The Selective Service is now actively recruiting military Board members and has added a test application form. A pilot program has been adopted in the state of Oregon, and applications are being processed from that state. It has been announced that Selective Service will begin mailing information concerning drafted non-registrants to the Selective Service during this fiscal year. Selective Service is confident that the Supreme Court will uphold the constitutionality of the male registration program and its prosecutions for non-registration can begin this summer. A bill has been introduced in Congress which will take away the authority of Federal Courts to try draft cases and turn over the authority to Military Courts (HR 365). In the 17th edition of the Federal Register, page 12580, the Selective Service announced that it had established a new file, "Suspected Violator Monitoring System." The Selective Service says that it has only 15 people listed in its new file for the entire U.S., but that over 250,000 men are registered for the draft during the Vietnam war and that only 250 were ever convicted, the non-registrant's cases are dependent upon the degree of participation. At this time, there are many non-registrant cases. It has been suggested that the Selective Service may rely solely on non-registrants to uncover non-registrants, quite a costly and dubious task. The Selective Service has also published new rules concerning men with Selective Service cards and the motives behind the ongoing conflict between the current military regime and the leftist rebels, and to increase student awareness of the United States' present, and perhaps future role in the war-torn Central American nation. At press time, a demonstration protesting U.S. support of the military junta in El Salvador has been scheduled at U.S. 398, April 18, at 11:00 a.m., in front of the Salvadoran consulate in Los Angeles at the corner of 8th and Columbia. The demonstration will be followed by a march to MacArthur Park at 1:30. Ed Asner is the Master of Ceremonies for the event.

El Salvador Seminar
Set For April 22

A seminar on the current situation in El Salvador, where over 10,000 people were killed last year by the military forces, will be held Wednesday, April 22 in the Student Union Multipurpose Room (SUMF) at 12 noon. Organized by faculty members Thomas Meisenhelder (Sociology), Jeanne Schuler (Philosophy), and Christopher Niggle (Economics), and presented in association with the U.S. Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador (CISPES), the presentation will feature a film, "El Salvador: Another Vietnam?" and a discussion with a CISPES representative. The organizers hope to familiarize CSCSB students, faculty, and staff with the motives behind the ongoing conflict between the current military regime and the leftist rebel forces, and to increase student awareness of the United States' present, and perhaps future role in the war-torn Central American nation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am writing to object to a column and to clarify a possible misunderstanding in your April 8th issue of the PawPrint. You advertised a Christian Lecturer on the top of page 3 and stated that she was sponsored by various Christian Clubs on campus.

The Newman Club is a Christian Club on campus but is not sponsoring or endorsing Decision '81. It is important in matters of religion to cite the exact names of clubs involved. While there does exist a common interest, there are also many theological differences.

I sincerely hope you clarify this misunderstanding in your next issue. Thank you.

Maura O’Neill, director
Newman Club

Correction

Psi Chi Aligns With National Standards. Please note that the article that appeared on April 8th, 1981, had an important error in it; it should read: for undergraduate students a 3.0GPA in overall is required, not a 3.5GPA as was printed. Sorry for my error!

A.S. Elections...

District: Prior to coming here, he served on the Student Senate at SBVC and received several awards including the Bank of America scholarship. A 26 year old junior majoring in Criminal Justice and Sociology, Menezes is running because he wants to be of service to students as Vice President.

TREASURER

After two quarters as A.S. Vice President last year, Sandy Lyn Case is seeking to return to the A.S. offices as Treasurer. A 21 year old senior with a special major, Case's involvement with A.S. goes back to her Freshman year. She is running for Treasurer because she feels she can accomplish a lot with her past experience as a background. She is currently the Treasurer of the Committee for Clubs.

After coming here, in the middle of last year Gregg Byrum has jumped right into getting involved. He is currently Business Manager for The PawPrint. The Black Student Union, and A.S. Services Committee Chair. A 21 year old, Byrum is running for Treasurer because of its close relationship to his major in Accounting.

