Construction progresses on the new Jack Brown Businesses and Information Sciences building.

Sports Information position filled under reorganization

by John Andrews
Chronicle senior writer

Six months after terminating the Sports Information Director's position under a cloud of "reorganization" and "reassignment," the Athletic Department has filled it again.

In a statement issued by the Public Affairs Department early this fall, Cal State, San Bernardino student, thirty-something Barry said that he was "in the closet," but he was gay. Most of his family and acquaintances do not know. Barry realized that the majority of people in our society have come to accept and expect. Some people are "queer," some are flamboyant and some are world-champion bodybuilders.

Barry, who is thin but rugged-looking even admits to discriminating against gays who are obviously effeminate or flamboyant. "I guess it just depends on the individual," he said.

One question he is asked frequently is, "What causes homosexuality?" The medical profession has been trying to answer this for years. In the book "When Someone You Know Is Gay" by Susan Cohen, the causes and various explanations of homosexuality are traced through history.

In the 1880 homosexuality was regarded as an illness or mental disorder. But through sciences such as psychotherapy, its causes were reexamined in the 1960s and homosexuality was no longer considered a mental illness.

At this point in time, nobody really knows the causes, though there are quite a few theories ranging from Freudian ideas of strong mothers and weak fathers to glandular hormonal imbalances or extra chromosomes. Because homosexuality is so widely spread and found in almost every racial, religious, and ethnic group, most experts agree that it is not caused by environmental factors such as family relationships. Experts also seem to agree that homosexuality is a lifelong condition. This is one point that Barry disagrees, reflecting on his own personal experience.

Barry says he has not been gay his entire life. In fact, it seemed he led a very "normal" heterosexual lifestyle until he was in his late twenties. He was even engaged to be married at one time, but the relationship ended for undisclosed reasons.

"I never had gay tendencies; I just eventually fell into a relationship with someone who happened to be of the same sex. I don't people are gay, but in my case it was a definite conscious decision that wasn't easy to make." Barry says he was raised in a religious environment but his beliefs for a long time and he could have another relationship this year, but the relationship ended for undisclosed reasons. Barry explained, "There are gay people who search just for sexual encounters, just like there are straight people who search for one-night stands. But that is only a small portion of the homosexual community, as it is with the heterosexual community." He also believes that "relationships should be bound by love, not sex." He claims that is possible he could have another relationship with a woman if he is currently two years old.

Eight months after terminating the position in April, Suenram told The Chronicle that he didn't know whether the position will be filled next year or not and that there were "numerous considerations yet to be made." Based on his remarks, it appeared that the future of the position was uncertain and local media responded with doubts about whether they could give Cal State Athletics publicity without it.

In the statement announcing the filling of the position, Suenram said the elimination of the position in April was a reallocation of resources and that the Athletic Department "never lost the position." According to Suenram, two factors determined his department's ability to fill the position.

"We were able to work around the budgetary constraints by cutting the position from 15 months to 10 months," he said. "That was the only savings involved." The second factor, according to Suenram, essential in hiring a new SID was the resignation of Beyer last April was unexpected in light of the department's explanation for the termination of the position at that time.

Following Beyer's resignation, the position was uncertain and local media responded with doubts about whether they could give Cal State Athletics publicity without it.

Barry disagrees, reflecting on his own personal experience. Barry says he has not been gay his entire life. In fact, it seemed he led a very "normal" heterosexual lifestyle until he was in his late twenties. He was even engaged to be married at one time, but the relationship ended for undisclosed reasons.

"I never had gay tendencies; I just eventually fell into a relationship with someone who happened to be of the same sex. I don't people are gay, but in my case it was a definite conscious decision that wasn't easy to make." Barry says he was raised in a religious environment but his beliefs for a long time and he could have another relationship this year, but the relationship ended for undisclosed reasons. Barry explained, "There are gay people who search just for sexual encounters, just like there are straight people who search for one-night stands. But that is only a small portion of the homosexual community, as it is with the heterosexual community." He also believes that "relationships should be bound by love, not sex." He claims that is possible he could have another relationship with a woman if he is currently two years old.

Eight months after terminating the position in April, Suenram told The Chronicle that he didn't know whether the position will be filled next year or not and that there were "numerous considerations yet to be made." Based on his remarks, it appeared that the future of the position was uncertain and local media responded with doubts about whether they could give Cal State Athletics publicity without it.

