the proper time. While on that job the adult must respect the rights of his super­ visor and fellow workers. As adults we must obey the laws of nature, spiritual laws, and the laws of health. If we ignore these laws, we can get in trouble. The basic training ground for our children should be the home. When, due to uncontrollable circumstances, the child cannot receive the proper training, we should pitch in and help. We could work in conjunc­ tion with the school, service clubs such as the Lions - club, other parent, and the community at large if we are to reverse this trend toward the self-destruction of our youth.

An important objective of teaching is to prepare the stu­ dent to use skills and knowledge they have learned, and prepare them to learn more about sub­ jects they are being taught. Our over­ all goal should be to send a student away from a learning experience with the desire to learn more. The test is not a simple one, and we all must work toward it.

Learning is an important factor as we assemble our per­ sonal psychological picture of ourselves. We can't fool ourselves. The majority of the youth know right from wrong, as well as many other adults. We either learn to hate ourselves for the harm we do, or love ourselves for the good we do, and only the individual knows. It is a burdensome thought that self-confidence is not destroyed during one experience, but is handed over another person. Self-confidence is not renewed until a period of time, through a number of failures. Effort to change oneself in the direction toward their fellow beings, I am grateful for. This has happened often when there is no valid reason to hate the others.

Our task as educators is not only to understand the student and explain to them how a per­ son develops negative self-confidences, but to let the student and society know that what ever is learned, can be useful. We can trace to learn each other, we must.

A Tribute To Floyd Brown
February 15, 1907 - December 1, 1987

Some people dream dreams and say if I only had been born rich I would have accomplished great things.

Floyd Brown dreamed dreams of making this world a better place. He finished high school only after his nine children were grown. He never went to college, and he was not a academic scholar.

He was raised on a sharecropper's farm in Jones County North Carolina and grew up with great insight in human behavior and what made people tick.

He started early in life volunteering his time with baseball teams he organized. For the past fifty years he held every position possible in the local Boy Scouts of America. He served his Elks and Mason Lodges faithfully. He was still until his death serving as a Steward and Sunday School teacher at St. Matthew AME Zion Church.

At the age of 72, after the medical doctors gave up on his life, he answered God's call into the ministry and served preaching the gospel about the "good news".

For the past thirty years every local, state and national politician seeking votes out of a three county area would seek guidance and counsel from Floyd Brown.

He would sit for hours and talk about his experiences before Blacks were allowed to vote in Jones County. However, he never blamed an entire race of people for the faults of a few and always spoke of those Whites who were helping the cause for voting rights.

When politicians came to the house he built with his own hands in the 1930's he never apologized for not having material things. He said, "good people accept you for what you stand for, not for your material wealth.

Floyd Brown was the kind of man every man wants his daughter to marry, every girl and boy would want as a brother, every parent wants as a son, and the kind of family man every family needs. He was the kind of man who had so much love for mankind he shared it with the world.

It gives us great pleasure to share this brief tribute to a great human being, who answered God's call and closed his eyes December 1, 1987, he was 80 years old.

He leaves to cherish his memory, a loving wife, nine children, 39 grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren and host of other relatives and friends.

We thank you dad for your dream!

Publisher's Father Receives State's Highest Honors

N.C. Gov. Hunt and Elks Honor Floyd Brown

Reprinted from Black Voice News December 30, 1982 issue

By Vanester Smith

NORTH CAROLINA

When the Governor of North Carolina sets aside a day in honor of any individual, it is a big day, when the person lives in the state, it is a double honor, because the Governor's proclamation is usually saved, for high powered visitors to the state. Add to that special award, the presentation of the Order of Long Life Pine, the highest award the state gives to its citizens for outstanding service to the State and add to this that this person is your father, then you really have a combination which can't be beat and you see how Floyd Brown of North Carolina and Hardy Brown, publisher of the Black Voice feel about what happened on December 5, 1982.

When Governor Jim Hunt heard that Zeno Council no.16 of the Elks (IBPOE) were planning to honor, Past Exalted Ruler, and Past State President, Floyd Brown he seized the opportunity to make the special award for his outstanding contributions to the Governor's office and the state in working to make the quality of life better for all "Tarheels," according to Ben Ruffin, the Governor's assistant.

Ruffin said, in a special telephone interview with the Black Voice, "Mr. Floyd Brown is among the few Black's in the state to receive the Order of the Long Leaf Pine and to have a day declared for any native is unheard of, I can safely say he is the first Black man in Jones County to have this honor."

Further Ruffin said the Governor highly respects Mr. Brown, he has been a leader and supporter since the early days, and he has stuck with him since before he ran for Lt. Governor.

"You don't know what he means to young guys in North Carolina, he is a role model, a symbol of hope - remember he came from a time when a Black person had to count the bubbles in a bar of soap in order to vote and now North Carolina has over 400 Black elected officials and 3 Black Sheriffs," Ruffin said emphatically.

St. Matthew A.M.E. Zion Church was the place for the tribute. The church was overflowing with people. The Sunday morning service was opened by Rev. Richardson and St. Matthew choir and after missionary offering the Elks took charge. P.G.E.R. Alexander Foxe was splendid as the master of Ceremonies. As is traditional, the Elks gave a large donation to the church.

In addition to the proclamation, which said in part, Floyd Brown is a symbol of strength and courage, wisdom and understanding and particularly recognized his unending battle against bigotry, in the state, he was presented with awards from Zeno Council no. 16, and a Certificate of Award from New River Lodge No. 1109 District Number 1.

Brown received flowers from Judge and Mrs. Walter Henderson, of Trenton, a bouquet of balloons from the Senior Citizens, a money collar, and money from Zeno Temple 166 of New Bern and No. 1101 of Beaufort, N.C. plus many individual gifts.

Telegrams were received from Senator Harold Hardison of Deep Run, Congressman Charlie Whitley of Mt. Olive, Judge Henderson of Trenton and Judge William Stevenson.

State Representative Wendell Murphy spoke and presented him with a famous North Carolina smoked ham.

Who is this man and what has he done to deserve such honors, one may ask. He is a kind simple man with a genuine love for his fellow man and a man who bloomed after retirement as a janitor in the public school.

He is a Sunday School Superintendent, class leader, chairperson of the Usher Board, teacher of the adult class and Trustee in his church. For 34 years he was a boy scout leader and received many awards including the Greenband award for service. He has been an influential member of the Jones County Voters League, served as Chairman for several years and presently serves as Vice Chairman.

He is currently a member of the 100 Club of Jones County, board member of White Oak Medical Center, a member of the Jones County Board of Elections and has served two terms on the Jones County Jury Commission.

He has devoted much of his life to Senior Citizens affairs, activities, and concerns.

He is presently President of the United Tri-County Senior Citizens organization, a member of the Jones County Council on Aging and a member of the North Carolina Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging.

He has been affiliated with the Elks Lodge and served as Exalted Ruler of Trent River Lodge No. 134 and a member of Enloe's Past State President's Council.

Additionally, he is a member and key person of the 1st and 3rd Congressional District's Black Caucus. He headed up the Jimmy Carter campaign in 3 counties. He is one of those people Carter didn't forget when he won the Presidency, once he personally called him to extend an invitation to join him for a function in Raleigh, N.C., however Mr. Brown was very ill and could not attend.

Gov. Hunt says he has been a staunch supporter of the Democratic Party, and has never wavered in his support.

He and his wife of 52 years live in the same house he built some 40 years ago while he was sharecropping. Nine of the eleven living children born to them live in North Carolina, California, and Maryland.

"I just didn't expect it to be that big," said Brown, who was well pleased and pleasantly surprised with the event.