VICE PRESIDENT

David Menezes has been an active member of the Board of Directors during his first year here, and at the same time he is a student at San Bernardino Valley College, where he serves as the student member of the Board of Trustees for the San Bernardino Community College.

An Elections Bulletin with statements from all the candidates will be distributed on campus next week by the A.S. Elections Committee.

Crowning New Campus Clowns

Even in the face of impending financial doom, it appears, students at some colleges and universities have a hard time taking the need for campus leadership seriously. Already, as the opening shots in the annual election battles are fired, “joke” candidates are making their play.

More than 4,000 Princeton U. students voted to install the Academic Labor Federation (ALF) in three of six student government positions. ALF, also known as Jihad for Ryan’s not entirely clear, ran on a platform of law and order, and predicted its campaign promises at the first student government meeting. Among the resolutions introduced and passed by the ALF-dominated group were a dawn-to-dusk campus curfew, a bill annexing all property between the yellow lines on highways for Princeton, and a declaration of war on the Han School of Princeton.

After these antics, however, the three ALF offices submitted their resignations, citing the irresponsibility of student government in taking such action.

Georgetown U. students didn’t have to wait long for Morton Shapiro to abdicate his elected position as student senator from the engineering school. In fact, Shapiro disappeared even before he was elected. Such action was made easier by the fact the senate candidate never existed, except in the imagination of three other students, who created his name, student number and address, as well as his power-hungry platform. “Some senators will realize that one who doesn’t exist can get elected,” says senator-elect Oscar David, one of Morton’s creators. “Once the egos are deflated, we can get back to business.” The student government election committee decided recently not to take action against the three for election code violations.

The person taking action against those who violate U. of Wisconsin Madison codes will be a man of extensive experience with law enforcement. Dwight Armstrong, who was paroled after serving three years of a seven-year term for his role in a UW war-protest bombing, in which a graduate student was killed, was recently appointed to the Student Court of Appeals by Teddi-Michele Beam, president of the student government. “I think his experience with the judicial system would lend a certain credibility to the court,” says Beam.

The personal emphasis for the victors in the recent Georgetown U. student election is obvious. Steve Mardiks and Jeff Perez mounted two unsuccessful campaigns for president and vice president before winning the student union, and AS Services Committee Chair. The student newspaper of the Mardiks-Perez victory: “The electorate...put into office a team that lampooned the resume-hungry stereotype thought to dominate (student government)...” An unusual campaign against alleged domination is going on at Miami U. of Ohio. There, student groups dressed up in black boots, knickers and four-foot stockin caps to march on campus singing: “Hi ho, hi ho, let’s off to work we go,” the theme song of the seven dwarfs “Snow White and...” fans in Scarecrow where she is a pinto-sized student government presidential candidate. says Dan Adams the pint-sized student government presidential candidate. “We’re being treated like children.”

Scholastic All-American Committee

The Scholastic All-American Selection Committee is now accepting applications for the 1981 Spring Semester. Students who are active in scholastic organizations and who perform well in class are asked to join. The Scholastic All-American and honor society founded to recognize this country's top undergraduate and graduate students. Students are selected from over 1,280 schools covering all 50 states. Members participate in various nationally organized service projects each year.

Students are selected for consideration based on the extent of their academic and scholastic performance both in and out of classroom. No one factor is weighed heaviest when a new member is considered. A student's best asset must be his or hers "well roundedness."

Interested students are asked to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Application," Scholastic All-American, Administrative Offices, P.O. Box 237, Clinton, New York, 13323.

All students are encouraged to submit an application regardless of their grade point average.

Financial Aid Travesty

The California State Student Association is concerned that over $50,000 California State University and College students who receive federal financial aid to be victims of the current budget cutting operations of President Reagan's Administration. The Administration is proposing significant cuts and policy changes in student assistance programs. "To a large extent, it appears that students are falling out of the Reagan 'safety net,"' stated Donne Bownay, CSSA Legislative Advocate. The Pell Grant program (formerly BEOG) in particular is currently suffering from the Administration's efforts to reduce spending. The Department of Education has pulled existing, current regulations and policies, which are essential components of eligibility formulas in processing the Pell Grants. This decision has brought the losing of the grants to students. This decision is simply outrageous. Students who normally start receiving their eligibility notifications in February will not receive them until June at the earliest. "This places students and financial aid officers in a terrible position in terms of planning," stated Nancy McFadden, CSSA Chair.

