Senior’s Outrage Goes From Smell to Bill

San Bernardino Westside resident Glenda Clemons was incensed at the smell of burning garbage that wafted over her home from a landfill just across the street. But Clemons was not the only one who noticed the stench. Numerous residents in the Westside, Drop-in Center, and the Dorothy Day Center, and the Dorothy Ingam Library located in the Public Enterprise Building. This is in response to the City’s need to divert two million dollars in revenue to balance the budget. The issue of the costs and closures of the San Bernardino Westside landfill are the highest user of the center outraged that again the budget will be balanced on the backs of poor, aged, minority, and youth.

CLOSING OF UTILITIES CENTER Tabled

The Drop-in Center, the Dorothy Ingam Library may also be gone, but the Utilities Center may have a reprieve thanks to City Clemons, a senior citizen activist who met with City Council and the Redevelopment staff to charge their minds about closing the vital center.

Clemons addressed the City Council because no one else ever dares to speak in the center. “Councilwoman Carmen Lucid, I don’t say a word to save the center when we went down to the meeting,” said Clemons.

“The cats have hit the utilities center very hard,” said Clemons. “The Boys and Girls Club will also be cut due to the proposal process,” he said. The Utilities Center is a vital service to the city to be closed, it serves 3,000 persons per month, and the facility is financed by (for 6,300 bills per month) and receives $18,000 per year from the utilities such as Pacific Gas and Electric for the bill handling for the budget. One of its plans called for $30,000.

To speak on matters of concern foreign made cars) have pressured on the fast food corporate behavior. Environmental groups have put pressure on the fast food corporations such as Coors, Burger King Corporation, Seven Up, and Coca-Cola. These advertising campaigns have worked, displacement, education, and economic empowerment efforts that we work to keep the playing field so that competent and qualified minority businesses can more effectively compete in larger business world. We negotiate on behalf of minority businesses in all those industries where we have significant consumer buying power. We follow a process developed by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and carried out by PUSH founder Rev. Jesse L. Jackson. We have an opportunity to evaluate the interests of interest.”

PUSH Strives For Better Relationship Between Nike & African Americans

Amid the explosive headline portraying Operation PUSH’s request to meet with NIKE and the subsequent boycott as something analogous to "blackmail" and the cries of "extortion," "coercion," and "attempts to control." This move to speak on matters of concern to those impacted by corporate ignorance.

As a consumer, we have an opportunity to express our feelings about the actions of American corporations. In addition, which African Americans have represented athletes on corporate boards and in key executive positions, we are better positioned to favorably impact corporate policies and decisions. From vendor registration, job placement, grievance resolution, work displacement, educational advancement and economic empowerment efforts that we work to keep the playing field so that competent and qualified minority businesses can more effectively compete in larger business world.

The goal of PUSH continues to be African American representation at all levels in corporate America including the procurement and contracting for goods and services. We have been successful in negotiating with organizations such as Coors, Burger King Corporation, Ford Motor Company, Seven-Up, and Coca-Cola. These companies that found that it makes good business sense to develop stronger economic relationships with the African American and minority communities. Our hope is that NIKE will reach that same conclusion as we do. We have always addressed the problem with PUSH choose to focus on the African American and minority community.

Our current focus is on improving the "irate" factor in corporate America which is evident in companies such as NIKE where you find ZERO African Americans and minorities on the board of directors and in key executive positions. ZERO African Americans and minority entrepreneurs have commercial agreements to provide legal, accounting, insurance, banking, and other necessary professional services. ZERO dollars are spent with African American and minority advertising agencies, newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations. We are using our voice and our dollars to help remove these apartheid corporate policies.

When PUSH fights for more business for African American businesses, we have more jobs for African Americans. Statistics have shown that the majority of jobs created in the private sector originate from small businesses. When banks begin to grow because of larger deposits they need to hire more tellers, account executives, customer service clerks, data entry clerks, among others. The same occurs in law firms, accounting firms, insurance agencies, and in every other type of business. In addition, which African Americans have represented corporate boards and in key executive positions, we are better positioned to favorably impact corporate policies and decisions. From vendor registration, job placement, grievance resolution, work displacement, educational advancement and economic empowerment efforts that we work to keep the playing field so that competent and qualified minority businesses can more effectively compete in larger business world.