In the statement announcing the filling of the position, Suenram said the elimination of the position in April was a reallocation of resources and that the Athletic Department "never lost the position." According to Suenram, two factors determined his department's ability to fill the position.

"We were able to work around the budgetary constraints by cutting the position from 15 months to 10 months," he said. "That was the only savings involved." The second factor, according to Suenram, essential in hiring a new SID was the resignation of Beyer last April was unexpected in light of the department's explanation for the termination of the position at that time.

Following Beyer's resignation, the position was uncertain and local media responded with doubts about whether they could give Cal State Athletics publicity without it.
Finding food on campus

Update: Students warn that the parking lots recommended in last week's column may be among the most theft-prone. Maybe that's why there are no cars in those spaces. Play it safe, ride a bike. A very cheap bike.

Enough of parking. It's lunchtime, you have twenty minutes between "A Survey of Herman Melville" and "Perspectives on Race, Gender, and Pet Preference." Where do you eat?

Most students discover the Pub first, which is located in the Student Union, just north of University Hall.

While the Pub is the only place on campus where you can legally consume alcohol (a big selling point after that Melville class) it isn't the only place to eat.

The Pub offers deli sandwiches, Mexican food, pizza, and a buffet that changes from day to day. They also grill fresh hamburgers and sausages outside. Often the lines are long at meal times, it takes a few minutes to grill a burger, and all the tables will be full. You've only got twenty minutes, remember?

No problem, pass through the Student Union and cross the street to that two story building with the funny geometric shapes on the roof. This is the Commons, the main food service facility on campus.

Dorm students do eat here, but the Commons are open to everyone for breakfast, lunch, and dinner. You can pay cash by item, use your Coyote Card or take them up on their all-you-can-eat "Commons meal deal."

Food here is certainly no worse than at the Pub, and the variety is greater. Besides fresh grilled burgers, deli items, and salad bar, there are main dishes and some interesting "mystery casseroles." Use your judgement.

Lines are generally shorter than at the Pub and move quicker. Plus, there are far more empty tables. There is even a full-service restaurant in the Alder Room between 11:30 and 1pm.

"Melville" was in the library, and your "Perspectives" class is in PS10. Even on a bike, it's going to be tough to get to the Commons, eat, and make it back in twenty minutes.

In the basement of the Pfau Library, is a decent assortment of vending machines, some that even serve sandwiches. Does anyone know the half-life of a tuna sandwich?

You'll find a better arrangement on the first floor of the Biology Building, right next to Physical Sciences.

They have the same kind of machines as the library, but they also sell canned foods and-burritos that you can heat up in the microwave right across from the soda machine.

This location also provides six large tables, paper plates, and even plastic forks and knives. Bring your own leftovers to zap.

Of course, you can always drive to the many good restaurants on the corner of University and Kendall, but then you've lost your parking space and will have to read last week's column again.

Next week: Santa Ana winds are coming; are you ready?

Rotary International provides Fijian student scholarship support

by Jeff Freeman
Chronicle staff writer

The Rotary International Foundation has sent a graduate student from Fiji to Cal State, San Bernardino to complete the academic work for an MA degree in Vocational Education in Rehabilitation Counseling.

Mohammed Irshad Ali received a full scholarship for one year to complete 48 units required for the degree. The work load he has accepted is very challenging and includes an extensive research project dealing with the Service Delivery System in Counseling.

"Sixteen units a quarter in the master's program is a full time job. I have little time for anything but studying, eating and sleeping," Irshad said.

Back in Fiji, 37 year old Irshad left his wife and three children at home. "It was an incredibly difficult decision to make, but a free university education is hard to pass up. When I phone home my children are always crying for me to return. This really hurts," Irshad said.

The Rotary International selects Students who are academically outstanding, who have demonstrated exemplary leadership qualities, and have high ethical ideals.

Irshad is currently on leave without pay from his position as Training and Assessment officer for the Fiji Rehabilitation Workshop. Prior to that he was an elementary teacher and a vocational training and placement instructor in the Fiji School for the Blind.

Irshad enjoys reading, writing, fishing, and motor mechanics. In addition to his studies and ambassadorial duties for Rotary, he is interested in opportunities to work with disabled people during his year of study here at Cal State (both to help offset the high cost of living away from his family and simply because he enjoys helping people).

Irshad would like to give special thanks to the Rotary International Foundation for giving him the opportunity for an education with specialized skills and knowledge to aid the people in his homeland.