Most students applying for Pell Grants will, as a result, not have adequate information regarding the financial aid status which will adversely impact their ability to make a decision about attending college. In 1979/80, the CSUC system with its 19 campuses had 46,297 students on Pell Grants. The total amount of dollars awarded to CSUC student enrollment was $1,000,000. We are talking about a significant number of potential and continuing students who are affected by this decision," stated Nancy McFadden, CSSA Chair.

National education organizations are recommending that the Department of Education use the 1980/81 regulations concerning the Parent Contribution Schedule and the cost on page 11.

School Violence Lecture

A lecture on school violence will be held tonight, April 15, at 8:00 p.m. in PS 10. The lecturer is Dr. Robert J. Rubel, Director of Research of the Institute of Criminal Justice Studies, Southwest Texas State University.

Rubel is a nationally known expert in the field of "School Violence." Previously he worked for the Office of Criminal Justice, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

He is the author and coauthor of the following books on school violence: The Usual School Disorder, Disruptions and Crimes, 1977: Violence and Crime in the Schools, 1980. In addition he authored several reports for government agencies, and published many articles on this subject in professional journals.

Campus Sequoias Rare In Area

Sequoia redwoods are usually identified with Northern California, but the Cal State, San Bernardino campus is in the enviable position of having its own miniature redwood forest. Twenty-five Sequoia giganteum redwoods were planted in 1970 in the area north of the Library. The planting was an experiment since redwoods prefer humid conditions, with greater rainfall and acid soil. As they usually are not seen on the windward side of the ocean, the Cal State stand is rare, explained Kato, from Kato and Jordan in Pasadena, the master plant landscape architect for the college.

Only four of the redwoods have been lost; the remaining 21 are thriving and now stand 20 to 25 feet tall. Under optimum conditions, they will grow to more than 300 feet and live hundreds of years.

Within the past month, the college has planted another 85 new trees, including sycamore and flowering plum and peach, around campus, some 60 sycamores were transplanted from behind the Library to along the road leading to the Physical Plant.

Because of the heat, cold and particularly the wind conditions on campus, the plant palette for the campus site is limited, explained Kato. The combination of trees which can be expected to survive on campus drops to about 20 varieties, as compared to some 100 which could be planted elsewhere in the city, he said.

CSSA Newsletter
April 1981

Tuition - At its statewide meeting in March, the California State Student Association committed itself to an all out effort to stop the implementation of tuition. Legislative hearings on the Legislative budget proposed graduate tuition have been scheduled for late April or early May. The final decision on tuition will occur between June and July 1, 1981.

The CSSA is urging campuses to make the prevention of tuition their number one issue. Anti-tuition postcards, buttons and posters can be ordered from the CSSA Sacramento office. We must act quickly if we are to be successful with our campaign.

President Tuition - A proposal to increase nonresident tuition next year has passed the Board of Trustees and the budget committee in both the Assembly and Senate. There is little chance the increase for nonresident students.

Student Service Fee Increase - This fee increase has also passed the Board of Trustees and the Finance subcommittees of both legislative houses. The only bit of good news that can be predicted is that this increase and the nonresident tuition increase is helping to defuse the momentum for graduate tuition.

Spring Legislation - Assembly Bill 1265 by Assemblyman Cramer and sponsored by the CSSA has been introduced into the legislature. This bill would increase the maximum penalties for crimes ranging from $500 to $5000 and from six months in the county jail to two years. It also requires public colleges to publish in the campus dialogue rules and regulations against hazing and to require internal organizations to place these rules and regulations in their bylaws and to have them posted in their facilities.