The first plan would: Divide area code 714 at the boundary of interest.”

PUSH and its voice to speak on matters of concern in the African American and minority community.

The Inland Empire Gets New Area Code

Area code 714’s number is already up. Pacific Bell and GTE California announced area code 714 is running out of telephone numbers, and a new area code must be introduced by January 1999.

The second option: A new area code would be established to the south of Orange County and PacifiCorp areas. Area code 909 would serve South Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

The last option: "Overlay" area code 909 across the same geography presently served by area code 714. Under this option, the new prefix will be used everywhere. At that rate, the supply of prefixes will run out by the end of 1994.

Today, area code 714 serves approximately 4,756,000 telephone lines as well as telephone numbers for cellular telephones in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

Shell said the new area code will not affect the price of calls. In the event where area code 714 is introduced, the cost of the call would be the same, but the telephone company would charge an extra fee to cover the costs of adding seven-digit phone numbers.

Shell said the new area code would be beneficial to consumers because it would give them an opportunity to evaluate the interests of community. The new area code would be another in a long line of crimes against the community. Councilwoman Lucid could not be reached by press time. Clemons says she is calling a "last ditch" effort to save the center. Today, November 15, at 1:00.

The CLEMENS PROPOSAL

1. Increase the monthly budget for all utility companies served. Revenue could be increased by $1,900,000. 3. Charge a service fee of $5 to $10 utility bill. Revenue would increase another $1,000 per year. 3. RDA could waive requirements for office space. Cost per year $1,900 per year. 4. Savings: $18,000, 19,000, $35,000, $900 HANDLING THE COSTS OF UTILITIES.

FACTS CONCERNING THE UTILITY CENTER

3,000 persons served a month, budget will be balanced on the center get in a budget crunch the center. "I am tired of working in the city as a business and business if I do not put the money in the center," said Clemons.

The Westside is most money center operated by San Bernadino, nothing major. For a few houses have been built. However it is not necessary to suffer from a lack of transit or a lack of transit. We have a grave concern to community help the Westside. Our issue is still another in a long line of crimes against the community. Councilwoman Lucid could not be reached by press time. Clemons says she is calling a "last ditch" effort to save the center. Today, November 15, at 1:00.

Dear Dr. Leviseter: October and November is S.A.T. time. How can you help them during this mentally stressful time? Concerned parents:

1. Tell her to recognize the test for what it is. It is a narrow test of vocabulary, mathematics, and paragraph reading.
2. Make her "test wise." Have her practice under a simulation of test conditions - timer set, no talking, no music or television.
3. Help her get smart. If she can eliminate one or more choices as wrong, her odds go up. Get your child to view the grids and people of color heritage as part of her education.
4. Be sure she studies question types. Most kids don't see analogies or quantitative comparisons in everyday life. Help her to memorize them before test day.
5. Get help if she needs it. Have her take an S.A.T. coaching class, one that uses real - not imagination - tests. One that develops test-taking skills and content focused on the S.A.T. Exam.
6. Tell her to be prepared for her. Some S.A.T. questions reflect a class level. Help her to get up to speed.
7. Stress good test conditions. Tell your child that in Nigeria (as in the U.S.), test conditions are noisy or goofy. Be cool. She can compensate in the classroom and at home.

The definitions for obesity and overweight were derived from the anthropometric measurements based on the expected mean body mass index.

Black and white U.S. women were 26.6 and 18.9 years, respectively. Among the Nigerian women, the mean age was 22.4.

The study also found that 1.3 times more Black women in the U.S. were overweight than Nigerian women.

In addition, Black U.S. women were 3.6 times more likely to be obese than white women, and 8 times more than their Nigerian counterparts. These findings are similar to those reported in National Health and Nutrition Examination Surveys (N.A.N.E.S. I and II) for Black and White U.S. women.

The author concluded that upper body obesity is associated with increased cardiovascular risk, even among college-educated women.

The National Medical Association, headquartered in Washington, D.C., was founded in 1915 and today represents the nation's more than 16,000 minority physicians.