GET MONEY FROM YOUR UNCLE INSTEAD.

Your Uncle Sam. Every year, Army ROTC awards scholarships to hundreds of talented students. If you qualify, these merit-based scholarships can help you pay tuition and educational fees. They even pay a flat rate for textbooks and supplies. You can also receive an allowance of up to $1000 each school year the scholarship is in effect. Find out today if you qualify.

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

For a scholarship application contact Major Willis, Army ROTC, at (714) 860-5533.
The Politics of the American Pastime

by Kevin Kelley
Chronicle staff transient

As it stands I travel in the street for a good seventy yards dodging traffic until I reach the nearest curb discriminates way that prevents me from getting on our campus. As it is now I have to jump off my wheelchair and use a wheelchair. The college experience is about more than making money. It is about making a difference in one’s self and in one’s community. College is about making relationships, connections that preserve meaning in the midst of confusion.

We endure fee increases, course offerings decreases, registration hassles and an unsettled campus with despondent acceptance. We blame government and school officials for financial and academic distresses—but we don’t write to them to express our feelings. We blame student government and student life programs for the lack of student power and campus activity—but we ignore these organizations. We easily accept the role of victims.

We must not excuse ourselves in this way. We are college students, intelligent and motivated, not suited to be victims, but suited to be catalysts of change.

The college experience is about more than making money. It is about making a difference in one’s self and in one’s community. College is about making relationships, connections that preserve meaning in the midst of confusion.

We can discard our sense of helplessness and accept the challenge of involvement and leadership. There are involvement and leadership opportunities all over campus—The Associated Students, Student Union Boards, Campus clubs and The Chronicle.

We can become catalysts of change through involvement. Involvement is the antidote to apathy.

Letter

Curb discriminates

Editor:

All I want to do is cross the street with the rest of the students and utilize the short cut west of the dorms.

This can not be accomplished if you’re disabled and use a wheelchair.

You see there is something called a curb in my way that prevents me from getting on our campus. As it stands I travel in the street for a good seventy yards dodging traffic until I reach the nearest entrance to get on campus. Now after a while this becomes a real drag to say the least. Most students worry about the math final, I on the other hand worry about if it will be my final trip to school.

Discrimination is not a pleasant concept, however if the shoe fits wear it. Last year, I was in a meeting where this issue was brought up and addressed. I was told by the head of planning, “I recognize the problem and I will take care of it.”

The head of SSD (Services for Students with Disabilities) then asked, “What would you like us to do on our part?”

“Nothing, I will take care of it,” the head of planning said.

There are many other obstacles we as disabled students face daily, this is just one of them.

Shannon Bryan
"My Mom, she thinks all I ever do is go through 'phases.' You changed your major again? Now it's Ethnic Dance Forms? When are you going to come to your senses and pick something sensible? (Sigh) Well, I guess it's just another phase. So I told her, 'Give me a break Ma. I mean I kept the same phone company all four years... She was impressed.'

No matter what phase of college life you're in, AT&T can help you through it. Just choose AT&T Long Distance. And you'll become a member of AT&T Student Saver Plus, a line of products and services designed specifically to meet your needs while you're in college.

Our ReachOut Plans can save you money on AT&T Long Distance, no matter when and where you call. Call Manager will separate your AT&T Long Distance calls from those your roommates make. The AT&T Calling Card lets you call from almost anywhere to anywhere. Also, when you sign up for AT&T, your first call is free.*

And with AT&T, you'll get the most reliable long distance service. So ask about AT&T Student Saver Plus. You too, will be impressed.

If you're an off-campus student, sign up for AT&T Student Saver Plus by calling 1800 654-0471 Ext. 848.
You can load your shelves with these,

- $1759
  Apple Macintosh PowerBook 145 4/40
  - Includes 12" color monitor. Usb includes a 13" color monitor and extended keyboard.

- $928
  Apple Macintosh Classic II

- $1442
  Apple Macintosh LC II
  - 504 a gallon! He's mad! I commute 45 miles to school and then back home again every day. At that pace I would be cheaper for my folks to rent an off-campus apartment for me.

- $1980
  Apple Macintosh Ilis
  - Off-campus apartment.

or buy a Macintosh that's already loaded.

- $1759
  Apple Macintosh PowerBook 145 4/40
  - Includes 12" color monitor. Usb includes a 13" color monitor and extended keyboard.