The Pell Grant program (formerly BEOG) in particular is an enviable position of having its own miniature redwood forest. In the past month, the college has planted another 85 new trees, including sycamore and flowering plum and peach, around campus, some 60 sycamores were transplanted from behind the Library to along the road leading to the Physical Plant.
What is a Festival Weekend of German Arts and Life?

The American Association of Teachers of German, Southern California, sponsored a Festival weekend for college and university students at Camp Round Meadow, Barton Flats, California, March 27 through March 29.

Among the 85 students who came from UC Irvine, UCLA, Fullerton, and Saddleback, CSCSB was strongly represented with followings: Debbie Billings, Coralinda Clerc, Daniel Curtin, Jean Hall, Penny Hillin, Farah Mansurian, Shari Miller, David Nelson, Jeannie Parks, Linda Robinson, Marie Schulte, Russel Spencer, and Richard Stellei. The instructor for the group was Miranda Musen.

The objectives of this Festival were to develop increased student interest in the German language and culture (all festival participants were required to speak only German during the time at camp) & to provide an opportunity for students to use German in meaningful communication situations during an extended period of time.

Activities included sports, various interest sessions, hiking on nature trails, a performance and a work shop by the Berlin actress Wilma Musson.

Nature trails, a performance and a work shop by the Berlin actress was most successful, and, according to Miranda Musson, it will dehumanized, tortured, institutionalized and made to wait on every able to relax and enjoy the finer points in life.

The Festival was a success, and, according to Miranda Musen, it will surely not be the last.

One Man's View of Women

-Humor

by Eric Frazier

Since the beginning of time, man has continued to let woman wiggle her way into respect, prestige and authority in the business world. This, of course, is temporary and undeserving of the brainless female. It is not the divine order of God for any woman to usurp authority on any man. It was not the intentions of the creator that will ever be. In the future, man will be able to control woman's every spoken word, action and movement. Women will be set back to their primitive, yet basic, God-given duties of barefoot pregnancy, keeping house, giving Tupperware parties and fulfilling man's intimate desires.

In the future, man will be given a direct command by God to bring women back to their preplanned place on earth. They will be required to wear beige color smocks and congregate in one place to eat, shower and get V.D. shots once a month. This is to keep them happy and well rounded individuals socially. They will be required to wear bras in public and social gatherings. They will be shipped in large numbers by space shuttles to foreign countries and different places in the states to do menial chores and dirty work for which they will be genetically and mentally created. Jerry Fallwell, leader of the Moral Majority, was quoted as saying, "women will never be able to control man's every spoken word, action and movement. Women will no longer have the freedom they enjoy now. And when women are brought back to their natural position, man will be able to relax and enjoy the finer points in life.

To that end, Christian Clubs on campus have arranged for this week a series of speakers, films, and gospel bands. Highlights of the week include a speech on Monday, April 13, by Greg Laurie, pastor of Calvary Chapel in Riverside. Also on Monday there was a Josh McDowell film, Givers, Takers, and Other Kinds of Lovers. On Tuesday there were performances by gospel bands "Cornerstone" and "Tephitla."

Today at 11:45 the band "Glory Beat" will perform, followed at 12:00 by speaker Rev. Sinn. This evening at 6:30 the "Undercover" band will perform along with the "Rapture Repertory Company." Tomorrow the speaker will be Chuck Singleton, and the band "Philadelphia" will be featured.

Decision 81, according to its promoters, offers a challenge. Says Wilkin, "We challenge you to look beyond the entertainment to the meaning." She adds, "We believe that we can make a difference in the world that we live in. We don't believe that the world should stay the way it is. There is a possibility for change.

Raku Luncheon

Scheduled for Open House

At the end of last quarter the Art Club under the guidance of President Sandy Christian and ceramics instructor Bill Warehale, held an unusual luncheon termed a Raku Ceremony. For two dollars, one could buy a ceramic Raku bowl or cup, decorate it and have it fired in the traditional Raku style, then proceed to eat all you could of the food. The food was prepared by Ken Reid of the Art Department and his wife Charlotte.