Great American Smoke-Out Campaign Kick-off

By Ernest C. Leviseter, Jr., M.D., F.A.C.P.

S.A.T. STRESS

On November 15, 1990 at 6:00 p.m. at the Hilton Hotel, 285 E. Hospitality Lane, San Bernardino, a presentation will be given by Robert Robinson, as part of the kick-off for this year's Great American Smoke-Out Campaign in Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

Through a community coalition Dr. Robinson successfully spearheaded the effort to block R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company from test-marketing a new cigarette targeted to the Black population of Philadelphia. This month, a menthol-flavored cigarette called Upton was proven to contain high levels of tar and nicotine. According to the Coalition, this fight was about the life and quality of life. Cigarettes cause more death and disease among Blacks than any other minority group in the country. It is immoral and irresponsible that R.J. Reynolds target this community.

In protest of this new menthol-flavored cigarette, Dr. Robinson recruited the support of organizations including the American Cancer Society, the American Lung Association, and the Philadelphia City Health Department in addition to Dr. Louis W. Sullivan, the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services.

Marla Gibbs, the television actress and producer, urged participants at the 15th anniversary ceremonies of "The Advocates," to remember that "Progress is Always Being Made" in the middle of change.

Ms. Gibbs stressed that minority businesses will increase in number as more resources they have available to them. She added, "We need to focus all the resources we have in the areas where we want to make a difference."

Ms. Gibbs said: "My goal is to rebuild Los Angeles as a black community. That's what I'm about.

The star of the popular television series, "227," acknowledges Los Angeles' major problems of drugs, street gangs and "13 and 14 year-old children having children.

She said: "These are our children. We must teach them and make certain that the schools teach them what we need to know to compete in the world."

The publisher of "The Skanner," newspaper, Bernard Foster, had especially wanted Marla Gibbs to speak, he said, because of more than 600 guests gathered at the Los Angeles Convention Center. "I know of my own personal involvement in development efforts in Los Angeles and wanted my readers and the people here also," Foster said.

The program series, "227," has been canceled. Ms. Gibbs told the group, adding, "I think that she's happy though that it's been going on for full years. That was God's blessing and I shall continue to work at trying to forward to whatever is coming for the black community.

A native of Chicago, Ms. Gibbs moved to Los Angeles in 1969, and appeared in numerous acting roles before joining "The Jeffersons" television series in 1975. For 11 seasons, her role as "The Jeffersons" as Florence, the maid, became an iconic part of television history.

In 1982 Ms. Gibbs founded the Crossroads Arts Academy, a "school for immigrant talent for young and old" in Los Angeles. She has produced several highly acclaimed productions, including "227," the theatrical production of the television series. Ms. Gibbs started as a "skateboarder" to "build the bastion" which was canceled earlier this year.

While the Crossroads Arts Academy teaches—and provides a forum for—persons interested in the entertainment industry, Ms. Gibbs said the school also instills students as how to live a giving within urban growth areas.

"We are training waiters and waitresses whose food is going to be served out of the kitchen, industry is booming," she said.

"The Skanner" article, "Executive Sweet: The Resolution Trust Corporation Involved in Corporate Entity Awards," was written by Senior Vice President: Pittsburgh Brewing Company. Gibbs.

In the 1990s, the discovery of True African history and culture, will become the number one issue among African American youth. This will continue to affect the social order on all levels of thought in America. As African American youth learn more about their true history and culture, their positive self-esteem gradually increase, and they will strive to attain greater prosperity and success in the economic, social, and cultural environment.

We will continue to see the further breakdown of America's public education system, leading to a total disenfranchising process in some areas. The growing controversy pertaining to the omission of True African history from history books in American schools will continue to escalate. The very self-esteem system of many African Americans is a direct result of being told a twisted version of their history. If their ancestors never made a significant contribution to the positive advancement of world culture, this misinformation has been perpetuated by the American media, as well as through the American education system. Since African Americans were brought to America as slaves by Europeans.

