A.S. Students To Travel To Washington D.C.

Ten student leaders from throughout California will travel to Washington, D.C. this week to meet with members of the California Congressional delegation, Senators Cranston and Hayakawa, and other policy makers in the federal government. Although it is an annual event, this year's trip has become especially significant because of President Reagan's budget proposals. "What we will be doing," says CSCSB A.S. President Tim Hamre, a member of the delegation, "is personally conveying to our elected representatives the response of California's students to Mr. Reagan's proposals.

Of primary concern to the delegation are proposals for deep cuts in most federal financial aid programs. At CSCSB there are about 1000 students on financial aid programs who could be affected by these cuts. Other concerns include the proposed elimination of Social Security Student Survivor benefits, the elimination of any student eligibility for food stamps, and a proposal to allow sub-minimum wages for many jobs in which students are employed. CSCS student leaders are also concerned that Reagan's proposal for tuition tax credits could have a disastrous impact on the publicly supported, tuition-free California State University and Colleges.

Other issues which will be covered during the trip include funding programs for campus housing, truth in testing legislation, and draft registration.

"The issues we will be dealing with," said Hamre, "will affect several thousand students on this campus and hundreds of thousands of students in California."
Letters to the Editor

Last week, Feb. 18, a letter to the Editor appeared in the paper without any indication of the person whose letter it was about. We regret the error. We hope you will forgive us. Please refer to Feb. 18, 1981, page 1.

Dear Editor,

There is an old saying, "When the regulations are against you, argue the rules." I am going to argue the regulations. When a student submits an article for publication, the policy applies to all students, named and unnamed. Personally, I think apology is in order, how about you?

Also, I don't know Ms. Daggett therefore I assume that she doesn't know me. All well not being able to be public making comments regarding my maturity.

I will also address categorically that your statement regarding me included in the critical about your self-unresolved budget problems, was untrue. I was involved in a group effort to increase the feasibility of obtaining funds from the Committee for Clubs, but the matter never advanced further than that discussion. At least as far as my involvement is concerned.

Your presumption about the use of the money and the statement that my "interest in actual journalism is based on erroneous and insufficient facts" that the staff would "be over-militarized with free press vs. based on fact, not circulated." I believe this statement is based on erroneous and insufficient facts and that the staff would be better served if we were to print the news as it is or to be heard or to be heard at all. Your statement was false.

In conclusion, I feel the staff of The PawPrint tends to make many assumptions about me that are based on erroneous and insufficient facts and that the staff would be better served if we were to print the news as it is or to be heard or to be heard at all. Your statement was false.

PRINCE A. COMPTON
Dual Major Representative Chair of Appropriations Committee

Dear Editor,

Your last issue contained so much information that I had to look to one "narrative." I have noticed a number of inaccuracies in your last issue. I would like to define some facts.

Your statement that my view of my own was not seconded. No such action was taken by the Board. President did ask if anyone wished to make a statement, but I did not. I fully understand your statement about your view being "grossly oversimplified." My analysis, which projected your revenue to be $2800, is not accurate. The PawPrint reported I spoke at the Student Government and the Bennecke spoke. President said I spoke. You're correct your view is trying to shout us up to a total absurdity. If this were a government, you should not have recommended $2500 allocation. If you want to use this money, I recommended $2500 allocation. If you want to use this money, I recommended $2500 allocation. If you want to use this money, I recommended $2500 allocation. If you want to use this money, I recommended $2500 allocation.

In conclusion, I feel the staff of The PawPrint tends to make many assumptions about me that are based on erroneous and insufficient facts and that the staff would be better served if we were to print the news as it is or to be heard or to be heard at all. Your statement was false.

Dear Editor,

The PawPrint is currently taking applications from campus clubs, organizations, or individuals who wish to be chided, chastised, or castigated with the written word. We have already made enemies with just about everyone in the A.S. office, as well as alienated all of those associated with the Board.

If you or your club would like similar treatment, drop by the office or give us a call. We seem glad to oblige.

An added benefit of being railed at by The PawPrint is your chance or response in future issues to our criticisms. The following are examples of rebuttals from people who we angered last week.

Secondly, concerning your statement that the request for further money will be "considered at the next meeting." At the time of this writing, I am not sure if there will be a meeting within the next four weeks. All committee meetings are scheduled in advance and the instructors are paid by the hour. Thus, I don't think that anyone, including professors, figures that I doubt that anyone.

CAREER CHANGE WORKSHOPS

Three workshops on mid-life career changing and planning will be offered this month.

The first session on Thursday, February 12th will concern methods of deciding which career to choose and will include discussion of some of the potential careers available. The second meeting February 19th will cover the use of job market anonymously, and educational planning. On February 26th, the discussion will concern job search strategies and marketing of skills, including life experience.

All of the meetings will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room 204 of the Library. Anyone who is contemplating beginning a career in mid-life is invited to attend the workshops. They are designed to be helpful to persons who have been out of the work force and who need either to form career goals or re-establish a career.

Dr. Lorene PaciPike, who heads the Cal State Adult College Opportunity Program, and Ed Schnederhan, placement counselor, will conduct the workshops.