- $928
  Apple Macintosh Classic II

- $1442
  Apple Macintosh LC II
  - But hurry, because student aid like this is only available through Oct. 15, 1992, and only from your authorized Apple campus reseller.

- $1980
  Apple Macintosh Ilis
  - You can load your shelves with these.

Get a great value on your choice of these Apple* Macintosh* computers which include over 400 worth of preloaded software: The American Heritage Dictionary with Roget's Thesaurus, the Random House Encyclopedia, Correct Grammar, ResumeWriter and Calendar Creator.

For more information come to the Coyote Computer Corner at Coyote Bookstore or contact Gene, Betty or Judy at 880-5986.

LCI Includes 12" color monitor. Ilis includes a 13" color monitor and extended keyboard.
If I were a woman from San Francisco, I would vote for leftist, status quo politicians. When the records of these candidates are scrutinized, the answer is obvious.

When you change the point of view, you change your checkbook. There are some things that we do when we vote for a candidate. We may be making our first visit to the polls. And, as with such important duties as parallel parking and tire rotation, these new voters will keep up with the candidates' speeches through the news paper or broadcast network.

In about two weeks, the voters of California will play their part in selecting 47 U.S. Representatives, two U.S. Senators, an odd number of State Legislators, and our next President. The Chronicle urges everyone to vote.

Submitted by Neiland Deny, Chronicle staff writer

A guide to...STUDY THE CAIFORNIA BALLOT PAMPHLET. This pamphlet, published by the California Secretary of State, expands the statewide constitution.

Some things that Bush did I didn't like, but I prefer him over Clinton. And I just don't like Perot, period.
Good ol' boys fear emasculation

by Amy Heritage
Chronicle managing editor

Our open-minded and well-respected commentator has implied that Congresswoman Barbara Boxer's candidacy for U.S. Senate is a "female-chauvinist (Feminist) ploy for leftist, status quo politicians." Well, I'm a feminist, why wasn't I let in on all this? And why wasn't feminist Gloria Steinem let in on all this? She said at a fundraiser recently that this is not the year of the woman in politics. To me "The Year of the Woman" is a disjointed concept since women and men are so interconnected. The term "women's politics" refers to family issues and to issues concerning violent crimes against women, both of which almost always involve a male somewhere.

Maybe what the political pundits who came up with "The Year of the Woman" really mean is "The Year of Non-exclusive Male Domination" but are afraid to say it.

The Boxer-basher isn't afraid to say it. He and his gool boy, Herschensohn, openly fear "emasculating"...Herschensohn said, "The mission of the military is to bring about victory." Well, the thousands of women who served in the Persian Gulf War brought about victory, and Schwartzkopf doesn't seem any less manly because of it.

What else do the good ol' boys fear? Herschensohn fears citizens having choice and control over their own bodies. Yet he does not fear the mixture of poverty and weapons. He is anti-abortion and opposes aid to riot-torn neighborhoods, but would ease gun control laws so that people can arm themselves with more lethal weapons.

Herschensohn does not fear foreign trade but does fear foreign attack. He opposes trade barriers yet would increase the defense budget. He favors Star Wars and would build more B-2s.

Herschensohn does not fear destruction of the environment or deterioration of education. He supports off-shore drilling and would close the Environmental Protection Agency as well as the Departments of Education and Energy.

And, from the hostile tone of the Boxer-basher column, I'd venture to say that the good ol' boys fear a victory by Boxer. The Boxer-basher asks if gender has an impact on a candidate's performance. Personally, I doubt that it has any more impact on the performance of a politician (or TV personality) than it does on a soldier.

Although... Boxer has proved that today's Democrats actively support family values. She wrote the Reinvestment in American Education Bill, which would increase the availability of college loans and improve our elementary and secondary schools. She is the sponsor of the Violence Against Women Act which would help local law enforcement agencies bring sexual offenders to justice while protecting victims of sexual and domestic violence.

I can see the reason for the good ol' boys' fear of education and physical protection for citizens. After all, if they keep us ignorant and/or worrying about our basic needs in Maslow's hierarchy, it will keep us from voting Democratic.

What I don't understand is the fear of saving American jobs. Boxer is working to keep McDonnell-Douglas and its fifty thousand jobs in California. She has called for investing in military savings in worker retraining programs. She supports tax incentives for defense contractors that diversify their business.