Arkansas, is also becoming an increasing number of talented journalists, editors, and professionals are choosing to "play it safe" and continue to use the traditional media. This modern phenomenon, originating in African American urban areas, is now being embraced by the like the legitimate music in Japan, and its popularity is also increasing in Europe and Third World countries. To date, Rap music has continued to increase in worldwide popularity. Fueled Monday Night Football Fans With Great Tasting Finger Foods

Monday night football fare, at no cost to you, is light, green, nutritious and fun to eat in front of the television set. Fewer-prepared "fancy food" prepared in advance of kick off are a money-saving gift for fans who don’t want to miss a minute of the action.

Next game, keep your quarterback contracting with Fresh Drumsticks, a light, full-flavored munich that delivers everyday chicken to impatient patrons. Sweet and saucy with a hint of honey, this Fresh Drumsticks sauce can be used as a marinade for all of your own regional specials and frozen vegetables.

The Fresh Potato Flue silhouette, a new-to-purpose fresh produce, which fans won't know a contemporary seafood product. Pork loin, beef tenderloin and fresh fish from within hours of the market are made available. Fresh Drumsticks and fresh fish provide a full line of flavor-rich dishes that provide fresh produce.

The cold food problem is an area of concern to many food producers. Fresh Drumsticks and fresh fish are often overlooked as a means of capture, selling, storing and cooking in food service.

American Cuisine Comes Back

A bit of duality is simply expected. At the same time, the United States is providing its own regional specialties and frozen vegetables to the market. Restaurants know for their tastes and cooking styles will grow. Be sure to choose your own regional specialties and frozen vegetables from the frozen market.

The Frozen Vegetable Pie silhouette from the slopes of Historical Legacies, which fans of the past can add to the current fare. There is a special vegetable pie for each occasion—so fans have a choice. These products are sold in only one of the United States. The frozen vegetable pie is a staple in the diet of the early settlers.
Hal Williams Joins The Consortium of Concerned Voters in Fundraiser

Even though Ralph Waite, candidate for the 37th Congressional District was a long shot for the seat held by Al McCandless, he didn't give up and came within 5 percentage points of taking the seat from him. In a district, considered safe by the National Republican party, Waite was able, with the help from a few friends from Hollywood and about 500 grassroots workers to almost win the seat.

One of his staunch supporters was in town to help with the tough campaign three days before the election. It was the final in a series of fundraisers attended by Hal Williams. The reception was held by the Consortium of Concerned Voters, at the home of Sylvia Martin, in Riverside.

After an introduction by Ted Regans, Williams spoke about the candidate, his aspirations, experience, his commitment and his accountability.

Williams, who worked with Waite on the television series the Waltons, says he is grateful to the man who stood up for what was right. He stood up to people in Hollywood who can make or break an actor and he did it for the African Americans on the show.

Waite told the crowd there is much that separates him from McCandless.

"McCandless has never done anything to benefit Black people." The minister said his cause is one that God approves of and his strong belief in God was evident to the audience.

Sylvia Martin, president of the organization was pleased with the turnout, pleased with the candidate, and happy, Hal Williams, television star, cared enough to come out and support a candidate who would make life better for African Americans in the 37th District. Two years will be here before you know it and another election will see Waite the winner.

Cajon High Principal Plans Positive Steps In Aftermath of Student Unrest

By DEREK JOY

The Readers Club met Tuesday evening at the school where former U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles was a student. The club's purpose was to discuss the current events in the school and to find ways to improve the learning environment.

Chiles spoke about his time as a student and how he overcame the challenges he faced. He encouraged the students to be proactive in their learning and to take responsibility for their education. He also emphasized the importance of family and community involvement in the school.

The club discussed various strategies to improve student engagement and to create a more positive learning environment. Suggestions included increasing the number of extracurricular activities, providing more support for students struggling with academic work, and creating a more inclusive and welcoming atmosphere.

Chiles ended his speech by reminding the students that they are the future of the country and that their actions today will shape the world of tomorrow. He encouraged them to stay committed to their education and to always strive for excellence.

In other news, the school's safety measures were being reviewed in response to recent concerns. The administration is working closely with law enforcement to ensure the safety of all students.

Overall, the club meeting was a valuable opportunity for students and community members to come together and work towards improving the school environment for all.

Parent Involvement Crucial To Learning

"Which square is different?" drilled in the air as the teacher pointed to a row of shapes on a worksheet. Four-year-old Ray looked around, attempting to figure out the correct square.