The Raku Ceremony is an ancient Japanese religious ceremony which grew out of Zen Buddhism - the name Raku stemming from one of the early potters. Small, crude tea cups or "Happiness Cups" are formed and decorated, then fired during the course of a pleasant evening in a tea garden. Contemplation of beauty is the party's purpose, the result being greater understanding and identification with the oneness of all creation.

The bowls are placed in a hot kiln and fired for 20 minutes or more at temperatures range from 1600F to 1750F. After firing the bowls are carried out tongs and placed in sawdust where the hot bowl causes the sawdust to smoke and disperse the smoke and blackening.

They are then removed from the sawdust and placed in water to further cool and when they are finally cleaned they result in a ceramic piece with an unusual finish with hard cracks having the appearance of an antique.

The Raku Ceremony was attended had a great success. Volleyball was also played. The Art Club will be having another Raku Ceremony between the 14th of April and the 2 p.m. April 28th. Open House celebration featured along with this event will be the sale of ceramics and wood objects, as well as demonstrations in glassblowing, woodworking, and ceramics. Don't miss this one!

An Evening With Constantinos Tellalis

by Sandy Del George

The eclectic music of Constantinos (Constantine) Tellalis was on display at his senior recital held April 8 in the Recital Hall. An exceptional symposium of international music, the recital featured pieces from Japanese to Bluegrass.

Highlights included hypnotic intervals of pre-recorded electronic music, whose haunting themes punctuated dramatic live performances by John Browning (piano and celeste), Mark Bailey (vocals), Frances Petrovic (vioin and tap), Joan Cochran and David Flatt (flutes), Jerry Neese (trombone), Dennis Dickstater (guest artist on xylophone and conga), Jeff Martin (chimes and roto), and Constantine himself playing mandolin, guitar and viola.

The only piece performed which was not Constantine's original composition was "Imagine" by John Lennon, notable for the compelling and flawless vocalizing of Mark Bailey, accompanied by Constantine on mandolin.

In a successful blend of east and west, ethereal melodies alternated with rhythmic statements, artificated by Constantine's electric guitar, the dynamic violin and bass of Frances Petrovic and Jerry Neese, and the sensitive keyboard work of John Browning. Joan Cochran's subtle flutes enhanced the whole.

Constantine's virtuoso performance drew the parts into a cohesive whole, and his bluegrass mandolin finale evoked the spontaneous handclapping accompaniment of the audience.

Later, over wine at the aftermath (aftermusic?) party, Constantine expressed his philosophy. "Music," he said, "is mankind's greatest blessing. Music is life. If you're creative, you don't have to worry about anything else."

The featured music will be, Brahms' Trio in B major, which will be the second half of the program. Performing with Waites on violin will be Carol Cheek, a violin instructor at the college, and Michele Tachia, cello, a CSUSB graduate in music who is pursuing her graduate degree in music at San Diego State University.

The other pieces chosen for the program are Mozart's Fantasy in C major and Chopin's Polonaise Fantasy, Opus 61. The recital is part of the Faculty Artist Series of the Music at Cal State program. The performance will start at 8:15 p.m. in the Creative Arts Building Recital Hall. Tickets are $2 general admission. Students with identification and children are $1.

Woodworking Exhibit A Featured Attraction At Open House

by Terry Seal

The Cal State art gallery, under the direction of art teacher Leo Doyle, is currently featuring a woodworking exhibition, representing the work of nine top craftsmen from the southern California area, all of whom are teachers at the college level. The exhibition shows a wide range of woodworking craftsmanship, from the sweeping, futuristic chairs of Jack Rogers Hopkins to the chiseled, bizarre imagery of Bruce Decker to Martha Rising's elegant, flowing artistry. This is artwork that can be admired, and looked at, and functionally used.