As in the past, the Boxer-basher has taken irrelevant statistics to give bulk to his radical opinions. Boxer's questioning career could have earned her the highest honor that a liberal (or any other dedicated person, for that matter) could hope to accomplish: NUMBER ONE SAVER in the United States Congress awarded annually by the National Taxpayers' Union.

During her first term in Congress she exposed billions of dollars in waste, including the Pentagon's $7,600 coffee pots. Her Spare Parts Procurement Reform Act saved the taxpayers millions. She wrote the law that stopped corrupt defense contractors from billing their legal fees to the taxpayers. Most recently, as a member of the House Democratic Caucus on Government Waste, she led the fight that cut over $1 billion in administrative overhead expenses in government agencies.
No matter where you happen to be, the AT&T Calling Card can take you home. It's also the least expensive way to call state-to-state on AT&T, when you can't dial direct. With the new AT&T Call and Save Plan, you'll get special discounts on AT&T Calling Card calls. And once you have your card, you'll never need to apply for another.

If you get your Calling Card now, your first call will be free. And you'll become a member of AT&T Student Saver Plus, a program of products and services that saves students time and money. All of which makes the AT&T Calling Card out of this world.

To get an AT&T Calling Card for off-campus calling, call 1800 654-0471 Ext. 850.
Barry
Continued from page 1
sexual relationships. Barry holds to the theory of "to each his own" pertaining to both homosexuals and heterosexuals, adding, "there are no roles because sex is not the basis for the relationship."

The issues of marriage and raising children in the gay and lesbian community has gotten a significant amount of media attention in recent years. There are many gay and lesbian couples who believe they should be able to get married and raise families. "The problem with these issues is that they go against the norms and values of our society," Barry said.

"I think that gay and lesbian couples should have the same rights and privileges of heterosexual couples such as marriage, sharing insurance and mortgage policies, etc. But I also realize that it would be 'rocking the boat' in our society to fight for these rights."

He believes that sexual orientation should not be the deciding factor in who is going to be a good parent. "Gay and lesbian couples should be able to raise children as long as the children are taught all facts of life—not just theirs."

As Barry reflected on his life of being gay in a straight society, his voice lowered as he said, "I am just an individual who shares many of the same beliefs about life and love in general. I want to live my life the fullest—just like you. If everyone could just accept the fact that there are many different cultures around the world that are different from their own, then the world would be a better place."

PASTIME
Continued from page 1
great nickname... the Braves. Umrr. Warpaint. True Americans, on horseback and fighting till the death. Jays. Well isn't that just pretty. (If you follow because you are too lazy to look, then you are a waste. Make a decision based on knowledge.)

Next thing we know, those Canadians may be in the boat in our society to fight for these rights."

He believes that sexual orientation should not be the deciding factor in who is going to be a good parent. "Gay and lesbian couples should be able to raise children as long as the children are taught all facts of life—not just theirs."

As Barry reflected on his life of being gay in a straight society, his voice lowered as he said, "I am just an individual who shares many of the same beliefs about life and love in general. I want to live my life the fullest—just like you. If everyone could just accept the fact that there are many different cultures around the world that are different from their own, then the world would be a better place."

A STUDENT CHECKING AND VISA PACKAGE ONLY AT WELLS FARGO.

College is expensive enough as it is. That's why Wells Fargo has designed Student ATM Checking just for you—at only $4.50 per month. Do all your banking through the Wells Fargo Express ATM and you'll get:

• Checking free of monthly service charges every summer until you graduate.
• Unlimited checkwriting with no minimum balance and no per-check charge. And free check storage.
• Free access to more than 1600 Wells Fargo Express ATMs statewide.
• Convenient 24-Hour person-to-person phone service.

You can also apply for a special Student Visa card:
• First year free membership when you sign up for overdraft protection.
• All students—even entering freshmen—are eligible to apply.

Promotional giveaways while supplies last. Offer expires 10/15/92. $5.00 additional per-month service charge if one or more transactions are made in a Wells Fargo branch. Proof of college enrollment and other qualifying criteria required for Student Visa application. Ask for details.

WELLS FARGO BANK

Come see Wells Fargo on campus
September 21-23 at the bookstore.
Or stop by your local Wells Fargo branch today:
San Bernardino Main Office, 334 West 3rd Street, (714) 384-4805

Page 9 The Chronicle October 19, 1992
The Renaissance Group
Evans leads education team

Cal State, San Bernardino President Anthony H. Evans is the newly elected chairman of the Renaissance Group, a national coalition of 17 universities that educate eight percent of America’s teachers and are dedicated to excellence in teacher education. Representing one of the five charter universities that formed the organization three years ago, Evans will lead the group for two years.