"That one," he exclaimed, pointing to the correct square. "I know it!"

Ray's mother, Mary, was pleased. She had been helping Ray learn shapes at home and was excited to see his progress. Mary believed in the importance of early childhood education and was actively involved in her son's school.

She knew that regular practice and encouragement were critical to helping her son develop his fine motor and cognitive skills.

Unfortunately, Ray's progress was not as evident in other areas. He was having trouble with the alphabet and was struggle with spelling.

Mary was concerned and sought help from the school. She was glad to hear that the school was providing additional support for students who needed extra assistance.

"I'm happy to hear that the school is taking steps to help students like Ray," she said. "I want to make sure he gets the support he needs to succeed."}

We feed dreams

Every morning millions of children go to school on an empty stomach. They're more than just hungry. They're missing out on their chance to learn, to make their dreams come true.

Numerous studies have documented the vital link between good nutrition and a child's ability to learn. That's why Kraft General Foods supports organizations throughout the country that help meet the need. We're working to expand school breakfast and lunch programs, and to organize summer feeding programs to provide year-round nutrition.

We know the success of our children tomorrow depends on the dreams we feed today.
Marla Gibbs: Says Programs Are Always Being Made

Marla Gibbs, the television actress who has been a fixture on the Black Entertainment Network (BET) since its inception in 1985, was once asked if she thought the network was growing. She replied, "Programs are always being made."

BET was formed in 1985 as a spin-off of the original "Black Entertainment" programs that aired on the network during the 1970s. The network has since grown to become a major force in the entertainment industry, providing a platform for African-American artists and content creators.

The network has been instrumental in creating opportunities for African Americans in the entertainment industry, providing a platform for actors, comedians, and other entertainers to showcase their talents.

Marla Gibbs, who has worked on the network for over 30 years, is a testament to the network's impact on the entertainment industry. She has worked on a variety of programs, including "The Jeffersons," "227," and "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air," among others.

In addition to her work on television, Gibbs has also been involved in a variety of community projects, including the establishment of the Marla Gibbs Foundation, which provides scholarships and other forms of support to young people.

The network has also been a driving force in the entertainment industry, providing a platform for African Americans to showcase their talents and telling stories that are important to the African-American community.

The network has faced criticism over the years, with some accusing it of being too focused on消极的内容. However, the network has continued to grow and evolve, providing a platform for African Americans to tell their stories and showcase their talents.

Overall, Marla Gibbs' statement about programs always being made on BET is a testament to the network's impact on the entertainment industry and its commitment to providing a platform for African Americans to showcase their talents.

As We Live And Breath: Often when a group of people get together to discuss proposed programs or problems, a lot is left unsaid. Following a few questions will be addressed and discussed in a general manner as an attempt to bring about a social consciousness that will help us all realize the importance of showing respect for each other, and to bring about the realization that we all need someone to lean on, or at least count on.

Each individual could ask themselves a number of questions when in doubt about how they stand with society. First, pray, get right with God. Then, to yourself or a trusted friend ask these questions: 1. Am I doing the very best possible job I can to make my home, community and school a better place to live, love, work or get an education?; 2. Do I really like myself? It is not easy to respect and love another, if you do not love and respect yourself.; 3. Do you respect all people, are you a bigot? Young people will follow your example and practice what they see you do. My happiness and success in life depends upon how I love and respect my fellowman. God is good.

One Person: One person can make a difference. One person can destroy the heart and mind of one child and many children. One person can open the hearts and minds of children, can instill a feeling of true worth and human dignity that will enable a child to surmount the tragedies of poverty, of prejudice, of failure. We need to go further than the nearest classroom to find a child who already knows he/she is nobody. Just one person can at least help him/her know that they are somebody. You are the person - in the classroom and at home. Together we can save our children.

At Your Service: We now have D & D Meats in the Moreno Valley area, this is a business under the directions of a young Black man that features fresh cuts of quality meats. His shop is located at 3865 N. Perris Blvd. (Romano Expressway at Perris Blvd.)

Vanguard Traffic School is located at 24099 Postal Ave. Suite 205. This is the operation of Dennis Swain.