Teacher Interviewing Workshop

At long last student teachers will have an opportunity to find out what happens in the interviews with school district personnel. The Placement Center is proud to announce that they will sponsor a Teacher Interviewing Workshop in the Lower Commons on Thursday, February 26, 1981. The speaker will be Mr. Lorne Bargmann, Associate Superintendent for Personnel Services for the San Bernardino City Unified School Dist. He will discuss what personnel look for in an interview, what questions are asked during the interview and what makes him remember a candidate. He will also give two or three mock interviews and field a question and answer session.

This is a special chance for student teachers and those about to become student teachers to save up all their questions and come ask them anonymously. Don't miss this terrific opportunity to get ahead in the job market.

"Arms and the Man"

by Mike Heister

The Players of the Pear Garden, will present the George Bernard Shaw comedy, "Arms and the Man" at the Creative Arts Theatre Feb. 26, 27, 28, and March 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7.

The play, directed by Dr. Donald E. Barnes, focuses on "a soldier who seeks escape from the enemy in a young woman's boudoir," according to Barnes. "The young woman, in love with the enemy in a young woman's boudoir," according to Barnes, with some delightful comic situations. Comic situations were much of Shaw's stock-in-trade, according to Barnes, with some philosophical discourse mixed in. "Arms tends to be a comedy of situation than discourse. It was one of Shaw's first successful plays, and has all of the exuberance of youth, which makes it particularly well-suited to a college cast," Barnes said.

The cast includes Ana Chavez as Raina Petkoff, Debbie Bankler as Catherine Petkoff, Shelli R. Buchan as Louka, John Howard, Higley as Captain Bluntschli, Michael Galyon as Nicola, William Greeley as Major Paul Petkoff, Christopher Michael Brandon III as Major Sergius Saranoff and Monte Monteleagre as the Russian officer. Robyn Perry has been cast to understudy to Raina.

In stage experience, Chavez has Imaginaction Players (IMPS) to her credit, as well as "She Loves me - She Said So" and various reader's theater projects. Bankler has done "Robber Bridegroom," IMPS and reader's theater, Buchen's credits include many musicals back east, including Dolly in "Hello Dolly" and Fanny in "Funny Girl," as well as Cal State productions. Higley played Edmund in "Long Day's Journey into Night" last quarter, has been in other Cal State productions and has community theater experience. Galyon won an Inland Empire Award for "Ferryboats," and he has also done IMPS, "Robber Bridegroom," and reader's theater here. Monteleagre is in his first role at Cal State and is the only non-theater major in the cast.

Ivan Glasco, the stage manager, also has a long list of theater credits at CSCSB.

Tickets for the play are $3.50 for adults, $1.75 for students and senior citizens, and are available at the Theater Department office.

The Players of the Pear Garden meet every Wednesday at 12:00 in the make-up room of the Creative Arts Building.

MUSEUM POSTER EXHIBIT

Some of the best examples of advertising poster art went on display in the California State College, San Bernardino Library on February 28th.

Advertising posters started as one of the few practical media for reaching a mass audience. They were posted on pillars, walls, anywhere people were likely to see them. Today, they have been elevated to an art form.

The California State exhibit features posters for displays at a number of Danish museums, including the Aarhus Museum of Art, the Viking Ship Museum, the Royal Library, and Museum of National History. Thorovaldsen's Museum and others. Subjects include Napoleon, Chagall, the dairy industry, children's books, European prints, Calder, Carl Henning Pedersen and the Royal Collection of Copperplate Prints.

Most of the posters were designed and executed by prominent artists, including Bjorn Winblad and Anton. The designs range from dramatic art work to type-only styles. East poster is a sample of the original print run.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, is on display through March 29.
Lachaise Peacock Remains On Display By S.S. Pinard

The plump and voluptuous beauties of Gaston Lachaise are gone from the Cal State Art but his proud peacock will reside in the library for at least another year.

Because the entire exhibition was so well received this past November the Lachaise Foundation granted permission to have the peacock remain on display, according to Julius Kaplan, Chairman of the Art Department, who negotiated its extended loan to the campus. The decorative bird was originally sculptured by Lachaise in the twenties to ornament the garden of the Long Island estate. When the estate was sold, the Lachaise Foundation purchased the peacock as part of their policy to locate and preserve the artist's works.

One of his first employers in France was Rene Lalique, a Parisian glassmaker absorbed in the decorative arts, and the peacock contains memories of that artist. However, its underlying geometry and aerodynamic stylization was influenced by Paul Manship, a popular and successful sculptor who first employed Lachaise in New York. Manship strongly influenced the ornamental works of Lachaise created to earn a living while conceiving the more personal, exploratory and controversial statues.

Although the peacock belongs outside, adding its charm to a garden setting, for the next year it will gaze upon the browsers of the library, hopefully inspiring them with its dignity and pride.

SUMP 9-1
We say "Elegant" because Edgehill's land plan and architecture are absolutely smashing. Charming landscape walkways, sundecks, sheltered swimming pools and spas, private-walled patios or balconies. Elegant in appointments too with solid core entry doors, wall to wall carpets and drapes, refrigerated air conditioning, copper plumbing throughout, and enclosed garages with automatic openers.

We say "Cheap" because a price of $44,000 with a 10 1/2% 30 year fixed rate loan is incredibly inexpensive—and the location is prestigious Shandin Hills adjacent to Blair Park and Shandin Hills Golf Course! $389 per month is based upon 20% down, but a 5% down program is also available.

The sound you just heard in your consciousness was opportunity knocking.