Opening on Monday, April 6th, and running until May 8th, the exhibition is scheduled to be a featured attraction at the Cal State Open House on April 26th. Of the nine artists involved, two are from Cal State, San Bernardino - Doyle and Becker; Doyle's work in the exhibit consists of a pedestal and a rounded, glassed, shotgun cabinet. Decker's work shows a table in the form of a man's shirt, along with a serving table carried by hands that come out of a wall. Of the rest, Lawrence B. Hunter and Robson Spline exhibit pieces that are rounded and smooth and flowing. Hunter shows a gallery desk and cabinet. Spline shows a couple of functional chairs with a clean, rounded design. Michael Chinn, John Nyquist, and Dick Ryerson also contribute artwork to the gallery, open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The musical production vividly depicts the rich and colorful history of the Southwest through the collections passed on by the abuelos (grandparents) to their nietos (grandchildren). The play centers around such historical figures as Montezuma and Father Miguel Hidalgo, who are among those that theatrically come to life as the play envolves through monologues, speakers, dancers and musicians.

One of the things that’s near about having a column like this is that I get the opportunity to meet and interview lots of interesting people. I truly enjoy the privilege of getting to know someone and having them share parts of their life with me.

This week I had such an opportunity. I had a chance to speak with Barbara Sovereign. Barbara is in the process of finishing her Master’s of Science Degree in Counseling at the Cal State Campus. She is also employed by the school as a Psychological Counselor on the campus through the Services for Students with Disabilities Office. Barth is well qualified for this position, combining an excellent educational background with a special sensitivity for the disabled, resulting most probably from the fact that she, herself, is disabled. Barbara has been blind since age fourteen. Furthermore, one needs only to be in Barbara’s presence for a couple of minutes to realize that she possesses those innate, somewhat intangible, and undefinable qualities that characterize the truly effective counselor.

I was fascinated by Ms. Sovereign’s answer when I asked her if she found her blindness a problem in her counseling, as counseling frequently requires an awareness of visual cues that client might exhibit. Barbara explained to me that she compensates by listening. Listening possibly even more intently than the sighted therapist. For example, a counselor might see that a client’s eyes are tearful as they describe an episode in their life, while Barbara might recognize their tearfulness through hearing a crack in their voice.

Another interesting challenge Barbara had was adapting the psychological testing materials used in her work to assess a client. She first had to change these materials to Braille in order for her to administer these tests. Her advice to the disabled student presently attending or planning to attend Cal State San Bernardino is “Make your needs known to the Services for Students with Disabilities Office. The office is truly dedicated and responsive to the student. This school is an easy school for the disabled to attend, as the school wants to know how they can help.” I asked Barbara if there was anything the school could do to improve their services for the disabled. Her suggestion is that the school label the room numbers in Braille, as this would greatly facilitate maneuvering around campus for the blind.

What does Barbara do for fun? She enjoys her two grandchildren, swimming, cooking, reading, and gardening. While I was speaking to Barb her new kitten was making her first exploration of some home grown roses arranged in a vase and sitting on a kitchen counter.

Yes, I was thoroughly delighted by our conversation. Barb. And I look forward to future conversations and the chance to know you more. I’m happy for you in that you’re finishing your Masters and moving on, and saddened by the prospect of Cal State losing what I believe to be a truly valuable resource.

Cost of Attendance formula to speed up the process. They are also advocating that Congress allocate a supplement appropriation of $911 million for Pell Grants to maintain adequate funding at current maximum award levels. If this supplement is not provided, the maximum reward will be reduced from $1,800 to as low as $1,200. “Students should write to the Secretary of Education, Terrel Bell and to their Congressional representatives urging them to accept these recommendations,” noted McFadden.

Also slated for significant changes is the Guaranteed Student Loan program (GSL). This program has grown dramatically in the past two years since the passage of the Middle Income Students Assistance Act. The GSL currently has no eligibility requirements and this is what government officials are currently scrutinizing. At this point in time, however, there is not any definite information regarding the size and extent of the fiscal and policy proposals. The Food Stamp and Social Security programs are also slated for reduction. Recommendations for both programs are that students be either immediately eliminated or phased out over a four-year period.

Most of the education community is awaiting the March 20th announcement by President Reagan when he will provide more specifics for the programs and identify specific cuts. “Right now we are hearing different rumors every day. The only thing that everyone agrees upon is that the picture is looking grim,” concluded Brownsey.