Comprised of universities with strong teacher education programs, the Renaissance Group is striving toward the restoration of quality education at all levels. Specifically, the group will concentrate on preparing teachers for today’s “new American student” and experimenting with new and innovative model schools.

The Renaissance Group’s initiatives for improving teacher preparation are expected to have implications for mathematics
and the sciences,
multicultural education, early childhood education, instructional technology and public-
private partnerships,
among other areas.

Evans looks fortward to expanding the influence of the Renaissance Group, whose members already have been instrumental in the Teach America Conference and the implementation of the America
2000 goals.

“Working closely with the presidents, acadeic vice presidents
and education deans
from key universities from all regions of the nation is a challenge that I relish,” Evans said.

“No segment of education is more deserving of such priority attention.”
Catch the campus entertainment

by Michelle Vandraais
Chronicle staff writer

If there is a curiosity in one's mind as to what is going on with campus entertainment, here is the place to look. Each month, this will be the place to look to find out what's going on.

For starters, Wednesday, Oct. 21, the Dead Milkmen will be performing from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Lower Commons Plaza. It will be a comedy/concert that should prove to be entertaining. Admission is free.

Now all of you who live in the residence halls, on Thursday, Oct. 22, there will be a Country Line Dancing Workshop. It will be held in the Village Square from 7 to 8 p.m. for only $1.00. Learn the latest line dances and meet new people. No partners are needed. If you are interested, call Sasha to sign up at x 5954, or ask your R.A. for details.

On Thursday, Oct. 29, from 8 to 10 p.m. comedianna and actress, Suzi Landolphi, will be performing her one woman comedy event, "Hot, Sexy and Safer." Through her extensive AIDS and Safer Sex Education work and her experience as an actor and director in theater and television, she has created a performance that educates as well as entertains. Her bawdy and funny style helps to drive home the importance of responsibility regarding AIDS and HIV. The show is sponsored by Associated Student Productions and the Student Union Program Board. For more information, contact David Timms at the ASI office or Rick Morat at the Student Life Office x 5243. Admission is free.

On Tuesday, Nov. 3, come to Coffee House II from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Upper Commons. Poetry readings and other events will take place, along with fine coffee. Admission is free.

On Wednesday, Nov. 4, will be Native American Indian Day. Shows will be at 12 and 2 p.m. in front of the Student Union.

On Thursday, Nov. 5, King Arthur will be performing at Wylie's Pub. They will be performing from 8 to 11 p.m. Admission is free.

On Friday, Nov. 6, will be University Day. Once more, King Arthur will be performing. Performance will be from 12 to 1:15 p.m. in front of the Student Union.

The Theater Arts Department will be performing "Our Town." Opening night will be Friday, Nov. 6 at 8:15 p.m. It will run until Nov. 15. On Nov. 6, 7, 11, 12, 13, and 14, showtime is at 8:15 p.m. On Nov. 8 and 15, showtime is at 2 p.m.

On Wednesday, Nov. 11, in the Student Union, will be "Fun Flicks." This is a totally interactive video in which students make their own MTV style video and mini movies and walk away with the their video tapes. You participate in performing many special effects that you only see in the movies. You can do things such as flying like Superman to walking in space. Your chance to do this is all for free from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Student Union Lounge Area.

---

Twin Panda

Chinese Restaurant

4295 N. Sierra Way, San Bernardino (1 block North of 40th St.)

High quality food at competitive prices!

Special lunches from $3.75 served with soup of the day, egg roll, fried wonton and rice, your choice of one entree and tea and fortune cookie. Bring in this ad for 10% off on any dinner over $10. (Not valid Friday nights.)
The Dead

IN CONCERT

Time: 8:00 p.m.

Date: Wed. Oct. 21

Place: Lower Commons Plaza

Tickets: Free

Win With Butterfinger

Get a concert ticket or other fun prize FREE with 5 full-size 2.1 or 3.8 oz. Butterfinger candy wrappers. Visit the Butterfinger booth for details and to star in your own music video.

Prizes are subject to availability and may be substituted.

PRODUCED BY CONTEMPORARY